

Bunk fred dally n F. Down

LONDON'S LAMENTATIONS:

OR,

A serious Discourse concerning that late siery Dispensation that turned our (once renowned) City into a ruinous Heap. Also the several Lessons that are incumbent upon those whose Houses have escaped the consuming Flames.

By THOMAS BROOKS, late Preacher of the Word at S. Margarets New-Fish-street, where that Fatal Fire first began that turned London into a ruinous Heap.

Una dies interest inter magnam Civitatem & nullam.

There is but the distance of one day between a great City and none, said Seneca when a great City was burnt to Ashes.

Come, behold the Works of the Lord, what Desolations he hath made in the Earth. Plat 46.8.

LONDON.

Printed for John Hancock and Nathaniel Ponder, and are to be fold at the first Shop in Popes Head-Alley in Cornbil, at the Sign of the Three Bibles, or at his Shop in Bifhopfgare-street, and at the Sign of the Peacock in Chancery-lane. 1670.

77-.R. 942.1 B8734

TO THE

Right Honourable

Sir WILLIAM TURNER Knight,

Lord Mayor of the City of London.

I is not my defign to blazon your Worth, or write a Pa-

Right Honourable,

negyrick of your Praises; your brighter Name stands not in need of such a shadow as mens Applause to make - it more renowned in the World : native Worth is more respected than adventitious Glory : your own works Prov. 31. 31. praise you in the gates: It is London's Honour and Happines. Tranquility and Proferity to have such a Magistrate that bears not the Sword of Justice in vain, and that hath not brandished the Sword of Justice in the defence of the friends of Baal, Balaam, or Bacchus. My Lord, had your Sword of Ju. flice been a Sword of Protection to desperate Swearers, or to cruel Oppreffors, or to deceitful Dealers, or to roaring Drunkards, or to curfing Monfters, or to Goffel-despifers, or to Christ-contemners, Oc. might not London have laid in her Ashes to this very day? rea, might not God have rained Hell out of Heaven upon those, Parts of the City that were standing Monuments of Gods mercy. as once he did upon Sodom and Gomorrah? We to that [word] that is a devouring sward to the righteous, to the meek, to the upright, and to the peaccable in the land. O happy Sword! under which all forts and ranks of men have worthipped God in peace, and lived in peace, and rested in peace, and traded in peace, and built their habitations in peace, and have grown up in peace. Sir, every man hath fit under your Sword as under bis.

Rom. 13. 4.

Gen. 19.

Pfal. 35. 19.

bis own Vine and Fig-tree in peace. Words are too weak to express how great a mercy this bath been to London, yea, I may say to England. The Ancients set forth all their gods with Harps in their hands, the Hieroglyphick of Peace. The Grecians had the Statue of Peace with Pluto the God of Riches in her arms. Some of the Ancients were wont to paint Peace in the form of a Woman with a horn of plenty in her hands, viz. all blessings. The Orator hit is when he said, Dulce nomen pacis, the very name of Peace is sweet. No City so happy as that wherein the chief Magistrate has been as eyes to the blind, legs to the lame, cars to the deaf, a father to the fatherless, a husband to the widow, a Tower to the righteous, and a Terrour to the micked.

Job 31.

The three things which God minds most, & loves best below Heaven, are his Truth, his Worship, and his People.

3tobsus ferm. 42 p. 194.

Certainly Rulers have no better friends than such as make conscience of their ways: for none can be truly loyal, but such is are truly religious, witness Moses, Joseph, Daniel, and the hree Children. Sincere Christians are as Lambs, amongst Lyons, as Sheep among & Wolves, as Lillies among & Thorns ; they are exposed more to the rage, wrath, and malice of wicked men, by reason of their holy Profession, their gracious Principles, and Practices, than any other men in all the world. Now did not God raise up Magistrates, and spirit Magistrates to owne them, to tand by them, and to defend them in all honest and just ways, bow foon would they be devoured and destroyed? Certainly the Sword of the Mazistrate is to be drawn forth for the natural good. and civil good, and moral good, and spiritual good of all that live loberly and quietly under i . Stob zustells us of a Persian Lam. that after the death of their King every man had five days liberty to do what be pleased, that by beholding the wickedness and disorder of those few days, they might prize Government the better all their days after. Certainly had some hot-headed. and little-witted, and fierce-spirited men had but two or three days liberty to have done n'hat they pleased in this great City during your Lordships Mayoralty, they would have made fad work in the midst of us. When a righteous Covernment fails. hen, 1. Order fails, 2. Religion fails, 3. Trade fails, 4. Justice fails, 5. Prosperity fails, 6. Strength and Power fails, 7. Fame and Honour fails, 8. Wealth and Riches fails, 9. Peace

9. Peace and Quiet fails, 10. All humane Converse and Society fails. To take a righteous Government out of the world, is to take the Sun out of the Firmament, and leave it no more a nosude, a beautiful Structure, but a xade, a consused Heap. In such Towns, Cities, and Kingdoms where righteous Government fails, where every mans hand will be quickly engaged against his brother. O the sins, the sorrows, the desolations and destructions that will unavoidably break in like a Flood upon such a People.

Gen. 26. 12.

Publick P. rons should have publick Spinits, their gifts and goodness (hould diffuse themselves for the good of the whole. It is a base and ignoble Spirit to pity Cataline more than to pity Rome, to pity any particular fort of men more than to pity the whole; it is cruelty to the good to justifie the bad; it is wrong to the Sheep to animate the Welves; it is danger (if not death) to the Lambs not to restrain or chain up the Lyons : but, Sir, from this ignoble Spirit God bas delivered you. The Ancients were wont to place the Statues of their Princes by their Fountains, in. timating that they were (or at least should be) Fountains of the publick Good. Sir, had not you been such a Fountain , men would never have be n fo warm for your continuance. M Lord, the great God bath made you a noight avador, a publick Good, a publick Bleffing; and this bath made your Name pre. cious, and your Government desirable, and your Person boncurable in the thoughts, hearts, and eyes of all people. Many (may Inot (ay most) of the Rulers of this World are as Pliny speaks of the Roman Emperors, Nomine Dii, Natura Diaboli: Monsters, not men; Murtherers, not Magistrates: such a Monster was Saul, who hunted David as a Partridge, flew the innocent Priefts of the Lord, ran to a Witch, and who was a man of fo narrow a Soul, that he knew not how to look or live above himfilf, bis own interests and concernments. The great care of every Magiftrate should be to promote the publick Interest more than their own; as you may fee by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together. 'Im is Calars bigh commendation, that he never had bimself after the World had bim for a Governour; his mind mis fo fet on the Lublick, that that be forgot bis own private Af. fairs. The Stars have their brightness, not for themselves.

There is a great truth in that old Maxim, Magistraius virum indicat.

In my Epifile to my Treatife call'd A Cabinet of Choice Fewels, the ingenious Reader may find fix Arguments to encourage Magistrates to be men of publick Spirits.

Exod. 32. 10, 11. 22. Nehem. 5. 6. to 19. Pfal. 137. 5,6: Acts 13. 36.

241

Carneades, Aristotle, Socra tes, &c.

The Roman Orator hath long fince obferved, that the force of Justice is such, and to great, that even Thieves and Robbers both by Sea and Land, who live upon injustice and rapine, yet cannot live upon their Trade without some practice of it among them selves. Cleobulus one of the feven Sages was wont to fay, that mediocrity was without com-

The very Heathen could fet so much divine glory in the sace of a Magistrate, that he styled him spictures it has the styled him spictures of the everliving God.

pare.

but for the use of others. The Application is easis. My Lord, several Philosophers have made excellent and legant Orations in the praise of justice: they say that all Verenes are comprehended in the distribution of justice. Instice, Saub Aristotle, is a Synopsis and Epitome of all Vertues. All I shall say is this, the world is a Ring, and justice is the Diamond in that Ring; the world is a body, and justice is the foul of that body. It is well known that the constitution of a mans body is best known by his pulse; if it stir not at all, then we know he is dead; if it fir violently, then we know him to be in a Fever; if it keep an equal stroke, then we know be is found, well, and whole: So the estate and constitution of a City, Kingdom, or Common-weal is best known by the manner of executing justice therein; for justice is the pulse of a City, Kingdom, or Common-weal; if justice be violent, then the City, Kingdom, or Common-weal is in a Fever, in a very bad. estate; if it stir not at all, then the City, Kingdom, or Common wealth is dead: but if it bath an equal stroke, if it be justly and duely administred, then the City, Kingdom, or Common-weal is in a good, a safe, and a sound condition. When Velpalian asked Apollonius what was the cause of Netoes raine, he answered, that Neto could tune the Harp well, but in Government he did always winde up the strings too high, or let them down too low. Extreams in Government are the ready way to ruine all. The Romans had their Rods for leffer faults, and their Ax for capital crimes. Extream right often proves excream wrong; he that will always go to the usmost of what the Law allows, will too too often do more than the Law requires. Arigid severity often mars all: Equity is fill to be preferred before extremity. To inflict great penalties and heavy censures for light effences, this is to kill a flye upon a mans forehead with a Beeile. The great God hath put his own Name upon Mag strates, Pill. 82.6. Isaid that yeare gods Yet it must be granted that you are gods in a smaller letter, mortal gods, gods that must dye like men; all the fons of In are sons of Adam. Magistrates must do justice impartially; for as they are called Gods, so in this they must be like to God, who is no accepter of persons, Deut. 1. 17. Levit. 19. 15.

He accepts not of the rich man because of his Robes, neither Magistrates doch be reject the poor manbecause of his Rags. The Magi Grates eyes are to be always upon causes, and not upon persons. Both the Staines of the Theban Judges and the Statues of the Egyptian Judges were made without hands and without eyes, to intimate to me, that as Judges (hould have no hands to 1eceive Bribes, fo they (hould bave no eyes to fee a friend from a foe or a brother from a Branger in judo ment. And it was the Oath of the Heathen Indges, as the Orator relates: Audiam accusacorem , & reum fine . ff: &ibus , & person run: respectione: I will bear the Plaintiff and the Desendant with an equal mind, without affection and respect of persons. the twelfth Novel of Justinian, you may read of an Oath im poled upon Judges and Justices against inclining or addicting themselves to either party; yea, they put themselves under a deep and bitter execuation and curse in case of partiality; imploring God in Such language as this: Let me have my part with Judas, and let the Leprosie of Gehizi cleave to me, and the trembling of Cain come upon me, and what soever else may astonish and dismay a man, if I am partial in the administra tion of justice. The Poet in the (Greek) Epigram taught the filver Ax of justice that was carried before the Roman Magi strates to proclaim, If thou be an offender, let not the filver flatter thee; if an innocent, let not the Ax affright thee. Athenian Judges Judged in the night, when the faces of men could not be feen, that fo they might be impartial in judgment. My Lord, your impartiality in the administration of instice in that high Orb wherein Divine Providence hath plased you, is one of those great things that bath made you high and honourable in the eyes and he arts of all that are true lovers of impartial justice. Some Writers fay, that some Waters in Macedonia being drunk by black sheep, change their fleece inta white: Nothing but the pure and impartial administration of justice and judgment can transform black mouth'd, blackbanded, and black hearted men into white. There is nothing that sweetens, satisfies, and filences all forts of men like the Isa. 1.23, 24. administration of impartial justice: the want of this brought defolation upon Texusalem, and the whole Land of Jury, and are (as Naziangen expresles it) Pictures drawn of God. Every Magistrate, though in never fo low a place, bears the Image of God; a Penny bears the Image of the Prince as well as a Shilling. Magistrates are not immortal Deities, neither have they everlasting ? God heads. Those gods as they had a beginning, fo they must have an end. Quicquid oritur, moritur. Thereisa Mene Meneon them, their days are numbred: their time is computed. e Hercules his Pillar stands in their way. Non datur.ultra. Tra August. de Civitate Dei, lib.

10. cap. 21,
67c. lib. 4.
cap. 4.
Lipsius de constan, l. 2. c. 13.

1 Kings 12. 1 Sam. 8.3.

See Numb. 25. 11. 2 Sam. 21,14.

God is very speedy and swift in the execution of Justice. Joel 3: 4. Gen. 19. Numb. 16. EZra 7.20. In this as in other things it becomes Magistrates to be like to God.

upon many other flourishing Kingdoms and Countries, as all know that have but read any thing of Scripture or History. S. Aullin plainly denies that ever the Roman Politie could be called properly a Common-weal h, upon this ground that, Uhi nen est Justition on est Respublica; he calls Common wealths without justice, but magna Littocini : or in Lipsius, bis lanquage, Congeries, Confusio, Turba: 'cu but an abuse of the word Respublica, Common-wealth, where the publick Good is not consulted by an impartial justice and equity, 'tis but a confused' head, a rout of men; or if we will call it fo at prefent, it will not be so long without impartial justice, partly because injustice and oppression makes the multitude tumalinous, and fills the peoples heads with dangerous designs, as you may fee by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together; and parely because it lays a Nation open and obsoxious to the wrath and vengeance of God, as might easily be made good by scores of Scriptures. Impartial justice is the best establ shment of Kingdoms and Common-wealths. The King by judgment establisheshiche land, Prov. 29. 4. It is the best security against desolating judgments. Run ye through the streets of Jerusalem, and teck in the proad places thereof, if we can find a man, it there be any that executeth judgment, and I will pardon it, Ter, 5 1.

My Lord, as it is the Honour of a Magistrate to do justice impartially, so it is the Honour and Giory of a Magistrate to do justice speedily. Jet. 28. 12. O house of David, thus saich the Lord, execute judgment in the morning, and delived him that is spoiled out of the hand of the opper sin, less my sury go out like sie, and burn that none can quench it, because of the evil of your doings. After examination, execution is to be done with expedition. When men cry out for justice, justice, Magistrates must not cry out cits, cits, to morrow, to morrow. Magistrates must do justice in the morning; neither noon-justice, nor assernoon justice nor evening-justice, nor night-justice is so acceptable to God, or so honourable to Magistrates, or so advantagious to the people, as morning-justice is: to delay justice is worse sometimes than to deny justice; its a very dangerous thing for Magistrates to be as long a bringing forth their

their Verdicts as the Elephant her young. Delay of justice makes many more irreconcileable; it makes many men go us and down this world with heavy hearts, empty purfes, and thred bare coats. I have read of a famous passage of Theo dorick King of the Romans, who when a Widow came to him with a sad complaint, that she had a suit depending in the Court three years, which might have been ended in a few days.; the King demands of her the Judges names, the tells him, he Sends a special Command to them to give all the speedy disparch that was possible to the Widows Cause, which they did; and in two days determined it to the Widows liking: this being done, the King calls for the Judges; and they supposing that they (hould have both applanse and reward for their expedition, hastned to him full of joy; but after the King had propounded several things to them about their former delays, he com manded both their beads to be struck off, because they had spun out that Cause to a three years length, which two days would have ended. Here was Royal justice, and speedy justice indeed, Pfal. 101. 8. I will early destroy all the wicked of the land, Summo mane, I will do morning justice. Festinanter, so Genebrad, I will hastily do it. Justice should be on the wing; delays are very dangerous and injurious. Prov. 13. 12. Hope deferred, maketh the heart fick : the Hebrew word Memush shacah that is here rendred deferred, is from Mishich that signifies to draw out at length. Men are short-breathed and (hort-spirited, and Hopes bours are full of Eternity, and when their hopes are drawn out at length, this makes their hearts lick; and Ab, what a world of Such fick Souls lyes I nguish. ing at Hopes Hospital all the world over. Hope in the Text is put for the good things boped for. Now when the good things men bope for (be it justice or a quick dispatch, &c.) are deferred and delayed, this makes the poor Client fick at heart. A lingring hope always breeds in the heart alingring Con- Julius Cafars Comption; the harder travel hope bath, and the more frongly! is labours to bring forth, and yet is deferred and delayed, the more deadly fick the Client grows. The speedy execution of justice is the very life and soul of justice. Amos 5. 24. But let judgment run down as waters, and righteoufre's as a quick disparch is noted in three words; Veni, vidi, vici, I came, I faw, overcame.

mighty

nighty fiream. The Hebrew word Veilggal that is here ren-dred run down, is from Galal, that signifies to rowl down freely, plentifully, vigoroully, constantly, speedily, as the grea: Billows of the Sea, or as waves rowl speedily over the Rocks. Judgment and Righteousness like a mighty stream should bear down all before it. Fiat jufficie, ruat orb's, let juffice be done, whatever come of it. Deut. 16, 20. That which is altogeher just shalt thousollow, or rather as the Hebrew hath it דרק, דופdek, Tiedek, justice, justice shalt thou follow, that is, all manner of justice thou shalt follow, and nothing but justice halt thou follow, and thou shalt follow justice sincerely out of love to justice, and shou shalt follow justice exactly without turning to the right hand or the left; and thou shalt follow instice resolutely in spice of the world, the slesh, and the Devil: and thou halt follow suffice speedily without delays or excuses. A Magistrate that has the Good of justice in his hand, must never plead, there is a Lyon in the may. My Lord, this will be your Honour while you live, and your Comfort when you come to dye, that whilft the Sword was in your hand, you did justice speedily as well as impartially: You did justice in the morning, and justice at noon, and justice in the afternoon, and justice at night; what has been your whole Mayoralty, but one continued day of justice? Who can sum up the many thousand Caufes that you have heard and determined, and the many thou and differences that you have sweetly and friendly composed and ended? If the Lawyers please but to speak out, they must ingenuously confess that your Lordship has eased them of a great deal of mork.

My Lord, as it is the Honour and Glory of a Magistrate to do sustice speedily, so it is the Honour and Glory of a Magistrate to do sustice resolutely, conragiously, valiantly. It is observable, that as soon as ever Johnus cause into the effice of Magistracy, God charges him no less then three times (in a breath as it were) to be very conragious. A Magistrate that is timorous, will quickly be treacherous. A Magistrate that is fearful, can never be faithful. Solomons Throne was supported with Lyons, to show that Magistrates should be man of metal and courage. The Athenian Judges sate in Mass.

freet,

Josh, 1. 6, 7.

Ads 17. 22.

street; to shew that they had Martial hearts, and that they were men of courage and metal. The Grecians placed justice beimixt Leo and Libra; to signific that as there must be indifferency in determining, so there ought to be courage in executing. Where there is courage without knowledge, there the eye of jufice is blind; and where there is knowledge without courage, there the Sword of justice is blunt. A Magistrates beart, a Judges heart and his Robes must be both dyed in grain, else the colour of the one, and the courage of the other will quickly fade. Why should not the Standard be of steel, and the chief posts of the house be beart of Oak? It hath been long since said of Cato, Fabricius and Aristides, that it was as easie to remove the Sun out of the Firmament, as to remove them from justice and equity; they were men of such conragious and magnanimous spirits for justice and righteousness. No Scarlet Robe doth so well become a Magistrate as holy courage and stoutness doth. As bodily Physicians, so State-Physicians should have an Eagles eye, a Ladies hand, and a Lyons heart. Comardly and timo row Magistrates will never fet up Monuments of their Victories over fin and prophageness. It is very sad when we may lay of our Magistrates as the Heathen did of Magistrates in his time, they were very good, fi audeant que sentiunt, if they durst but do what they ought to do. My Lord, had not the Lord of Lords put a great spirit of courage, boldness, and resolution upon you, you had never been able to have managed your Government as you have done, counting the various minds. that have blown upon you, and the several difficulties and discouragements that have rifen up before you.

My Lord, once more give me leave to fay, that in a Magifirate justice and mercy, justice and clemency ought to go hand in band. Prov. 20. 28. Mercy and truth preserve the King, and his Throne is upholden by mercy. All justice will not preserve the King, nor all mercy will not preserve the King, there must be a mixture both of justice and mercy to preserve the King, and to uphold his Throne; and to shew that mercy is more requisite then justice; the mord Mercy is doubted in the Text. Instice without mercy turns into rigour, and so becomes hateful: Mercy without justice turns into fond pir, Cic. de Mil.

Rev. 1.5, 6. Chap. 17. 14.

Truth in Scripture is frequently put for Justice.

and

King John thought to ftrengthen. himself by gathering a great deal of money together, but neglecting the exercise of mercy and juflice, clemency and lenity, he loft his peoples affeations, and fo after many endless turmoyls, he came to an unhappy end.

P[al. 68. 18. P[al. 103. 13, 14. Hofea 11. 8. Vide Aug. de civit. Dei, l. 5. cap. 26. Orojim lib. 7. cap. 34.

and so becomes contemptible. Look as the Rod of Agron and the Pot of Manna were by Gods own Command laid up in the Same Ark; so must mercy and justice be preserved intire in the bosom of the same Magistrate: mercy and justice, mildness and righteousness, lenity and fidelity are a safer and a stronger Guard to Princes and people then rich Mines, Munitions of Rocks, mighty Armies, powerful Navies, or any warlike Preparations. It is very observable, that Christ is called but once the Lyon of the Tribe of Judah in the Book of the Revelation, and that is in Chap. 5. vers. 5. But he is called a Lamb no less then nine and twenty times in that Book; and what is this, but to thew us the transcendent mercy, clemency, lenity, mildness, and sweetness that is in Fesus Christ; and to shew that he is infinitely more inclined to the exercise of merey. then he is to the exercise of justice. It is true, Magistrates should be Lyons in the execution of justice, and it is as true that they (hould be Lambs in the exercise of mercy and clemency, mildress and speciness; and the more ready and inclinable they are to the exercise of mercy, where mercy is to be shewed, the more like to Christ the Lamb they are. God is slow to anger, he abounds in pity, though he be great in power. Seneca buth long since observed, that the Custom of anointing Kings was to shew that Kings above all other men, should be men of the greatest (weetness and mildness, their anointing being a sign of that Kingly (weetness and mildness that should be in them. Theodohus the Emperour, by his loveliness and clemency, gained many Kingdoms. The Goths (after the death of their own King) beholding his temperance, patience, and justice mixt with mercy and elemency, gave themselves up to his Government. When Cicero would claw Cxfar, he tells him, that his Valour and Victories were common with the rest of his Souldiers, but his clemency and goodness were wholly his own. Nitoes Speech bath great praise, who in the beginning of his Reign, when he was to subscribe to the death of any condemned person, would fay, Utinam nescirem literas, I wish I did not know how to write. I know there are a thousand thousand cases wherein severity is to be nsed: But yet I must say, that 'tis much safer o account for mercy then for cruelty; 'tis best that the sword

Of justice should be always furbisht with the oyl of mercy. My Lord, in the management of your Government you have been so assisted and helpt from on high, that stoutness and mildness, justice and mercy, justice and clemency hath like a silver thred run through all your Mayoralty, and by this means you have very signally served the Interest of the Crown, the Interest of the City, the Interest of the Nation, and that which is more then all the rest, the Interest of your own Soul. Rigour breeds rebellion. Rehoboam by his severity, by his cruelty lost ten Tribes in one day, 1 Kings 12. 16.

My Lord, your prudence, justice, and moderation, your burning zeal against the borrid, bideous, beady vices of this day, your punishing of Oaths, Drunkenness, and the false Ballance, your fingular Sobriety and Temperance in the midft of all your high Entertainments, your Fidelity and Activity, your eminent Selfdenial in respect of your Perquisites, your unwearied Endeavours to fee London raifed out of its Ruines, and to fee the Top-ftone laid your great readiness and willingness to frend and be frent for the publick Good: thefe are the things that have made your Name as a precious Ogniment, and that have erected for you a noble living Monument in the breaks and bearts of all fober ferious Christians: these are the things that have made you the Darling of the people. Let all succeeding Lord Mayors but manage their own Persons, Families, and Government as you bave done by divine affiftance, and without a peradventure they will have a proportionable interest in the bearts and affections of the people. For, my Lord, 'iis not barely the having of a Sword of Justice, a Sword of Power, but the well management of that Sword that makes most for the interest both of Prince and Peo. ple, and that gives the Magistrate a standing interest in the hearts and affections of the people. My Lord, the generality of people never concern themselves about the particular perswasions of this or that Magistrate in the matters of Religion, their eyes are upon their Examples, and upon the management of their Irust and Power for publick Good; and they that do them most good, shall be fure to have most of their hearts and voices; let their private opinions in the matters of Religion be what they will.

My Lord, I bave not so learned Christ, as to give flattering

Titles

A felf-feeking Magistrate is one of the worst of Plagues and Judgments that can befal a people; he is a Gangrene in the head. which brings both a more Speedy and a more certain ruine, then if it were in some inferior. and less noble part of the body.

Job 32. 22.

Seneca de vita

beata, cap. I.

felf-seeking

i smilling

ist can beful

Titles to men; the little that I have written, I have written in the plainness and singleness of my heart, and for your Lordships. comfort and encouragement in all well doing, and to provoke all others that shall succeed in your Chair, to write after that fair Copy that you have set them, which will be their Honeur, London's Happiness, and Englands Interest. Plutarch said of Demosthenes, that he was excellent at praising the worthy Acts of his Ancestors, but not so at imitating them. The Lord grant that this may never be made good of any that shall succeed your Lordship. Carus the Emperours Motto was, Bonus Dux, bonus Comes, A good Leader makes a good Follower. The complaint is ancient in Seneca, that commonly men live not ad rationem, but ad similitudinem. Præcepta docent, exempla movent, Precepts may instruct, but Examples do perswade. Stories speak of some that could not sleep when they thought of the Trophies of other Worthies that went before them : the bighest Examples are very quickning and provoking. O that by all that shall succeed your Lordship in the Chair, we may yet behold our City rising more and more out of its Ashes, in greater splendour and glory then ever yet our eyes bave feen it, that all sober Citizens may have eminent cause to call them the Repairers of the Breaches, and Restorers of our City to dwell in. Concerning Jerusalem burned and laid maste by the Assyrians, Daniel foretold that the freets and the walls thereof should be rebuilded, even in troublesom times. Though the Assyrians have laid our Jerusalem waste, yet even to a wonder, how have the Buildings been carried on this last year?

My Lord, the following Treatife which I humbly dedicate to your Lordship, has been drawn up some years: the Reasons why it has been buried so long in oblivion, are not here to be inserted; the Discourse is sober and of great importance to all that have been burnt up, and to all whose Houses have escaped the surious Flames. Whilst the remembrance of London's Flames are kept alive in the thoughts and hearts of men, this Treatise will be of use in the world. My Lord, I do not dedicate this Tractate to your Lordship, as if it stood in need of your Honours Patronage; I judge it to be of Age both to plead for it self, and to defend it self against all Gain-sayers. Veritas vincit, veritas stat in aperto campo. Zeno, Socrates, Anaxarchus, Oc. fealed the lean and barren truths of Philosophy with the expence of their dearest blood, as you may see in the Heathen Martyrologie. O how much more should we be ready to feal all divine Truths with our dearest blood, when God shall call us forth to such a Service! My Lord, I humbly lay this Treatise at your Loraships foot, to testifie that Love and Honour that I have in my heart for you (both upon the account of that intrinfecal Worth that is in you and upon the account of the man good things and great things that bave been done by you) and publickly to testifie my acknowledgment of your Dordships undeferved Favours towards me. My Lord, of right this Treatife (hould have been in your hands fever at months fince and in that it was not, it is wholly from others, and not from me. Lordship please but to favour the Author so far as to read it once over for his fake, he doubts not but that your Lordship will oftner read it over for your own Souls Sake, and for Eternities sake, and for London's sake also. My Lord, by reason of my being remote from the City several weeks. I have had the advantage but of reading and correcting two or three sheets; and therefore must beg your Lordships pardon as to all the neglects and escapes of the Press. A second Impression may set all right and ftraight.

ritas

My Lord, that to your dying day you may be famous in your Generation, and that your precious and immortal Soul may be richly adorned with all faving Gifts and Graces, and that you may daily enjoy a clear, close, high, and standing Communion with God, and that you may be filled with all the fruits of Righteousness and Holiness, and that your Soul may be bound up in the bundle of Life, and crowned with the highest Glory in that other World, in the free, full, constant, and uninterrupted Enjoyment of that God who is the Heaven of Heaven, and the Glory of Glory, is, and (by divine Assistance) shall be the earnest prayers of him who is

Your Honours in all bumble and due Observance,

Thomas Brooks.

My Lord fome facrifice their labours to great Mecenas's, that they may be aton'd to fhield them from potent Antagonists; but these Sermons which here I present to_your Honours perufal, being only the bleffed Truths of God, I hope they need no arm but his to defend them.

The Fiery Jesuits Temper and Behaviour.

Moones brooks

Fain would be informed by you what ails
These Foxes to wear Fire-brands in their tails.
What? did you teach these Cubs the World to burn,
Or to embottle London in its Urn?
Are Hugonots as rank Philistins grown (With you) as dwelt in Gath or Askelon?
Bold Wretches! must your Fire thus antedate
The General Doom, and give the World its Fate?
Must Hells Editl (to blend this Globe with Fire)
Be done at your grave Nods, when you require?

The

8828288888888888 of the igh pag a 17, to x63. "Tar line Part of this i or

THE

$\sum_{i=1}^{n} \frac{1}{n} \sum_{i=1}^{n} \frac{1}{n} \sum_{i$

228, 229, 1 dechid lan of the Arm mich.

Le genislander at the con. A security to attach any make college, see the control of the control of

Of strange Apparel.

F the Vanity of strange Apparel, Page

OF the Vanity of strange Apparel, Page 56, 57% The first one is about Of Atheism. The Total dead in the Gross Atheism, practical Atheism brings desolating Judgments upon a people, pag. 67. to pag. 70. The first Part of the Book.

In a strict and proper sense there was never such a Creature in the world as an Atheist, pag. 71, 72, 73, 74. The sirst Part of the Book.

There are the seeds of Atheism in the hest and heliest of the sons of men, pag. 74, 75. The first Part of the Book.

B.

Of the Ballance of Deceit.

Such as use the Ballance of deceit, such run counter-cross to eight things, pag. 89. to 92. The first Part of the Book.

Of the Blood of the Just.

Shedding the blood of the just brings the judgment of Fire, and lays all desolate, pag. 154, 155, 156, 157. The first Part of the Book.

There are nine things that speak out the preciousness of the blood of the just, pag. 157. to 168. The first Part of the Book.

Of Bribery.

Bribery brings desolating and destroying judgments both upon persons and places, pag. 87, 88, 89. The first Part of the Book.

C:

Of a City that hath Foundations.

Burnt Citizens should make fure a City that hath Foundations, whose Builder and Maker is God, pag. 227, 228. The first Part of the Application.

Heaven is a City that is built upon a fivefold foundation, pag.

228, 229. The first Part of the Application.

The refemblance betwixt Heaven and a City helds in nine particulars, pag. 229, 230, 231. The first Part of the Application.

D

Of the Devil: 203d ods to 1 af

Four Reasons why the imprisonment of the Saints is attributed to the Devil, pag. 147; 148, 149. The first Part of the Application.

Quest. What are the Duties that are incumbent upon them that have been burnt up?

Answ. Firsh, to fee the hand of the Lord in this late dreadful Fire, pag. 131, 132, 133. The first Part of the Applica-

Secondly, To justifie the Lord in all that he has done, pag. 133, 134, 135. The first Part of the Application.

Thirdly, In patience to possessibility own Souls, pag. 166, 167,

168. The first Part of the Application.

Fourthly, To set up the Lord in a more iminent degree then ever as the great Object of their fear, page 168, 169, 170.

The fielt Part of the Application.

Fifthly, To be content with their present condition, pag. 170,

Simility, To lye loss, to keep humble under this dreadful judgment of fire, under the mighty hand of God, pag. 173, 174. 175, 176. The first Part of the Application.

Seventh-

Seventhly, To encourage themselves in the Lord their God, pag.

176, 177. The first Part of the Application.

Eightbly. To keep in their hearts a constant remembrance of the late dreadful Conflagration; eight Arguments to encourage to this, pag. 181, 182, 183. The first Part of the Ap. plication.

Nintbly, To see the vanity, mutability, and uncertainty of all worldly comforts and enjoyments, and accordingly to fet loofe from them, pag. 184, 185, 186, 187. The first Part of the Application.

Tentbly. To be very importunate with God to take away those fins that have laid our City desolate, pag. 217, 218, 219,

220. The first Part of the Application.

The eleventh Duty, is to prepare and fit for greater troubles and tryals, pag. 220, 221, 222. The first Part of the Application.

The twelfth Duty, is to secure the everlasting welfare of their precious and immortal Souls, pag. 222,223, 224. The first Part of the Application.

The thirteenth Duty, is to get a God for their portion, pag, 224,

225, 226. The first Part of the Application.

The fourteenth Duty, is to make God their habitation, to make God their dwelling-place, pag. 226, 227. The first Part of the Application.

The fifteenth Duty, is to make fure an abiding City, a City that bath foundations, whose Builder and Maker is God, p. 227.

The first Part of the Application. ot pag. 232.

The fixteenth Duty, is for the burnt Citizens to fanctifie the Sabbath, and to keep it holy all their days, pag. 232. to 263.

The first Part of the Application.

Quest. What are the Duties that are incumbent upon those Habitations are yet standing as Monuments of divine Wildom, Power, and Grace? Answ. These eight as follow.

First, To take beed of those sins which bring the fiery Rod, pag.

263, 264. The first Part of the Application.

Secondly, Not to think those greater sinners then your selves. whose Habitations have been laid in Ashes, pag. 264, 264 as The first Part of the Application was a feet of Ibirdly, To be much in bleffing of God pag. 265: 1 300 Fourtbly. To take beed of fecurity; do not fay the bitterness of death is past, pag. 265, 266. Fiftbly. To shem much love, pity, and compassion to those who are burnt up and turned out of all, pag. 266, 267. Sixthly, To lift up a prayer for all those who are fallen under the heavy judgment of fire; pag. 267, 268. Seventbly Serioufly to confider that some mens escaping of very great judgments is not properly a preservation, but a reservation to some greater destruction, rag. 268, 269, 270. Eighthly, Not to rejoyce or glory in your Neighbours raines, pag. 270, 271. into a comment Estate

Eternal.

Every thing that is conducible to the terments of the damned is eternal: this is proved five mays, pag. 105, 106.

Of Fire.

How the word Fire is used in Scripture, pag. 10, 11, 12. The first Part of the Book.

First, Consider the intemperate heat before the Fire, pag. 5, 6, 7. The first Part of the Application.

Secondly, Consider the suddenness and unexpectedness of the Fire, pag. 7. to pag. 12.

Thirdly, Confider the force, violence, vehemency, and irrefistableneß of it, pag. 12, 13, 14.

Fourthly, Consider the swiftness of it, it flew upon the wings of the wind, pag. 14, 15, 16,-17.

Fifthly, Confider the extensiveness of the Fire, pag. 22,23: Sixthly, Confider the impartiality of the Fire, pag. 23, 24.

Seventhly, Consider the greatness of it, pag. 24, 25,26, 27,28 Eighthly, Consider the terriblenes of it, page 28, 29, 30, 31,

32. 10

I.,

2.

3.:

5.

6.

7.

8.

32 Le C. Climber de de Charles de Constante
Ninthly, Consider the time when the Fire first began, pag:32, 33, 34, 35, 36. The first Part of the Application.
Tentbly, Consider the Fire, the burning of London is a Natic- nal judgment, pag. 36, 37, 38.
That the Fire of London was not so great nor so dreadful a fire as that of Sodom and Gomorrah, is proved by five Argu-
Of the fire of Hell, page 102, 103, 104, 105, 106. Four Arguments to prove that 'tis very probable that there is Four Arguments to prove that 'tis very probable that there is Object. If it be material Fire, then it may be quencht, &c.
Five Answers to this Objection, pag. 108, 109, 110, 111.
Six differences between our common Fire and Hell-fire, pag.
Object. How will'it stand with the unspotted Holiness, suflice, and Righteousness of God to punish a temporary offence with eternal punishments, with eternal fire? &c.
This Objection is answered seven ways, pag. 125, to 131.
ery emotion of this will are things of all, a singular
Of Fornication.
Fornication is a fin that brings the Judgment of Fire, pag. 128. to 132. The first Part of the Book.
Several Reasons to prove that this sin of Fornication cannot groundedly be charged upon any of the precious Servants of the Lord that did sruly fear him in the City of London, p. 132.
These Expressions of giving themselves over to Fernication and going ofter strange flesh, implies six things, pag. 134, 135, 136, 137. G.
Of God.
His God notes three things, pag. 176. The first Part of the Application.
There are three things in God to encourage Christians under all their fiery tryals, pag. 178, 179.
The slighting of the Gospel brings desolating judgments, pag. 100. to 104. The first Part of the Book.

Six sorts of slighters of the Gospel, pag. 104. to 108.

Saints no slighters of the Gospel of Grace, and of the Graces of the Saints, proved by seven Arguments, pag. 108. to 112.

God by siery tryals designs the reviving, quickning, and recovering of the decayed Graces of his people, pag. 41, 42, 43:

God by siery tryals designs a further exercise of his Childrens Graces, pag. 43, 44, 45, 46.

God by siery tryals designs the growth of his peoples Graces, pag. 46, 47, 48, 49.

God by siery tryals designs the tryal of his peoples Graces, and the discovery of their sincerity and integrity to the world, pag. 49, 50, 51, 52, 53.

Many Christians Graces in London were withering before the siery Dissensation, pag. 61, 62:

H.

Of Heaven.

Heaven is a City that is built upon a fivefold foundation, pag. 228, 229. The first Part of the Application.

The resemblance betwixt Heaven and a City bolds in nine resembles, pag. 229, 230, 231.

Hand

See the Hand of the Lord in this late fiery Dispensation. Ten Arguments to work you to this, pag. 1. to 38.

In these days of the Gospel, all Holiness of places is taken away, pag. 141. to 146.

I.

Of Intemperance.
Intemperance brings desolating judgments, pag. 75, 76, 77, 78. The first Part of the Book.
Six things Intemperance robs men of, pag. 78. to 84.
Of Judgments.
In eight respects great judgments are like to fire, 7, 8, 9.

The ends of God in inflicting the late judgment of Fire in respect of the wicked, are seven, pag. 12 to 31. The

The ends of God in inflicting the late judgment of Fire in respect of the Righteoms, are at large discovered, pag. 31 to 53.

The Sword is a worfe judgment then that of Fire, pag. 91, 92

The first Part of the Application.

Famine is a more dreadful judgment then that of Fire. pag. 92,93,94,95.

Dreadful Earth quakes are a more terrible judgment then that of Fire, pag. 95, 96, 97, 98.

That judgment that befel Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, a more terrible judgment then that which befel the burnt Citizens, pag. 98, 99.

That judgment that came upon Sodom and Gomortan was a morse judgment then that was inflicted upon the burnt Citizens, pag. 99.

Eight Arguments to encourage the burnt Citizens to commemorate the late judgment of Fire, pig. 182, 182, 184.

There are seven forts of men that have cause to fear worser judgments then any jet have been inflicted on them, pag. 222

bere ancres shire fewer's cheer Chillian on wever is in this morth, page 156, 157, 159,

Lamentation

Lament and mourn that London is laid in Ashes, pag. 38, 39,40.

Ten Considerations to work you to lament over London's ashes, pag. 40. 10 57.

Of a Little.

The righteous mans little is better then the multitude of Riches that many wicked men enjoy: this bleffed truth is made good by an industion of eleven particulars, pag. 197, to 212. Five ways sheming how a righteess man improves his little,

pag. 203, 204.

Of Lendon.

The burning of London was ushered in by sad Prodigies ana dreadful fore-runners, pag. 40. 41, 42.

London was an ascient City, a City of great Antiquity, 129: 42, 43.

London was an honourable City, a renowned City, pag. 43, 44 45.

The Table:

London was the Bulwark, the strong Hold of the Nation,

London was a Fountain, a Santtuary, a City of Refuge to the poor, afflitted, and impoverished people of God, pag. 48, 49.

London was a City compatt, a City advantagiously situated for Trade and Commerce, pag. 49, 50.

Englands worst Enemies rejoyce and triumph in London's Ashes, pag. 50.

London was once the City of our Solemn Solemnities, pag.

Hubert confest the fact of firing the first house in London, Pag. 52, 53, $4,55, 56, 57.

Seven great loss an inordinate love to the world will expose a mante. pag. 59, 60, 61. The first Part of the Book.

Eight ways whereby the burnt Citizens may know whether in this world God will make up their losses by the late Fire or no, pag. 76, 77,78, 79, 80. The first Part of the Application.

There are ten choice Jewels that a Christian can never lose in this world, pag. 156, 157, 158, 159.

Of Luke-warmness.

There was much Luke-warmness among many Professors in London, pag. 57, 58.

Of Lying.

A trade or course of Lying brings the judgment of Fire, pag. 112, 113. The first Part of the Book.

The School-men reduce all sorts of Lyes to three, pag. 113, 114, 115, 116.

The greatness of the sin of Lying express in four particulars,

pag. 116. to 123.

DIE 43

Eight Arguments to prove that this trade, this course of Lying cannot by any clear evidence be charged upon those that truly seared the Lord, whose Habitations were once within the Walls of London, pag. 123. to 128.

M:

Of Mercy?

the state of mental states of mental they had their lives for a prey when London was in flames, pag. 60

0

Objections:

Object. I would say the Lord is righteous, but by this fiery Dispensation I am turned out of house and home. Answ. Four ways, pag. 135 to 148.

Object. I would justifie the Lord, but I have lost my all as to this world. Seven Answers you have from pag. 150 to Object. I would justifie the Lord, though I am turned out of all, but this is that which troubles me, that I have not an Estate to do that good which somethy I have done. Four Answers you have from pag. 159, 160, 161.

Object. I would justifie the Lord, though he hath turned me out of all, but God hath punished the righteous with the wicked; this fiery Rod hath fallen heavier upon many Saints then upon many sinners: How then can I say that the Lord is righteous? Six Answers are given to this Objection, pag. 161 to 166.

. no in cal in a car and Pi o ... we

Of Punishment.

Quest. How will it stand with the unspotted Holiness, Julice, and Righteousness of God to punish a temporary offence with eternal punishments? Seven Answers to this Question, pag. 125 to 131.

11584 788 78 3 1 mg 5 20 84.

· C : To : 7 2 m. Quest.

Q

Quest. What are those sins that bring the fiery Dispensation on upon Cities, Nations, and Countries? Answersen
pag. 53 to 168. The first Part of the Book.

Quest. What tims were there among the professing people in London that might bring down the fiery Rod upon them? Answ. Seven, pag. 55 to 63.

Quest. Four Questions proposed, pag. 63, 64.

S.

न न्यंत्र प्रती है जात प्रश्न र

Of the Sabbath. 1 - 25

Prophanation of the Sabbath brings the judgment of Fire, pag.

Twelve Arguments to prove that God hath been very just and righteom in institting the late dreadful judgment of Fire upon those that prophaned his Sabbaths in London, pag. 139 to 149:

Six Arguments to prove that this abominable fin of prophaning the Sabbath cannot with any clear evidence be charged upon the people of God that did traly fear him within or without the Walls of London, pag. 150.

Burnt Citizens should santlife the Sabbath all their days, pag. 232. The first Part of the Application.

Fourteen ways we should santlifie the Sabbath, pag. 233 to 263:

Of the Sins of the professing people of London.

There were seven sins among the professing people in London that ought to work them to justifie the Lord, though he hath burnt them up, and turned them out of all, pag. 55 to 63.

The first Part of the Book.

Of the several Sins that bring the fiery Judgment upon Cities and Countries.

First, Groß Atheism, practical Atheism brings desolating judgments, pag. 67 to 75.

Secondly, Intemperance, pag. 75 to 84.

Thirdly,

Ibirdly, The fins that were to be found in the Citizens Callings, pag. 84 to 92.

Fourthty, Desperate incorrigiblencs and unreformedness under former masting and destroying Judgments, brings the Judgment of Fire upon a people, pag. 92, 93, 94.

Fiftbly, Inscient and cruel oppressing of the poor brings desolating Judgments upon a people, pag. 95 to 100.

Sixtbly, Rejecting the Gospel, contemning the Gospel, and slighting the free and gracious offers of Christ in the Gospel, brings the stery Dispensation upon a people, pag. 190 to 104.

Seventhly, A course of Lying, a trade of Lying brings desolating Judgments upon Gities and people, pag. 112 to 128.

The eighth fin that brings the Judgment of Fire, is mens giving themselves over to fornication and going after strange slesh, pag. 128 to 133.

The ninth sin that brings the Judgment of Fire upon a people, is profanation of the Sabbath, pag. 137 to 151.

Tenthly, The prophaneness, lewdness, blindness, and wickedness of the Clergie, brings the Judgment of Fire, pag. 151,152, Eleventhly, Sometimes the fins of Princes and Rulers bring the Judgment of Fire upon persons and places, pag. 153.

Twelfthly, The abusing, mocking, and despising of the Messengers of the Lord, brings the stery Dispensation upon a people, pag. 153, 154.

Ibirteenthly, Shedding of the blood of the just is a crying fin that brings the Judgment of Fire, and lays all desolate, pag.

Of Sin, and of Gods Peoples Sins:

By flery tryals God will make a fuller discovery of bis peoples fins, pag. 34, 35.

By flery tryals God defigns the preventing of sin, pag. 35, 36.

By fiery tryals God designs the imbittering of sin to his people, pag. 36, 37, 38.

By flery tryals God designs the mortifying and purging away of bis peoples fins, 'pag. 38, 39, 40. 41.

Sin in the general brings the judgment of Fire upon a people.

pag. 64, 65, 66, 67.

I welve observable things about sin, pag. 218, 219. The first Part of the Application.

Thirteen Supports to bear up their hearts who have either loft all, or much, or most of what they had in this World.

The first support is this, the great God might have burnt up all, be might not bave left one bonfe standing, pag. 57 to 60.

The second support is this, viz. That God has given them their lives for a prey, pag. 60 to 70.

The third support is this, viz. This has been the Common Lot. the common Case both of sinners and Saints, pag. 70, 71.

The fourth support is this, viz That though they have loft much as they are men, as they are Citizens, Merchants, Tradesmen, yet they bave lost nothing as they are Christians, as they are Saints, as they are the Called of God, pag. 71, 72, 73.

The fifth support is this viz. That the Lord will certainly one my or another make up all their loffes to them, pag. 74.75.76.

The fixth support is this, viz. That by fiery Diffensations the Lord will make may for the new Heavens and the new Earth, he will make may for the glorious deliverance of his people, pag. 80, 81, 82.

The seventh support is this, viz. That by fiery Dispensations God will bring about the ruine and destruction of his and his peoples enemies, pag. 82, 83.

The eighth support is this, viz. That all shall end well, all

Shall work for good, pag. 83, 84, 85.

The ninth support is this, viz. That there was a great mixture of mercy in that dreadful judgment of Fire that turned Eondon into a ruinous heap, pag. 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91.

The tenth support is this, viz. That there are worse judgments then the judgment of Fire, which God might but has not inflicted

flitted upon the Citizens of London; this is made good fives wars, from pag. 91 to 99.

The eleventh support is thu, viz. Your outward condition is not worse then Christs was, when he was in the world, pag. 99, 100, 101.

The twelfib support is this, viz. That your outward condition in this world is not worse then theirs was of whom this world was not worthy, pag, 101, 102.

The thirteenth support is, viz. There is a worse fire then that which has turned London into a ruinous heap, viz. the fire of Hell, which Christ has freed Believers from, pag. 102 to 125.

Of the Text. green

The Text opened, pag. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. The first Part of the Book.

Of Thankfulneis.

Six Arguments to encourage Christians to thankfulness and cheerfulness under the late desolating Judgment of Fire. pag. 179, 180, 181. The first Part of the Application.

W.

Of Divine Warnings, and the danger of flighting them.

Ten Arguments to work men to take heed of Slighting Divine Warnings, pag, 23:10 28. The first Part of the Book.

Of the Wicked.

The Wicked are compared to four things in Scripture, pag. 82,83. The fiftt Part of the Application.

0:

Of the World, and the Vanity of it, and of a worldly Spirit.

The Vanity of the World discovered, pag. 184, 185,186,

Ten Arguments to prove that a worldly spirit still hangs upon the burnt Citizens, pag. 187 to 193.

Ten Maxims for the burnt Citizens Seriously and frequently to dwell upon, as they would have their effections moderated to the things of this World, pag. 193 to 216.

How we may lawfully defire the things of the World, express in three Particulars, pag. 216, 217.

There was a great deal of Worldliness among the professing people of London, pag. 58, 59. The first Part of the Book. An inordinate love to the World will expose a man to seven great losses, pag. 59, 60, 61.

-ISAIAH 42. 24, 25.

Who gave Jacob to the spoil, and I fract to the Robbers ? did not I the Lord? he against whom we have sinned; for they would not walk in his ways, neither were they obedient to his Law.

Therefore he bath poured-upon him the fury of his anger, and the strength of battel; and it hath set him on fire round about, yet he knew not; and it burned him, yet he laid it not to heart.

HE Lord in this Chapter, by the Prophet Elay, doth foretell heavy things against the people, and by the way marks the Lords dealings; he eyer gives warnings before he should be fends any plagues; he lightens before he thunders, that the people might not say, they did not hear of it, and that the wicked might be the more inexcusable, and that the godly might make an Ark to save themselves in. These words contain in them sive several things. 1. The Author of this Destruction or Judgment. 2. The Causes of it. 3. The Judgment it self. 4. Who they were on whomethis Judgment was inflicted. 5. The Essects of it. Now by Divine permission I will open these words in order to you.

For the first, the Author of it: Now this is laid down by Question and Answer. Who gave Jacob to the foil, and

Ifrael

If rael to the Robbers? there's the Question: Did not I the Lord? there's the Answer. God is the Author of all the Plagues and Judgments that befal a Nation.

Deut. 7. 5. 7. 8. Deut. 32. 10, 11, 12. Secondly, The Causes why the Lord did this to a people that he had chosen to be a special people unto himself, to a people upon whom he had set his love, to a people that he had owned for his portion, and that he had formerly kept as the Apple of his Eye, and carried as upon Eagles wings. Now the causes are set down, first more generally in these words, Because they have sinned against the Lord. Secondly, more particularly in these words. For they would not make in his mays, neither were they shedient to his Law.

The third thing observable in the words, is the dreadful Judgments themselves that God inflicted upon his sinful people, his singular people, and these you have in versity.

Therefore he hath poured upon him the fury of his anger; not only his anger, but the fury of his anger, to shew the greatness of it, the extremity of it. Mark, he doth not say, that God did drop down his anger, but he poured down his anger and indignation. This Phrase [he poured out] is an allusion to the clouds pouring down of water violently all at once, in an instant, as they do many times in the Levant Seas, in Egypt, at the Indies, and in several other, parts of the world, as they did in the Deluge, when the windows of Heaven were broke open. Now by this similitude, the Lord shews the dreadfulness, the grievousness, the suddenness, and the vehemency of the Judgments that were fallen upon them.

And the strength of Battel.] The Lord appears in Arms against them in the greatness and stereeness of his wrath, he sent in a very powerful Enemy upon them, that with five and sword over-ran them and their Country, and destroyed them on every side, as you may see by comparing the 2 Kings. 23. 32. ult. with the 24 and 25. Chapters following.

all the Countries, Cities, and Towns round about Jerusalem were set on fire.

Tet be knew not.] Though God had burnt them up on every

3,

Gen. 6. FI

every hand, yet they took no notice of it, they regarded it not, they were not at all affected with the fiery Dispensations of God. O the dulness, the insensibleness, the sortishness of the Tews under the most awakning and amazing Judgments of God! (And it burned bim.) This some apply to the City of Ferusalem it felf: God did not only fire the Cities and Towns round about Ferusalem, but he also set Ferusalem it self into a flame. Ferusalem which was beantiful for sienation, the joy of the whole Earth, the Paradise and Wonder of the world, is turned into affice. (Yet be faid it not to beart) or upon his heart, as the Original runs. O the monstrous stupidity, insensibleness, and blockishness of this people? Though God had brought them low, though their Crown was fallen from their head, though their glorious City was turned into ashes, and though they were almost destroyed by many smarting miseries and dreadful calamities; yet they were not affected with the stupendious Judgments of God, they were not awakned by all the flames that God had kind. led about their ears, they did not lay the Judgments of God to heart, nor they would not lay the Judgments of God upon their hearts.

The fourth thing observable in the words is, the persons, the people that were spoiled, destroyed, and consumed by sire, and they were Jacob and Israel; Who gave Jacob for a spoil, and Israel to the Robbers? They were a praying people, a professing people, a fasting people, a peculiar people, a priviledgeol people, and yet for their sins they became a destroyed people, a consumed people, a ruined people.

The fifth thing observable in the words is the little Effect the Judgments of God had upon them Now they were under such monstrous stupidity, that they were not all awakned, nor affected with the Judgments of God, they regarded them not, they laid them not to heart. And as stupid and senseless were they when Titus Vespasian had laid their City desolate by fire and sword, and sold thirty of them for one piece of silver, as Josephus and other Historians tell us. O Sirs, since their crucifying of the Lord of Glory, they have never laid their singer upon the right sore, to this very day they wo not acknow-

Diodorus Sichlas writes, that in Athiopia there is fuch a fottish insensible people. that if you cut them with a drawn (word, or flay their wives and children before their faces, they are not at all affected with it, nor moved at it. Such brutes were thefe lews.

Ifa. 58. 2. Zach. 7. 5. Exod. 19: 5.

By TitusVefpafian their land became aftage of blood and of all kind of barbarifms, and now their fo renowned City, their Temple,

2....

ledge

and Santium Santiorum fo fam'd all the world over,
was turned into affes, and laid level to the ground.
Buxtorf. SynazJudaica, cap.
5. O c.35.

ledge their fin in crucifying of the Lord of Glory. They confess they have sinned more then ever, and therefore cis that God hath more forely afflicted them then ever ; but their cruelty to Christ, their crucifying of Christ, which ushered in the total ruine of their City and Country, they cannot be brought to acknowledge to this very day, though the Lord hath burnt them up on every hand, and hath scattered them as dung all over the earth to this very day. A Learned Writer tells us, that they call Christ Bar-chozab, the Son of a Lye, a Bastard, and his Gospel Aven Gilaion, the Volume of Lyes, or the Volume of Iniquity, and us Christians Goiim, that is, Gentiles, Edomites; when they falute a Christian, they call him Shed, that is, Devil. They hate all Chri-Itians, but none so much as those that are converted from Judailm to Christianicy, and all this after so great a burning and desolation that the Lord has made in the midst of them. Tis true, the length of those heavy Judgments under which they groan to this very day, hath often puzled the Intellectuals of their Rabbies, and hath many times put them to a stand, and sometimes to break out into a kind of confession, That surely their Judgments could not last so long, but for crucifying of one that was more then a man. There was one Rabbi Samuel, who fix hundred years fince, writ a Tract in form of an Epiftle to Rabbi Isaac, Master of the Synagogue of the Jews, wherein he doth excellently discuss the cause of heir long captivity and extream misery. And after that he had proved it was inflicted for some grievous sin, he sheweth that fin to be the same which Amos speaks of. For three transgreffions of Ifrael, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof, because they sold the righteous for filver. The felling of Tofeph he makes the first fin, the worshipping of the Calf in Horeb the second sin, the abusing and killing of Gods Prophets the third fin, and the felling of Jesus Christ the fourth sin. For the first they served four hundred years in Egypt; for the second, they wandred forty years in the wilderness; for the third, they were Captives seventy years in Babylon; and for the fourth, they are held in pitiful Capkivity, even till this day. "Tis certain, that the body of that people people are under woful blindness and hardness to this very day. And thus much for the opening of the words.

Amos 2 6.

The 25, verse is the Scripture that I do intend to speak something to, as the Lord shall assist. Now the Proposition which Lonly intend to insist upon, is this. Viz.

That God is the Author or Efficient cause of all the great Calamities and dreadful Judgments that are inflicted upon Cities and Countries, and in particular of that of fire.

Now that God is the Author of Efficient cause of all the great Calamities and dreadful Judgments that are inflicted upon Cities and Countries, will evidently appear to every mans understanding, that will but take the pains to read over the 26. Chapter of Leviticus, and the 28. Chapter of Deuteronomy, with that 14. of Exekiel, from vers. 13, to vers. 22.

That God is the Author or Efficient cause of this dieadful Judgment of Fire that is at any time inflicted upon-Cities and Countries, will sufficiently appear in these following Scriptures, Amos 2. 6. Shall a Trumpet be blown in the City, and the people not be afraid? shall there be evil in the City, and the Lord bath not done it? This is to be understood of the evil of punishment, and not of the evil of fire Amos 4, 11. 1 have overthrown some of you as God overshrew Sodom-and Gomorrab, and ye were as a fire-brand pluckt out of the burnings, yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord. Here (1) is emphatical and exclusive, as if he should say, I, and I alone. Amos 1. 14. But I will kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah (that is, in the Metropolis or chief City of the Animonites) and it shall devour the Palaces thereof. Rabbab their head-City, was a cruel, bloody, covetous, and ambitious City, versi 13: And therefore, rather than it should escape divine vengeance. God will kindle a fire in the wall of it, and burn it with his own hands. Ezek. 20. 47. And lay to the forrest of the South, (that is to Ferusalem, that did lye South wards from Chaldea) hear the Word of the Lord: Thus faith the Lord God, Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, and it shall devour every green tree in thee, and every dry tree, the flaming flames hall not be quenched, and all fuel from the South to the North shall be burnt therein, verse 48. And all Doct.

You will find this Scripture fully opened in the following Discourse.

flesh

flesh shall see that I the Lord have kindled it, it shall not be quenched. Men shall see that 'twas God that kindled the fire, and not man, and therefore 'twas beyond mans skill or power to quench it, or to over-master it. Jer. 7.20. Therefore, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, mine anger and my sury shall be poured out upon this place, upon man, and upon beast, and upon the trees of the field, and upon the fruit of the ground, and it shall burn, and shall not be quenched. The Point being thus proved for the surther opening of it;

premise with me these things.

1. First, That great afflictions, dreadful Judgments, are likened unto fire in the bleffed Scriptures. Pfal. 66. 12. We went through fire and water. Fer. 4. 4. Circumcife your selves to the Lord, and take away the fore-skins of your heart, ye men of Judah, and Inhabitants of Jerusalem: left my fury come forth like fire, and burn, that none can quench it, because of the evil of your doings. Jer. 21.12. O house of David, thus faith the Lord, execute Judgment in the morning, and deliver him that is spoiled out of the hand of the oppressor, lest my fury go out like fire, and burn, that none can quench it, because of the evil of your doings. Lam: 2. 3, 4. He hath cut off in his anger all the horn of Israel, he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy, and burned against Facob like a flaming fire which devoureth round about, he hath bent his bow like an enemy, he stood with his right hand as an adversary, and slew all that was pleasant to the eye in the Tabernacle of the Daughter of Zion. he poured out his fury like fire. Ezek. 15.7. And I will fet my face against them, they shall go out from one fire, and another fire shall devour them, and ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I fet my face against them, Ezek. 22, 20, 21. 22. As they gather Silver and Brass, and Iron and Lead, and Tin into the midst of the furnace to blow the fire upon it, to melt it; so will I gather you in mine anger and in my fury; and I will leave you there, and melt you: yea, I will gather you, and blow upon you in the fire of my wrath, and ye shall be melted in the midst thereof: As filver is melted in the midft of the furnace, to shall ye be melted in the midft thereof and ye shall know that I the Lord have poured out my fur vipon you. Thus you fee that great afflictions, great Indements are likened unto fire.

But in what respects are great Afflictions, great Judgments

In these seven respects they are like unto fire,

First. Fire is very dreadful and terrible to mens thoughts. spirits, and apprehensions; how dreadful was the fire of Sodom, and the fire of London to all that were near it, or spectators of it . Tis observable, that some are set out in the bleffed Scriptures as Monuments of most terrible and dreadful Vengeance, whom the Kings of Babylon roafted in the fire; of them, 'tis faid, shall be taken up a curse; when any imprecated fore vengeance from the Lord upon any one, tis faid, The Lord make thee like Abab and Zedekiah, whom the Kings of Babylon roasted in the fire. 'Tis very dreadful and terrible for a man to have the least member of his body frying in the fire : but how terrible and dreadful must it be for a mans whole body to be roafted in the fire! for are the Judgments of the Lord very terrible and dreadful to the children of men. My flesh trembleth for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy Judgments. Hab. 3. 16. When I heard, my belly trembled, my lips quivered at the voice : rottenness entred into my bones, and I trembled in my felf, that I might rest in the day of trouble and But, what has booken

Secondly, Fire is very painful and tormenting (in which respects Hell-torments are compared to fire) so are great Afflictions and Judgments, they are very painful and tormenting, they put a Land into fore travel; next to the pangs of Conscience, and the pangs of Hell, there are none to those pangs that are bred and fed by terrible Judgments. But,

Thirdly, Fire is of a discovering nature, it enlightens mens eyes to see those things that they did not see before; so do the terrible Judgments of God enlighten mens minds and understandings fometimes to know the Lord. Hence tis, Ezek. 21.3, that after Judgments threatned, God doth to often tell them, 4, 5, 6, 7.

Quest.

Answ.

11, 95. 5

Jer. 29, 21,

Pfal. 119.120.

Ifa. 26.17, 18:

that

Pfal. 66. 3. 5.

hat they shall know the Lord. Sometimes God by his Judgments enlightens mens minds to see such an evil in sin, that they never saw before, and to see such avanity, mutability, impotency, and uncertainty in the Creature, that they never saw before; and to see such a need of tree-grace, of sich mercy, and of infinite favour and goodness, that they never saw before; and to see such Majesty and terribleness in God, which they never saw before. Job 37.22. With God is terrible Majesty. But,

I(a.1.25. Mal. 3.1, 2,3. Acts 26. 28,

Fourthly, Fire is probatory and refining, and so are the Judgments of God, they will try what metal men are made of; they will try whether men are found and fincere, or hypocritical and hollow whether men are real Christians, or nominal Christians; whether they are throughout Christians, or almost Christians; whether their graces are true or counterfeit, and whether they have much, or but a little grace. Ifa. 31. 9. The Lords fire is in Zion, and his furnace in Ferufalem. Zacha, 13. 9. And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as filver is refined, and will try them as gold is tryed. I Pet, 4, 12. Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery-tryal, which is to try you. Stars shine brightest in the darkest night; Torches are the better for beating; Grapes come not to the proof, till they come to the pres; Spices smell sweetest, when pounded; young Trees root the faster for shaking; Vines are the better for bleeding; Gold looks the brighter for scouring; and Juniper smells sweetest in the fire: The Application is easie. But.

Ifa. 66.15,16 Pfal. 21. 9. Jer. 17. 4. Ezek. 38.19, Fifthly, Fire is of a consuming and devouring nature (as we have lately found by wosul Experience) Psat. 18.8. There went out a smoak out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured. Fer. 15.14. A fire is kindled in my anger, which shall burn upon you. Ezek. 22.31. Therefore have I poured out my indignation upon them, I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath. Natural fire is a great devourer, but mystical fire, the fire of divine wrath, is infinitely a greater devourer: inen may stand before a natural fire, but no man has ever bin able to stand before the devouring fire of divine wrath. The anger and wrath of God against wicked men is exceeding hot, wis a burning, siery, staming wrath, against which they are never able to stand, Ifa. 27. 4. Who would set the bryars and thorns against me in battel, I would go through them, I would burn them together. Bryars and thorns are as well able to stand before a devouring sire, as wicked men are able to stand before the smoaking wrath of that God which is a consuming sire, Heb. 12. 29.

P bus

Sixthly, Fire breaks out suddenly and unexpectedly, in an hour, in a moment, when no man thinks of it, when no man looks for it; as you see by that late dreadful fire, that in a few days turn'd a glorious City into a ruinous heap: So the Judgments of God, they come suddenly and unexpectedly upon the sons of men, witness the Judgments of God that came upon the old world, Sodom and Gomorrah, Nadah and Abibu, Corah, Dathan, and Abiram. I Thes. 5.3 For when they shall say, peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travel upon a woman with child, and they shall not escape. Security is a certain fore-runner of desolation and destruction. The Apostle by the similitude he uses, shews that the destruction of the wicked is, 1. certain, 2. sudden, 3. inevitable. But.

Seventhly, Fire is impartial, it makes no difference between rich and poor, high and low, honourable and base, bond and free, male and sema e, &c. So the Judgments of God are impartial, they reach all sorts and ranks of persons. But.

Eighthly and lastly, Fire is violent and irresistable; we have had as dreadful a proof of this in the late dreadful Conflagration of London, as ever any people have had since the Lord Jesus was on earth: So are the Judgments of God violent and irresistable, witness the raging Pestilence and the bloody Sword, that in 1665, and 1666, has sent many score thousands to their long homes. And thus you see how that Metaphorically or Typically great and fore Judgments do resemble fire. But

6

Math. 24. 37, 38, 39. Gen. 19.

7.

8.

Secondly, Premi e this with me; fire is sometimes attributed unto God. Heb. 12 29. Our God is a consuming fire; sometimes fire is attributed to Christ, Mal. 3.2. But who ray abide the day of his coming? and who shall stand when he appeareth? for he is like a refiners fire, and like sullers sope. And sometimes fire is attributed to the Holy Ghost, Mal. 3.11. I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance, but he that cometh after me, is mightier then I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear, he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire, that is, with that fiery Holy Ghost, that Spirit of Judgment and of burning wherewith the filth of the Daughter of Zion is washed away, No. 4.4. But,

3.

Thirdly, Premise this with me; the word Fire in Scripture is sometimes used by the Holy Ghost to set forth sin by, Isa. 9. 18. For wickedness burneth as the sire, it shall devour the bryars and thorns, and shall kindle in the thickest of the forrest, and they shall mount up like the listing up of smoak: So the burning lust of uncleanness, Rom. 1. 27. They burned in lust one towards another: So 1 Cor. 7.9. Its better to marry then to burn. And so Sodom was first in a slame of burning lusts before it was burnt with fire from Heaven: But this is not the fire that is here meant in the Proposition that we are upon. But,

.-4•

Heb. 1. 7.

Ifa. 6.2.

2 Kings 19.

Fourthly, Premise this with me; fire is sometimes taken for the blessed Angels, Psal. 104 4. Who maketh his Angels Spirits, his Ministers a staming fire. Hence it is, that the Angels are called Seraphins, which signifies burning or staming ones, and they are set forth by this name, to note their irresistable power; for as there is no withstanding of the surious stames, so there is no withstanding of the surious stames, to there is no withstanding of the surious stames, so there is no withstanding of these burning or staming ones. Terom, Musculus, and several others are of opinion, that the Angel that destroyed of Sennaeberius Host a hundred and sourseore and sive thousand in one night, that he did it by fire, burning their bodies, their garments being untoucht. But the fire in the Proposition cannot be understood of the blessed Angels, son several reasons not here to be alledged. But,

Fifthly, Premise this with me; fire in Scripture is sometimes taken for Wars. The fire of thine enemies (that is, the Wars that shall be amongst the Nations) shall devour them. Thou shalt be visited of the Lord with a slame of devouring sire; but the Nations that sight against the Altar, shall be a dream. Now fire in this sense is not to be excluded out of the Proposition. But.

Sixthly, Premise this with me; fire sometimes notes the special presence of God in a way of special love and sayour to his people in; Exod. 3: 2. you read how the Lord appeared unto Moses in a flame of fire out of the midst of a Bush; and he looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed: here was a representation of the Churches affliction that was then in Egypt, a house of bondage, in the midst of a fiery surnace: But now the Lord was in the bush, while the bush (the dry bush, or the Bramble-bush, as the Hebrew word signifies) was in a flaming sire. In that Deut. 33. 16. you read of the good will of him that dwelt in the bush, God was there in a way of merciful protection and preservation; they were in the fire, but the Lord was with them in the fire; in all their fiery tryals God did bear them company. But,

Seventhly, Premise this with me; in the blessed Scriptures we read of supernal fire, of fire that came down from above, and that, 1. as a sign of Gods anger: so fire came down from Heaven on Sodom and Gomorrab, Gen. 19. 24. Also fire came down from Heaven on them that offered incense in the conspiracy of Korab. And so fire came down from Heaven on the two Captains and their Fisties. Secondly, we read of fire that came down from Heaven as a sign and token of Gods savour. And so fire came down from Heaven on the Sacrifice of Solomon, and on the Sacrifice of Eliab. God, in those times did delight to shew his special love and savour to his precious servants by fire from Heaven: But in the Proposition we are to understand not supernal, but material fire. But,

Eighthly and lastly, Premise this with me; fire is some-

Ila. 26. 1 1,12. Chap. 29.6,7.

Deut. 4. 20.

Seneh.

7.

Numb. 16.35.

2 Kings 1. 10, 11, 12. 2 Chron. 7. 1. 2 Kings ±8. 38.

8.

Sce 2 Chron. 36. 19. 2 Kings 19.18. Chap. 21. 6. Pfal. 74 7. Deut. 13.16.

times taken literally for that material fire that confumes Houles Towns, Cities, and the most stately Structures, Fer 21.10. For I have let my face against this City for evil, and not for good, faith the Lord, it shall be given into the hand of the King of Bubylon, and he shall burn it with fire, 2 Chron. 35. 13. And they roafted the Paffover with fire, Nebem. 1.3. And they faid unto me, the remnant that are left of the Captivity there in the Province, are in great affliction and reproach, the Wall of Jerusalem also is broken down, and the Gates thereof are burnt with fire, Chap. 2, 2, 3. Wherefore the King said unto me, why is thy countenance sad, seeing thou are not fick? this is nothing but forrow of heart: then I was very fore afraid, and faid unto the King, Let the King live for ever, why should not my countenance be sad, when the City, the place of my fathers sepulchres lyeth waste, and the gates thereof are confumed with fire? Now this material fire is the fire that is meant in the Proposition. O Sirs! God is as much the Author or Efficient cause of this Judgment of fire, as he is the Author or Efficient cause of Sword, Famine, and Pestilence. This I have in part proved already; but shall more abundantly make it good in that which follows.

But you will say, Sir, we know very well that God is the Author or Efficient cause of this dreadful Judgment of Fire, as well as he is the Author or Efficient cause of any other. Judgment that we have either felt or feared: But we earnestly desire to know what the ends of God should be in instating this sore and heavy Judgment of Fire upon his poor people, and in turning their glorious City into ashes: This we are sure of, that whoever kindled the sire, God did blow the coal, and therefore we shall not now consider what there was of mans treashery concurring with Gods severity in that dreadful Calamity by Fire; but rather inquire after the grounds, reasons, or ends that God aims at by that sirry Dispensation that has lately past upon us.

Now here give me leave to say, that so far as the late Fire was a heavy Judgment of God upon the City, yea, upon the whole Nation, the ends of God in inflicting that Judgment, are doubt

doubtlets such as respect both sinners and Saints, the righteous and the wicked, the prophane and the holy, the good and the bad. Now such as respect the wicked and ungodly, I take to be these that follow.

First. That he may evidence his Soveraignty, and that they may know that there is a God. The prophane Atheist sai h in his heart, there is no God; but God by his terrible Judg. ments startles and awakens the Atheist, and makes him unfay what he had said in his heart. When God appears in flames of fire, devouring and destroying all before him, then the proudest and the stoutest Atheists in the world will confess, that there is a God; yea, then they will bow and tremble under a sense of the Soveraignty of God. The Soveraignty of God is that golden Scepter in his hand, which he will make all bow to, either by his Word or by his Works, by his Mercies or by his Judgments. This Scepter must be kist and submitted to, or elle fire and sword, desolation and destruction will certainly follow. Fer. 18. 2, 3, 4, 6, Arife, and go down to the potters house, and there will I cause thee to hear my word. Then I went down to the potters house, and behold, he wrought a work on the wheels. And the vessel that he made of clay was marred in the hand of the rotter, so he made it again another vessel that seemed good to the potter to make it. O house of Israel, cannot I do with you as the potter? saith the Lord. Behold, as the clay is in the potters hand, so are ye in my hand, O house of Israel. The Jews were so stupid and soreish, that verbal teaching without signs would not work upon them, and therefore the Lord sent Feremiah to the potters house, that he might see by what the potter did, that though he had made them a People, a Nation, a Church, a State; yet he could as easily unmake them and mar them, as the potter marred the veffel that he had made. God would have this people to know, that he had as much power over them, and all they had, as the potter had power over the clay that he works upon; and that he had as much both might and right also to dispose of them at his pleasure, as the potter had over his clay to dispose of it as

Pfal. 14. 1.
Pfal. 10. 4, 5.
Pfal 50 21.
Eccle. 8. 11.
Pfal. 24. 1.
Dan. 6. 25,
26, 27.
Ifa. 45. 9.
Pfal. 2. 9, 10,
1.1, 12.
Hof. 2. 8, 9.

he

God hath just ad omnia, just in omnibus, a right to all things, a right in all things.

Ifa. 64. 8.

Jer. 2.31. Dan. 4.30. Lam. 4.12.

Exod. 5. 2.

he judged meet. Nay, Beloved, the potter has not such an absolute power over his pots and clay, as the Lord has over the Sons of men, to make them, and break them at his pleas fure; and that partly, because that the clay is none of his creature; and partly, because without God give him strength he has no power to make or break one vessel. God by the Prophet would have the Jews to know that 'twas meerly by his good pleasure and grace, that they came to be so glorious and flourishing a Nation as they were at this time; year and further to know, that they were not fo great, and rich; and flourishing, and settled, and built, but that he could as easily break them and mar them, as the potter could the vessel that was under his hand. Ah, Sirs, God, by that dreadful fire that has destroyed our houses, and burnt up our substance, and banished us from our habitations, and levelled our stately Monuments of Antiquity and Glory even with the ground, has given us a very high evidence of his Soveraignty both over our persons and all our concernments in this Ah, London! London! were there none within nor without thy Walls that did deny the Soveraignty of God, that did belye the Soveraignty of God, that did flight the Soveraignty of God, that did make head against the Soveraignty of God? Were there none within nor without thy Walls that did say, We are Lords, and we will come no more unto thee? That did say, Is not this great Babylon (is not this great London) that we have built? That did fay, the Kings of the Earth; and all the Inhabitants of the World would not have believed, that the adversary and the enemy (the flaming and confuming fire) should have entred into the gates of Jerusalem (into the Gates of London.) That did say, Who is the Lord, that we should obey his voice? That did advance a worldly Soveraignty above and against the Soveraignty of God and Christ? 'Ah, London! London! if there were any such within or without thy Walls, then never wonder, that God has in a flaming and confuming fire, proclaimed his Soveraignty over thee, and that he hath given such Atheists to know from woful experience, that both themselves and all their concernments are in the hands of the Lord.

Lord, as the clay is in the hands of the potter; and that the forest Judgments that any City can fall under, are but the Ifa. 5. 16. demonstrations of his Soveraign Prerogative. Psal. 9. 16. The Lord is known by the Judgments which he executeth i the Power, Justice, and Soveraignty of God thines most glorioully in the execution of his Judgments upon the world.

Secondly, God inflicts great and fore Judgments upon the Sons of men, that the world may stand in awe of him, and that they may learn to fear and tremble before him: when he appears as a confuming fire; he expects that the Nation should tremble, and that the Inhabitants should fear before him. I Sam. 16. 4. And Samuel did that which the Lord Spake, and came to Betblehem, and the Elders of the Town trembled at his coming, and faid, comest thou peaceable? Shall the Elders of Betblebem tremble for fear that Samuel came to denounce some grievous Judgment against them? and shall not we tremble when God has executed his terrible Judgments upon us? Shall Abab tremble and humble himself, and fast and lye in fackcloth, when Judgments are but threatned? and shall not we tremble and fear before the great God, who has actually inflicted upon us his three great Judgments, Pestilence, Sword, and Fire? Shall the Ninevites, both Princes, Nobles, and people tremble and humble themselves in fackcloth and ashes, when God doth but threaten to overthrow their great, their rich, their populous City? and shall not we tremble and lye low before the Lord, when we fee great London, rich and populous London laid in ashes before our eyes? When the hand of the Lord was stretched out against the Egyptians, the Dukes of Edom were amazed, and the mighty men of Moab trembled. Ah, how severely has the hand of the Lord been stretched out against London and all her Inhabitants! and therefore what cause have we to be amazed, and to tremble before that God who has appeared in flames of fire against us! Lam. 2. 3, 4. He hath cut off in his fierce anger all the horn of Israel, he hath drawn back his right hand before the enemy, and he burned against 7acob like a flaming fire, which devoureth round about. He Confult these Scriptures, Exod. 15. 14, 15, 16. Josh. 2. 10, 11. Rev. 15.4.

I Kings 21.20, 21, 22, 23,24 27, 28, 29.

Jonah 3. 3, 4. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9,

Exod. 15. 15, See 2 Kings 6. 30. and Chap. 7. 6, 7. 15. Jer. 4: 7, 8,9:

bent his bow like an enemy, and poured out his fury like fire. God We are worthy (faith Chrysoftom) of Hell, if for no other cause, yet for fearing Hell and the eyil of punishment more then Christ. Chrys. Hom. 5. in Epist. ad Rom.

God burnt down their City, their Temple, their Gates; their Princely Habitations, their glorious Structures in the fierceness of his anger, and in the greatness of his wrath O. Sirs,-when God falls-upon burning work, when he pours out his fury like fire, when like a flaming fire he devours all our pleasant things, and lays all our glory in dust and ashes, we may fafely conclude, that his anger is fierce, and that his wrath is great against us; and therefore what eminent cause have we to fear and tremble before him! God is a great and dreadful God. Dan. 9. 4. A mighty God and terrible. Deut. 7. 21. A great and terrible God. Nehem. 1.5. He is so in himself, and he has been so in his fiery Dispensations towards us, that the world by such remarkable severities, may be kept in awe of him. Generally fear doth more in the world then love. As there is little fincerity. fo there is but little ingenuity in the world; and that is the reason why many very rarely think of God, but when they are afraid of him. Many times Judgments work where Mercies do not win. That famous Thomas Waldo of Lions, the Father of the Waldenses, seeing among many met together to be merry, one suddenly fall down dead in the street; it struck so to his heart, that he went home a penitent: it wrought to a fevere and pious reformation of his life, and he lived and dyed a precious man. Though Pharaob was not a pin the better for all the heavy Judgments that God inflicted upon him; yet Jethro taking notice of those dreadful Plagues and Judgments that fell upon Pharaoh and upon his people, and likewise upon the Amalekites, was thereby converted and became a Proselyte; as Rabbi Solomon noteth upon that 19. of Prev. 25. The world is so untractable, that frowns will do more with them then smiles. That Cod may keep wicked men in awe and in subjection to him, he sees it very needful to bring common, and general, and over-spreading Judgments upon them. Rev. 15. 4 Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorific thy Name? for thou only art holy; for all Nations shall come and worthip before thee; for thy Judgments are made manifest .. O, Sirs, when the Judgments of the Lord come to be made manifest, then it highly concerns all ranks and I and forts of men to fear the Lord, and to glorifie his Name. How manifelt, how visible has the raging Pestilence and the bloody Sword, and the devouring Flames of London been in the midst of us! and, O that our fear, and dread, and awe of God were as manifest and as visible as his Judgments have been and still are! for his hand to this very hour is stretched out against us, Is. 9.12. But,

Thirdly, God inflicts great and fore Judgments upon the Sons of men, and upon Cities and Countries, to express and make known his Power, Justice, Anger, Severity, and Indignation against sinners and their sinful courses, by which he has been provoked. Deut. 32, 19. And when the Lord saw it he abhorred them, because of the provoking of his sons and of his daughters. Verf. 21. They have provoked me to anger with their vanities, and I will provoke them to anger with a foolish Nation. Vers. 22. For a fire is kindled in my anger, and shall burn unto the lowest Hell, and shall consume the earth with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountains. Verf. 24. They shall be burnt with hunger, and devoured with burning heat (or with burning coals) and with bitter destruction. There is a knowledge of God by his Works as well as by his Word, and by his Judgments as well as by his mercies. In his dreadful! Judgments every one may run and read his Power, his Tuffice, his Anger, his Severity, and his Indignation against sin and sinners: 'Tis irrevocable fins that bring irrevocable Judgments upon finners; whilst men hold on in committing great iniquities, God will hold on in inflicting answerable severities. When God cannot prevail with men to defift from sinning, men shall not prevail with God to defift from destroying of them, their habitations, and all their pleasant things. Fer. 2. 15. The young Lions roared upon him, and yelled, and they made his Land waste; his Cities are burnt without Inhabitant Verf. 17. Hast thou not procured this unto thy self, in that thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, when he led thee by the way? When Nicepborus Phocas had built a mighty frong Wall about his Palace for his own security, in the night time olotier

See Jer. 14. 15, 16. Lam. 4. 11. Jer. 4. 15: to verle 10.

3.

he heard a voice crying out unto him, & Bariner offers raταχή, &c. O Emperour, though thou buildest the wall as high as the clouds; yet if fin be within, it will overthrow all. Sin, like those Traitors in the Trojan Horse, will do Cities & Countries more hurt in one night, then ten thousand open enemies could do in ten years. Cities and Countries might flourish, and continue as the days of Heaven, and be as the Sun before the Almighty, if his wrath be not provoked by their prophaneness and wickedness: So that it is not any divine Aspect of the Heavens, nor any malignant Conjunction, of the Stars and Planets, but the loofe manners, the ungracious lives, and the enormous fins of men that lay Cities and Countries desolate. Fer. 13-22. And if thou say in thine heart, wherefore come these things upon me? wherefore bath the Lord fent plague, sword, famine, and fire to devour, and destroy, and to lay all in ashes? The Answer is, For the greatness of thine iniquity. God will in flames of fire discover his anger and indignation against sin and sinners. The Heathen Historian observes in the ruine of Troy, that the sparkles and ashes of burnt Troy served for a lasting monument of Gods great anger and displeasure against great sinners. The burning of Troy served to teach men, that God punisheth great finners with great plagues : and certainly Londons being laid in ashes, is a high evidence that God knows how to be angry with finners, and how to punish fin with the forest of Judgments. The Gods of the Gentiles were senseless flocks and stones, not able to apprehend, much less to revenge any injury done unto them. Well therefore might the Philosopher be bold with Hercules to put him to his thirteenth labour, in seething of his dinner; and Martial with Priapus, in threatning him to throw him into the fire, if he looked not well to his Trees. A child may play at the hole of a dead Asp, and a filly woman may strike a dead Lyon; but who dare play with a living Serpent? who dare take a roaring Lyon by the beard? O that Christians then would take heed how they provoke the living God, for he is a confuming fire, and with a word of his mouth, yea, with the breath of his mouth, he is able to throw down, and to burn up the whole whole frame of Nature, and to destroy all Creatures from the face of the Earth. Some Heathen Philosophers thought anger an unseemly Attribute to ascribe to God. And some Hereticks conceived the God of the New Testament void of all anger. They imagined two Gods; the God of the Old Teltament was in their account Deus justus, a Deity severe and revengeful: But the God of the New Testament was Deus bonus, the good God, a God made up all of mercy, they would have no anger in him: but Christians do know, that God proclaims this Attribute among his Titles of Honour. Nebem 1. 2. God is jealous, and the Lord revengeth, and is furious, he reserveth wrath for his enemies. 'Tis the high-way to Atheism and Prophaneness, to fancy to our selves a God made up all of mercy, to think that God cannot tell how to be angry and wroth with the fons of men. Surely they that have seen London in flames, or believe that 'tis now laid in ashes, they will believe that God knows how to be angry, and how to fix the tokens of his wrath upon us. But,

Herodetus.

Fourthly, God inflicts great and fore Judgments upon the fons of men, and upon Cities and Countries, that they may cease from sin, receive instruction, and reform and return to the most High; as you may evidently see by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together. Gods corrections should be our instructions, his lashes should be our lesfons, his scourges should be our School masters, his chastisements should be our advertisements: And to note this the Hebrews and the Greeks both express chastising and teaching by one & the same word (7010 Masar, mais ea Paideia) because the latter is the true end of the former, according to that in the Proverb, Smart makes wit, and vexation gives understanding. Whence Luther fitly calls affliction, Theologiam Christianorum, The Christian man's Divinity. Fer. 6.8. Be thou instructed, O Terusalem, lest my soul depart from thee : lest I make thee desolate, a land not inhabited. Zeph. 3. 6, 7. I have out off the nations, their towers are desolate, I made their streets malle, that none paffed by: their cities are destroyed, so that there is no man, that there is no inhabitant. I said, Surely thou wilt fear me: thou wilt receive instruction, so their dwellings should

7.

Ifa. 26. 9. Pfal. 94. 12. Prov.3.12,13. Chap. 6. 23.

Job 36 8, 9, 10. and chap. 33. 19, 20.

Levit. 26.
Deut. 28.
2 Chron. 7.
13, 14.
Amos 4. 6. to verle 12.
Ila. 9. 13.
Jer. 5. 3.
Jer. 6. 29, 30.
Ezek. 23. 25,
26, 27.

) 2

2201

Deut. 32. 14, 15, 16, 17. Jer. 5. 7, 8, 9, 10. Pfal. 72. 1-10.

Judg. 8. 16.

Mich. 6. 8. Iam. 3 32,33. Ifa. 28. 21. Schola crucis, fchola lucu.

Ila. 60. 15.

not be cut off. However I punished them; but they rose early. and corrupted all their doings. By all the deso ations that God had made before their eyes, he designed their instruction and reformation. From those words, Judg. 3, 20, 1 have a message from God unto thee, O King, (said Ehud) Lo, his Ponyard was Gods message: from whence one well ob-Cerves. That not only the vocal admonitions, but the real Judgments of God are his Errands and instructions to the world. God delights to win men to himself by favours and mercies; but 'tis rare that God this way makes a conquest upon them. Fer. 22. 21. I fake unto thee in thy proferity (faith God) but then faidft, I will not bear : and therefore 'cis that he delivers them over into the hands of severe Judgments, as into the hands of so many curst School-masters (as Bufil speaks) that so they may learn obedience by the things hey suffer, as the Apostle speaks. It is said of Gideon, he took bryars and thorns, and with them he taught the men of Succoth. Ah poor London! how has God taught theewith bryars and thorns, with Sword, Pestilence, and Fire, and all because thou wouldst not be taught by prosperity and mercy, to do justice, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with hy God. God delights in the Reformation of a Nation; but he doth not delight in the desolation of any Nation. Gods greatest severity, is to prevent utter ruine and misery. If God will but make Londons destruction, Englands instruction, it may fave the Land from a total desolation. London! London! I would willingly hope, that this fiery: Rod that has been upon thy back, has been only to awaken thee, and to instruct thee, and to refine thee, and to reform thee, that after this fore desolation, God may delight to build thee, and beautifie thee, and make thee an eternal excellency, a joy of many generations. But,

Fifthly, God inflicts fore and great Judgments upon the fons of men, that he may try them, and make a more full dif-covery of themselves to themselves. Wicked men will never believe that their lusts are so for firing, and that their hearts are so base, as indeed they are. 2 Kings 8. 12, 13. And Hizael said.

faid. Why meepeth my Lord ? and be answered, Because I know the evil that thou wilt do unto the Children of Ifrael; their frong holds wilt thou fet on fire, and their young men wilt thou flay with the (word, and wilt dash their children, and rip up their women with child. And Hazael faid, But what, is thy fervant a dog, that he should do this great thing? And Elishu answered, The Lord bath shewed me that thou shalt be King over Syria. Hazael could not imagine that he should be as fierce, cruel, murderous, and merciless as a dog, that will tear all in pieces that he can come at. It could never enter into his thoughts, that ever he should do such-cruel, barbarous, horrid, and inhumane acts, as the Prophet spoke of; but he did no know the depth of his own corruption, nor, the desperateness, nor deceitsuiness of his own heart. Isa. Jer. 17.9. 8. 21. And they shall pass through it hardly bestead and hungry: and it shall come to pass that when they shall be bungry, they shall fret themselves, and curse their King, and their God, and look upward. When Judgments are upon them, then their wickedness appears rampant. They shall curse their own King for not defending, protecting, or relieving of them; they shall look upon him as the cause of all their wants, sorrows, and sufferings: and as men overwhelmed with misery, and full of indignation, they shall fall a cursing of him. And they shall curse their God, as well as their King, that is, say some, the true God, who deservedly brought these plagues upon them. Their God, that is, say others, their Melchem to whom they had facrificed, and in whom they fee now that they vainly trusted. So those desperate wretches under the Beast, Rev. 16.8.9. And the fourth Angel poured out his vial upon the Sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire. And the men were scorched with great heat, and blashemed the Name of God which hath power over these plagues : and they repinted not, to give him glory. Verf. 10. And the fifth Angel poured out bis vial upon the scent of the Beaft; and his Kingdom was full of darkness, and they gnamed their tongues, for pain, and blafbemed the God of Heaven, because of their pains and their fores, and repented not of their deeds. The top of the Judgment that is, and shall be upon the wicked, is this,

Plutarch ob. ferves, that it is the quality of Tygers to grow mad, and tear themfelves in pieces, if they hearbut Drums or Tabers to found about them, It. de Superstitione. that

This will be the case of all the worshippers of the Beast one day. Deut. 8. 2. that under the forest and heaviest Judgments that shall come upon them, they shall not repent, nor give glory to God; they shall blaspheme the Name of God, and they shall blaspheme the God of Heaven : and they shall be scorched with great heat; and they shall gnaw their tongues for pain; but they shall not repent of their deeds, nor give glory to that hand that smites them. The fierce and fiery Dispensations of God upon the followers and worshippers of the Beast, shall draw out their fins; but they shall never reform their lives, nor better their fouls. God kept the Jews forty years in the Wilderness, and exercised them with many fore and smare afflictions, that he might prove them, and make a more full discovery of themselves to themselves: and did not the heavy tryals that they met with in their wilderness condition. make a very great discovery of that pride, that unbelief, that hypocrifie, that impatience, that discontent, that self love, that murmuring, &c. that was wrapt up close in all their fouls? O Sirs! fince God has turned our renowned City into ashes, what discoveries has he made of that pride, that unbelief, that worldliness, that earthliness, that self-love, that inordinate affection to relations, and to the good things of the world, that discontent, that disquietness, that faint-heartedness, that has been closely wrapt up in the spiits of many thousands whose habitations are now laid in ashes! We try metals by fire and by knocking; and God has tryed many thousands this day by his fiery Dispensations and knocking Judgments that have been in the midst of us. believe there are many thousands, who have been deep sufferers by the late dreadful Fire, who never did think that there had been so much fin, and so little grace; so much of the Creature, and so little of God; so much earth, and so litele of Heaven in their hearts, as they now find by woful experience: and how many wretched finners are there, who have more blasphemed God, and dishonoured Christ, and provoked divine Justice, and abused their best mercies, and debased and be-beasted themselves since the late Fire, then they have done in many years before? Sixthly, Sixthly, God inflicts great and fore Judgments upon Persons, Cities, and Countries, that others may be warned by his severities to break off their fins, and to return to the most High. Gods Judgments upon one City, should be advertisements to all other Cities to look about them, and to Heb. 12. 29. tremble before him, who is a confuming fire. The flaming Rod of correction that is laid upon one City, should be a Rod of instruction to all other Cities. Jer. 22. 6, 7, 8, 9. I will make thee a wilderness; and cities which are not inhabited, and many nations shall pass by this city, and they shall say every man to his neighbour. Wherefore hath the Lord done this unto this great City? Then shall they answer, Because they have forfaken the Covenant of the Lord their God, and worshipped other gods, and served them. God punisheth one City, that all others Cities may take warning. There is no Judgment of God, be it Sword, Pestilence, Famine, or Fire upon any People, City, Nation, or Country, but what is speaking and reaching to all others, had they but eyes to fee, ears to hear, and hearts to understand. Thus Tyrus shall be devoured with fire, faith the Prophet; Ashkelen shall see it and fear ; Zach. 9. 4, 5 Gaza and Ekron shall be very forrowful. When Ashkelon, Gaza, and Ekren shall see the destruction of Tyre by fire, it shall make them afraid of the like Judgment: they shall be a little more concerned then some were at the Siege of Rhodes, and then others were at the Ruine and Desolation of Troy by fire. London's fufferings should warn others to take heed of London's fins. London's Conflagration should warn others to take heed of London's abominations; it should warn others to stand and wonder at the patience, long-fuffering, gentleness, and goodness of God towards them who have descrived as hard things from the hand of God, as London have felt in 1665, and 1666. It should warn others to fearch their hearts, and try their ways, and break off their fins, and turn to the Lord, lest his anger should break forth in slames of fire against them, and none should be able to deliver them. It should warn others to Lam, 3. 40. fear and tremble before that Power, Justice, Severity, and Soveraignty that shines in Gods fiery Dispensations towards Mich, 6.9.

Rom. 2.4,5.

Exod. 15. 14, 15, 16. 16. 13. 6, 7,

us ... Ezek. 30. 7. 8. 9. And they shall be desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her Cities (meaning Egypt) (hall be in the midst of the Cities that are wasted. And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have set a fire in Egypt. In that day shall messengers go forth from me in ships, to make the careles Æthiopians afraid, and great pain shall eme upon them, as in the day of Egypt, for lo, it cometh. God by his secret Instinct and Providence would so order the matter, as that the news of the Chaldeans inrode into Egypt (laying all their Cities and Towns waste by fire and sword) should be carried over into Æthiopia; and hereupon the secure Æthiopians should sear and tremble, and be in pain as a woman is that is in travel; or as the Egyptians were, when they were destroyed at the Red-sea; or as they were, when the Lord smote their first-born throughout the Land of Egypt. Now shall the Ætbiopians, the poor blind Heathens fear and tremble, and be in pain, when they hear that Egypt is laid waste by fire and sword? and shall not Christians all the world over fear and tremble, and be in pain, when they shall hear that London is laid waste, that London is destroyed by fire? What though Papists and Atheists have warmed themselves at the flames of London, saying, Aha, so would we have it: yet let all that have the Name of God upon them, fear and tremble, and take warning, and learn righteousness by his righteous Judgments upon desolate London. London's murdering-piece should be Englands warning-piece to awaken them, and to work them to bethink themselves. and to turn to him, who is able by a flaming fire quickly to turn them out of all. The Jews have a faying, That if war be begun in another Country, yet they should fast and mourn because the war is begun, and because they do not know how foon God may bring it to their doors. O Sirs! London is burnt, and it highly concerns you to fast and mourn, and pray, and to take the Alarm; for you do not know how soon a fire may be kindled in your own habitations. Now God has made the (once famous) City of London a flaming Beacon before your eyes, he expects and looks that you should all fear before him. Secure your interest in him, walk humbly humbly with him, and no more provoke the eyes of his jealousie and glory. The design of Heaven by this late dreadful Fire, is not to be confined to those particular persons upon whom it hath fallen heaviest; but 'is to awaken all, and When a Beacon is fired, it gives warning as much to the whole Country, as to him who fets it on fire; or as it does to him on whose ground the Beacon stands." We can neither upon the foot of Reason or Religion, conclude them to be the greatest sinners, who have been the greatest sufferer: for many times we find, that the greatest Saints have been the greatest sufferers both from God and men. was a non-fuch in his day for holiness, uprightness, and the fear of the Lord, and yet by the wind and fire from Heaven on the one hand, and by the Sabeans and Chaldeans on the other hand, he is stript of all his children and of a fair estate in one day: so that in the morning it might have been said, Who so rich as 70b? and in the evening, Who so poor as 70b? 70b was poor even to a Proverb. Look as wicked men are very incompetent Judges of divine favours and mercies, so they are very incompetent Judges of divine tryals and severities; and whatever they may think or say, I dare conclude, that they who have drank deepest of this Cup of forrows (of this Cup of defolation and fire in London) are not greater sinners then all others in England, who yet have not tasted of this bitter. Cup. But more of this when I come to the Application of the Point. O Sirs! I beg upon the knee of my foul, that you will not flight this dreadful warning of God, that he has given to the whole Nation in turning London into ashes: To that purpose seriously consider. First, Divine warnings slighted and neglected, will certainly bring down the greater wrath and vengeance upon you, as you may clearly see by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together. Secondly, Slighting of Judgments is the greatest Judgment that can befal a people; it speaks our much Pride, Atheism, Hardness, Blindness, and desperate Security, and Contempt of the great God. To be given up to flight divine warnings, is a spiritual Judgment, and therefore must of all Judgments be the greatest Judgment to be given

Ifa. 26.8, 9.

Job. 1. 1, 2,

Levit. 26. 16, 17, 18. 21, 23, 24. 27, 28. Amos 4. 7. 8, 9, 10, 11. Jer 25. 4. to the 12. verf. Ifa. 22. 12, 13, 14.

Jonah 3.

Prov. 1.24, to verf. 32.

Dan. 5.5.

1 Sam. 31.4. Joh. 6.70,71. Mat. 26.21, 22, 23,24,25. Mat. 27.5.

Trenaus. Aug.de Harefi.

Some report of Judas, that he flew his father, married his mother, and betrayed his Master.

given up to Sword, Famine, Fire, Pestilence, burning Agues, and Fevers, is nothing so great a Judgment as to be given up to flight divine warnings; for in the one you are but passive, but in the other you are active. Thirdly, Heathems have trembled, and mended, and reformed at divine warnings; and therefore for you to flight them, is to all below the Heathens, yea, 'tis to do worse then the Heathens, who will certainly one day rife up in sudgment' against all such who have been flighters of the dreadful warnings of Heaven. Fourthly, Slighting of divine warnings, lays men open to such anger and wrath, as all the Angels in Heaven are not able to express, nor all the men on earth able to conceive. Fifthly, Slighting and neglecting of divine warnings, speaks out the greatest dis-ingenuity, stoutness, and stubbornness that is imaginable. The ingenuous child easily takes warning, and to an ingenuous Christian every divine warning is as the hand-writing upon the wall. Sixthly, Slighting of divine warnings, provokes God many times to give up men to be their own Executioners, their cwn destroyers. Saul had many warnings, but he slighted and neglected them all; and at last God leaves him to fall on his own fword. Christ cast Hell-fire often into Judas his face. Thou hast a Devil; and wo to that man by whom the Some of Man shall be betrayed; it had been good for that man that he had never been born: But Judas slights all these warnings, and betrays his Lord and Master, and then goes forth and hangs himse f. It was a strange conceit of the Cerinthians that honoured Judas the Traitor as some divine and super-humane power, and called his Treason a bleffed piece of Service, and that he knowing how much the death of Christ wou'd profit mankind, did therefore betray him to death to fave the race of mankind, and to do a thing pleasing to God. Judas withstood all divine warnings from within and without, and you know how the Tragedy ended; he dyed a miserable death, he perished by his own hands, which were the most infamous hands in all the world: he went and hanged himself. And as Luke hathit, he fell head-long and burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels bowels gushed out: In every passage of his death we may take notice of divine Justice, and accordingly take heed of flighting divine warnings. It was but just that he should hang in the air, who for his fin was hated both of Heaven and Earth, and that he should fall down head-long, who was fallen from such a height of honour, as he was fallen from; and that the halter should strangle that throat, through which the voice of Treason had sounded; and that his bowels should be lost, who had lost the bowels of all pity, piety, and compassion; and that his Chost should have his passage out of his midst (He burst asunder in the midst, faith the Text) and not out of his lips, because with a kiss of his lips he had betrayed our Lord Jesus. But seventhly, By flighting divine warnings, you will arm both visible and invisible Creatures against you, Pharaoh slights divine warnings, and God arms the winds against him to his destruction Sifera flights divine warnings, and the Stars in their Course fought against Sisera. Sennacherib flights divine warnings, and an Angel of the Lord destroyed a hundred fourscore and five thousand of his Army in one night. Eighthly, By flighting of divine warnings, you will tempt Satan to tempt your fouls: he that dares flight divine warnings, will stick at nothing that Satan shall tempt him to; yea, he does to the utmost what lyes in him to provoke Satan to follow him with the blackest and sorest temptations. Ninthly, He that flights divine warnings, dams up all the springs of mercy; and turns the streams of loving-kindness and favour another way. Tenthly and lastly, Slighting of divine warnings, will be the Sword that will wound you, and the Serpent that will sting you, and the Worm that will be still gnawing upon you; especially, i. When your consciences are awakned. 2. When you shall lye upon a dying bed. 3. When you shall stand before a Judgment-seat. Fourthly and laftly, When you shall awake with everlasting flames about your ears. Upon all these considerations, take heed of flighting the warnings of God that you are under this day. But.

Seventhly and lastly, God inflicts great and fore Judg-

2 Kings 6: 8, 9, 16, 11. 16. 17. Exod. 14. Judg.5.19,20. Ila. 37. 7, 8, 9. 36.

Pfal. 81. 11. to the end. Jer. 7. 23,24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29. 34. Ifa. 13. 14,15, Eccle. 12.13, 14. Exod. 20. 18. Heb. 12.18, 19, 20, 21.

Rev. 6. 15, 16, 17. Jer. 5. 14.

ments upon Persons, Cities, and Countries, to put the world in mind of the General Judgment. Who can think upon the Conflagration of our late glorious City, and not call to mind the great and terrible day of the Lord? P[21, 50, 3] Our God fall come, and shall not keep silence; a fire foill devour before him, and it shall be very tempestuous round about him. As God gave his Law in fi e, fo when he comes to Judgment, in fire he will require it, to shew himself a Judge and Revenger of it, and to bring the world to a strict account for their breaking of it. In the promulgation of the Law a flaming fire was only on Mount Sinai; but when Christ shall come to execute vengeance on the transgressors of it, all the world shall become a Bonfire. In the promulgation of the Law there was fire, smoak, thunder, and an earthquake; but when Christ shall come in flaming fire to revenge the breaches of it, the Heavens shall be dissolved, and the Elements shall melt with fervent heat, so that not only a few Cities and Kingdoms, but all this lower World shall be of a flame; and therefore if any of the wicked should be so weak as to think to secure themselves by creeping behind the Lord, they will but deceive themselves; for the fire shall not only devour before him, but it shall also devour round about him. When an unquenchable fire shall be kindled above the finner, and below the finner, and round about the finner, how is it possible that he should escape, though he should cry out to the Rocks and the Mountains to fall upon him, and to cover him from the wrath of the Lamb? Ifa. 66. 15, 16. For behold, the Lord will come with fire, and with his chariots like a whiriwind, to render his anger with fury, and his rebuke with flames of fire. For by fire and by bis sword will the Lord plead with all flesh: and the flain of the Lord shall be many. There is nothing more fearful or formidable either to man or beast then fire. Now when God comes to execute his Judgments, and to take vengeance on the wicked in this life (as some curry the words) or in the other life (as others curry the words) he will come in the most terrible and dreadful manner imaginable, he will come with fire, and he will ren. der his rebuke with flames of fire, or with flery flames, as fome some say: or with flaming fire, as others say. 2 Thef. 1 7.8, And to you who are troubled, reft with us, when the Lord Tefus shall be revealed from beaven, with his mighty Angels in fliming fire, taking vengean: e en them that know not God, and that ober not the Gospel of our Lord Fesus Christ. Beloved, that Christ will come to Judgment in flaming fire, is no Politick invention found out to fright men from their pleasures; nor no Engine of State devised to keep men tame and quiet under the Civil powers: nor no Plot of the Minister to make men melancholy, or to hurry them into a blind obedience; but it is the constant voice of God in the blessed Scriptures, 2 Pet. 3. 10-12. But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night, in the which the heavens (hall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burnt up. Looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the beavens being on fire, shall be dissolved, and the elements Thall melt with fervent beat. Parem is of opinion, that that Parens in Rev. fire that shall set all the world in a flame, at last will be kindled and cherissied by lightning from Heaven. The Earth being smitten with lightning from Heaven, shall be shaken and torn into ten thousand pieces, and by fire utterly consumed; now the Earth shall quake, the Sea roar, the Air ring, and the World burn. Now you shall look no way, but you shall see fire; you shall see fire above you, and fire below you, and fire round about you... Christs first coming was attended with a general peace, and with Carols of Angels: he came as rain upon the mown grass, filently, sweetly into the world; then a babe cryed in the manger, but now Judahs Lyon will roar and thunder in the Heavens: Then he came riding on an Asses Colt, but now on the Clouds: Then he was attended with twelve poor despiled Apostles, but now he shall be waited on with many score millions of Angels. At his first coming he freely offered grace, and mercy, and 2 Thef. 1. 7. pardon to finners; but now he will come in flames of fire to execute wrath and vengeance upon finners, and 'twill be no small honour to Christ, nor no small comfort to the Saints, nor no small torment to the wicked for Chieft to come

Luke 2. 8. to verl, is. Pfal. 71.6.

Acts 22. 8.

Mark 6. 16. 1-Sam. 21.9. Numb. 7.10.

Dan. 5.5.

Hellingsheds Chron.

Holcot. in lib.

Mat. 25. 41. to verf. 46. come in flames of fire when he comes to Judgment. Saul was altonished when he heard Tesus of Nazareth but calling unto him out of Heaven. Herod was affrighted when he thought that John Raptist was risen again. The Philistines were afraid when they faw Davids Sword. The Ifraelites were startled when they saw Aarons Rod: And Juda was ashamed when he saw Thamars signet and staff: and Belhazzar was amazed when he faw the hand writing upon the Wall. The Carthaginians were troubled when they faw Scipio's Sepulchre: and the Saxons were terrified when they law Cadwallon's Image. Oh how terrified, amazed, and confounded will wicked men be when they shall see that Christ whom they have rejected, betrayed, crucified, scorned, opposed, and persecuted, come in flames of fire to pass an eternal Doom upon them! I have read aftory of two Souldiers, that coming to the Valley of Jehosaphat in Judea, and one faying to the other, Here in this place shall be the general Judgment, wherefore I will now take up my place where I will then fit; and so lifting up a stone, he sate down upon it, as taking possession before hand; but being sate, and looking up to Heaven, such a quaking and trembling fell upon him, that falling to the earth, he remembred the day of Judgment with horrour and amazement ever after. The case of this Souldier will be the case of every wicked man, when Christ shall appear in flames of fire to pass an eternal Sentence of Condemnation upon all the Goats that shall be found on the left hand. It is strange in this so serious a bufiness of the day of Judgment, and of Christs appearing in flaming fire, which so nearly concerns the sons of men, how mens wits will busie them elves in many nice inquiries ('ye may meet with many such questions in the School-men) as, t. How long is it to the day of Judgment? 2. In what place of the world shall the Judgment-day be held? 3. What kind of fire shall then be burning? 4. Whether Christ shall come with a Cross carried before him? As if Malefactors in the Gaol should fall a reasoning and debating what weather it would be at the day of Affiles? or of the Judges habit and retinue, and never bethink themselves how to answer their Indictment, that they may escape condemnation. London's flames should put us in mind of Christs coming in flames of fice; and the burning of London should put us in mind of the burning of the world, when Christ shall come to judge the fons of men according to their works; and the terror and dread of that fire, and mens endeavours to escape it, should put us upon all those holy ways and means whereby we may escape the fury of those dreadful flames that shall never be quenched: And the Houses and Estates that were confumed by the devouring fire in London-ftreets, should put us upon securing a house not made with hands. but one eternal in the Heavens, and upon fecuring durable riches, and an inheritance that fadeth not away, and upon laying up for our selves treasures in Heaven, where neither moth nor ruft, nor thieves (and let me adde, nor flames) can break through, corrupt, or steal, or burn. The more general any Judgment is, the more it should put us in mind of the General day of Judgment. Now the burning of London was a general Judgment, a Judgment that reaches from one end of the Land to another (as I shall more fully evidence before I close up this Discourse) and therefore it should remind us of the universal Conflagration of the whole World. and the works thereof. And thus you see the ends that God has (in respect of the wicked) in inflicting great and sore Judgments upon Persons, Cities, and Countries.

2 Cor. 5. 1,2. Prov. 8.18. 1 Pet. 1. 4. Mat. 6. 19, 20, 21.

But pray, Sir, what are those high and holy ends, in respect of the people of God, that God aims at by his inflicting of great and fore Judgments upon Persons, Cities, and Countries? I suppose they are such as follow.

Queft.

First, To bring about those special favours and mercies Assir. that God intends them. By the dreadful Judgments that God inflicted upon Pharaob, and upon his people, and upon his Country, God brought about the freedom and liberty of his people to worship him according to his own prescriptions. The great difference and contest between God and Pharach was, who should have their wills; God would have his peo-

Exod. 5. I, 2. Exod. 7. 16. Exod. 8. 8. 20. 25.27. 29. Exod. 9.1.13. Exod. 10. 3. 7. 8. 11. 24. Exod. 12. 31. Jer. 11. 4. Dan. 9. 12.

Turn to Obadiah, and read from verf. 11. to the end of the Chapter.

Here was Lex talionis observed; they that invaded the inheritance of others, had their own invaded by them.

ple to worship him according to his own mind; but Pharaob was resolved to venture his all before they should have their freedom and liberty to serve their God. Upon this God follows him with plague upon plague, and never leaves spending of his plagues upon him, till he had overthrown him, and through his ruine brought about the freedom and liberty of his poor people. The Babylonians, were cruel enemies to Gods poor Ifrael, and kept them in bondage, yea, in a fiery furnace seventy years: At last God stirs up the spirit of Cyrus for his Churches sake, and he by fire and sword lays Babylon waste, and takes them Captive, who had held his people in a long Captivity. Now he by breaking the Babylonians in pieces like a potters vessel, brought about (as as instrument in the hand of God') the freedom and liberty of Gods poor people, as you may see by comparing that 45. of 1/2. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, with that 1. Chapter of Ezra. God stirs up the spirit of Cyrus to put forth a Proclamation, for Liberty for the Jews to go to their own Land, and to build the House of the Lord God of Israel; and then he graciously stirs up the spirits of the people wisely and soberly to improve the liberty he had proclaimed. Fer. 49. 1. Concerning the Ammonites, thus faith the Lord, Hath Ifrael no fons ? bath be no heir ? why then doth their King inherit Gad, and bis people dwell in his Cities? When the ten Tribes were carried away captive, the Ammonites who dwelt near the Tribe of Gad, intruded into it, and the Cities of it; but mark what God saith in verse 2. Therefore behold the days come, satib the Lord, that I will cause an alarm of war to be heard in Rab. bah of the Ammonites (that was their chief City) and it shall be a desolate heap, and her daughters (that is lesser Towns) shall be burnt with fire, then shall Ifroel be beir unte them that were his heirs, saith the Lord. God by fire and sword would lay desolate the chief City of the Ammonites, and her Towns and Villages that did belong to her: and by these dreadful Dispensations he would make way for his people, not only to possess their own Land, but the Ammonites Land also. I will leave the prudent Reader to make the Application We have been under greater and dreadfuller Judgments then ever this poor Nation hath groaned under in former times; and who can tell but that the Lord by these amazing Judgments may bring about greater and better mercies and bleffings then any yet we do enjoy? The Rabins lay of Civil Liberty, that if the Heavens were Parchment, the Sea Ink, and every pile of Grass a Pen, the praises of it could not be comprised nor expressed: May we not say more of a holy Liberty? Liberty to ferve and worship the Lord according to his own prescriptions and directions laid down in his bleffed Word (by which all worship and worshippers must be tryed at last) is a pearl of price that none can sufficiently value. Fustinus, the second Emperors Motto was. Libertas res inastimabilis. Liberty is unvaluable. The Lord give his people holy, wife, prudent, fober, humble, and understanding hearts, that they may know both how to prize and how to improve those liberties and mercies that he has handed to them through terrible Dispensations. But,

Secondly, God inflicts great Tryals and fore Judgments upon Persons and Places, that he may awaken his own people out of that deep security that oftentimes seizeth upon them. What deep security had seized upon David, so that God was forced to make use of the bloody Sword and of the sweeping Pestilence to awaken him? Fonah was a Prophet, he was a Servant of the Lord, he was a Type of Christ, he was a good man; his name Jonah fignifies a Dove, though he had but little of the Dove in him, being as passionate a man of an honest man, as you have lightly heard of, saich Luther. Now Jonah having contracted guilt upon his conscience by acting quite contrary to Gods royal Call, what a desperate, senseless stupidity and security had seized upon him! what a spiritual lethargy was poor Jonab in! not much unlike that of the Smiths Dog, whom neither the hammers above him, nor the sparks of fire falling round about him can awake. Forab was not in a flumber, but in a found, heavy, deep, and dead fleep; and what a wonder, what a prodigie was here, that in all this ftir, and tumult, and danger, the winds whiftling and roaring, the Sea working, ra-

Pfal. 30. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.
Math. 25, 5.
2 Sams. 2. 7.
15. and Chap.
24, 15, 16,
17.
2 Kings 14. 25.
Math. 12. 40.

Jonah 1. 1, 2,

Deuz. 8, 2.

ging,

ging, swelling, frothing, foaming, and boiling like a pot, the waves mounting up to Heaven, and finking down again to Hell (as the Pfalmift speaks) the ship tumbling and tossing like a Tennis-ball, the Mariners as flour fellows as they were, surprized with fear, and running up and down like men at their wits end, like men that could not look pale death in the face with blood in their cheeks, that yet Jonab should sleep, and be as secure in that dreadful danger, as if he had been in his own house sleeping on a bed of doune! Oh the desperate security that may seize upon the best of Saints ! but this security God will cure in his 7 mas's by some smart Tryal, or by some heavy Judgment or other. The Lethargy is best cured by a burning Ague: Absolon sends once or twice to Jaab to come and speak with him: but when he saw that Joab would not come, he commands his corn-fields to be fet on fire, and this awakens him, and fetches him with a witness: So God by fiery afflictions, and by burning up our comforts round about us, awakens us, and brings us to himself with a witness. When Iron grows rulty, we put it into the fire to purifie it; and so when the people of God grow rufty and secure, then the Lord brings them under fiery tryals to awaken them, and to purifie them. If Nero was so angry with Vespasian, because he slept at his Mufick; how much more may the Lord be angry with all such as sleep and are secure under the most amazing and awakning Judgments? But my hope and prayer is, that the Lord has, and will more and more graciously and effectually awaken all the wife flumbring Virgins upon whom this fiery Dispen-And therefore. fation has past.

2 Sam. 14.30

Thirdly, In respect of his peoples sins, God has several special ends that he aims at by all the siery Tryals and smart Providences that he exercises them and others with. As,

Deut. 8, 2.

3.

First, God by these means designs a further and a suller discovery of their sins. In standing waters you cannot see the mud that lyes at the bottom of the Pool or Pond; but when once the water is drawn away, then it appears. In times of prosperity there is a great deal of mud, a great deal of Atheism, unbelief, discontent, murmuring, impatience, passion, pride, &c. that lyes at the bottom of mens hearts undiscovered. Oh but when God shall once empty them of their Estates, and burn up all their outward comforts, and fet them with Fob upon the dunghil, then the mud appears, then a whole army of lusts discover themselves, as we see in many this day, whom you shall rarely find without tears in their eyes, fighs in their hearts, and complaints in their mouths: Severe Providences are pills made purposely to clear the eye-fight. I Kings 17. 18. And the faid unto E. lijab, What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God ? art thou come unto me to call my fin to remembrance, and to flay my son? If God had not taken away her son, her sin had not been brought to remembrance. O Sirs! if God by this late dreadful Fire had not taken away your houses, your goods, your estates, your trades, many of your fins had not been brought to your remembrance, though now you have lost most or all. You may say with the Psalmist, My Psal. 51. 3. fins are ever before me : my pride is ever before me, my unbelief is ever before me, my frowardness is ever before me, my murmuring is ever before me, my discontent is ever before me, and my impatience is ever before me, &c. Good men never come to know how bad they are, till they come to be exercised with severe Providences and smart Tryals It was the speech of a Holy man in a great sickness. In this discase I have searned how great God is, and what the evil of fin is; I never knew to purpose what God was before, nor what sin was before. Afflictions are a Christians Glass, in which they may run and read the greatness of God. and the vileness of sin.

times

Turn to the Scriptures, Gen. 42. 21. Jon. 4. 8, 9. Ter. 9. 7. uls.

Secondly, By severe Providences and fiery Tryals, God defigns the preventing of fin. Paul was one of the holiest men on earth, called by some an earthly Angel, and yet he needed a thorn in the flesh to prevent pride. 2 Cor. 12. 7. And left I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flelb.

Job 33.19-17. Chap. 34. 31, 32. Job 40. 4, 5. Hos. 2. 6, 7. flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure. Paul was in very great danger of being exalted above measure, witness the doubling of those words in one verse. Left I mould be exalted, Left I mould be exalted. Prudent Physicians sometimes give Physick to prevent difeales; and so does the Physitian of Souls, as you may see by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together. burnt child dreads the fire. Sin is but a bitter sweet. an evil worse then Hell it self. Salt brine preserves from putrefaction, and salt Marshes keep the sheep from rotting; and so sharp Tryals, severe Providences preserve the Saints from spiritual putrefying, and from spiritual rotting. The Rabbins, to keep their Scholars from fin, were wont to tell them, that fin made Gods head ake; and Saints under fiery tryals do find by experience, that fin makes not only their heads, but also their hearts ake; and by this means God preserves his people from many fins, which otherwise they would certainly fall into. Beloved. God by his fiery Dispensations has destroyed many, or most of your outward comforts; but little do you know the horrible fins that by this means the Lord has preserved you from. A foll Estate lays men most open to the greatest sins, the worst of snares, and the deadliest temptations. The best of men have fallen foulest under their highest worldly enjoyments, witness Da vid, Solomon, Hezekiah, &c. Under your outward fulnels, how low was your communion with God? how languishing were your Graces? how lean were your Souls? and how was your spring of inward Comforts dryed up? How little had God of your thoughts, your hearts, your time, your strength? O Sirs! how bad would you have been by this time, if God had not removed those things that were but fuel to your lusts, and quench-coals to your grace? Well, often think of this; 'tis a greater mercy to be preserved from sin, yea from the least fin, then is to enjoy the whole world. But,

Thirdly, By severe Providences, and by siery Tryals, God designs the imbittering of fin to his people. When God shall come and burn up mens comforts round about them.

them; then they will cry out. Ah, what a bitter thing is fin ! that buts God upon burning work; then they will speak that language to their own Souls, that the Propher once foake to the Tews, Fer. 2. I c. They made bis land waste : bis cities are burnt with fire. Verl. 17. Haft thou not procured thefetbings to thy felf? Verf. 19. Thine own wickedness shall correct thee, and thy back flidings shall reprove thee : know therefore and fee, that it is an evil thing and bitter, that thou halt farfaken the Lord thy God, and that my fear is not in thee. faith the Lord God of Hofts. So Chap. 4. 18, Thy may and thy doings have procured these things unto thee; this is thy wickednes, because it is bitter, because it reacheth unto thy heart Yea, now they will fay that fin is bitterneffes in the abstract. and in the plural number also, according to that of the Prophet Hofea, Hof. 12. 14. Ephraim provoked him to anger most bitterly, or with bitterneffes, as the Hebrew has it. Relations and friends may tell us, that fin is a bitter thing, and con science may tell us, that fin is a bitter thing, and good books may tell us, that fin is a bitter thing, and men under terrours and horrours of spirit may tell us, that sin is a bitter thing. and the fore and heavy Judgments of God upon others may tellus, that finlis a bitter thing, and the Spirit by his fecret whispers may tell us, that fin is a bitter thing, and Ministers may tell us, that fin is a bitter thing; they may tell you. that 'tis bitter to God; it being the only thing in all the world that he has revealed his wrath from Heaven against; and that is contrary to the Nature of God, the Law of God, the Being of God, the Glory of God, and the grand Deligns They may tell you, that 'tis bitter to Christ, with ness his crying out in the bitterness of his Soul; My God, my God, why bast thou for faken me ? and witness the forrows and heaviness of his Soul, and his sweating clods of blood. When he hung upon the Gross, they gave him gall and vine gar to drink; but no gall was fo bitter to him as your fins. They may tell you, that fin is bitter to the Spirit of God: for nothing grieves him, and provokes him, and vexes him but fine They may tell you, that fin is bitter to the good Angels every fin that you commit is as a dagger, at their hearts :

Gen. 6. 3. Eph. 4:29.

Tude 6.

Gen. 3. 10. Math. 27. Gen. 4. 13. Rom. 8. 20, 21, 22. hearts: there is nothing in all the world fo bitter to them, as to see their Lord and Master daily, yea hourly crucified by finners fins. They may tell you, that fin is bitter to the evil Angels, it being the only thing for which they were banished the Court of Heaven, and turned down to the lowest Hell, where they are kept in chains of darkness to the Judgment of the great day. They may tell you, that fin is bitter to the work of men, witness Adams hiding of himself, and Judas his hanging of himself, and Cains crying out, My burden is greater then I am able to bear. They may tell you, that 'tis bitter to the Creatures, who groan under their burdens, and who long to be delivered from that bondage that the fin of man hath subjected them to; and yet for all this, we will not feelingly, affectionately, experimentally lay, that fin is bitter, till God comes and burns us up. Lam. 4. 11. And gives in gall and mormwood to drink. Chap. 3.19, 20. Remembring mine affliction, and my mifery, the wormwood and the gall. My foul bath them still in remembrance, and is bumbled in me. O Sirs! how bitter should fin be to you, who have feen London all in flames? Certainly God by burning up your sweet, pleasant, and delightful things, would teach you to taste a greater bitterness in sin then ever. O happy Fire, that shall render God and Christ, and Heaven, and Promises, and Ordinances more sweet, and fin more bitter to poor finners Souls! Doubtless one of Gods great defigns by this late Judgment of Fire, is to imbitter fin to all forts of men. When Judgments imbitter our fins to us, then they work kindly, powerfully, effectually, and then we may conclude, that there was a hand of love in those Judgments, and then we shall justifie the Lord, and say with the Church, Lam. 1.18. The Lord is righteous; for I have rebelled against him: or as the Hebrew runs, Because I have imbittered bim. be is righteom in all the fore judgments that he bath inflicted up. on me ; for I bave imbittered him against me by my most bitter fins. But.

designs the mortifying and purging away of his peoples sins.

16. 1. 25. And I will turn my hand upon thee (to wit to correct

rect or chaftile thee) and purely purge away thy droft (or drof- Dan. 11.25. (es) and take away all thy tin (or tins in the plural number.) Some by drois understand gross iniquity; and by ting glittering hypocrific. For as tin is very like unto filver, to is hypocrific very like unto piery. Others by drofs understand persons that are openly prophane; and by tin such as are inwardly The words are a Metaphor taken from them that try metals in the fire, purging from precious filver all drof and tin. The Jews who were once filver, were now turned into dross and tin; but God by fiery tryals would burn up their drofs and tin, their enormities and wickednesses, and make them as shining Christians in grace and holines, as ever they were. So Ifa. 27.9. By this therefore shall the iniquity of Jacob be purged : and this is all the fruit to take away bis fin. God by the Babylonish Captivity would as by fire purge away the iniquity of Facob; and to thew the certainty of it, he instanceth in their darling-fin, viz. Idolatry : when he maketh all the stones of the Altar as chalk-stones, that are beaten in funder, the Groves and the Images shall not stand Idolatry was the great fin for which God fent them into Captivity. Now how they were purged from this fin after their return out of Captivity, appears by their History: take one instance for all. Pitate being by Tiberius to be Governor over the Jews, caused in the night-time the Statue of Cafar to be brought into ferufalem covered, which thing within three days after caused a great tumult among the lews; for they who beheld it, were aftonished and moved, as though now the Law of their Country were prophaned: For they hold it not lawful for any Picture or Image to be brought into the City. At their lamentation who were in the City, there was gathered together a great multicode out of the fields adjoyning, and they went presently to Pilate, then at Casarea, beseeching him earnestly, that the Images might be taken away out of Jerusalem, and that the Laws of When Pilate detheir Country might remain inviolated. nied their Suit, they proftrated them clives before his house, and there remained lying upon their faces for five days and nights never moving. Afterwards Pilate fining in his Tribunal-feat, was very careful to call all the Tews together before him, as though there he would have given them an An-(wer; when upon the sudden a Company of armed Souldiers (for fo it was provided) compassed the Tews about with a triple rank : the Jews were hereat amazed, feeing that which they expected not; then Pilate told them, that except they would receive the Images of Cafar, he would kill them all: and to that end made a fign to the Souldiers to draw their Swords. The Jews, as though they had agreed thereto, fe'll all down at once, and offered their necks to the stroke of the Sword, crying out, that they would rather lose their lives, then suffer their Religion to be prophaned. Then Pilate admiring the constancy of the people in their Religion, prefently commanded the Statues to be taken out of the City of Fernsalem. All the hurt the fire did the three Children (or rather Champions) was to burn off their cords. are cords of vanity, but by fiery tryals God will burn them up. Zecha. 13. 9. And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them, as filver is refined, and will try them as gold is tryed. The best of men are but men at the best, they have much corruption and dross in them, and they need efining; and therefore God by fiery tryals will refine them, but not as dross or chaff which are burnt up in the fire, but is filver and gold which are purified in the fire: he will fo refine them, as that they shall leave their dregs and dross behind them. Look what the fire is to the gold, the file to the Iron, the fan to the wheat, the fope to the cloaths, the salt to the flesh, that shall fiery tryals be to the Saints: But what shall be the fruit of their refining? Answ. They shall call on my Name, and I will hear them. I will fay, it is my people, and they shall say, the Lord is my God. By fiery tryals God will purge out our drofs, and make vertue shine. All the fiery tryals that befal the Saints, shall be as a potion to carry away ill humors, and as cold frosts to destroy the vermine, and as a tempelluous Sea to purge the wine from its lees, and as the North wind that dryeth up the vapours, that purges the blood, and that quickens the spirits, and as a sharp Corrofive to eat out the dead flesh. The great thing that fhould

Mal. 3. 1,2,3. Godkfire is in Zion, and his furnace in 7erufalem. Ila. 21. 9.

Fosephus, pag. 617. The Jews hated and feared Idolatry as much as the burnt child dreads the fire.

Dan. 3. 23,24.

should be most in every burnt Citizens eye, and heart, and prayers, and desires, is, that the Fire of London may be so sanctified, as to issue in the burning up of their lusts, and in the purging away of the filth of the Daughter of Zion, 16.4.4.6. Ferom reports of Plato, how he lest that famous City of Athens, and chose to live in a little ancient Village almost overturned with tempests and earth quakes, that being often minded therein of his approaching desolation, he might get more power over his strong lusts, and learn to live a more vertuous life then ever he had lived before. O Sirs! if God by this stery Dispensation shall make you more victorious over your strong lusts, and help you to live more vertuous lives, you will have cause to bless him all your days, though he has turned you out of house and home, and burnt up all your comforts round about you. But,

Hieronym. contra Jovinian.

Fourthly, By severe Providences and hery Tryals, God designs these four things, in respect of his Childrens Graces.

First, He designs the reviving, quickning, and recovering of their decayed graces: By fiery tryals he will inflame that love that was even key cold, and raile that faith that was fallen asleep, and quicken up those hopes that were languishing, and put life and spirits into those joys and comforts that were withering and dying. - God under fiery tryals lets his poor children fee how that by their spiritual decays he has been dishonoured, his Spirit grieved, Religion shamed, the mouths of the wicked opened, weak Saints staggered, strong Saints troubled, Conscience wounded, and their Souls and Graces impaired; and by these discoveries he engages them to the use of all those holy and heavenly helps, whereby their decayed graces may be revived and recovered. Many creatures that have been frozen, and even dead with cold, have been revived and recovered by being brought to the fire. God by fiery tryals will unfreeze the frozen graces of his people, and put new life and spirits into them. As the Air is sometimes clear, and sometimes cloudy; and as the Sea is fometimes ebbing, and fometimes flowing; and as the trees

Rev. 2. 4. Jam. 1. 2-12. 2 Cor. 12.10. Lib. de Ancho-

I Joh. 3. 9.11. Rom. 29.13. Heb. 8. I Pet. 1.5. Joh 10. 28, 29, 30, 31. of the field are somtimes flowering, green, and growing, and sometimes naked, withered, and as it were even dead: So 'tis sometimes with the graces of the Saints: but the Lord by one fiery tryal or another will revive, and recover, and raile their graces again. Epiphanius makes mention of those that travel by the Defarts of Syria, where are nothing but milerable Marshes and Sands, destitute of all Commodities, nothing to be had for love or money. Now if it so happen, that their fire go out by the way, then they light it again at the heat of the Sun, by the means of a Burning-glass: and thus if the fire of zeal, if the sparks of divine grace, by the prevalency of some strong corruption, or by the violence of seme dreadful temptation, should be put out, or dye as to its lively operations; by a Burning-glass, or by one fiery Disrensation or another, God will inflame the zeal, and enliven the dying graces of his poor people. I know the faving graces of the Spirit, viz. such as Faith. Love, Hope, &c. cannot be finally and totally extinguished in the Souls, when they are once wrought there by the Spirit; yet their lustre, their radiancy, their activity, their shine and slame may be clouded and covered, whilst the season of temptation lasteth; as living coals may be so covered with ashes, that neith r. light, nor smoak, nor heat may appear; and yet when the embers, the ashes are stirred to the bottom, then live coals appear, and by a little blowing, a flame breaks forth. There are several cases wherein grace in a Christians breast may feem to be hid, cold, dead, and covered over; as sap in the winter is hid in the roots of trees, or as flowers and fruits are hid in the feeds, or roots in the earth; or as sparks of fire are hid in the ashes, or as bits of gold are hid in a dust heap, or as pearls may be hid in the mire: I, but God by one severe providence or another, by one fiery tryal or another, will blow that heavenly grace, that divine fire into a perfect flame: he will cause their hid graces to revive as the Corn, and grow as the Vine, and bloffom as the Lilly, and smell as the Wine of Lebanon, Hof. 14 5, 6, 7. O Sirs! how many Christians were there amongst us, who were much decayed and withered in their graces, in their duties, in there converfes.

verses in their comforts in their spiritual enjoyments, in their | As a man may communions with God, and with one another; and yet were not sensible of their decays, nor humbled under their decays, nor industrious to recover themselves out of their withering and dying condition? and therefore no wonder, if the Lord to recover them and raise them, hath brought fiery tryals upon them. But.

take infection, or get fome inward bruise, or foring a vein. and yet not know of it.

2.

Job 15. 3. 2 Chron. 20. 12, 13. am. 1.4. Chap. 5. 11. Hab. 2. 3, 4. Mich. 7.7,8,9. Rev. 13. 10. compared with Chap. 14.12.

Secondly, God by severe Providences and by siery Tryals, designs a further exercise of his Childrens graces; sleepy habits bring him no glory, nor do us no good. All the henour he has, and all the advantage we have in this world, is from the active part of grace: consult the Scriptures in the Margine. There is little difference (as to the comfort and (weet of grace) between grace out of exercise, and no grace at all. A man that has millions, but has no heart to use what he has, wherein is he better (as to the comfort and sweetness of his life) then a man that hath but a few mites in the world? Eccle. 6. 1, 2-4. Mark 40. How is it that you have no faith (faith Christ to his Disciples) when they were in a dreadful form, and in danger of drowning, and so stood in most need of their-faith? yet they had then their faith to seek, they had faith in the habit, but not in the exercise, and therefore Christ looks upon their faith as no faith: How is it that you have no faith? what is the sheath without the knife? the scabbard without the sword? the Musket without the match? the Cannon without the bullet? the Granado without powder? no more are all your graces when not in exercise. The strongest Creature the Lyon, and the subtlest Creature the Serpent, if they are dormant, are as eafily surprised and destroyed as the weakest worm: So the strongest Saints, if grace be not in exercise, are as easily surprised and captivated by Sin, Satan, and the World, as the weakest Saints are. O Sirs! if Christians will not stir up the grace of God that is in them, if they will not look to the daily exercise of grace, God by some severe providence or other, by some stery Dispensation or other, will stir up their graces for them. fluggish, flumbering Christians, who are careless as to the exercise lonah I. 6.

Lam. 1. 16.

Hof. 5. 12:-14.

exercise of your graces, how sadly, how forely do you provoke the Lord to let Satan loofe to tempt you, and corruptions grow strong to weary you, and the world grow cross to vex you, and friends turn enemies to plague you, and the spirit withdraw to discomsit you, and siery tryals to break in to awaken you! And all this to bring you to live in a daily exercise of grace. God was fain to be a Moth, a Worra, a Lyon, yea, a young Lyon to Ephraim and Judah, before he could bring them up an exercise of grace; but when he was all this to them, then they fall roundly upon a lively excrcife of grace. Hof. 6. 1, 2, 3. Come, let us return unto the Lord; for he bath torn, and be will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up. After two days he will revive us, in the third day be will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. Then hall we know if we follow on to know the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shall come unto us as the rain. as the latter and former rain unto the earth. Here you fee their faith, their repentance, their love, their hope, all in When a Souldiers courage, metal, and gallantry lyes as it were hid, his Captain will put him upon such hard. thips, hazards, and dangers, as shall rouse up his courage, metal, and gallantry. If a Scholar has excellent acquired parts and abilities, and will not use them nor improve them, his Master will put him upon such Tasks, as shall draw out all his parts and abilities to the height: So when the Lord has laid into the fouls of his people a stock of grace, and they grow idle and careless, and will not improve that flock for his glory, and their own good, he will then exercise them with such severe providences and fiery tryals, as shall put them to a full improvement of that bleffed flock of grace that he has intrusted them with. The fire that came from Heaven was to be kept continually burning, that it might never go out. God loves to see the graces of his Children in continual exercise: Neglect of our graces is the ground of their decrease and decay. Wells are the sweeter for drawing, and grace is the stronger for acting; we get nothing by dead and useless habits. Talents hid in a napkin gather rust; the no. blest faculties are imbased, when not improved in exercise. 2 Tim.

Levit. 6. 13.

2 Tim. 1. 6. Stir up the gift of God which is in thee. Tis an Allufion to the fire in the Temple, which was always to be kept burning. All the praise that God has from us in this life, is from the actings of grace. Twas Abrahams acting of faith that let the Crown of Glory upon the Lords Head. O Sirs! look narrowly to it, that you fail not in the activity and lively vigor of your graces: Look to it, that your graces be still acted, exercised, and blown up, that so they may be still staming and shining: the more you exercise grace, the more you strengthen it, the more you increase it. Repeated acts strengthen habits; 'tis so in sin, and 'cis so in grace also. The more the little child goes, the more strong it grows by going. Money is not increased by lying in a Cheft, but by trading. The more any member is used, the stronger 'tis. As the right hand is most used, so 'tis commonly strongest. The diligent hand makes rich. A little stock well husbanded, will daily increase; when a greater stock neglected, shall decay, and come to nothing. The exercife of grace will best testifie both the truth and the life of your graces. Grace is never more evident then when 'tis in When I see a man rise, and walk, and work, and exercise. exercise his arms, I know he is a real man, a living man. The more the fire is blown up, the sooner tis seen to be fire. There are many precious Christians who are full of fears and doubte, that they have no love to God, no faith in God, no hope of Glory, &c. but the best way under Heaven to put an end to these sears and doubts, is to be servent in exerting acts of love, of faith, of hope, &c. The non-exercise of grace cast Adam out of Paradise; it shut Moses, and Aaron out of Caanan; it brought Ficob into fourteen years hard service and bondage; for had he exercised faith, hope, patience, &c. as he should have done, he would never have got the bleffing by indirect means as he did; it provoked the Lord to strike Zacharias dumb: it shut thousands of the Jews out of the Land of Caanan. I dare not be so harsh, so rash, and so uncharitable as to think, that none of those that died in the Wilderness had the habits of faith, the seeds of grace in their ouls; but 'twas their non-acting of faith that kept them

The more a man plays upon an Instrument, themore dextrous he grows. Math. 25. 27. Prov. 10 4.

Numb.20.12.

Luke 1, 18, 19, 20. Heb. 3. 17, 18. Auftin write upon that day wherein he shewed no acts of grace, diem perdidis. I have lost a day. Oh how many days have we lost then for which God might justly visit us!

3.

Rom. 5. 3, 4. 2 Cor. 1. 3, 4, 5, 6. out of the holy Land, as it did Mofes and Aaron, according to what I hinted but now. Beloved, by these instances, among many others that might be produced, you fee that God hath dealt very smartly and severely with his choicest Servants for their not exercifing of their graces as they ought to have done. And though I dare not (upon many accounts) say that for the Saints not exercising and improving their graces. God has turned London into a heap of Ashes: yet I dare say, that this neglect of theirs may be one thing that added fuel to that Fire. Well, Sirs, you had not long fince many outward comforts to live upon, but the Lord has now burnt them up, that so he might lead you forth to live in a daily exercise of grace upon himself, upon his power, upon his all-sufficiency, his goodness, his faithfulness, his fulness, his graciousness, his unchangeableness, his promises. And if this fiery Dispensation shall be so sanctified to us, as to work us to a further activity of grace, and to a further growth and increase of grace, we shall be happy Citizens, though we are burnt Citizens: But,

Thirdly, By severe Providences and by fiery Tryals, God designs the growth of his people in grace. Usually the graces of the Saints thrive best when they are under a smarting Rod. Grace usually is in the greatest flourish, when the Saints are under the forest tryals. The snuffing of the Candle makes it burn the brighter. God beats and bruises his links to make them burn the brighter; he bruises his spices to make them send forth the greater aromatical savour. Fiery tryals are like the Tezel, which though it be sharp and scratching, it is to make the cloth more pure and fine. God would not rub so hard, were it not to fetch out the dirt and spots that be in his people. The Jews were always best when they were in their lowest condition. Well-waters arising from deep Springs, are hotter in the Winter then they are in the Summer Stars shine brightest in the darkest nights; and so do the graces of the Saints shine brightest in the darkest nights God will sometimes more carof affliction and tribulation. ry on the growth of grace by a Cross then by an Ordinance; wea, the Lord will first or last, more or less, turn all fiery

tryals

tryals into Ordinances for the helping on the growth of Heb. 12. 10. grace in his peoples fouls. Look as in the lopping of a tree, there seems to be a kind of diminution and destruction; yet the end and iffue of it is better growth: And as the weakning of the body, by Physick, seems to tend to death; yet it produceth better health, and more strength: And as the ball by falling downward, rifeth upward; and as water in pipes descends, that it may ascend: So the Saints spiritual growth in grace is carried on by such divine methods, and in fuch ways as might feem to deaden grace, and weaken it rather then any ways to augment and increase it. We know that winter is as necessary to bring on harvest, as the spring : and so fiery tryals are as necessary to bring on the harvest of grace, as the spring of mercy is. Though fiery tryals are grievous; yet they shall make us more gracious. Though for the present we cannot see but that such and such severe providences and fiery tryals, as the loss of house, estate, trade, friends, will redound much to our prejudice and damage; yet in the iffue we shall find, that God will turn them to the internal and eternal advantage of our precious Souls. We may in a pang of passion say as Jacob, Joseph is no: and Simeon is not. All these are against me, children are not, honours are not, riches are not, habitations are not, credit is not. All these are against us; but in the close we shall find that promise made good in power upon us, Rom. 8.28. We know that all things shall work together for good to them that love God, to them that are called according to his purpose. O Sirs! all the power of Heaven stands ingaged to make good this promise to you: And if you would but live in the daily actings of faith upon this bleffed promife, you would then be able to bear up bravely under all the troubles and tryals, croffes and loffes that you meet with in this world; and you would then experience the truth of Samfons Riddle, Out of the eater came meat, and out of the strong (weetn. B. What Paul faid of his fiery tryals, viz. I know that this shall turn to my salvation; that may you safely say of all your fiery tryals. We know that they shall work for our good, we know that they shall turn to our salvation: Though Wicked

Jam. 1. 3, 4. I Pet. 1.6, 7.

Heb. 12. 11.

Gen. 42. 36. But yet as old as Facob was, he lived to fee all those things work for his good, which he concluded were against him Judg. 14. 14.

Phil. 1. 19.

Pfal. 105, 17, 18. Gen. 50, 20. Chap. 41, 40.

wicked instruments might defign our destruction; yet the wise God that sits at the Helm, will turn all into our Salvation. Those severe Providences which for the present may seem very prejudicial, in the iffue shall prove very beneficial. Tosephs Brethren threw him into a pit, afterwards they sell him, then he is fallely accused, and as unjustly cast into prison, and laid in cold Iron: Yet all this iffued in his good; his abasement made way for his advancement; for his thirteen years imprisonment he raigned fourscore years like a King. David you know had seven years banishment, yet it ended in a glorious Raign of forty years continuance. Jeb lost all that ever he had in one day, he was a man under great calamity, he was a spectacle of the highest misery, he abounded only in boils and fores, and rags; but all this issued in the tryal of his grace, in the discovery of his grace, and in the improvement of his grace, and in the close God did compensate his very great losses, by giving him twice as much as ever he Dear friends, that by all severe Provihad before. dences and fiery Tryals, God will turn your spark of grace into a flame, your mites into millions, and your drops into Seas, is, and shall be the hearty defire of my Soul. O Sirs! if Christ be even ravished with one of his Spouses eyes, and with one chain of her neck, with the least grains and drams of true grace; how will he be taken with abundance of grace? how will he be ravished with the flourishing estate of your Souls in grace? Well, remember this, the more under all your fiery tryals grace is increased, the more God is honoured, Religion adorned, the mouths of the wicked stopped, the hands and hearts of weak Saints strengthned and encouraged, the smarting Rod sweetned, and threatned Judgments prevented. O that those two Prophesies might be made good in power upon all the burnt Citizens of London! That 32. Ifa. 15. Until the Spirit be poured upon us from on high, and the wilderness be a fruitful field. And that 35. Ifa. 1, 2. The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them: and the defart shall rejoyce, and blossom as the rose, It shall bloffom abundantly, and rejoyce even with joy and finging : the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency lency of Carmel and Sharon they shall fee the glory of the Lord, and the excellency of var God. Theice happy will the burnt Citizens of London be, if under all their croffes and loffes they grow into a more deep acquaintance with God, the world, and their own hearts: with God and his holiness, with the world and its vanity, mutability, impotency, and uncertainty; and with their own hearts, and the deceitfulness, vileness, baseness, and wretchedness of them. If under fiery Dispensations we grow more holy then ever, and more humble then ever, and more heavenly then ever, and more meck and lowly then ever, and more tender and compassionate then ever, and more faithful and fruitful then ever, and more patient and contented then ever, then we may be confident that the grand design of God in bringing all that evil that he has brought upon us, was his glory and our own internal & eternal good, and accordingly we may rejoyce in the Lord, though we have nothing else to rejoyce in. Hab. 2. 17, 18. But.

4. Fourthly and lastly, By severe Providences and by fiery Tryals, God doth design the tryal of his peoples graces, and the discovery of their fincerity and integrity to the world. Deut. 8. 2. And thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these forty years in the wildernes, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldst keep bis Commandments or no. knew them well enough before, without any experimental tryal of them; but that he might the better make a discovery of themselves to themselves and to others, he led them up and down in the Wilderness forty years. Pfal. 66. 10, 11, 12. For thou, O God, balt proved us, then haft tryed us as filver is tryed; thou hast brought us into the net; thou hast laid afflicti. on upon our loyns; thou bast caused men to ride over our heads; we went through fire and through mater. God proves his people, not thereby to better his own knowledge of them, but to bring them to a better knowledge both of their own vices and graces. It is not known what Corn will yield till it come to the flail, nor what Grapes will yield till they come to the press. Grace is hid in Nature as sweet water in Roseleaves:

Plin fpeaks
of a golden Vine which never withereth, but is always flourishing. O that this might be the mercy of all those Christians who have been burnt up!

1 Pet. 1. 6, 7. Rev. 3. 18. Toh. 6. 26.

Job.I. 9.

Job 20. 21.

Hist. Tripart. lib. 7. cap. 36.

leaves; but fiery tryals will fetch it out. Fire and water are merciles Elements, and they note variety of sharpest tryals. Now through these God led his people; that so he might discover to them and others both the strength of their graces, and the strength of their fins. God many times exercifes his dearest Children with fiery tryal, that he may discover the fincerity and integrity of his people to the world. The prophane Atheistical world are apt very boldly and confidently to conclude, that the people of God are a pack of Hypocrites and Diffemblers, and that they ferve God for a Livery, for loaves, and not for love; and that they are Mercenary in all they do, having more in their eye, the hedge that he has made about them, and the gold and filver that he has bestowed upon them, then the honour and glory of the great God. Just as the Devil objected against Fob. Now God to convince these men, these monsters, of the integrity and fincerity of his people, he breaks down the hedge that he had made about them, and turns the wheel upon them, and breaks them with breach upon breach; he stripes them of all, and turns them out of house and home, as he did 70b; and yet this people, with 70b, will still worship the Lord, and bless a taking God, as well as a giving God: They will still keep close to the Lord and his ways, whatever God doth with them'or against them. Pfal, 44, 17, 18, 19. All this is come upon us ('tis a terrible All, as you may see from the 9: to the 17. verse) yet have me not forgotten thee, neither have me deals falfely in thy Covenant; our heart is not turned back, neither have our steps declined from thy may, though thou hast fore broken us in the place of dragons, and covered us with the shadow of death. In spite of all the wrath and rage of Antiochus Epiphanes, that cruel and bloody Persecutor of the Saints, these Servants of the Lord shew their sincerity by their constancy in keeping close to the Lord and his ways in the face of the greatest opposition and hottest persecution that they met withal. When the Emperor fent to Bafil to subscribe to the Arrian Heresie, the Messenger at first gave him good language, and promised him great preserment, if he would turn Arrian; to which Basil replied; Alas, these (peeches speeches are fit to catch little children withal that look after t such things; but we that are nourished and taught by the holy Scriptures, are readier to suffer a thousand deaths, then to suffer one syllable or tittle of the Scripture to be altered. The same Basil affirms, that many of the Heathens seeing the Heroick zeal, courage, and constancy of the primitive Chriflians in the face of all oppositions and persecutions, turned Christians. Justin Martyr confesseth, that the constancy of the Christians in their sufferings, was the chief motive that converted him to Christianity: for I myself (saith he) was once a Platonist, and did gladly hear the Christians reviled; but when I saw they feared not death, nor any of those miseries which most frighten all other men, I began to consider with my felf, that it was impossible for such men to be lovers of pleasures more then lovers of piety, and that made me first think of turning Christian. Now by these means and methods, God convinceth the blind world of the integrity and fincerity of his people. When they see that those whom they have severely judged for Hypocrites, shall owne the Lord and his ways, and cleave to the Lord and his ways. and continue to follow the Lord and his ways, and hold on in a high honouring of the Lord and his ways, when their hedge is broken down, and God has stripe them as naked as in the day wherein they were born; O now they begin to change their note, and to conclude, furely these are the Servants of the most high God; these are no Hypocrites nor Dissemblers, but true Nathanaels in whom there is no guile. How have the people of God in London been judged Hypocrites, Diffemblers, Deceivers, Factious, and what not? Now God by burning up their fubliance, and by turning them out of house and home, and destroying all their pleasant things, doth certainly defign to give those that have so deeply cenfured them, a proof of their integrity and fincerity, by letting them fee, that all the changes that have past upon them, can never work them to change their Master Christ nor to change his ways for the ways of his, nor to change his Wor thip for the Worthip of the world, nor to change their Religion for the Religion of Rome. Certainly those that love

Dan. 3. 26. Acts 16. 17.

Joh. 1. 47.

Josh. 24. 15.
Math. 19. 27.
Rev. 14. 4, 5.
1 Pet. 3. 16.
Chap. 2. 12.
15.
oupsi properly fignifies to muzzle, or halter, or tyeup, or to button up their mouths, as we say.

the Lord, that delight in the Lord, and that highly prize the Lord for those infinite Persections, Beauties, Glories, and Excellencies that are in him, they will owne him, and cleave to him, and follow after him when they have little, as when they had much, yea, when they have nothing of the world, as when they had all the world; and by so doing, they put a Pad-lock upon the lying lips of such, they button up the mouths of such who asperse and calumniate them as a Generation that only serve God upon the account of a worldly interest. There is nothing that doth more amuse, amaze, and aftonish wicked men, then to see the people of God keep close to him and his ways, when they are in a suffering estate; yea, when they have lost all but their God and their integrity. The fire trys the gold, as well as the touch stone, and diseases try the skill of the Physitian, and tempelts try the skill of the Pilot; and so do fiery tryals try both the truth and the strength of a Christians graces. Paul linus Nolanus, when his City was taken by the Barbarians, prayed thus to God; Lord, let me not be troubled at the loss of my Gold, Si.ver, Honour, City, &c. for thou art all, and much more then all these to me. Here was an Heroick Spirit, here was grace in strength, yea, in triumph. The spirits of the men of the world usually fink under their losses. Menippus of Phenicia having lost his goods, strangled himself. Dinarcus Phiton at a certain loss cut his own throat to save the charge of a Halter. Another being turned out of his Estate, ran out of his wits. And another for the death of his Son, threw himself head-long into the Sea. Augustus Casar (in whose time Christ was born) was so troubled and astonished at the relation of a Foyl and Overthrow from Varus, that for certain months together he let the hair of his beard and head grow fill, and wore it long; yea, and otherwhiles he would run his head against the doors, crying out, Quintilius Varus, deliver up my Legions again; Quintilius Varus, deliver up my Legions again, Henry the II. (who was none of the best of Princes) hearing that his City Mentz was taken, used this blasphemous speech, I shall never (saith he) love God any more, that suffered a City so dear to me, to be taken from me. Now by all these instances you may clearly and plainly see the different temper and carriage of wicked men under their loffes, croffes, tryals, and fufferings, from the people of God. When they are under fiery tryals, what an evil spirit, what a desperate spirit, what a sullen spirit, what a proud spirit, what a Satanical spirit, what a hellish spirit do they discover ! they tell all the world, that they are under the power and dominion of the God of this World. But when the people of God are under fiery tryals, they make conscience of carrying of it so as that they may convince the world, that God is in them of a truth, and that they are fincere and upright before the Lord, however they are judged and centured as Hypocrites, Deceivers, Diffemblers, and what not. Othat all that are sufferers by this fiery Dispensation, would make it their business, their work, their Heaven, so to carry it under their present try. als, as to convince all gain-fayers of the fincerity, integrity, and uprightness of their hearts, both towards the Lord, his people, his ways, his Ordinances, his interest, and all his concernments in this world. And thus much for the gracious Ends that God aims at in all those severe Providences and fiery Tryals, that of late he has exercised his people with.

Suctenius.

Phil. 2. 2. 2 Tim. 2. 26.

The next thing we are to inquire after, is, those fins for which the Lord inflicts so heavy a Judgment as this of Fire upon the Sons of men. Now for the opening of this, give me leave to propose this Question. Viz.

What are those fins that bring the fiery Dispensation, that bring the Judgment of Fire upon Cities, Nations, and Countries? Now that I may give a full and fair Answer to this necessary and important Outstion, will you please to premise with me these four things?

First, We need not question but that some of all forts, canks, and degrees of men (in and about that once great and glorious City) did eminently contribute to the bringing down of that dreadful Judgment of Fire that has turned that renowned renowned City into Ashes; doubtles Superiors and Inferiors, Ministers and People, Husbands and Wives, Parents and Children, Masters and Servants, Rich and Poor, Honourable and Base, Bond and Free, have all had a hand in the bringing down that Judgment of Fire that has turned London into a ruinous heap. But,

Quest.

1.

2.

Math. 26.21,

Lam. 3. 40. Joshua 7.

Jer. 8.6.

Math. 7. 1, 2,

Augustine.

·3·

Secondly, Premise this with me, viz. That 'cis a greater Argument of humility, integrity, and holy ingenuity, to fear our selves, and to be jealous of our selves rather then others. as the Disciples of Christ did, Mat. 26. 21, 22. And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me. And they were exceeding forrowful, and began every one of them to Say unto him, Lord, is it I? 'Tis better for every man to do his best to ransack and search his own Soul, and to find out the Achan, the accurred thing in his own bofom that has brought that dreadful Judgment of Fire upon us, then for men (without any Scripture-warrant) to fix it upon this party and that, this fort of men and that. There is no Christian to him that smites upon his own heart, his own breast, his own thigh, saying, What have I done? The neglect of this duty the Prophet long since has complained of. No man repents himself of his wickedness, saying, What have I done? that is, none comparatively: So how rare is it to find a burnt Citizen repenting himself of his wickedness, and saying, What have I done? Most men are ready to blame others more then themselves, and to judge others rather then themselves to be the persons that have brought down this Judgment of Fire upon us. 'Twas a good Saying of one of the Ancients: Amat Deus seipsos ju. dicantes, non judicare; God loves to judge them that judge others rashly, but not those that judge themselves religiously. But,

Thirdly, Premise this with me; in times of common Judgments, common Calamities, and Miseries, other of the Saints and Servants of God have lookt upon their own fins is the procuring causes of the common Calamity: Thus David did in that 2 Sam. 24. 15. So the Lord sent a pesti-

lence

lence upon Ifrael from the morning even to the time appointed, and there died of the people from Dan even to Beer-sheba seventy thouland men: but mark the 17. verle, And David fake unto the Lord, when be fum the Angel that smote the people, and faid. Lo. I have finned, and I have done winkedly; but thefe heep, what have they done? let thy hand, I pray thee, be against me and against my fathers bouse. And thus did good Nebemiah, Nebem. 1.3 6,7. And they faid unto me. The remnant that are left of the captivity there in the province, are in great affliction and reproach, the wall of Ferusalem also is broken down, and the gates thereof burnt with fire. Both I and my fathers boule bave sinned, we have dealt very corruptly against thee, and have not kept thy commandments, nor the statutes, nor the judgments which thou commandest thy servant Moses. Now certainly 'tis as much our glory as our duty to write after these bleffed Copies, that these Worthies have set before us. Alexander had somewhat a wry neck, and his Souldiers thought it an honour to be like him: How much more should we count it an honour to be like to David and Nehemiah in such a practice as is honourable to the Lord, and advantagious to our selves ? But what Plutarch said of Demosthenes, That he was excellent at praising the worthy Acts of his Ancestors, but not so at imitating them, is applicable to the present case, and to many who have been burnt up in our day. But,

Fourthly and lastly, Premise this with me; there were many fins amongst them that did profess to sear God in that great City, which may and ought to work them to justifie the Lord, and to say, that he is righteous in his stery Dispensations. I may well say to the burnt Citizens of London, what the Prophet Oded to them in that 2 Chron. 28. 10. But are there not with you, even with you, sins against the Lord your God?

But you will say, What sins were there among the professing people in London, that may and cught to work them to justifie the Lord, and to say, that he is just and rightcous, and that he has done them no wrong, though he has burnt them up, and turned them out of all?

I answer,

4.

Answ.

I answer, That there were these seven sins, among others, to be found amongst many of them (I say not amongst all of them) all which call aloud upon them to lye low at the soot of God, and to subscribe to the Righteousness of God, though he has turned them out of house and home, and burnt up their substance on every hand.

First. There was among many Professors of the Gospel in London, too great a conformity to the fashions of the world: how many professing men in that great City were drest up like fantastical Anticks, and women like Barrbolomen-babies. to the dishonour of God, the shame of Religion, the hardning of the wicked, the grieving of the weak, and the provoking of divine Justice? When Darius changed the fashion of his Scabbard from the Perfian manner into the Mode of the Greeks, the Chaldean Astrologers prognosticated that the Persian Monarchy should be translated to them whose fashion he counterfeited. Certainly that Nation may fear a scourge from that Nation or Nations whose fashions they follow. Zepha. 1. 8. And it shall come to pass in the day of the Lords Sacrifice, that I will punish the Princes and the Kings children. and all such as are cloathed with strange apparel. This is a stinging and a flaming check against all Fashion-mongers, against all such as seem to have consulted with French, Ita. lian, Persian, and all Outlandish Monsters to advise them of all their several modes and fashions of vice, and that are so dextrous at following of them, that they are more compleat in them then their patterns. Certainly, if ever such Wantons be faved, 'twill be by fire: Strange apparel is part of the Old man, that must be put off, if ever men or women intend to go to Heaven. What dreadful things are thundred out against those proud curious Dames of Ferusalem, by the Prophet Isaiah, who being himself a Courtier, inveighs as punctually against the noble vanity of Apparel, as if he had even then viewed the Ladies Ward-robes? And those vanities of theirs brought desolating and destroying Judgments upon them. And it shall come to pass, that instead of sweet smell there shall be a stink, and instead of a girdle a rent, and instead

Ila. 38. 16.

Ifa. 38. 24,25,

instead of well-fet bair baldness, and instead of a stomacher at 1901 girding of fack-cloth, and burning of instead beauty. Thy men sholl fall by the sword, and thy mighty in the war, And ber gates shall lament and mourn, and the being desolate, shall fit upon the ground. As light and flight as many make of vain Apparel; yet Cyrian and Augustine draw up this Conclusion, That superfluous Apparel is worse then Whoredom, because Whoredom only corrupts Chastity, but this corrupts Nature. Seneca complained, that many in his time were more follicitous of their attire then of their good behaviour, and that they had rather that the Common-wealth should be troubled then their Locks and fet looks. I have read of the Greeiaus, that when they wished a curse upon their enemies, it was this, That they should please themselves in bad customs. There are many who lift their heads high, who feem to be under this curse this day. Why doth the Apostle say (saith one of the Ancients) Above all things swear not? Is it worse to swear then to steal, worse to swear then to commit adultery, worse to swear then to kill a man ? No. But the Apofile would fortifie us as much as he could against a pestilent custom, to punish the pestilent customs and fashions that were amongst us. God sent the Pestilence in 1665, and the fiery Judgment in 1666. And the Lord grant that the bloody Sword (in the hands of cruel Cut-throats that are brutish and skilful to destroy) be not sent amongst us some other year to punish the same iniquity. O Sirs ! what was more common among many Professors in London then to be cloathed in strange Apparel, A la mode de France. those that affected the Babylonian Habit, were sent Captives Ezek. 23. 15. to Babylon. They that borrowed the fashions of the Egyptians may get their boils and botches. Certainly such as fear the Lord should go in no Apparel, but, First such as they are willing to dye in. Secondly, to appear before the Ancient of days in, when his Judgments are abroad in the earth. Thirdly, to ftand before a Judgment-feat. But,

Austin. Jam. 5. 12.

Ezek. 21. 31.

Ifa. 26. 8, 9,

Secondly, There was among many Professors of the Golpel in London much luke-warmnels and coldness in the things

Math. 24. 12.

Rev. 3. 16, 17. of God, the City was full of luke-warm Laodiceans. The love of many to God, to his people, to his ways, and to his instituted Worship, was cold, very cold, stark cold. God destroyed the old World by water for the heat of their lufts. and God has destroyed the City of London by fire for the coldness of their love that dwelt therein. I have read of Anastarius the Emperor, how God shot him to death with a Thunder-boit, because of his luke-warmness and formality. Bur.

3.

Tonah 4.

1 Kings 9. 19.

1 Joh. 5.7.

Thirdly, There was a great deal of worldliness and earthly-mindedness, and coverousness amongst the professing people of London. OSirs! the world is all shadow and vanity, 'tis filia nollis, like Jenahs Gourd, a man may set under its shadow for a time, but it soon decays and dyes. The main reason why many Prosessors dote upon the world, is, because they are not acquainted with a greater glory. Men are Acorns till they were acquainted with the use of Wheat: The Load-Rone cannot draw the Iron when the Diamond is in presence; and shall earthly vanities draw the Soul when Christ the Pearl of price is in presence? Many! of the Professors of London were great Worshippers of the golden Calf, and therefore God is just in turning their golden Calf into ashes. The world may well be resembled to the fruit that undid us all, which was fair to the fight, smooth in handling, sweet in taste, but deadly in effect and operation. The world in all its bravery is no better then the Cities which Solomon gave to Hiram, which he called Cabal, that is, displeasing or dirty. The whole world is circular, the heart of man triangular, and we know a Circle cannot fill a Triangle. If the heart of man be not filled with the three Persons in Trinity, it will be filled with the world, the flesh, and the Devil: Riches, like bad servants, never flay long with one mafter; what certainty is there in that which one florm at Sea; one treacherous friend, one falle eath, one ball of fire, yea, one spark of fire may strip us of? O. Sirs! if you can gather grapes of thorns, and figs of thiffles, then go on, and dote upon the world fill. All the things of this world are vain things, they are vanity of vani-

Eccle, 1. 2.

tics,

them vain: a Jacobus piece is but as a chip to them, Pearls are but as rebbles in their eyes. Lazarus was a Preacher, as some conceive, and Dives a Lawyer: sure I am, that Lazarus in Heaven is now rich enough, and happy enough; and Dives in Hell is now poor enough, and miserable enough. He who makes his world his God while he is in the world, what will he do for a God when he goes out of this world? Well, Sirs, remember this inordinate love to the world will expose a man to seven great losses. Viz.

First, To the loss of many precious opportunities of grace. Rich Felix had no leisure to hear poor Poul, and Martha busied about many things, had no time to hear Christ preach, though never man preacht as he preacht. Men inordinately in love with the world, have so much to do on earth, that they have no time to look up to Heaven.

Secondly, To the loss of all heavenly benefit and profit by the Ministry of the World: nothing will grow where gold grows; where the love of the world prevails, there the Ministry of the Word will not prevail. If the love of the world be too hard for our hearts, then the Ministry of the Word will work but little upon our hearts.

Thirdly, To the loss of the face and favour of God. God doth not love to smile upon those who are still smiling upon the world, and still running after the world. The face and favour of God are Pearls of price that God bestows upon none but such whose conversation is Heaven, and who have the Moon (viz., all things that are changeable as the Moon) under their feet. God never loves to list up the light of his countenance upon a dunghill spirited man. God bides his face from none so much and so long, as from those who lare still longing after more and more of the world.

Fourthly, To the loss of Religion, and the true Worship and Service of God, as you may see by comparing of the Acts 24. Luke 10. John 7.

Ezek 33. 31, 32, 33. Math. 13. 22.

Pfal. 30, 6. Ifa. 57: 17.

Phil. 3. 20. Rev. 12. 1, 2. 2 Tim. 4. 10. 1 Tim. 6. 10. Jer. 5. 7. Deut. 32. 15. Hof. 4. 7. Hof. 12. 6. Scriptures in the Margine together. Many Worldings deal with Religion as Malons deal with their Ladders, when they have work to do, and to climb, &c. O then how they hug and embrace the Ladder, and carry it on their arms and on their shoulders! but then when they have done climbing, they hang the Ladder on the Wall, or throw it into a corner. O Sirs! there is no loss to the loss of Religion; a man were better lose his name, his estate, his limbs, his liberty, his life, his all, then lose his Religion.

Deut. 8. 10, 11. Jer. 2. 31. Chap. 22. 21. Pfal. 144, 15.

Fifthly, To the loss of Communion with God, and Acquaintance with God. A man whose Soul is conversant with God, shall find more pleasure, delight, and content in a defart, in a den, in a dungeon, and in death, then in the Palace of a Prince. Mans Jummum bonum stands in his Com. munion with God, as Scripture and Experience evidences: nay. God and I are good company, faid famous Doctor Sibs. Macedonius the Hermit, retiring into the Wildernels, that he might with more freedom enjoy God, and have his Conversation in Heaven; upon a time there came a young Gen. tleman into the Wilderness to hunt wild beafts, and seeing he Hermit, he rode to him, asking him, why he came into that folitary place? he defired he might have leave to ask him the same question, why he came thicker? I came hither to hunt, said the young Gallant, and so do I, saith the Hermit, Deum venor meum, I hunt after my God: they hunt best who hunt most after Communion with God. Urbanus Regins having one days converse with Lusber, said, it was one of the sweetest days that ever he had in all his life; but what was one days, yea, one years converse with Luther, to one hours converse with God? Now an inordinate love of the world will eat out all a mans Communion with God. A man cannot look up to Heaven, and look down upon the Earth at the same time. But,

Adam, in vit. Regii, p. 78.

Sixthly, To the loss of his precious and immortal Soul. Shemei by seeking his servant, lost his life; and many by an eager seeking after this world, lose their precious and immor-

Math. 16. 26. Tim. 6.9. immortal Souls. Many have so much to do on Earth, that they have no time to look up to Heaven to honour their God, to secure their interest in Christ, or to make sure work for their Souls. But,

Seventhly, To the loss of the world; for by their inordinate love of the world, they highly provoke God to strip them of the world. Ah, how rich might many a man have been, had he minded Heaven more, and the world less! When men set their hearts so greedly upon the world, tis just with God to blass, and curse, and burn up all their worldly comforts round about them.

Fourthly, Many in London were fallen under spiritual decays, witherings, and languishings in their graces, in their comforts, in their communions, and in their spiritual strength. They are fallen from their first love. The flame of divine love being blown out, God fends a flaming fire in the midst Many Londoners were fallen into a spiritual Confumption, and to recover them out of it. God fent a fire amongst them. Many in London were withered in their very Profession: where was that wilble forwardness, that zeal, that diligence in waiting upon the Lord in his Ordinances, that once was to be found amongst the Citizens of London? And many Citizens were withered in their Conversations and Converse one with another. There was not that graciousness, that holiness, that spiritualness, that heavenliness, that fruitfulness, that examplariness, that seriousness, and that profitableness sparkling and shining in their Conversations and Converse one with another, as once was to be found amongst them. And many were withered in their affections. Ah, what a flame of love, what a flame of joy, what a flame of defires, what a flame of delight, what a flame of zeal as to the best things, was once to be found amongst the Citizens of London ! but how were those mighty flames of affection reduced to a few coals and cinders? and therefore no wonder, if God fent a flaming fire in the midft of them; and many were withered in their very Duties and Services,

7

4

Rev. 2. 4. The Nutmegtree makes barren all the ground about it; fo doth the fpice of worldly love make the heart barren of grace. Urfin observes that the fine and barrenness under the GospeLin the Protestants in King Edwards days, brought in the Perfecution in Queen Maries

+ how

Math. 11. 12

2 Sam. 19. 35.

Job 6. 6.

how flight, how formal, how cold, how careless, how remils, how neglective were many in their Families, in their Closets, and in their Church communions, who heretofore were mighty in praying and wreftling with God, and mighty in lamenting and mourning over fin, and mighty in their groanings and longings after the Lord; and who of old would have taken the Kingdom of Heaven by violence? There were many in that great City that had lost their spiritual tafte, they could not tafte that sweetness in Promises, in Ordinances, in Sabbaths, and in the Communion of Saints, that once they had tafted and found. In spiritual things many Citizens could tafte no more sweetness then in the white of an Egg. Many in that great City had loft their spiritual appetite, they had lost their stomachs, they did not hunger and thirst after God and Christ, and the Spirit and Grace, and the Light of Gods Countenance, and pure Ordinances, and the Fellowship of the people of God, as once they did. Now is there any thing more contrary to the Nature of God, the Works of God, the Word of God, the Glory of God, then spiritual decays? Oh, the prayers and the praises that God loses by decayed Christians! Ah, how do decayed Christians grieve the strong, and stumble the weak, and strengthen the hands of the wicked, and lay themselves open to divine displeasure! Many in London did like Mandrobulus in Lucian, who offered to his God the first year gold, the second year filver, and the third year nothing; and therefore no wonder, if God sent a fire amongst them. But,

Fifthly, Their non-improvement of the mercies and priviledges that they were surrounded with, and their non-improvement of lesser and greater Judgments that God had formerly inslicted on them, and their non improvement of their Estates to that height they should have done, for the supply of them whose wants, bonds, necessities, and miseries did call aloud for supplies: many did something, a few did much, but all should have done more. Last and all should have done more.

Sixthly, Those unnatural heats, fiery contests, violent passions, and fore divisions that have been amongst them, may well work them to justifie the Lord in his fiery Difpenfations towards them: for a Wolf to worry a Lamb, is while but for one Lamb to worry another, is unnatural: for Christs lillies to be among thorns, is common; but for these lillies to become thorns, and to tear and rend, and fetch blood of one another, is monttrous and strange. The Contell that was between the Birds, about the Role that was found in the way, was fatal to many of them, and issued in the loss of the Rose at last.

6.

ma

Cant. 2. 16.

Seventhly and laftly, There were many in London, who were to very fecure, and to excessively taken up with their worldly comforts, contentments, and enjoyments, that they did not lay the afflictions of Joseph, 1, so kindly, 2. so Amos 6.6. seriously, 3. so affectionately, 4. so readily, 4. so frequently, 6. so lamentingly, and 7. so constantly to heart as they ought to have done. Upon all these accounts, how well does it become the Citizens of London to cry out, the Lord is righteous, the Lord is righteous in all his hery Diff pensations towards us?

7.

But to prevent mistakes, and that I may lay no heavier a load upon the people of God, that truly feared him, and that had and have a faving interest in him, then is meet; and that I may give no advantage to prophane persons to father the burning of the City of London wholly, mainly, or only upon the fins of the people of God; give me leave therefore to propound these four Oueries.

First, Whether all these seven sins last cited, or most of them, can be justly charged upon the body of those fincere Christians, who lived then in London, and whose habitations are now burnt up ? The little and the

Secondly, Whether those of the people of God, upon whom any of the fore-mentioned fins are chargeable, have not before the City was burnt, daily lamented, bewailed, and mourned over those fins that might have been charged upon them, either by their own confeiences or others?

Thirdly, Where and how it doth appear by the bleffed Scriptures.

Scriptures, that ever God lent so great a Judgment of Fire (as was poured out upon London) upon the account of the lins of those that truly seared him; be it those seven that have been already specified, or any others that can be now clearly and justly proved against them?

Fourthly, Whether there are not some other mens fins. upon whom in the clear evidence of Scripture-light, this heavy Judgment of Fire may be more clearly, fately, and fairly fixt, then upon the fins of those, who had fet up God as the great Object of their fear ?

Now in Answer to this last Overy, give me leave to

John 9.

Job I.

First, That fin in the general brings the dreadful Judg. ment of Fire upon a people; marks, personal afflictions, and tryals may come upon the people of God for tryal, and to thew the Soveraignty of God, as in the case of 70b, whose afflictions were for tryal, and not for fin: the same may be faid of the man that was born blind. But general Judgments, such as this fiery Dispensation was, never comes upon a people, but upon the account of fin. This is evident in my Text, Ifa. 42. 24, 25. God fet Facob and Ifrael on fire, and burnt them round about, but 'twas because they would not walk in his ways, neither were they obedient unto bis Law. Ict. 4. 4: Circumcife your selves to the Lord, and take away the fore-skin of your heart, ye men of Judah, and inhabitants of Ferusalem, lest my fury come forth like fire, and burn, that none can quench it, because of the evil of your doings. So Psal. 107. 33, 34. He turneth rivers into a mi'derness, and the water. frings into dry ground, a fruitful land into barrennes, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein. The very Country of Tury, as Travellers report, which flowed once with milk and honey, is now for fifteen miles about Ferusalem, like a Defart, without grass, tree, or thrub. Ah, what ruines doth fin bring upon the most renowned Countries and Cities that have been in the world! fuch is the destructive nature of fin, that it will fiest or last level the richest, the frongest, and the most glorious Cities in the world. So the Prophet Ames tells us, that 'tis fin that brings Gods forest punishments upon his people. Amos 1.3. For three transgressions of Damascus (by which we are to understand the greatness of their iniquities) and for four (by which we are to understand the multitude of their transgressions) I will not turn away the punishment thereof .: the same is said of Gaza, verse 6. and of Tyrm, verse 9. and of Edom, verse 11. and of Ammon, verse 13. and of Moab, Chap. 2. 1. and of Judah, verse 4. and of Israel, verse 6. Now 'tis very observable of every one of these, that when God threatens to punish them for the greatness of their iniquities, and for the multitude of their transgressions, he doth particularly threaten to fend a fire among them, to confume the houses and the Palaces of their Cities; so he doth to Damaseus, Amos 1.4. But I will fend a fire into the house of Hazael, which shall devour the Palaces of Ben-hadad: So he doth to Gaza, verse 7. But I will fend a fire on the Wall of Gaza, which shall devour the Palaces thereof: So he doth to Tyrus, verse 10. But I will send a fire on the Wall of Tyrus, which shall devour the Palaces thereof : So he doth to Edom, verse 12. But I will fend a fire upon Teman, which shall devour the Palaces of Boz. rab: So he doth to Ammon, verse 14. But I will kindle a fire in the Wall of Rabbah, and it shall devour the Palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battel, with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind: So he doth to Moab, Chap. 2. vers. 2. But I will fend a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the Palaces of Kirioth, and Mab Shall dye with tumult, with shouting, and with the found of a trumpet: So he doth to Judah, verf. . But I will fend a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the Palaces of Fernsalem. By all these remarkable Instances tis evident, that God by his fiery Dispensations tells all the world, that the fins of that people are great and many, upon whom the dreadful Judgment of Fire is inflicted in its fury. and therefore 'cis high folly and madness in many men that makes them impute this heavy Judgment of Fire to any thing rather then to their fins. O Sirs! tis fin that burns up our habitations, and that turns flames of love into a confuming fire. And this the Parliament in their Act for the Rebuilding of the Cityof London, well observes the Clause of the A&

Act is this : " And that the faid Citizens, and their Successors for all the time to come, may retain the Memorial of so fad a desolation, and reflect seriously upon their manifold iniquities, which are the unhappy causes of such Judgments. Be it further Enacted, That the Second of September (unless the same happen to be Sunday; and if so, then the next day following) be yearly for ever hereafter observed as a day of publick Fasting and Humiliation within the said City and Liberties thereof, to implore the mercies of Almighty God upon the faid City, to make devout Prayers and Supplications unto him, to divert the like Calamity for the time to come. So Sir Edward Turnor Knight, in his Speech to the King upon the Prorogation of the Parliament. We must (saith he) for ever with humility acknowledge the Justice of God in punishing this whole Nation by the late dreadful Conflagration of London. We know they were not the greatest finners on whom the Tower of Siloam fell, and doubtless all our fins did contribute to the filling up that measure, which being full, drew down the wrath of God upon that City: So much the King in his Proclamation for a General Fast on the Tenth of October observes. The Words of the Proclamation are thefe. 'His Majesty therefore of out a deep and pious sense of what Himself and all His People now fuffer, and with a Religious care to prevent what may yet be feared, unless it shall please Almighty God to turn away his anger from us, doth hereby Publish and Declare His Royal Will and Pleasure, That Wednesday being the Tenth of October next enfuing, shall be fet apart, and kept, and observed by all His Majesties Subjects of England, and Wales, and the Town of Bermick upon Tweed, as a day of solemn Fasting and Humiliation, to implore the mercies of God, that it would please him to pardon the crying fins of this Nation, those especially which have 'drawn down this last and heavy Judgment upon us, and to remove from us all other his Judgments which our fins have deserved, and which we now either seel or fear. fee that not only the bleffed Scriptures, but also King and Parliament do roundly conclude, that 'twas for our fins,

our

Luke 13. 4.

our manifold iniquities, our crying fins, that God has sent this heavy Judgment upon us. His Majesty also well observes, that there are some special crying fins that bring down the siery Judgment upon us. Now this Royal Hint leads me by the hand to say:

Secondly, That though fin in the general, lays peop'e under the fiery Dispensations of God; yet if we will but diligently search into the blessed Book of God, which never spoke Treason nor Sedition, we shall find that there are several sins that brings the heavy Judgment of Fire upon Cities and

Countries. As,

First, Groß Atheism, practical Atheism, is a sin that brings desolating and destroying Judgments upon a people, Zeph. 1. 12. And it shall come to pass, at that time that I will search Ferusalem with candles, and punish the men that are fetled upon their lees, that fay in their beart, the Lord will not do good, neither will be do evil. What horrid Blasphemy, what gross Atheism is here? How do these Atheist's ungod the great God? How do they deny his Omnipotency and Omnisciency? What a God of Clouts, what an Idol-god do they make the great God to be, when they make him to be fuch a God as will neither do good nor hurt? Epicurius denied not Gods Essence, but only his Providence; for he granted that there was a God, though he thought him to be luch an one as did neither good nor evil; but certainly God fits not idle in Heaven, but has a sharp and serious Eye upon all that is done on the Earth: and this both Saints and finners shall find by experience, when in the great day he shall distribute both his rewards and punishments according to what they have done in the flesh. Atheism is the main disease of the Soul, not only pestilent to the person in whom it i. harboured, but also to the whole Land where 'cis practifed and permitted. Atheism is worse then Idolatry; for Idolatry only robs God of his Worship, but Atheism robs God both of his Attributes and Being, and therefore mark what follows, verle 13. Therefore their God shall become a booty, and their houses a d solation, they shall also build houses, but nst Atheism denieth God in either, 1. in opinion, saying, there is no God; or, 2. in affection, wishing there were no God; or, 3. in conversation, living as if there were no God.

Rev. 22, 12.

not inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyard, but not drink the wine thereof. So Ezek. 20. 47, 48, 49. And Say to the forest of the South, Hear the Word of the Lord, thus faith the Lord God, Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, and it fall dewour'every green tree in thee, and every dry tree, the flaming flime shall not be quenched, and all faces from the South to the North shall be burnt therein. And all flesh shall fee that I the Lord have kindled it, it shall not be quenched Then faid I, Ab, Lord God, they Say of me, doth he not freak parables. Here was a pack of Atheists that did mock and scoff at the Prophet and his Parables; they told him, that he talke like a mad man, and that he spoke of such things that neither himself nor others understood; for he talkt of the South, and of the forest of the South, and of fire, and of flaming fire, and of green and dry trees, and that all these things were dark and of obscure to them : they put off all the Prophet spoke as Allegorical, as Mystical, and as Ænigmanical, and as dark visions, and as dreams, and imaginations, and divinations of his own brain, and therefore they needed not much mind what he said. Now mark these Atheists, what do they do? they provoke the Lord to kindle a fire, a universal fire, an unquenchable fire, an inextinguishable fire in the midst of Jerusalem, which is here termed a Forest, by reason of its barrenness and unfruitfulness, and the multitudes that were in it; and because it was fit for nothing but the Ax and the fire. Atheirm is a fin that has brought the greatest woes, miseries, destructions, and desolations imaginable upon the mest flourishing Kingdoms, and most glorious Cities in the World. Holy Mr. Greenham was wont to fay, that he feared rather Atheism then Popery would be Englands ruine. O Sirs! were there none within the Walls of London that said in their hearts with Davids Atheistical fool, There is no God? Caligula the Emperor was such a one: and Claudius thought himself a God, till the loud Thunder affrighted him, and then he bid himself, and cryed, Claudius non est Deus, Claudius is not a God. Leothe X. Hilderbrand the Magician, and Alexander the VI. and Julius the II. were all most wretched Atheists, and thought that whatever was faid of Christ, of Heaven, of Hell, of the day of Judgment, and of the Immortality of the Soul, were but dreams, impostures, toys, and old wives fables. Pope Paul the III, at the time of his death, faid, he should now be resolved of three O lestions that he had doubted of all his life. i. Whether the Soul was immortal or no ? 2. Whether there were a Hell or no? a. Whether there were a God or no? And another grand Atheist said, I know what I have here, but I know not what I shall have hereafter. Now were there no such Atheists within the Walls of London before it was turned in ashes. The Atheist in Psal. 10. 11. say, He will never fee: and in Plat. 94. 7. they rife higher, they fay, The Lord shall not see, neither shall the God of Jacob regard it. labour to lay a Law of restraint upon God, and to cast a mist before the Eye of his Providence: And in Ila 29. 15. they lay . Who feeth w? who knoweth us? And in Ezek, 9.9. they fay, the Lord bath forfaken the earth, and the Lord feeth not. These Atheists shut up God in Heaven as a blind and ignorant God, not knowing, or not pregarding what is done on the Earth; they imagine him to be a forgetful God. or a God that feeth not. Pfal. 73. 11. they fay, How doth God know? and is there knowledge in the most High? Thus they deny Gods Omnisciency, and Gods Omnipresency, which to do, is to ungod the great God as much as in them lyes.

Pfal. 14. 1.

Now were there no such Atheists within the Walls of London before it was destroyed by fire? O how did practical Atheilm abound in Lindon! How many within thy Walls O. Lindon! did profess they knew God, but in their works did deny him, being abominable and difobedient, and unto Titus 1. 16. every good work reprobate? O'Sirs! fome there are that live loosely under the Gospel, that run into all excess of riot, and that in the face of all promises and threatnings. mercies and Judgments, yea, in the very face of life and death, of Heaven and Hell: and others there are that fin freely in secret, that can be drunk and filthy in the dark, when the eye of man is not upon them. Certainly those mens hearts are very Atheistical, that dare do that in the fight of God, which they tremble to do before the eyes of

How many are there that put the evil day far from them, that flatter themselves in their sins, that with Agage conclude, furely the bitterness of death is past, and that Hell and wrath is past, and that they are in a fair way for Heaven, when every step they take, is towards the bottomless pit? And divine vengeance hangs over their heads, ready every moment to fall upon them. Are there not many that feldom pray, and when they do, how cold, how careless, how dull, how dead, how heartless, how irreverent are they in all their addresses to the great God? Are there not many such Atheists, that use no prayer, nor Bible, but make Lucian their Old Testament, and Machiavel their New ? Are there not many that grant there is a God, but then 'tis such a God as is made up all of mercy, and thereupon they think, and speak, and do as wickedly as they please? And are there not some that look upon God as a fin-revenging God, and thereupon wish that there were no God, or else that they were above him, as Spira did? And are there not others that have very odd and foolish conceptions of God, as if he were an old man, fitting in Heaven with royal Robes upon his back, a glorious Crown upon his head, and a Kingly Scepter in his hand, and as if he had all the parts and proportion of a man, as the Papists are pleased to picture him? Some there are that are so drowned in sensual pleasures, that they scarce remember that they have a God to honour, a Hell to escape, a Heaven to secure, Souls to save, and an Account to give up. And others there are, who when they find conscience begin to accuse and terrific them, then with Cain, they go to their buildings, or with Saul to their musick, or with the Drunkards to their cups, or with the Gamesters to their sports. Some there are that make their gold their God, as the Covetous; others make their bellies their God, as the Drunkard and the Glutton. Some make Honours their God, as the Ambitious; and others make pleasures their God, as the Voluptuous. Some make religious Duties their God, as the carnal Gospellers; and others make their moral vertues their God, as the civil honest man. Now what abundance of such Atheists were there within and without the Walls of London before the fiery Judgment past upon it. The Scripture attributes the ruine of the old world to Gen. 6. Atheism and Prophaneness; and why may not I attribute the ruine and desolation of London to the same. Practical Atheists are enough to overthrow the most flourishing Nations, and the most flourishing Cities that are in all the World.

Gen. 4. 1 Sam. 18. 6. 10. Job 31. 24. Phil. 2. 19.

Amos 6. Math. 23.

But to prevent all mistakes in a business of so great a concornment, give me leave to fay, That if we speak of Atheists in a strict and proper sense, as meaning such as have simply and constantly denied all Deity, then I must say, that there was never any such creature in the world as simply and constantly to deny that there is a God. It is an inviolable principle, and indelebly stampt upon mans nature, that there is a God. They that shall deny that there is a God, must extinguish the very Light of Nature, by which the very Heathen in all the Ages of the World, have acknowledged a supream divine Being. Bion of Boristenesa was a very great Laert. Atheist all his life time, he denied the Gods, despised their Temples, and derided their Worship; yet when death came, he would rather have endured the greatest torment, then to have dyed, and that not so much for sear of a natural death, but for fear of what followed after, lest God whom he had denied, should give him up into the hand of the De- constantly bevil whom he had ferved; and therefore at the time of his death he pur forth his hand, crying, Salve, Plute, falue, Welcome, Devil, welcome, foolifhly thinking to pacific the Devil by this flattering falutation, And Tully observes of Epicurius, that though no man seemed more to contemn both God and death: ver no man feared more both the one and the other. The Philosophers did with one consent affirm. That there is a God and they called him, Nomine Deum ,natura Spiritum, ordine Motorem primum, but knew him not. He that shall deny there is a God, fins with a very high hand against the light of Nature; for every Creature; year the least Gnat and Fly, and the meanest worm that crawls upon the ground, will confute and confound that man that disputes whether there be a God or no. The Name of God is written in such full, fair, and thining Characters upon the whole Creation, that all men may run and read, that there is a God. The Notion of a Deity is fo strongly and deeply imprest upon the tables of all mens hearts, that to deny a God, is to quench the very Principles of common Nature: yea. 'eis formally Deicidium, a killing of God as much as in the There are none of these Atheists in Hell; for Creature lyes. the Devils believe and tremble. The Greek word pelaster, that is here used, signifies properly the roaring of the Sea, it implies such an extream fear, as causeth not only trembling; but also a roaring and screeking out, Mark 6. 49. Ads 16. 29. The Devils believe and acknowledge four Articles of our Faith, Mat. 8, 29. First, they acknowledge God: 12. Christ. 3. The day of Judgment. 4. That they shall be tormented then: So that he that doth not believe that there is a God, is more vile then a Devil; to deny there is a God, is a fort of Atheilm that is not to be found in Hell.

The stoutest Atheifts that ever lived. cannot refolutely and ieve there is no God;hence Heathens have condemned fome to death that denied there was a God.

> On Earth are Atheilts many, In Hell there is not any.

Augustine speaking of Acheists, saith, That albeit there be some who think, or would perswade themselves that there is no God; yet the most vile and desperate Wretch that ever lived would not fay, there was no God. Seneca hath a remarkable speech. Mentiuntur qui dicunt se non sentire Deum effe: nam eist tibi affirmant interdin, noun tamen dubitant : They lye, faith he, who fay they perceive not there is a God : for although they affirm it to thee in the day-time, yet by night they doubt of it. Further (faith the fame Author.) I have heard of some that have denied that there was a God: yet never knew the man, but when he was fick he would feek unto God for help: therefore they do but lye that fay, there is no God; they fin against the light of their own consciences, they who most studiously go about to deny God, yet cannot do it, but some check of conscience will flye in their faces. Tully would fay, That there was never any Nation under Heaven to barbarous as to deny that there was a God! I have Gen a City without Walls, but never any City but ackno wledged a God, Quicquid vides, & quicquid non vides, Dens elb : Whatfoever thou feeft; and whatfoever thou feeft not, is God; that is, all things visible and invisible do express unto thee a Deity, and lead thee as by the hand to contemplate heavenly, spiritual, and eternal things. God is known by his effects, though not by his Effence. The Creation of the World is a glass wherein (faith Paul) we may behold his eternal Power and God-head, which that divine Poet hath well observed

James 2. 19.

Rom. r. Du Bart.

The World's a School, where in a general flory God alway reads dumb Lectures of his glery.

Austin having gone round all the Creatures, and Geing in Soliloguite. them the Characters of the God-head imprinted, and seriously inquiring of them for God, not one or two, but all made him this Answer with an audible voice, Non sum ego, sed per ipsum sum ego quem querin in me . I am not he, but by him I am whom thou seekest in me. I have heard (saith my Author) Mr. Francis of some learned Atheists, mee rogether to discourse of the power of Natire, to prove there was no God : a poor thepherd present asked how the rain came then? they bid him look upon a fill, and he might know, that vapours were drawn up by the Sun, and let fall again, as moisture in a still: he replied I never yet could fee a still work, unless some man put fire to it. This so wrought on one in the company, that he gave glory to God, and for fook his Companions, I think Zens hit the mark, when he faid, to hear and fee an Atheist dye, will more demonstrate that there is a God, then all the Learned can do by all their Arguments. That Epitaph which was written upon Sennacheribs Tomb, may well Herodor. be written upon every Atheift: He that looks upon us, let bim believe there is a God, and learn to fear him. In all the Ages of the World God has given a most severe testimony against Atheists. That Affirian that bragged at a Feast, that he did never offer Sacrifice to a God, was eaten up of Lice, And Lucian a great Atheist, going to Supper abroad, left his Hounds fast when he went, and as he returned home, having railed against God and his Word, his dogs fell mad, met him.

Taylor on Pro.

him, and tore him in pieces. I have read of some Heathers, who being at Sea in a very dangerous storm, where they were like to be calt away, they began every one apart to examine themselves, what should be the reason of so dreadful a storm; and after that they had all cast up their accounts by querying with themselves. What have I done, said one, and, What have I done, faid another, that has occasioned this form? At last it issued thus; they remembred that they had Diagoras the Atheist on Board, and rather then they would all perish for that Atheists sake, they took him by the heels, and hurled him over-board, and then the storm ceased, and the Sea was quiet. It will be hard to name an Atheist, either in the holy Scripture, or in Ecclesiastical Historics, or in Heathen Writings, which came not to some searful end; and therefore no wonder, if Austin would not be an Atheist for half an hour for the gain of a million of worlds, because he knew not but God might in that time make an end of him. I have been the longer upon this Head, because Atheist and Atheism did never so abound in this Land as it hath done these last years. And that you may the clearer fee who they are that have brought that fad Judgment of Fire upon that once glorious City of London; Ah London, London! 'twas the gross Atheism and the practical Atheist that was within and without thy Walls, that has turned thee into a ruinous heap.

Mark, I readily grant, that there is the feeds, reliques, thirring, and moving of Atheism in the best and holiest of the Sons of men: but then, 1. They disallow of it, and discountenance it. 2. Tis lamented and bewailed by them, 3. They oppose it, and consist with it. 4. They use all holy and conscientious means and endeavours to be rid of it. 5. By degrees they get ground against it, and therefore God never did, nor never will turn Cities or Kingdoms into stames, for those seeds and remains of Atheism that are to be found in the best of Saints: 'tis that Atheism that is rampant, that raigns in the hearts and lives of sinners, as a Prince raigns upon his Throne, that brings desolating and destroying Judgments upon the most slourishing Kingdoms and the most glorious Cities that are in the World. But, Secondly, Luxury and Intemperance bring defolating and destroying Judgments upon Places and Persons. Joel 1. 5. Awake, ye drunkards, and weep and bowl all ye drinkers of wine, because of the new wine; for it is cut off from your month. Verfe 19. O Lord to thee will I cry, for the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wildernes, and the flames have burnt all the trees of the field. Verse 20. The beafts of the field cry unto thee : for the rivers of the water are dryed up, and the fire buth devoured the pastures of the wilderness. Luxury is a fin that brings both famine and fire upon a people; it brought the Chaldeans upon the Jews, who by fire and fword laid all waste. The Hories of the Caldees destroyed their Pastures, Vines, Fig-trees, Pomegranates, &c. which grew in many places of the Land, and their Souldiers fee their houles on fire, and so brought all to ruine. Amos 6. 1. Wo to them that are at ease in Zion. Verse 3. That put far away the evil day. Verse 4. That lye upon beds of ivory, and stretch shemfelves upon their conches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midft of the ft.Il. Verse 5. That chant to the found of the vist; and invent to themselves instruments of musick like David. Verse 6. That drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ontments , but they are not grisved for the affliction of Joseph. Verse 7. Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the banquet of them that firetched themselves, shall be removed. Verse 8. The Lord God bath fworn by himfelf, faith the Lord God of Hofts, I abbor the excellency of Jacob, and bate bis palaces; therefore will I deliver up the city with all that is therein. Verse 11. For behold, the Lord commandeth, and he will smite the great bonse with breaches; and the little bouse with elefts. Luxury is a fin that forfeits all a mans enjoyments, that turns him out of house and home. Samaria was a very glorious City, and a very strong City, and a very rich City, and a very populous City, and a very ancient City, &c. and yet Luxury and Intemperance turned it into ashes, it brought desolating and destroying Judgments upon it. The rich Citizens of Samaria were given up to mirth and mulick, to Luxuries.

the

In Ecclefiastical History you may read of one Drunkard, who being toucht with his fin. wept himself blind; but the Drunkards of our days are more apt to drinkthem. selves blind. then to weep themselves blind.

Gen. 18.

Xenophen.

Ifa. 5. 22. Hab. 2. 17.

Luxuries and excesses, to riotonines and drunkennes, to feasting and carousing, and by these vanities and debaucheries, they provoked the Lord to command the Chaldeans to fallon, and to spoil them of their riches, and to lay their glorious City in ashes: So 'twas Luxury and Intemperance that provoked the Lord to rain Hell out of Heaven upon Sodom and Gomorrah; Luxury turned those rich and populous Cities into ruinous heaps. Ah, London! London! the Luxuries and excesses, the riotousness and drunkenness, the mad feafting and caroufing that have been within and without thy Walls, that have been within thy great Halls, Taverns, and other great Houses, hath turned thee into ashes, and laid thy glory in the dust. O you burnt Citizens of London! what thameful spewing hath been in some of your Feafts, as if Sardanapalus, Apicius, and Heliogabalus Were still alive! How often have many of you poured into your bodies such intoxicating drinks, as hath many times laid you affeep, stript you of your reason, took away your hearts, robbed you of your felves, and laid a beaft in your room? Drunkenness is so base, so vile a fin, that it transforms the Soul, deforms the body, bereaves the brain, berrays the strength, defiles the affections, and metamorphoseth the whole man; yea, it unmans the man Cyrus the Perfian Monarch, being demanded of his Grandfather Aftyages, why he would drink no wine, answered. For fear left they give me poylon; for (laith he) yesterday when you celebrated your Nativity, I judged that fome body had poyloned all the wine they drunk, because at the taking away of the Cloth, not one of all those that were present at the Feast, arose in his right mind. "Hath it not been thus with many of you? if it hath, lay your hands upon your mouths, and say, the Lord is righteous, though he hath laid your houses in alhes. Anacharses used to say, that the first cup of wine was for thirst, the second for nourishment, the third for mirth, and the fourth for madness; but what would he have faid, had he lived within or without the Walls of London thefe last fix years? Ah, London! London! were there none within nor without thy Walls, that were strong to drink, and l and that gave their neighbour drink, and that put the bottle to them to make them drunk, that they might look on their nakedness? Were there none within nor without thy Walls that with Marcus Antonius, Darius, Alexander the Great, &c. did boaft, and glory, and pride themselves in their great abilities, to drink down any that should come into their Company ? Were there none within nor without thy Walls, O London! that cryed out, if you take away our liquor, you take away our lives? Auftin brings in the Drunkard, faying, Malle se vitam quam vinum eripi . He had rather lose his life then his wine. And Ambrose speaks of one Theotimus, who being told by his Physitians, that much quasting would make him blind, answered then, Vale lumen amicum, farewel Sweet light, farewel sweet eyes; if ye will not bear wine, ye are no eyes for me. Were there none within nor without thy Walls, O London! that did abuse the good Creatures of God so profusely, so prodigally, so prodigiously, as if they had been fent into the world for no other end, but thus to abuse themselves, reproach their Maker, and destroy those choice bleffings which God had given for more noble ends, then to be spewed against the walls for these last fix years: a drunken health (like the conclusion in a Syllogism) must not upon any terms be denied, especially in the company of such Grandees, whose age, whose place, whose office should have taught them better things; yea, the cultom of high drinks ing hath been these last fix years so great within and without thy Walls, O London! that 'ris no wonder, if the Lord for that alone has laid thy glory in the dust; yea, and that shameful spewing is upon all thy glory, considering what shameful spewing have been in thy Streets, Taverns, Ha'ls, Alehouses, and other great Mens houses, where Temperance, Rightcousness, Justice, and Holiness should have dwele in glory and triumph. Ah, London! how many within and without thy Walls have been drinking wine in bowls, when they should have been mourning over their fins, and grieving for the afflictions of Foleph, and fighing over those diffressed Christians, whose drink was nothing but forrow, and blood, and tears? These are the men that have kindled a burning upon all thy glory. O Sirs !

See grid

Ishen Iste.

tion beard a clockedtrike, the would tay, it have one gt a mare to have from an intemperate person? But,

Hab. 2. B6.

O Sirs! that you would for ever remember, that Intemperance, Luxury is a fin, an enemy that

First, Robs God of his glory, it denies him all service and obedience. Intemperate persons are neither six for praying to God, nor praising of God, nor receiving from God. Intemperance turns the Temple of the holy Ghost into a Sepulchire a Kitchin, a Hog-stye; and what glory then can God ı.

1 Cor. 6. 19.

2.

When Ignation heard a clock firike, he would fay, I have one hour more to answer for : so precious a Jewel was time in his eye.

Secondly, It robs both God and man of much precious time; time is a precious Jewel, more worth then all the world. One called his friends Thieves, because they stole time from him : and certainly there are no worse thieves then Intemperance; for that robs men of their hearingtimes, and their praying-times, and their reading-times. There is so much precious time spent in the Tavern and in the Tipling-house, that the intemperate person cannot be at leisure to spend any time in his Family or in his Closet, &c to fave his own or others Souls: but there will come a time. either in this or the other world, wherein all intemperate persons will wish that they had spent that precious time in serving of God, and in saving their own and others Souls, which they have spent in Luxury and excess, carousing and drinking; but all too late, all too late. Time is not only the fruit of Gods indulgence, but also the fruit of Christs purchase. That Doom passed upon Adam, In the day then eatest thereof, thou shalt dye the death (or dying, thou shalt dye) had been put in execution immediately, had not Christ interposed immediately between mans fin and Gods wrath. What can there be of more weight and moment then Eternity? It is the Heaven of Heaven, and the very Hell of Hell, without which neither would Heaven be so desirable, nor Hell so formidable. Now this depends upon time. is the Prologue to Eternity; the great weight of Eternity hangs upon the small wire of time: our time, whether it be longer or shorter, is given us by God to provide for our everlasting condition: we have Souls to save, a Hell to escape,

2 Cor. 6. 2. Ifa. 49. 8. cfcape, a Heaven to make fure, our pardon to fue out. our interest in Christ to make good , and all this must be quickly done, or we undone, and that for every Mans eternal weal or wo depends upon his well or ill improvement of that inch of time that is allotted to him. Now what a dreadful account will fuch give up at last, who have wasted away their precious time in Luxury and Excess But,

Thirdly, Luxury, Intemperance, it robs men of their names. Bonofus, a beaftly drunken Emperor, was called a Tankard, and Tiberius was sirnamed Biberius for his tipling, and Erajimus called Eccius Jeccius for the fame cause, and Distimus of Athens was called a Tun-diff, and young Cicero a Hogs-head. But."

Fourthly, Luxury, Intemperance, it robs men of their health; for how many are there, that by drinking other mens healths, have destroyed their own? Many more perish by Intemperance then by violence. Intemperance is the source and nurse of all diseases; more perish by surfeiting then by fuffering: every intemperate person digs his own grave with his own mouth and teeth, and is certainly a felftormenter, a self-destroyer, a self-murtherer. I have read Radulph. of a Monk at Prague, who having heard at shrift the Confessions of many Drunkards, wondred at it, and for an expe- select, lib. 3. riment he would needs try his brain with this fm, lo accordingly he stole himself drunk. Now after the vexation of three days fickness, to all that confessed that fin, he enjoyeed no other penance but this, Go and be drunk again; intimating thereby, that there was no punishment, no torment that could be inflicted upon a Drunkard, fo great as that, Go and be drunk again. Besides all other plagues that attend this fin, drunkenness is a wo to it self. Temperance is the best and noblest Physick, and they that use it, commonly are most long liv'd, But,

Fifthly, Intemperance robs men of their Estates, it robs the Wife many times of her Dowry, and the Children of their Portion, and the Husband of his Inheritance, his Trade, his all. The very word agorla Luxury, properly lignifies

Fornerius,

Prov. 23. 21.

the not preventing or keeping of the good which at t heore-Centiwe enjoy. Solomon hit the mark, when he faid, The drunkard and the plutton shall come to poverty. The full cup makes an empty purse, and a fat dish makes a lean bag; he that draws thee wine out of the Pipe, puts thy money into his own pocket; and this Diogenes the Philosopher well understood, when he aske of the frugal Citizen but a penny, but begged of the Prodigal a Talent; and being askt the reason of his practice, he answered. Because of the one he thought he might beg often, but of the other who spent so fast, he was like to receive but once. Mr. Livius, when he had Toent a great Estate in luxurious living, jesting at his own folly, he faid, that he had left nothing for his Heir, more then air and mire, Philip King of Macedon making War upon the Persians, understood that they were a luxurious people, he presently withdrew his Army, faying, it was needless to make War upon them, who by their Luxury would shortly overthrow themselves. But.

Gal. 5. 19,20, 21. Luke 16. 19. to the 26.

Numb. 5. Judg. 12. Chap 7. Deut. 23.

Math. 21, 31, 32. Luke 23, 43.

Rom. 16. 10.

Sixthly, Intemperance robs men of everlasting happiness and bleffedness; it shuts them out from all the glory of that upper world, and tumbles them down to the lowest Hell, as you may fee in that great instance of luxurious Dives. intemperate mans table proves a snare to his Soul; sulness breeds forgetfulness, wantonness blockishness and stupidity: and therefore no wonder, if God shuts the gates of glory against intemperate persons: Look as no Leper might be in the Camp of Israel, and as no Gileadite might pass over fordan, and as no fearful man might enter into the wars of Midian, and as no bastard might enter into the Sanctuary: So no luxurious person shall enter into Heaven. Of all sorts of finners, the luxurious finner is most rarely reformed; the Adulterer may become chaft, the Thief may become an honest man, the Swearer may obtain a sanctified tongue: But how rare is it to fee a luxurious person repent, break off his fins, close with Christ, and walk to Heaven? Luxurious persons cat and drink away their Christ; yea, they cat and drink away their Souls, nay, they eat and drink away their own Salvation. They that serve their own bellies, serve not the

Lord Jefus Chrift, and therefore they shall never raign with him in the other world. Certainly that man that makes Phil. 3. 19. his belly his God, shall be for ever separated from God. All Belly gods thall at last be found in the belly of Hell : the intemperate person hath his Heaven here, his Hell is to come. Now he has his sweet cups, his merry cups, his pleasant cups: O but there is a cup of shame and forrow, and this shall be their portion for ever and ever! The intemperate person hath been a gulf to devour many mercies, and therefore he shall at last be cast into a gulf of endless mileries. In a word, Intemperance is another fin, a breeding fin, tis a fin that is an inlet to all other fins; we may well call it Gad, for behold, a Troop cometh. O the pride, the oppression, the cruelty, the fecurity, the uncleannels, the filthiness, the prophanenels that comes trooping after Intemperance !! And therefore Aristotle concludes, that double punishments are due to Drunkards; first for their drunkennels, and then for other fins committed in and by their drunkennels. Now Teeing that Intemperance and Laxury is so great a fin, is it any wonder to fee divine Justice turn the mest glorious Cities in the world into a ruinous heap, when this fin of Interna perance is rampant in the midst of them? Ah, London! London! the Intemperance and Luxury that has been within and without thy Walls, has brought the desolating Judgment of Fire upon thee, that has laid all thy glory in ashes and Rubbish. How many great houses where there once within and without thy Walls, that should have been publick Schools of Piety and Vertue; But were turned into meer Nurferies of Luxury and Debauchery? How have the Rules of the Persian Civility been forgotten in the midft of thee? How many within and without thy Walls did make their belly their God, their Kitchin their Religion, their Dreffer their Altar, and their Cook their Minister, whose whole felicity did live in eating and drinking, whole bodies were as sponges, and whole throats were as open sepulchres to take in all precious Liquors, and whole bellies were as graves to bury all Gods Creatures in? And how have many men been forced to unman themselves, either to please some, or to avoid the anger

Pfal. 11.6.

Deut. 32.17. 24.

Prir . 22. 20.

Jer. 5. 7, 8, 9.

Prov. 23. 29, 30, 31,32,33,

or wrath of others, or else to gain the honourable Character of being a high Boy, or of one that was strong to drink among others, or to drink down others? O the drunken Matches that have been within and without thy Walls. O London! the Lord has seen them, and been provoked by them to kindle a fire in the midft of thee. Luxury is a fin that never goes alone, it hath many other great fins attending and waiting on it; it is as the Nave in the wheel, which turning about, all the Spokes turn with it. Idlencis, fightings duarrelling, jewling, whoring, cheating, flealing, robbing, are the hand-maids that wait on Luxury; and therefore no wonder, if God has appeared in flames of fire against it. have been the longer upon this Head, because Luxury, Intemperance is one of the great Darling-fins of our Age and day, 'tis grown to Epidemical, not only in the City, but in the Countries also, and 'tis a very God-dishonouring, and a God-provoking, and a Soul-damning, and a Land-destroying fin : and, O that what I have writ, might be so bleft, as to put some effectual stop to those notorious publick Excesses and Luxuries that have been, and ftill are rampant in most Parts of the Land.

But now, Beloved, this fin of Luxury and Intemperance I cannot charge with clear and full evidence upon the people of the Lord, that did truly fear him, and fincerely ferve him. whose habitations were once within or without the Walls of London: nay this I know that for this very fin among others. their Souls did often mourn before the Lord in fecret. And truly of such Christians that live and wallow in Luxury and Intemperance; if we compare their lives and Christs Laws together, I think we may confidently conclude, Aut bac non eft Lex Christi, aut nos non sumus Christiani , Either this is not Christianity, or we are not Christians. And thus Tertullian, Cyprian, Justin Martyr, and other's concluded against the Juxurious and intemperate Christians of their times, Salvian relates how the Heathen did reproach fuch luxurious Christians, who by their lewd lives made the Gospel of Christ to be a reproach: Where (laid the Heathen) is that good Law which which they do believe a where are those Rules of Godlines. which they do learn? They read the holy Gospel, and yet are unclean : they hear the Apolles Writings, and yet are drunk: they follow Christ, and yet disobey Christ: they profess a holy Law, and yet do lead impure lives. And Ponormitan having read the 5, 6, and 7 Chapters of Mathem, and comparing the loofe and luxurious lives of Christians with those Rules of Christ, concluded, that either that was no Gospel, or the people no Christians. The loose and luxurious lives of many Christians, was (as Lactantine declares) made by the Heathen, the reproach of Christ himself (Quomodo bonus magister cujus tam pravos videmus discipulos ?) How can we think the Master to be good, whose Disci, les we see to be so bad? Epiphanius saith, that in his days many shun'd the society of the Christians, because of the loosness and luxuriousness of their lives. And Augustin confesseth, that August, de main his time the loofe and luxurious lives of many who profest the Christian Religion, gave a great advantage to the Manichees to reproach the whole Church of God, and the ways of God. The Manichees were a fort of people who affirmed, that there were two principles or beginnings of things, viz, a summum bonum, and a summum malum. A summum bonum. from whence sprang all good; and a summum malum, from whence iffued forth all evil. Now the loofe and luxurious lives of such as had a profession upon them, hardned these in their errours, and caused them with open mouth greatly to reproach and deeply to censure the sincerest Saints. And Chrysostom preferred brute beatts before luxurious persons; for they go from belly to labour, when the luxurious person goes from belly to bed, or from belly to Cards or Dice; if not, to something that is worse. And Augustine well ob serves, that God hath not given to man talons and claws to rent and tear in pieces, as to Bears and Leopards: nor horns to push, as to Bulls and Unicorns; nor a sting to prick, as to Wasps, and Bees, and Scrpents; nor a bill to strike, as to Eagles and Offriches; nor a wide mouth to devour, as to Dogs and Lyons, but a little mouth, to shew that man should be very temperate, both in his eating and drinking. applica-M 2

Salvianus de Gratia Dei, lib. 4.

ribus Ecclefie. cap. 34.

applicable these things are to the luxurious persons that lived within and without the Walls of London before it was direct into asses, I shall leave the wife in heart to judge. But,

Prov. 28, 20. 22. See Josh. 7. 15. 21. 24.25.

Thirdly, Those great and horrid fins that were to be found in many mens Callings, viz. excessive worldlines, execution, deceit, bribery, &c. these brought the fore Judgment of Fire upon us. When men are so greedy and mad upon the world, that they make hafte to be rich by all finful devices and curled practices, no wonder if God burns up their substance, and turns their persons our of house and home. The coal the Eagle got from the Altar, the Sacrifice, and carried it to her neft, let all on fire : So that Estate that men get by finful ways and unwarrantable courses, first or last will set all they have on fire. He that resolves to be evil, may foon be rich, when the spring of conscience is screwed up to the highest pin, that it is ready to crack; when Religion is lock'd up in an out-room, and forbidden upon pain of death to look into the Shop or Ware-house; no wonder uch men thrive and grow great in the world; but all the riches such men store up, is but suel for the fire. Hab. 2 9. Wo to him that coveteth an evil covetoufnes to bis house, that be may fet his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the power of evil. Verse ii. For the stone shall cry out of the wall, the beam out of the timber shall answer it. Verle 12. Behold, is it not of the Lord of Hists that the people shall labour in the very fire, and the people shall meary themselves for very vanity. They had got great Estates by an evil covetousness, and God was resolved that he would make a bon fire of all their ill gotten goods; and though they should venture their lives to save their goods, and quench the flames; yet all should be but labour in vain, according to that word, Fer. 5.1. 58. Thus faith the Lord of Hofts, the broad walls of Babylon shall be ut. terly broken, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire, and the people shall labour in vair, and the folk in the fire, and they shall be meary. Though Babylon was a City of great fame, and state, and riches, and deservedly accounted one of the worlds

He (laith Chryfostom) that locks up illgotten riches in his counting-house, . locks up a Thief in his countenance, which will carryall away, and if he look not the better to it, his precious Soul alfo.

worlds nine wonders a though the compass of the Walls was 365 furlongs (or 46 miles) according to the number of the days in the year, and the heighth so cubits, and of so great a bredth, that Carts and Carriages might meet on the top of them; yea, though it was fo great and vast a City, that Arifforle faith, that it ought rather to be called a Country then a City, adding withal, that when the City was taken! it was three days before the furthest part of the City could take notice of it. Yet at last (according to the Word of the Lord) it was fer on fire : and though the Inhabitants did weary and tire out themselves to quench the flames, and to fave their stately houses and ill-gotten riches, yet, all was labour in vain, and to no purpose. In the days of Pliny it was an otter desolation, and in the time of Hierom it was turned into a Park, in which the King of Persia did use to hunt. So Ezek. 28. 18. Thou haft defiled thy Sanctuaries by the multitude of thine iniquities, by the iniquity of thy traffick: therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midge of thee, it shall devour thee, and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth in the fight of all them that behold thee. Verle 19. All they that know thee among the people shall be astonished at thee, thou shalt be a terrour, and never shalt thou be any more, Tyrus among the Sea-bordering Cities, was most famous and renowned for Merchandise and Trade; for thither resorted the Merchants of all Countries for Traffick of Paleftina, Syria, Egypt, Perfia, and Affria, They of Tarfair brought thither from Lead. Brass, and Silver. The Syrians brought thither Carbuncles, Purple, broidered Work, fine Linnen, Coral, and Pearl. The Jews brought thither their Honey, Oyl, Treacle, Caffia. and Calamus. The Arabians brought thither Lambs, Muttons, and Goats. The Sabeans brought thicker their exquifite Spices and Apothecary stuff; with Gold and precious Now by fraud and deceit they grew exceeding rich and wealthy, which in the close issued in their total ruine. according to that of the Prophet, Zacha. 9. 3, 4. And Tyrus did build ber felf a strong bold, and beaped up filver as the dust. and fine gold as the mire of the streets. Behold the Lord will cast ber out, and be will smite ber power in the sea, and she Curtius, lib. 4. & Diod. Siculus, lib. 17.

Ezek. 27. Ila. 23. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.

Jonah 3.

thall be devoured with fire. The Tyrians did hold themselves invincible, because of their situation, being round about environed by the Sea; but yet the Prophet tells them, that though they were compassed about with deep waters, yet they should be destroyed by fire, which was executed by Alexander the Great, as Historians testifie. Tis not the frength mor riches, nor fituation, nor trade, nor honour, nor fame, nor antiquity of a City that can preferve it, when God before hand has by fire determined the destruction of it. Tyrus was a City of the greatest Merchandising, 'twas a City of mighty Trade, they were let upon heaping up of riches by hook or by crook: So riches came in, though it were at the door of oppression, violence, or injustice, all was well. The Traffick of Tyrus was great, and the fins that attended that Traffick were very great, and for these God sent a devouring fire amongst them, which destroyed their Palaces and Treasuries, and reduced their glorious City to ashes. By the iniquity of their Traffick they had built Palaces and state. ly Houses, and filled their Shops, and Ware-houses, and Cellars with rich and choice Commodities; but when God brought Nebuchadnezzar upon them, what the Chaldeans could not deftroy by the Sword, they confumed by fire, turning all their glorious Palaces, and stately Buildings, and costly Shops and Ware-houses into ashes, as Historians testihe: So Ninive for greatness, riches, and antiquity, was one of the noblest Cities in the world, twas the Capital and chief City of the Affrian Empire: and though God upon their repentance & humiliation did spare them for a time; yet afterwards the returning to her old trade of robberies, covetoufness, extortions, fraud, deceitful dealings, &c. God delivered her up as a prey into the hands of many of her enemies, who wonderfully spoiled and pillaged her; and at last God gave her into the hands of the Medes, who brought her to a final and irrecoverable desolation, according to the Prophesie of the Prophet Nahum, Nahum 2. 10. She is empty, and void, and waste, and the beart melteth, and the knees smite together, end much pain is in all loyns, and the faces of them all gather blackness (that is, such blackness as is on the sides of a por.) Verle

Verse 12. Behold, I am against thee, faith the Lord of Hosts. and I will burn her chariots in the Smeak. The like Judgment fell upon Sidon, and upon that rich and renowned City of Corinth, which through the commodiousness of the Haven. was the most frequented place in the world for the Entercourse of Merchants out of Asia and Europe, and great and many were their fins about their Trade and Traffick : and for these she was finally destroyed; and turned into cinders and afher by the Romans.

Secallo Chap 3. 12, 13-115. Sabel

Thucyd.

So Bribery is a fin that brings desolating and destroying Judgments both upon Persons and Places. Amos 5, 10, 11. For as much therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from bim burdens of wheat; ye have built boufes of hemen flones: but ye hall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleafant wineyards but ye shall not drink wine of them : for I know your manifold transgressions and your mighty fins : they afflict the just. they take a bribe, and they turn afide the poor in the gate from their right. Bribery is one of those mighty fins, or one of chole bony or big-boned fins, as the Hebrew hath it , for which God threatens to turn them out of house and home. Bribery is a bony fin, a huge fin, a hainous fin, a monstrous fin a fin that is capable of all manner of aggravations and therefore the Lord punisheth it with desolating Judgments. Fob 14. 24. And fire shall consume the tabernacles of bribery Cor the receivers of gifts, as both the Hebrew and the Septuagint may be read) When wicked men build their houses their Tabernacles by pilling and polling, by bribery, cheat ing defrauding, or over-reaching others, tis a righteous thing with God tofer their houses on fire about their cars. Thus Dioglesian had his house wholly consumed by Lightning and a flame of fire that fell from Heaven upon it, as Eufebius tells De vita Conus. "Upon such a generation of men as build their houses by bribery, or opproffion, or deceit, &c. God many times makes good that word, Job 18. i.c. Brimftone Shall be scattered up. on tips habitation; and that word, Micha, 3, 11, 12. The Heads bereof judge for reward, and the Pricks thereof teach farbire, and she Prophets thereof divine for money. Therefore Bull

Stant . lib. 5.

Jer. 7. 4, 5.

Luke 19.43,

Prov. 17. 23. Pfal. 26. 10.

x Sam. 8. 3.

Hof. 4. 18.

Micha. 7. 3.

Prov. 28, 21.

Prov. 30. 15.

hall Zion for your fake be plowed as a field, and Jerufalem hall become heaps, and the mountain of the boufe as the bigb places of the forest. Bribery and Coverousnels had over-run all forts of fuch as were in Power and Authority, whether Civil or Ecclefiaftical, and for this Zion must be plowed as a field, and Fernsalem become heaps, and the Mountain of the House as the high places of the Forest. By these exquisite rerms the total and dismal desolation and destruction of Zion, Jerusalem, and the Temple, that famous House that was once worthily reckoned one of the feven Wonders of the World, is fet forth unto us. That Jerufalem; that Gods House, and Temple wherein they so much trusted and gloried should become as a mountainous Forest and Wilderness. was incredible to them; as the jumbling of Heaven and Earth together; or the dethroning of God, by taking the Crown from his Head, and thrusting of him from his Chair of State: and yet all this was made good according to that dreadful Prophesie of Christ : There shall net be left one ftone upon another. These are the sad effects of Bribery, Covetousness, &c. So Prov. 29. 4. The King by judgment establifheth the Land's but he that receiveth gifts (or bribes) overthrows it:

Ah, London! London! were there none within nor without thy Walls, that did take a gift out of the bosom; to pervert the ways of Judgment? were there none whole right hands were full of bribes? were there none like Samuels Sons, who turned afide after lucre, and took bribes, and perverted Judgment in the midst of thee? were there no Ruers nor others within nor without thy Walls, that did love to fay with shame, Give ye? or that asked for a reward? or that with Gehazi, run after rewards? or that were not ready to transgress for a piece of bread? or that were not like the Horseches daughter, still crying out, give, give? Themistocles caused a brand of infamy to be set upon Athmin his children, and all his posterity after him, because he brought gold from the King of Perfia to corrupt, bribe, and win the Grecians. If all that were within and without the Walls of London, that received bribes, and run after rewards, thad a brand brand of infamy fet upon them, I am apt to think many of them would be ashamed to walk the streets, who have once carried it with a very high hand.

Ah, London! London! were there none within nor without thy Walls, that had the ballance of deceit in their hands, and that leved to oppress; falsifying the ballances by deceit, and that had in their bags divers weights, that did sell by one measure, and buy by another, that had wicked ballances, and the bag of deceitful weights in their hands, their Houses, their Shops, their Ware houses? Well, suppose there were many such within and without the Walls of London, what of that? why, then I would say, Hof. 12. 7. Amos 8. 5. Deut. 25. 13.

Micha. 6. 11.

First, Such run counter-cross to divine Commands, Levit. 19.35, 36. Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in metayard, in weight, or in measure. Just ballances, just weights, a just Ephah, and a just hin shall ye have. Ezck. 45.10. Ye shill have just ballances, and a just Ephah, and a just bath.
Deut. 25.13, 14, 15. Thou shalt not have in thy bag divers weights, a great and a small. But thou shalt have a perfect and just weight, a perfect and just measure shalt thou have, that thy days may be lengthned in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee. We have a common Saying, Weight and measure is Heavens treasure. But Levit. 19. 13. Mark 10. 19. 1 Cor. 7. 5.

Secondly, Such persons and such practices are an abomination to the Lord, Dent. 25. 16. For all that do such things, and all that do unrighteousness, are an abomination unto the Lord thy God. Prov. 11. 1. A false ballance is abomination to the Lord. Prov. 20. 10. Divers weights and divers measures, both of them are alike abomination to the Lord, and a false ballance is not good. Now mark, the very weights and measures are an abomination to the Lord, how much more the men that make use of them? But.

2.

3.

Thirdly, Such act counter-cross to Gods delight, Prov. 11. 1. A just weight is his delight. Prov. 16. 11. A just weight and ballance are the Lords. They are commanded by the Lord, and commended by the Lord, and they are the delight of the Lord. But,

4. Ezek. 18. and Chap. 33. 17. 20. 29.

Fourthly, Such act counter-cross to his Nature, which is holy, just, and righteous, and to all his administrations, which are full of righteousness, justice, and equity. But,

5. Math. 7. 12. Fifthly, Such act counter-cross to the very Light and Law of Nature, by not dealing by others, as they would have others deal by them. They are the very botches of the Land, and enemies to all Civil Society. But,

6.

Sixthly, Such stirup the anger and indignation of God against themselves, Ezek. 22. 13. Behold, therefore I bave smitten mine hand at thy dishonest gain which thou hast made, or at thy coveton nell (as some render the Hebrew word) or at thy money gotten by fraud and force, and over-reaching and cheating of others (as others render it.) God is here said to smite his hands at their dishonest gain, to note the greatness of his anger, wrath, and indignation against them; and his readinels and resolvedness to take vengeance on them, by animating, ir stigating, encouraging, and stirring up the Chaldeans to destroy their persons by the Sword, and to consume their riches and houses by fire, Chap. 21. 17. God has no hand to smite; but this is spoken after the manner of men, who oftentimes express the greatness of their wrath and rage by smiting their hands one against another. God to shew the greatness of his spleen and rage (in a holy sense) against them for their dishonest gain, expresses it by the smiting of his hands. I Thef. 4. 6. That no man go beyond or defraud his brother in any matter, because that the Lord is the avenger of all such; first or last vengeance will reach them, who make it their bufineff, their trade to over-reach others. But,

7:

Seventhly, Such act counter-cross to the Examples of the most eminent Saints. To the Example of Moses, Numb. 16. 15. I have not taken an ass from them, neither have I have not of them. Of Samuel, 1 Sam. 12. 3, 4, 5. Of Zacharian and Elizabeth, Luke 1. 5, 6. Of Paul, Acts 24. 16. yea, to the Examples of all the Apostles (Judas excepted) 2 Cor. 1. 12. Chap. 7. 2. Receive w., we have wronged no man, we bave corrupted no man, we have defrauded no man. But,

4218

Eighthly and lastly, Such act counter-cross to their own everlasting happiness and blessedness, a Cor. 6. 8. 9. Nay, you do wrong and defraud, and that your brethren: Know ye not, that the unrighteous shall not inherit the Kingdom of Heaven? Unrighteous persons may hear much of Heaven, and talk much of Heaven, and fet their faces towards Heaven : but they shall never inherit the Kingdom of Heaven. God himself has locke fast the gate of blessedness against the un righteous: and therefore all the world shall never be able to open it. Heaven would be no Heaven, but a Hell, if the unrighteous should inhabit there. To sum up all; If such persons run counter-cross to Gods commands, if their persons and practices are an abomination to the Lord, if they act counter-cross to Gods delight and to his Nature: yea, to the very Light and Law of Nature, to the best Examples, and to their own happiness and blessedness, is it any wonder then to fee divine Tustice set such mens houses on fire about their ears. and to see the flames consume such Estates as were got either by fraud or force, by craft or cruelty, &c.

Now the gaining of the things of this world by hook or by crook, or by such wicked courses and cursed practices that we have been discoursing on. I cannot charge upon the people of God, that did truly fear him, whose habitations were or ce within or without the Walls of London, because such practices would neither stand with Grace, nor with the Honour of God, nor with the Credit of Religion, nor with the Law of God, nor with the Law of Nature, nor with the Peace of a Saints Soul. Befides, 'tis very observable to me. that those that have the ballances of deceit in their hand, are called Caananites in that 12. of Hof. 7. He is a merchant, the ballances of deceit are in his band, he loveth to oppress, Hcb. He is Canaan, that is, a meer natural man, that hath no common honefty in him, a money-merchant, one that cares not how he comes by it, so he may have it; one that counts all good fish that comes to his net, though it be through cunning contrivances or violent practices. But, Fourthly, Levit. 26. Deut. 28. Turn to that Jer. 30, 23, 24.

Fourthly, Desperate incorrigibleness and unresormedness under wasting and destroying Judgments, brings the desolating Judgment of Fire upon a people, Isa. 42. 24, 25. Who gave facob for a spoil, and Ifrael to the robbers? did not the Lord he against whom we have sinned ? For they would not walk in his ways, neither were they obedient unto his Law. Therefore he bath poured upon him the fury of his anger, and the frength of battel, and it hath fet him on fire round about, yet he knew not; and it burned bim, yet be laid it not to heart, Levit. 26. 27, 28. 31, 32, 33. And if ye will not for all this hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me, then will I walk contrary unto you also in fury; and I, even I, will chastise you seven times for your fins ... And I will make your Cities waste, and bring your Sanctuaries unto desolations. And I will bring the Land into desolation, and your enemies which dwell therein, shall be astonished at it. And I will scatter you among the Hea. then, and will draw out a sword after you; and your Land shall be desolate, and your Cities waste. Isa. 1. 5.7,8. Why should you be stricken any more? ye will revolt more and more; the whole head is fick, and the whole heart faint; your Country is desolate, your Cities are burnt with fire!: your Land-Arangers devour it in your presence, and it is desolate; as overthrown by strangers. And the daughter of Zion is left as a cottage in a vineyard, as a lodge in a garden of cucumbers, as a befieged City. Amos 4. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. And I also bave given you cleanness of teeth in all your Cities, and want of bread in all your places; yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord. And also I have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest, and I caused it to rain upon one City, and eaused it not to rain upon another City, one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not withered. So two or three Cities wandred unto one City to drink water, but they were not fatisfied ; yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord. I have smitten you with blafting and mildew. when your gardens, and your vineyards, and your fig-trees, and your olive-trees increased, the palmer-worm devoured them: yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord. I have fent among you the pestilence after the manner of Egypt: your young men bave I flain with the fword, and have taken away your borses, and I have made the stink of your camps to come up unto your nostils : yet bave ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord. I have overthrown some of you, as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrab, and ye were as a fire-brand pluckt out of the burning: vet bave ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord, By all thefe Scriptures 'tis most evident, that desperate incorrigibleness and unreformedness under wasting and destroying Judgments, brings the fiery Dispensations of God upon a people. Ah. London! London! how long has the Lord been friving with thee by his Spirit, by his Word, by his Mclengers, by his Mercies, and by leffer Judgments, and yet thou hast been incorrigible, incurable, and irrecoverable under all? God looke that the Agues, Fevers, small Pox, strange sicknesses. want of Trade, & Poverty that was coming on like an armed man upon thee, with all the leffer Fires that have been kindled in the midft of thee, should have awakned thee to repentance; and yet under all, how proud, how frout, how hard. how obdurate hast thou been? God lookt that the bloody Sword that the Nations round hath drawn against thee. should have humbled thee, and brought thee to his foot; and yet thou hast rejected the remedy of thy recovery. God looke that the raging devouring Pestilence that in 1665. destroyed so many ten thousands of thy Inhabitants, should have aftonished thee, and have been as a Prodigy unto thee; to have affeighted thee out of thy fins, and to have turned thee to the most High: But yet after so stupendious and amazing Judgments, thou wast hardned in thy fins, and refuleft to return. By all these divers kinds of Judgments. how little did God prevail with thy Magistracy, Ministry, or Commonalty to break off their fine, to repent, and to abhor, themselves in dust and ashes ? Hath not God spent all his Rods in vain upon thee? were not all forts of men generally seven times worse after those wasting Judgments then they Jer. 24.2,3. were before? and therefore thou halt cause to fear that this is that which hath kindled such a devouring Fire in the midst of thee, and that hath turned thy glory into shame, thy Riches, Palaces, and stately Houses into ashes, we When after the

Hol. 5. 12.14.

the raging Pestilence men returned to the City, and to their Estates, and Trades, &c. they returned also to their old fins, and as many followed the world more greedily then ever fo many followed their lufts, their finful courses more violently then ever: and this has ofhered in thy defolation, O Lendon. The Physician when he findeth that the pocion which he hath given his Patient will not work, he feconds it with one more violent: and thus doth the Chirurgion too; if a gentle plaister will not serve, then he applies that which is more corroding; and to prevent a gangrene, he makes use of his cauterizing knife, and takes off the joynt or member that is so ill affected: So doth the great God; when men are not bettered by leffer Judgments, he fends greater Judgments upon them. God was first as a moth to Ephraim, which confumed him by little and little; but when that would not better him, and reform him, then the Lord comes as a Lyon upon him, and tore him all to pieces. If the drofs of mens fins will not come off, he will throw them into the melting-pot again and again, he will crush them harder and harder in the press of his Judgments, and lay on such Irons as shall enter more deep into their Souls. If he strikes, and they grieve not; if he strikes again, and they tremble not; if he wounds, and they return not, then 'tis a righteous thing with God to turn men out of house and home, and to burn up their comforts round about them. Now this has been thy case, O London, and therefore God has laid thee defolate in the eyes of the Nations.

Now this desperate incorrigibleness and unreformedness under wasting and destroying Judgments, I cannot groundedly six upon those who did truly sear the Lord within and without the Walls of London, because they made it their business (according to the different measures of grace they had received) to mourn under wasting Judgments, and to lament after the Lord under wasting Judgments, and to be bettered and reformed under wasting Judgments, and not only o understand, but also to obey the voice of the Rod. Their carnest prayers, strong crys, bitter tears, sad sight, and heavy groans under wasting Judgments, may sufficiently evidence

dence that they were not incorrigible under wasting Judge

ments. But

Fifthly. Infolent and cruel oppressing of the Poor, is a fin that brings desolating and destroying Judgments upon a people. God sent ten wasting Judgments one after another upon Pharanh his People and Land, to revenge the cruel op- Exod. 3. 9. pression of his poor people, Prov. 22. 22, 23. Reb not the poor because be is poor neither oppress the afflicted in the gate. For the Lord will plead their cause. To rob and oppress the rich is a great fin; but to rob and oppress the poor is a greater : but to rob and oppress the poor, because he is poor, and wants money to buy justice, is the top of all inhumanity and impiety: To oppress any one is a fin; but to oppress the oppreffed, is the heighth of fin. Poverty, and want, and mifery should be motives to pity; but oppressors make them the whet-stones of their cruelty and severity, and therefore the Lord will plead the cause of his poor oppressed people against their oppressors without see or sear; yea, he will plead their cause with pestilence, blood, and fire. Gog was a great oppressor of the poor, Ezek, 38. 8, 9, 10, 11, 12. 13, 14. And God pleads against him with pestilence, blood, and fire. Verse 22. And I will plead against him with pestilence and with blood, and I will rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and great hail-stones, fire and brimstone. Such as oppress a Mich. 2. 1, 2 man and his house, even a man and his heritage, they take the furest & the readiest way to bring ruine upon their own houles. Ifa. 4. 8. Wo unto them that joyn bouse to bouse, and field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midft of the earth. But mark what follows, verse 9, In mine cars, Said the Lord of Hofts, of a truth many boujes shall be desolate, even great and fair without inbabitants, of a truth many bouses shall be desolate. This is an Emphacical form of swearing, tis as if the Lord had faid, Let me, not live, or let me never be owned or accounted a God, or let me never be looked upon as a God of truth, a God of my word; let me never be believed nor trusted more for a God ; if I do not lay desolate the houses of oppressors, the great hou-

fes

les of oppressors, the fair houses of oppressors; yea, the multitude and variety of the houses of oppressors. So Amos 3.9. 10, 11. Publish in the palaces at Ashaod, and in the palaces in the Land of Egypt, and Jay, Affemble your selves upon the mountains of Samaria; and behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the oppressed (or oppressions) in the midst thereof. For they know not to do right, faith the Lord, who fore up violence and robbery in their palaces. Therefore, thus faith the Lord God, an adverfary there (hall be, even round about the Land, and be shall bring down thy strength from thee; ind thy palaces shall be spoiled. Now mark the 15. verse, And I will smite the winter-bouse, with the summer bouse, and the bouses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses shall have an end, faith the Lord. In their Palaces, and in their Winter and Summer-houses they stored up all the riches, preys and spoils that they had got by oppression. But God tells them, that their Palaces should be spoiled, and that he would smite the Winter-house upon the Summer-house (so the Hebrew runs) God was resolved that he would dash one house against the other, and lay them all on heaps. Though their Palaces and houses were never so rich, and strong, and stately, and pompous, and glorious, and decked, and adorned, and enamelled, and checkered; yet they should all down together. So Zach. 7. 10. 11. 14. Oppress not the widow nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor, and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart. But they refused to hearken, and pulled away the shoulder, and stopped their ears, that they should not hear. Well now, mark what follows, verse 14. But I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations whom they knew not: thus the land was desolate after them, that no man paffed thorow, nor returned; for they laid the pleafant land (or as the Hebrew has it the fecond Land of defire) defolate. Palestine was a very pleasant Land, a Land which flowed with milk and honey, a Land which was the glory of all Lands; God had made it as his Paradife; and enriched it with all plenty and pleasure, and above all with his prefence and residence in his City and Temple; but they by oppressing the poor, the widow, and the fatherless, laid all desolate.

desolate. Fer. 12. 12. O house of David, thus saith the Lord, execute judgment in the morning, and deliver him that is spoiled out of the hand of the oppressor, lest my fury go out like fire, and burn that none can quench it. Oppression lays a people open to Gods fury, it provokes the Lord to turn their all into unquenchable flames. Pfal. 12. 5. For the oppression of the poor, for the lighing of the needy: now will I arise (faith the Lord) I will fet him in safety from him that paffeth at him. Upon these words, Chrysostom faith : Timete quicunque pauperem injuria afficitis: habetis vos potentiam & opes, & judicum benevelentiam : sed habent illi arma omnium validissima, lucius & ejulatus, que à cœlis auxilium attrabunt. Hec arma domus effodiunt, fundamenta evertunt, hac integras nationes submergunt: Fear ye, whosoever ye be, that do wrong the poor, you have power and wealth, and the favour of the Judges; but they have the strongest weapons of all, fighings and groanings, which fetch help from Heaven for them. These weapons dig down houses, throw up foundations, overthrow whole Nations. Thus you fee by all these clear Scriptures, that oppression is a fin that brings wasting and destroying Judgments upon a people.

Chryf. in Pfal.

Ah, London! London! was there no oppression and crucky to be sound within and without thy Walls? Eccle. 4. 1. So I returned, and considered all the oppressions that are done under the Sun, and behold, the tears of such as were oppressed, and they had no comforter? and on the side of their oppressors there was power; but they had no comforter. And behold the tears of such as were oppressed. The original word signifies lachryman, non lachryman, a tear, not tears; as if the oppressed had wept so long, and wept so much, that they could weep no longer, nor weep no more, having but only one tear left them. Were there not, O London! many of thy poor oppressed Inhabitants that wept so long, that they could weep no longer; and that wept so much, that they had but one tear left? O the crys and tears of the oppressed within and without thy Walls, did so pierce Gods ears; and so work upon his heart, that at last he comes down in slames of

Were there none within ner without thy Walls, O London! that used his neighbour without wages, and gave him no reward for his work, that kept back the hire of the labourer, and that were the poor labourers purlebearers, and Cofferers, whether they would or no, that fleeced the poor to feather their own nefts? Deut. 24. 14, Exod. 22.22, 23. Zeph. 3.3.

fire to revenge the oppressed. Were there no rich Citizens that did wrack their Tenants, and grind the faces of the poor, that took an advantage from their necessities to beat down the price of their Commodities, that so they might raise themselves on the poors ruine? Were there no false weights, falle wares, falle lights, falle measures to be found within and without thy Walls, by which the poor has been cheated, cozened, and oppressed? O how did the rich work upon the necessities of the poor, bringing them to such under-prizes, as hath undone both them and their making good that word; Amos 8. 4. They swallow up the needy, and make the poor of the land to fail. O the heavy burdens that have been laid upon the poor by their Egyptian Task-masters! what overreaching of the poor, and what over-rating of the poor have been within and without thy Walls, O London! Thy poor, O London! did rife early, and go to bed late; they did fare hard, and lye hard, and work hard; and yet by reason of the cruelty, oppression, and unmercifulness of many of thy wealthy Citizens, they were hardly able to make any convenient supplies for themselves and their families. Oppression turns Princes into roaring Lyons, and Judges into evening Wolves: 'tis an unnatural fin, 'tis a fin against the light of Nature. No creatures do oppress them of their own kind. Look upon the Birds of prey, as upon Eagles, Vultures. Hawks, and you shall never find them preying upon their own kind. Look upon the wild Beasts of the Forest, as upon the Lyon, the Tyger, the Wolf, the Bear, &c. and you shall find them favourable to them of their own kind; and yet men unnaturally prey upon one another, like the fish in the Sea, the great swallowing up the small. Tis a fin against that great and common Rule of Equity, Math. 7.12. All things whatfoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them. Now no man in his wits would have another to wrong and oppress him in his Estate, Name, or Conscience; and therefore he should not wrong or oppress others in their Estates, Names, or Consciences: and therefore no wonder, if God punishes this sin with flames of fire. 'Tis thy oppressors, O London! that has turned thy glory into Now afhes.

Now this infolent oppressing of the poor, is a fin that I cannot make good against the people of God, that did truly fear him in that great City. Tis a sin they have often bewailed and lamented before the Lord in their folemn Addreffes to God. Where this fin is rampant, where it rules as a Prince upon the Throne, 'tis a clear evidence that the fear of the Lord is not in such mens hearts. Levit. 25. 17. Te shall not oppres one another, but thou shalt fear thy God. Now this lyes fair in the words, viz. That fuch as do oppress others, they do not fear God: and such as do fear God, they will not oppress others. Amaleck was a great Oppresfor of the poor people of God, and the Holy Ghost hath set this black brand of infamy upon him, that he feared not God. Had Amaleck feared the Lord, he would have been so far from oppressing the poor people of God, that he would have comforted them, and succoured them, and relieved them in the midst of their necessities, miseries, and distresses. The Jews oppressing one another, is attributed to their not fearing of God, Nebem. 5. 9. Oppression is so crying a fin against the Law of God, the Law of Grace, the Law of Nature, and the Law of Nations; that certainly it cannot be juftly charged upon such, as have set up God in their hearts as the great Object of their fear. The word for oppression in the Hebrew is Mispach, which signifies a Scab, a Wound. a Leprosic. Now oppression is such a scab, a wound, a leprosic. as is not to be found upon those that have fellowship with the Father and the Son. Oppressors may boast of their profesfion, and call themselves Saints or the people of God; but God accounts them worse then Scythians, witness those dreadful woes that God has denounced against them in the bleffed Scriptures, Zeph. 3. 1. Wo to the oppreffing City, Jer. 22. 12. Wo unto bim that buildeth bis house by unrighteous. ness, and his chambers by wrong : that useth his neighbour's fervice without wages, and givet bim not for his work. Ifa. 10. 1 -- 2. Wo unto them that decree unrighteous decrees. To turn aside the needy from judgment, and to take away the right from the poor of my people, that widows may be their prey, and that they may rob the fatherless. And what will ye do in the day of vilita-

Deut. 25, 18. Oppressors are persons destitute of the fear of God. and the want of the fear of theLord is the spring and fountainof the worlt of fins. and that against which the Lord will come near in Judgment. Mala. 3. 5.

visitation, and in the disolation which shall come from far; to whom will ye flee for help? and where will ye leave your glory? Mich. 2: 1, 2. Wo to them that devise iniquity, and work evil upon their beds: when the morning is light they practise it, because it is in the power of their hand. And they covet fields, and take them by violence: and houses, and take them away: so they oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage. Now by all these dreadful woes 'tis surther evident, that this horrid sin of insolent oppression cannot be charged upon the Called and Chosen of God; for where do you find in all the Scriptures the Vessels of Glory under those woes that are denounced against the ungodly? But,

6.

Sixthly, Rejecting the Gospel, contemning the Gospel, and flighting the free and gracious offers of Christ in the Gospel, brings the fiery Dispensation upon a people, and causes the Lord to lay their Cities desolate. Math. 22. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain King, which made a marriage for his Son. And be fent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding: and they would not come. Again he sent forth other servants, saying. tell them which are bidden, Rehold, I have prepared my dinner: my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage. But they made flight of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchanlize. And she remnant took his fervants, and intreated them Bitefully, and flew them. But when the King heard thereof, he was wroth: and fent forth his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burnt up their City. In this Parable the Vocation of the Gentiles, and the Rejection of the Jews, is fet forth. The Tews have the honour to be first called to the Marriage-feast; they are invited by the Prophets, and afterwards by the Apostles to partake of Christ and of all his royal Benefits and Favours which are displayed in the Gospel. God the Father was very willing and defirous to make up a match between Christ and the Jews, and between Christ and the Gentiles: and he is here called a King, to declare his divine Majesty, and to fet forth the stateliness and magnificence of the Feaft.

Calvin, Chryfostom. Ifa. 25. 8, 9. Prov 9. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. Ifa. 55. 1, 2, 3. Feaft. Marriage-feafts that are usually made by Kings, are full of joy, and full of state, full of splendor and glory; who can fum up the variety of diffres and dainties that then the Guelts are feasted with? The variety of the glorious excellencies, favours, and mercies of Christ that are discovered and tendered by God in Gospel-offers, in Gospel-ordinances, is the Wedding-scast to which all forts of finners are invited; but here you fee they flight, and fcorn, and contemn both Master of the feast, and the matter of the feast, and all those servants that were sent to invite them to the feast; and hereupon the King was wroth, and fent forth his armies (the Romans, as most Interpreters do agree) and destroyed those murderers, and burnt up their City. About forty years after the death of Christ, the Lord to revenge the blood of his Son, the blood of his fervants, and the contempt of his Gospel upon the Jews, brought his Armies, the Romans, against Ferusalem, who by fire demolished their Temple and City, and by sword and famine destroyed eleven millions of men, women, and children; and those that escaped fire, fword, and famine, were fold for flaves, and feattered among all the Nations. Christ and the way of Salvation by him, is the subject matter of the Gospel: The word Evans. Mos that is rendered Gospel, fignifies glad Tydings, good News: and certainly Salvation by Christ is the best news, 'is the greatest and the gladest tydings that ever was brought to finners ears. What the Pfalmist had long before faid of the City of God, Glorious things are foken of thee, that I may truly say of the bleffed Gospel, Glorious things are spoken of thee, O thou Gospel of God. The Gospel is called the glorious Gospel of the bleffed God. The Gospel is a glorious Gospel in respect of the Author of it, and in respect of the Parmen of it, and in respect of the glorious discoveries that it makes of God, of Christ, of the S; irit, of Heaven, and in respect of its glorious effect; in turning of poor sinners from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of fins, and inheritance among them which are fanctified. Certainly Solomons natural History, in which he treated of all Trees, from the Fesephus de bell Judaic. lib.7.

Pfal. 87:3.

1 Tim. 1. 11.

Acts 26. 18.

Cedar

1 Kings 4. 23. Some are of opinion that it was burnt by the Chaldees. together with the Temple: others think that it was a. bolished by Ezekiah, because the people idolized it, as they did the Brazen Serpent.

Cedar to the Hylop, of all Beafts, Fowls, and creeping things, was a very rare and incomparable piece in its kind; yet one leaf, yea, one line of the Gospel is infinitely more worth, and of greater importance to us, then all that large Volume would have been. For what is the knowledge of Trees, and Birds, and Beafts, and Worms, and Fishes to the knowledge of God in Christ, to the knowledge of the great things of Eternity, to the knowledge of a mans finful effate by Nature, or to the knowledge of his happy estate by Grace? doubtless to a Soul that hath talted that the Lord is gracious, there is no Book to this of the Bible, Alis 19. 19. When the Lord had made it the day of his glorious Power to their Conviction, Conversion, and Salvation, they burnt their costly Books of curious Arts. And no wonder; for they had found the power and the sweet of a better Book, even of Gods Book upon their hearts. Luther speaking of the Gospel, saith, That the shortest line, and the least letter thereof, is more worth then all Heaven and Earth; he tasted so much of the sweetness of the Gospel, and saw so much of the glory and excellency of the Gospel, that he would often say to his friends, that he would not take all the world for one leaf of the Bible. Rab. Chiia (in the Fernfalem Talmud) faith, that in his account all the world is not of equal value with one word out of the Law. Ifrael had three Crowns (as the Talmud observes) 1. of the King, 2. of the Priest, 3. of the Law; but the Crown of the Law was counted by them the chiefest of the three: then what is the Crown of the Gospel to all those upon whom the Gospel is come in power? How divinely did that Poet speak, who said, He could read God in every leaf on the Tree, and that he found his Name written on every green herb; and shall not we read God, and Christ, and Grace, and Mercy in every leaf, yea, in every line of the Gospel? The Bible, saith Luther, is the only Book, all the books in the world are but waste paper to it: so highly did he prize it, and so dearly did he love it. Concempt of the Gospel is a great indignity cast upon the great God, and a great indignity cast upon Jesus Christ: for chough the Law was delivered by Moses, yet the Gospel was deliver-

1 Thef. 1. 5, 6, 7.

Luther com. in Gen. cap. 19. delivered by Jesus Christ. And if they escaped not who despiled him that spake from earth, of how much forer pun shment are they worthy that contemn him that foeaks from Heaven? If the Book of the Law happen to fall upon the ground, the Jews custom is presently to proclaim a Fast. Sirs! what cause then have we to fast and mourn when we fee the glorious Gospel of God fallen to the ground, scorned, despised, contemned, and trampled upon by all forts of sinners ? Contempt of the Gospel is a fin of the greatest ingra-In the Gospel God offers himself, his Son, his Spirit, his Grace, his Kingdom, and all the Glory of another World. Now for men to despise and contemn these offers. is the highest ingratitude and unthankfulness imaginable and therefore no wonder if God burn such men up, and turn them out of house and home. Such justly deserve the worst of Judgments, who despise the best of mercies. ftrongest and the sweetest wine always makes the sharpest vinegar; the freest, the richest, and the choicest offers of mercy, if flighted and contemned, turn into the greatest fury and severity. Divine wrath smoaks and burns against none so fiercely, as it doth against those who are despilers of Gospelmercies. When gold is offered, men care not how great or how base he is that offers it : neither is it material by whom the Gospel is brought unto us, whether it be brought unto us by Isaiah, as some think, a Prophet of the blood Royal, or by Amos from amongst the Herdmen of Tekba. Let the hand be more noble or more mean that brings it, if it be flighted and contemned, provoked Justice-will revenge it. Such as flight the Gospel, and contemn the Gospel, they fin with a high hand against the remedy, against the means of their recovery. This is the condemnation, this is that Joh. 3. 19. desperate sin that hastens Judgments upon Cities and Countries, as Jury, Asia, Bobemia, and other parts of the world have fadly experienced. He that hath eat poylon, and shall despile the means of his recovery, must certainly dye for it. He who when he hath committed Treason against his Prince. shall not only refuse, but scorn and slight his Princes favour and pardon, and sling it from him with dildain, is afforedly

Heb. 2. 2. Chap. 10.28.

Hierom reports of Uzzah, that his shoulder was shrunk up and withered; he carted the Ark when he fhould have carried it on his shoulder: therefore that part was branded for past all help and hope. Sins against the Gospel are sins of a greater fize, of a louder cry, and of a deeper dye, then fins against the Law are, and accordingly God suits his Judgments. Where the Gospel shines in power, it will either mend a people, or mar a people: it will either better them, or worsen them; it will either fit them for the greatest good, or it will bring upon them the greatest evils : Where it doth not reform, there it will destroy. And this London hath found by woful experience. Slighting and contemning of the offers of grace in the Gospel, is a fin that is not chargeable upon the greatest part of the world, who lyeth in wickedness, and who sit in darkness, and in the region and shadow of death; yea. 'tis a fin that is not chargeable upon the Devils themselves. and therefore the more severely will God deal with those that are guilty of it. The Gospel hath for above this hundred years shined forth out of the dark and thick clouds of Popery and Antichristianism which had over-spread the Nation. And in no part of the Land hath the Gospel been preached with more clearness, spiritualness, life, power, and purity then in London. And Oh that I had not cause to say, that there was no part of the Nation where the Gospel was more undervalued, flighted, and contemned by many then in London! For.

Math. 4. 16.

First, Where the faithful and painful Ministers of the Gospel are slighted and contemned as Ministers of the Gospel, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned. Now were there none within nor without thy Walls, O London! that did slight, scorn, reproach, and contemn the Embassadors of Christ, who were faithful to their Light, their Lord, their Consciences, and the Souls of their Hearers ? But,

Math. 23.37. Luke 10.16.

2.

Secondly, Where the Ministrations of the Gospel, where the Ordinances of the Gospel are slighted and contemned, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned; yea, where any one Ordinance of the Gospel is slighted and contemned, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned. Where Baptism is slighted and contemned, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned. Where the Lords Supper is slighted and contemned.

there the Gospel is slighted and contemned; where the offers of the Gospel are slighted and contemned, there the Gospel is flighted and contemned : where the commands of the Golpel are flighted and contemned, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned; where the threatnings of the Gospel are Highted and contemned, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned; where the promises of the Gospel are slighted and contemned, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned; and where the comforts of the Gospel are slighted and contemned, there the Gospel is slighted and contemned. Now were there none within nor without thy Walls. O London, that did flight and contemn the Ministrations of the Gospel, the Ordinances of the Gospel? When old Barzillai had lost his tafte and hearing, he cared not for Davids Feafts and Mufick. There were many within and without the Walls of London that had loft their spiritual taste and hearing, and so cared not for Gospel-ministrations, for Gospel-ordinances, There were many, who under a pretence of living above Ordinances, lived below Ordinances, and made light of Ordinances; yea, who fcomed, vilified, and contemned the precious Ordinances of Christ. Thou art to them as a lovely fong, faith the Prophet: in the Hebrew it runs thus, Thou art to them as one that breaks jests. The Solemnity and Majesty of the Word was but as a dry jest unto them; Ordinances were but as dry jests to many within and without the Walls of London; and therefore no wonder if God hath been in such good earnest with them who have made but a jest of those precious Ordinances, that are more worth then Heaven and Earth. Many came to the Ordinances too much like the Egyptian Dog, which laps a little as he runs by the fide of Nilus. but stays not to drink. But.

Thirdly, Such as are weary of the Gospel, such slight the Gospel, such contemn the Gospel. Never were the Israelites more weary of Manna, then many within and without the Walls of London were weary of the plain and powerful preaching of the Gospel. We were better have a biting Gospel then a toothless Mass, said blessed Bradford. But were there not some that had rather have a toothless Mass then a

A man upon whom the Gospel hath wrought favingly, he will, I. prize all the Ordinances, 2. pradicall the Ordinances, 3. praise the Lord for all the Ordinances.

Luke 1. 5, 6. 2 Sam 19.35.

Ezek, 33. 31,

3.

Numb. 11.6. Amos 8, 5.

biting

biting Gospel? Were there not many that were willing to let God go, and Gospel go, and Ordinances go, and all go, so they might be eased of their burdens and taxes, and greaten their relations, and have peace with all Nations, and enjoy a sweeping trade, and every one sit under his vine and under his sig-tree, eating the fat, and drinking the sweet, and enjoy liberty to dishonour the Lord, to gratiste their lusts, to damn their own Souls, and to bring others under their seet, so weary were they of the blessed Gospel?

1 Cor. 1. 23.

Fourthly, Such as have but a low and mean opinion of the Gospel, such are slighters and contemners of the Gospel; such as prefer every toy, and trifle, and fashion, and finful cuftom, and base lust above the light of the Gospel, the power of the Gospel, the purity and simplicity of the Gospel, the holiness and sweetness of the Gospel, such are slighters and contempers of the Gospel. Though it be better to present truth in her native plainness, then to hang her ears with counterfeit Pearls; yet there were many that fet a greater price upon the arts, the parts, the gifts, the studied notions and Seraphical expressions of their Ministers, then they did upon the Gospel it self: and what was this but to prefer the Handmaid before the Mistress, the Servant before his Lord, the flowers about the dish before the meat that was in the difh, the chaff before the Wheat, and Pebbles before the richest Pearls? The Gospel is the field, and Christ is the Treasure that is hid in that field; the Gospel is a Ring of gold, and Christ is the Pearl in that Ring of gold: and yet how many were there within and without the Walls of London, that put no confiderable price or value upon the Gospel? But.

Fifthly, Such as wilfully disobey the Gospel, and live and walk in ways quite cross and contrary to the Gospel, such are slighters and contemners of the Gospel, and accordingly the Lord will deal with them: Take one Text for all, 2 Thest 1.7, 8, 9. And to you who are troubled rest with us when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from beaven with his mighty Angels in slaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know

know not God, and that obey not the Goffel of our Lord Telus, Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the prefence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power. This is a more terrible Text against all such as are either ignorant of the Gospel, or that disobey the Gospel, then any is to be found in all the Old Testament. In the last day Christ will take vengeance in flaming fire on them that disobey his Gos. pel, and that walk contrary to the Rules of his Gospel; and therefore no wonder, if before that day he lays their habitations desolate by a flaming fire, whose lives give the lye to his glorious Gospel. These men above all others, expose the Gospel to the derission and contempt of the basest and vilest men. When some of the Heathens have lookt upon the loofe lives of Profesfors, they have said, Aut boc non est Evangelium, aut bi non funt Christiani, Either this is not the Gospel, in which there is so much goodness, or these are not Christians, in whom there is none at all. Did you never hear nor read of one, who eying the loofe conversations of Profesors, cryed out, Sit anima mea cum Philosophis, Let my Soul be rather with the honest Philosophers (who were Heathen) then with these wicked lewd men that are called Christians? Now were there none within nor without the Walls of London that did wilfully disobey the Gospel, and that walkt in ways quite cross and contrary to the Gospel? furely there were, and therefore at their doors we may fafely lay the burning of London. But.

Sixthly and lastly, Such as slighted, scorned, and contemned the faithful, sincere, serious, gracious, and conscientious Prosessions of the Gospel, such slighted, scorned, and contemned the Gospel it self. When the Jews were in prosperity, it was the manner of the Samaritans to repute themselves their nearest Cousins. When the Jews were in a thriving and flourishing condition, then the Samaritans could derive their Pedigree from Ephraim and Manufes, the Sons of Joseph: but when the Jews were in any treat affliction, or under persecution, then they would deny all acquaintance with them, and all relation to them. When Prosession was

Joseph. Antiq. lib. 11, cap. 8 in fashion, and Religion was in credit, how many were there within and without the Walls of London, that did pretend to be kin, to be Coufins to the serious, conscientious, and sincere Prosessor of the Gospel, who since the day of their affliction, have not only denied all acquaintance with them, and renounced all relation to them, but also are turned slighters, scorners, and contemners of them? if these may not be reckoned among the slighters; scorners, and contemners of the Gospel, I do not know who may. To sum up all, I have shewed you that slighting, scorning, and contemning of the Gospel, i a sin of that high nature, that it provokes the Lord to lay Cities desolate. I have shewed you the greatness of that sin, and the persons that are guilty of it; so that now you may point with a singer to those persons that have laid London in ashes.

But before I close up this Particular, give me leave to say, That this sin of slighting, scorning, and contemning of the Gospel, I dare not charge upon those that truly fear the Lord, and that have found the Gospel to be a Gospel of power upon their own Souls, turning them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to Jesus Christ. And I shall freely give you my Reasons, that you may be the better satisfied, that 'twas not so much their sins as your own, that has brought down that heavy Judgment of Fire upon the City, wherein once you and they had your respective habitations. My Reasons are these.

1 Thef. 1.5, 6, 7. Acts 26.18.

I.

Ezek. 9. 4. 6.

First, Those that did truly sear the Lord, and that had experienced the power of the Gospel in a saving way upon their own Souls, they did frequently before the Lord bewail and mourn over (both together and apart) that hai nous sin of slighting, scorning, and contemning of the Gospel which many were guilty of, whose habitations were then some within, and others without the Walls of London. The Jews have a Law which enjoyns them to take up any paper which they see lying on the ground, and the reason is, less happily the Name of God be written in the paper, and ignorantly rantly trodden under foot. Though Christians ought to be free from such superstitious curiosities; yet they ought to be very careful, that the least tittle of the Gospel, the least command of the Gospel be not trod under foot. Now the Saints who once lived within and without the Walls of London, who through grace have experienced the saving power of the Gospel upon their own Souls, how have they mourned and lamented to see that glorious Gospel of Christ trod under foot, which they have layer so near their hearts! and therefore I cannot fairly charge this sin upon them. But,

Secondly, Slighting, scorning, and contemning of the Gospel, is a great step towards the sin against the holy Ghost, and a sin of so great a cry, and so deep a dye, that I cannot at present find where 'tis in Scripture charged upon such as truly fear the Lord, and that have really experienced the power of the Gospel in a saving way upon their own Souls; and therefore I cannot fairly charge this sin upon them.

Thirdly, Next to God, the Gospel is the most sweet and delightful thing in all the world to gracious Souls, who have experienced the faving power of it upon themselves. Luther found so much sweetness in it, that it made him say, that he would not live in Paradife if he might without the Word (at cum Verbo etiam in inferno facile est vivere) but with the Word he could live in Hell it felt. Dolphins, they fay, love Musick, and so do gracious Souls love the Musick of the Gospel. The Gospel is like the stone Garamantides, that hath drops of gold within it felf, enriching all that will embrace ir, and conform to it: and this the Saints have found by experience; and therefore they cannot but delight in it, and draw sweetness from it. Agluinidas never relished any dish better then what was distasted by others: So do the Saints relish that Gospel best that others distaste most; and therefore I cannot charge this fin fairly upon them. But,

Fourthly, There are none that do so highly prize the Gospel, and that set so high a value upon the Gospel, as those

Heb. 2. 3. Chap. 10. 28,

Plal. 19. 10, 11.
Plal. 119. 72.
103. 127.
Job 23. 12.
Auftin crys, away with our writings, that room may be made for the Book of God.

4

Rev. 12.11. Rev. 2.12,13. Heb. 11.33, 38. Luther Speaking of the Gofpel, faith, that the shortest line and the least letter thereof is more then all Heaven and Earth. Teriul. Apol. cap: 5:

do who have experienced the faving power of the Gospel upon their own Souls; such prefer the Gospel before all their nearest and dearest concernments and enjoyments that they have in this world: As might be made evident from their practice in the primitive times, and in the Marian days, and in those late years that are now past over our heads. Tabernacle was covered over with red (and the purple Feathers tell us, they take that habit for the same intent) to note, that we must defend the truth of the Gospel, even to the effusion of blood; and this they have made good in all the Ages of the World, who have found the saving power of the Gospel upon their own Souls. Tertullian concludes, that the Golpel must needs be a precious thing, because Nero hated it; and indeed it was so precious to the Saints in his days, that they very willingly and chearfully laid down their lives for the Gospel sake. Now the same Spirit rests upon the Saints in our days, and therefore upon this ground I cannot charge that horrid fin of flighting, scorning, and contemning of the Gospel upon them. Israel had three Crowns (as the Talmud observes) 1. of the King, 2. of the Prich, 3. of the Law; but the Crown of the Law, that was the chief of the three.

Fifthly, Who were so ready and free to countenance the Gospel, and to maintain the Gospel, and to encourage the saithful and painful Preachers of the Gospel, as those that had found the sweet of the Gospel, and the saving power of the Gospel upon their own Souls. They like well of Religion without expence in Basil, and a Gospel without charge in Nazianzene; but if it grow costly, tis no commodity for their money. Now this was the very frame and temper of many thousands in London, who never experienced the saving work of the Gospel upon their poor Souls: but they were of unother frame and temper of spirit in London, upon whom the Gospel was fallen in power; and therefore I may not charge upon them this odious sin of slighting, scorning, and contemning the Gospel. But,

Sixthly, Who were there within or without the Walls of London.

6.

London, that were so much in a hearty and serious bleffing, praising, and admiring of the Lord and his goodness, for bringing them forth in Gospel-times, as those that had a saving work of the Gospel upon their own Souls? When Alexander was born, his Father Philip bleffed such Gods as he had, not so much that he had a Son, as that he had him in Ariftotles days : he was thankful for natural and moraldifcoveries. The clearest, the choicest, the fullest, and the (weetest visions and discoveries that we have of God on this fide Eternity, we have in the Gospel, and this they frequently experience, who have found the Gospel falling in power upon their Souls; and therefore they cannot but always have Harps in their hands, and Hallelujahs in their mouths upon this very account, that they have lived under the warm Sun-shine of the Gospel; and therefore I shall not charge this vile fin of flighting, scorning, and contemning the Gospel upon them who above all other men were most exercised in a serious and hearty blessing and praising of God for his glorious Gospel. Some there were that bleft God for their yearly incomes; and others there were that bleft God for their prosperous relations and friends: and many there were that bleft God for their deliverance from various perils and dangers. But those that had the Gospel working in power upon them, they made it their business and work above all to bless the Lord for the Gospel; and therefore who dare charge upon them the contempt of the Gospel? But,

Seventhly and laftly, There were none within nor without the Walls of London, that have suffered so many things, and fuch hard things for the enjoyment of the Gospel in its power and purity, as they have done who have found the powerful and faving work of the Gospel upon their own Souls: such have been as figns and wonders in Israel, in London. Now what folly and vanity would it be to charge Ma. 8. 18. them with flighting, fcorning, and contemning of the Gofpel, who have been the only sufferers for the Gospel sake. And thus much for the twelfth fin that brings the fiery Dic pensation upon Cities and People.

Rev. 14. 1. 2. Chap. 19. 1. to verf. 8

1 Sam. 23.7.
1 Kings 4. 13.
2 Chron. 8.5.
Chap. 14.7.
Jer. 49. 31.
and Chap. 51.
30.
Lam. 2. 9.

Amos I. S.

The fin that brings the fiery Dispensation upon a People, and that provokes the Lord to lay their Cities desolate, is a course, a trade of lying, Nahum 3 1. Wo to the bloody City, it is all full of lyes. Verse 7. And it shall come to pass, that all they that look upon thee shall flee from thee, and say Nineveb is laid waste, who will bemoan her? whence shall I seek comforters for thee? Verse 12. Behold thy people in the midst of thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be fet wide open to thine enemies : the fire shall devour thy bars, that is, thy firing holds; for so the word bars is frequently taken, as you may see by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together. was a great City, a rich City, a populous City, a trading City: twas a City that was wholly made up of fraud and falshood; it was all full of lyes, or it was full of all sorts of lyes: there was no truth to be found either in her private contracts, or in her publick transactions and capitulations with other Nations: and therefore the Lord resolves to lay her desolate, and to consume her with fire. And they bend their tongues like their bow for lyes. And they will deceive every one his neighbour, and will not feek the truth : they have taught their tongue to freak lyes, and weary themselves to commit iniquity. Verse 9. Shall I not visit for thefe things ? faith the Lord : Shall not my foul be avenged on such a nation as this ? Verse 10. For the mountains will I take up a weeping and wailing, and for the habitations of the wilderness a lamentation, because they are burnt up : so that none can pass through them, neither can men bear the voice of the cattel, both the fowl of the heavens, and the beafts are fled, they are gone. Verle 11. And I will make Jerusalem beaps (as London is this day) and a den of dragons, and I will make the cities of Judah desolate, without an inhabitant, Verse 12. Who is the wise man that may understand this? and who is he to whom the mouth of the Lord bath Boken, that he may declare it, for what the land perisheth, and is burnt up like a wilderness that none passeth through? The Jews had so inured and accustomed their tongues to speak lyes, they had got such a haunt, a habit, and custom of lying, that they could not leave it : And this was the procuring cause of that dreadful and utter deva-Station station that betel their City and Country. Hof. 4. 1, 2, 3. Hear the Word of the Lord ye children of Ifrael, for the Lord bith a controverfie with the inhabitants of the land because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land. By (wearing, and lying, and killing, and fealing, and committing adultery, they break out, and blood toucheth blood. fore fall the land minen, and every one that dwelleth therein hall lan wish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be taken away. people made it their common practice to lye, they were given up to a course, a trade of lying, which God here threatens to punish with an extream and universal desolation. lye is a voluntary and wilful telling of an untruth, with a purpose to deceive; so that three things are required to the nature of a lye. 1. There must be an untruth and falleness in the thing. 2. This untruth must be known to be so, he must be conscious to himself that it is falle. 3. He must have an intent and purpose to utter this falshood with a desire or defign to deceive another by it. Augustine makes eight forts of Lyes; but the School-men reduce all to three. 1. Is jocosum, the sporting Lye. 2. Is officiosum, the helpful Lye. Is perniciofum, the pernicious and hurtful Lye,

Jet. 13, 23.

First, There is mendacium jocosum, the sporting Lye; and this is when men will lye and tell untruths to make men sport, to make men merry. Of this fin the Prophet Hofea complains, Chap. 7.3. They make the King glad with their wickednes, and the Princes with their lyes. Courtiers frame fictions, and tell ridiculous stories to delight Princes. Among many Courtiers loud lyes are effected ornaments and elegancies of speech; and none are accounted sosweet and pleafant in their discourse, as those that can tell the most pleasing lyes: but such Mirth-mongers and Mirth-makers may do well to remember, that such kind of mirth will bring bitterness in the end. If for every idle word that men shall speak, they must give an account in the day of Judgment, then surely much more for every lying word. And if foolish talking and jesting be condemned, then surely lying talking, and iesting

It is a received opinion in these days, that, Qui nescit dissimulare, nescit vivere.

Math. 12, 36. Phil. 5. 4.61 jesting shall be much more condemned, if not here, yet in the great day, when all lying Jesters shall hold up their hands at Christs Bar. Now were there none within nor without the Walls of London, that were guilty of merry lyes, of sporting lyes? But,

2.

Exod. 3. 15. to the 20. Josh. 2. 1. to verf. 9. 1 Kings 13. 14. to 27.

Gen. 27. 19.

Rom. 3. 8.

Job 13. 7.

Secondly. There is mendacium officiosum, the officious lye. the helpful lye; and that is when a man lyes to help himfelf or others at a pinch, at a dead lift. When men lye either to prevent some danger they fear, or else to bring about some good they desire, then they tell an officious lyc. the Egyptian Midwives lyed, and thus Rahab lyed, and thus the old Prophet lyed, who contrary to the command of God, perswaded the man of God to go back and eat bread with him under the pretence of a divineRevelation. And thus Facob told his father an officious (threefold) lye, but he hardly ever had a merry day, a good day after it; for God followed him with variety of troubles, and his forrows, like Jobs Mccsengers, came posting in one after another, even to his dying day, that both himself and others might see what bitterness is wrapt up in officious lyes. Solon reproving Thespis (the Poet) for lying, Thespis answered him, that it was not material, sceing it was but in sport; then Solon beating the ground with his staff, said, If we commend lying in sport, we shall find it afterwards in good earnest. In all our bargains and dealings, let us make it our wisdom and our work to remember, That we must not do evil, that good may come; yea, we must not tell a lye to save all the Souls under Heaven. The Prisciallanists in Spain (a most pestilentious Scot) taught in Augustines time. That it was lawful to lye for the helping of a good cause, and for the propagating of the Gospel, and for the advantage of Religion. But Augustine consuted them, and floutly afferts in two Books, That we are not to tellan officiouslye, to tell a lye for no hunt, but for good, though it were to fave all the world. Will ye fleak wicked. ly for God, and talk deceitfully for him? faith Job to his friends? A man may as well commit fornication with the Moabitee to draw them to our Religion, or steal from the rich ! rich to give to the poor, as lye to do another man a good i Nepos reporteth of Epaminondas, a noble man of Thebes, and a famous Warriour, that he would never lye in jest nor in carnest, either for his own or anothers gain. This refined Heathen will one day rise in Judgment against such kind of Christians, who take a great pleasure in officious lye. Now were there none within nor without the Walls of London, that delighted themselves in officious lyes ? But,

Thirdly, (and to come closer to our work) There is mendacium perniciosum, the pernicious and hurtful Lye: and this of all lyes is the worst. When men will lye out of a defign to hurt, to cheat, to defraud, or to make a prey of those they deal with: this is the sorest of all lyes. Now how rampant was this fort of Lying among all forts of Citizens before London was in flames? What a common trade of lying did many (I say not all) drive in their buying and selling? The trade of lying was got into every Trade, as if there had been no living but by lying? Many Sellers had their lyes to fet off their Commodities: it is good, it is very good, it's special good, it's the best of its kind; when 'twas naught, very naught, yea, flark naught: of this fort there are none fo good in the City, when their consciences told them, that they had much better in their own Shops; that their Commodity cost them so much, and that they could not abate, nor would not abate any thing of that price they had pitcht, though it were to their own father or mother; and yet rather then they would lose a good Customer, they presently agree at a lower price. And so when poor Workmen came to their Shops, and offered their Commodities to fell, being forced thereunto for the relief of themselves and their miserable families, they slighted their Commodities, telling them, that they had no need of them, and that they had much of those Commodities upon their hands already, and that they had no way to vend them; and all to beat down the price, and to make a prey of their preffing necessity; and all this when they wanted those very Commodities, and had more vend for them then they knew how

Q 2

Gen. 39. 13. to the 20. 2 Kings 4. 22, 23.

how to supply. Now as the Seller abounded with his lyes, so the Buyer had his lyes too; and all to bring down the price: it's naught, it's naught, it's very naught, faith the Buyer. I will not give you your price, and yet gives it before he goes out of the Shop or Ware-house. I have bought as good, yea, better for a lower price then what I offer you (faith the Buyer) when yet he had never bought of that Commodity before. Useme well (faith the Buyer) and you shall have my custom another time, when in his heart he re-Ah. Lonfolves never to come into the Seller's Shop more. don! London! cis these Lyes and Lyars that have made thee desolate, and that have laid thy glory in the dust. Sirs ! a man were better be a lofer then a lyar, a man ewere better, much better, to keep his Commodity, then to le I his Conscience with his Commodity. We have the Turks for selling of Christians for Slaves; and what shall we then think of those Citizens, who by lying sell themselves and their precious Souls for half a Crown, yea, oftentimes for a Penny ? I have read that there was a time when the Romans did wear Jewels on their shoes; but Lyars do worse; for they trample that matchless Jewel, viz. their precious Souls under feet. Doubtless the lyes that were told in London, and the Lyars that lived in London, did more then a little help on the ruine of London. Now that you may the better, read and understand the Righteousness of God in his highest acts of severity against Lyes and Lyars, premise with me briefly these four things:

First, That lying is a very great sin, 'cis a transgression not of one, but of many of the Royal Laws of Heaven, Levit.

19. 11. Te shall not lye one to another. Zacha. 8. 16. Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour. Eph. 4. 25. Where fore putting away lying, sheak every man truth with his neighbour; for we are members one of another. In the body of man one member will not lye to another; the hand will not lye, in telling what it toucheth; the tongue will not lye, in telling what it tasteth; the eye will not lye, in telling what it seeth: but every member is a true witness to another, a true witness to his neighbour; and so it should be both in the Politick Body, and in the Mystical Body of Christ, seeing we are members one of another. Every one should speak the truth with his neighbour: One member in the natural body will not mock another, nor make a fool of another; and why then should one Christian by lying mock another, or make a fool of another ? Tremellius translates it thus: Ne fatuum agito, Do not play the fool with him. For certainly he is the veriest fool, who by lying thinketh to make a fool of another, Col. 3. 9. Lye not one to another, feeing that ye have put off the old man with his dieds. Gods Commands are not like those that are easily reversed, but they are like those of the Meder, that cannot be changed. To act or run cross Dan. 6. to Gods express command (though under presence of Revelation from God) is as much as a mans life; is worth, as you may fee in that fad flory, I Kings 13. Tis a dangeron thing for a man to neglect one of his commands, who by Obedientia non another is able to command him into nothing, or into Hell. What God commands must be put in speedy execution, without denying, or delaying, or disputing the difficulties that attend it. The great God will not endure to be called to an account by the poor Creature concerning his Royal Commands; but expects that with all readiness and chearfulness we should obey what he requires, even when the reafon of our obedience is hid from our eyes; for then grace thines most transparently and gloriously. I have read of one Tohannes Abbas, who being commanded by his Confessor to Cassiarus 1 4. go some miles every day to water a dry stick; which he accordingly did out of a pure respect to the command of his Superior, without disputing the reason of it. Oh, how much more then should we readily obey divine commands; which are all holy; foiritual, just and good; confidering the Author rity, Soveraighty, and Majesty of the great God, without diff puring the reasons of our obedience for let a mans reasone though never to many and weighty, be put into one scale and Gods absolute command weighed against them in the other. the man may well write TEKEL, They are weighed in Dan. 5. 27. the ballance, and found too light. O Sirs! the Angels thit Plal. 103. 20.

truc

diseutit Dei ... mandata fed facit. Pro-

Nan box3

Gen. 22.

Cap. 24.

excel in strength do his Commandments; and shall the Peafant scorn that work in which the Prince himself is engaged? The Commands of God, both in the Old and New Testament, lye fair and full against lying: and therefore no wonder, if God revenge the habitual breach of them in flames of The Holy Ghost in the Hebrew tongue calleth a Lye Aven, which also signifiesh Iniquity; implying that all lyes are iniquity, and that all iniquity is after a fort included in a lye, which doth sufficiently evidence, that lying is no small fin. I might further argue thus, That which is contrary to God, who is the choicest and the chiefest good; yea, who is goodness and truth it self, that must needs be the greatest evil: but lying is contrary to the Nature, Effence, and Being of God, witness the description that he gives of himself both in the Old and New Testament. And the Lord passed by before bim, and proclaimed, the Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth. So Moses in his Song : He is a God of truth, and wuhous iniquity, just and right is be. So Esay: He who bleffeth bimself in the earth, shall bless himself in the God of truth; and be that speareth in the earth, shall swear by the God of truth So the Pfalmist: Thou hast redeemed me, O Lord God of truth. Again, Thou, O Lord, art plenteous in mercy and truth. So in the New Testament: Let God be true, and every man a lyar. Again, They themselves shew how ye turned to God from Idols, to serve the living and true God, Though God can make a world with a word of his mouth, and mar a world with a word of his mouth; yet he can neither dye nor lye. Titus 1. 2. In hope of eternal life, which God that cannot lye, promised before the world began: yea, it is impossible for God to lye. Heb. 6, 18. That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lye. Now by all these plain pregnant Texts tis most evident, that lying is most opposite and contrary to the very Nature, Effence, and Being of God; and herefore no wonder, if the anger and wrath of God rifes' high against it. But,

Exod. 34.6.

Deut. 32. 4. Ifa. 65. 16.

Pfal. 31. 5. Pfal. 86. 15.

Rom. 3.4. Gen. 1. Chap. 6.

Secondly, Consider this, that pernicious Lyes and Lyars are very destructive to all humane Societies, Kingdoms, and Common-wealths. Lying destroys all Society, all Commerce, and Converse among the Sons of men. Man (as the Philosopher observeth) is (Tor monitandy, a sociable Creature. Speech is the means whereby men have society and commerce one with another. Now lying perverts that order which the God of truth hath appointed to be among the Sons of men, Tis the will and pleasure of God, that the Sons of men conversing together, should by their words and speeches and discourses impart and communicate their minds, defigns, intentions, and meanings one to another, for the mutual good of one another, and for the profit and benefit of the whole. Now if there be nothing in mens words, but lying, deceit, and fraud instead of truth, what can follow but confusion and desolation? When the language of men was confounded, so that one could not tell what another spake, then presently followed the diffolution of their combination; for the Lord scattered them abroad from thence, upon the face of all the Earth, and they left off to build the City: when one asked brick (faith a Rabbin) another brought clay, and then they fell together by the ears, and one dashed out the others brains; and by this means their communion was diffolved, and God brought on them the evil which they fought to prevent, verf. 4. But furely a lying tongue is a far worfe enemy to Society then an unknown tongue: and much better it is for a man to have no fociety at all, then with fuch as he cannot believe what they fay; or if he do, he shall be fure to be deceived by them. Concerning such, we may well take up the words of Facob: O my foul, come not thou into their fecret, unto their affembly; mine bonour, be not thou united. And pray with David : Deliver my foul, O Lord, from lying lips, and from a deceitful tongue. Teremiah did so loath and abominate the society of Lyars, that he had rather live in a Wilderness, then live among them, or have any thing to do with them. Lyars destroy that Communion and Society that by the Law of God, Nature, and Nations they ought to preserve and maintain. Lying dissolves that mutual trust that we should have with one another; for hereby all Contracts.

Gen. 11.7, 8.

R. sal.
The Hebrew Doctors fay, that at this dispersion there were seventy Nations with seventy fundry languages.
Gen. 49.6.
Pial. 120.2.
Jer. 9. 1, to
the 6.

Mendax hoc lucratur, ut cum vera dixerit, ei non creda ur. tracts, Covenants, and Intercourse of dealings between man and man, which is (as it were) the life of the Kingdom or Common-wealth, are quite overthrown, When men make no conscience of lying, not of keeping their word any further hen either fear of los, or force of Law compelleth them, Il Civil communion is at an end. There can be no trust where there is no truth, nor no Commerce with those that cannot be trusted. The Scythians had a Law, that if any man did (duo peccata contorquere) bind two fins together, a ye and an oath, he was to lose his head, because this was the way to take away all faith and truth among men. Law been put in execution in London, I have reason enough to tear that many Citizens would have lost their heads long before they had lost their houses by the late dreadful Fire. Now seeing that pernicious lying, a course, a trade of lying, is so destructive to humane Society, why should we wonder to see the Lord appear in flaming fire against it? But,

Titus 1.2. Ifa, 65.16.

Thirdly, Consider, that lying is a sin that is most odious and hateful to God; yea, a fin that makes men odious and hateful to him. Lying is repugnant unto God; for God is מלביש להי שמו He is שלהי שלה the God of truth, and therefore lying cannot but be odious to him. God is faid not only to forbid a lye, but to hate a lye. Allye, tis an abomination. Now we abominate that which is contrary to our natures. Amongst those things that are an abounination to the Lord, a lying tongue is reckoned, Prov. 6. 16, 17. These fix things do th the Lord hate, yea, seven are an abomination to him. A proud look, a lying tongue, or as the Hebrew runs, a tongue of lying, that is, a tongue that hath learned the trade, and can do it artificially; a tongue that is accustomed to lying, a tongue that is delighted in lying. So Verse 19. A false witness that speaketh lyes, and him that someth discord among brethren. Among these seven things abominated by God, lying is twice repeated, to note how great an abomination lying is in the eye and account of God, Prov. 12.22. Lying lips are an abomination to the Lord; not only offensive or odious, but abominable. Lyars pervert the end for for which God created speech, which was to give light to the notions of the mind, and therefore the Lord loaths them, and plagues them in this life with great severity, as you may fee in those sad instances of Gebazi, whose lye was punished with a perpetual leprofic upon himself and his posterity; and of Ananias and Sapphira, who for their lying were punished with present and sudden death; and of Haman, who slandering Mordecai and the Jews, and by his lyes plotting their ruine, was taken in the same snare that he had laid for them, and both he and his Sons hanged upon the same Gallows which he had made for innocent Mordecai. The fame Lyar that was feathing with the King one day, was made a feast for Crows the next day. Dreadful are the threatnings that the great God has given out against lyars, Pfal. 5. 6. Thou halt destroy them that sheak leasing. Such as lye in jen, will without repentance go to Hell in earnest. Pfal. 12.3. The Lord shall cut off all flattering lips, and the tongue that peaketh proud things. God by one Judgment or another, in one way or another, will cut off all flattering lying lips, as a rotten member is cut off from the body, or as a barren tree that is stocked up, that it may cumber the ground no more, Pfal. 120. 2,3,4. Deliver my foul, O Lord, from lying lipsand from a deceitful tongue! What shall be given unto thee ? or what shall be done unto thee, thou false tongue? (harp arrows of the Mighty (God will retaliate sharp for sharp) with coals of juniper. The coals of Juniper burn hot, and last long (some (ay, a month and more) and smell sweet. Now upon these coals will God broil lying lips, and a deceitful tongue, pleafing himself and others in the execution of his wrath upon a lying tongue, Prov. 19. 5. A falle witness shall not be unpunished, and be that speaketh lyes shall not escape. Though men sometimes by lying may escape the displeasure of men; yet they shall never by lying escape the wrath and displeasure of God. Wrath is for that man, and that man is for wrath, who hath taught his tongue the trade of lying, Haf. 12. 1. Ephraim daily increaseth lyes and desolation. Desolation is the fruit and consequent of lying; sin and punishment are inseparable companions: they who heap up lyes, hasten defolation!

2 Kings 5. 20. to the end. Acts 5. 5. to the II. Efth. 3. 8, 9, 10, II.

Chap. 7. 9. And Chap. 9. 13, 14. folation both upon themselves and the places where they live. Now if lying be a sin so hateful and odious to God, no wonder, if God appears in slaming fire against it. But,

Fourthly and lastly, Lying is a fin against the Light and Law of Nature, it is a fin against natural Conscience; and therefore 'cis that a little child will blush many times when he tells a lye. It was observed of Pomponius Atticus, Ciceroes great Friend, that he never used lying, neither could he with patience lend his ear to a Lyar. Tennes the Son of Cyrnus (who was worshipped as a God) was so strict in judgment, that he caused an Ax to be held over the witnesses head to execute them out of hand, if they were taken with fa'shood or a lye. Among the Scythians, when their Priests foretold an untruth, they were carried along upon hurdles full of heath and dry wood drawn by oxen, and manacled hand and foot, and burnt to death. Aristotle faith, by the light of natural Reason, that a lye is evil in in self, and cannot be dispensed withal, it being contrary to the Order of Nature. For (faith he') we have tongues given us to express our minds and meanings one to another by. Now if our tongues tell more or less then our minds conceive, it is against Nature. It is said of Epaminondas a Heathen, that he abhorred mendacium jocosum a jesting lye. Plutarch calls Lying a Tinkerly fin, a fin that is both hateful and shameful. Euripedes faith, that he is unhappy, who rather useth lyes, though feemingly good, then truths when he judgeth them evil. To think the truth faith Plato, is honest, but a filthy and dishonest thing to lye. I could (saith my Author) both sigh and smile at the simplicity of some Pagan people in America, who having told a lye, used to let their tongues blood in expiation thereof. A good cure for the Squinancy, but no satisfaction for lying. These Heathens will one day rise in Judgment against such amongst us as make no confcience of lying. To bring things close; those that fived within and without the Walls of London, that were given up to a trade, a course of lying, those persons sinned with a high hand, not only against the Light of Nature, but also against as clear, as glorious a Gospel-

Arist. Ethic. lib. 4. cap. 7. Gospel-light, as ever shined round a people since Christ was upon the Earth; and therefore no wonder, if God hath laid their City in ashes. He that shall seriously dwell upon these four things, viz. 1. That lying is a very great sin. 2. That Lyes and Lyars are very destructive to all humane Societies, Kingdoms, and Common-wealths. 3. That Lying is a sin most hateful and odious to God. 4. That Lying is a sin against the Light and Law of Nature; he will see cause enough to justifie the Lord in that late dreadful Fire that has thus been amongst us.

But before I close up this Particular, give me leave to say, That this trade, this course of Lying that brings that fore Judgment of Fire upon Cities and Countries, I cannot charge with any clear evidence upon those that did truly sear the Lord, whose habitations were once within or without the Walls of London, before it was turned into a ruinous heap; and that upon these grounds.

First. Because a trade, a course of Lying is not confisent with the truth or state of Grace. A trade, a courle of drunkennels, of whoring, of swearing, of curfing, is as inconsistent with a state of Grace, as a trade, a course of Lying is. know Jacob lyed, and David lyed, and Peter lyed; but none of these were ever given up to a trade of lying, to a course of lying. The best Saints have had their extravagant motions, and have fadly miscarried as to particular actions: but he that shall judge of a Christians estate by particular acts, though notorious bad, will certainly condemn where God acquits. We must always distinguish between some single evil actions and a serious course of evil actions. It is not this or that particular evil action, but a continued course of evil actions that denominates a man wicked. As it is not this or that particular good act, but a continued course of holy actions that denominates a man holy. Every man is as his coprie is; if his course be holy, the man is holy; if his course be wicked, the man is wicked. There is a Maxime in Logick, viz, That no general Rule, can be established upon a particular Instance. And there is another Maxime in Logick, viz. That

R

Pfal. 139. 23, 24. 1 Joh. 3. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10.

Una aflio non! denominat. no particular Instance can overthrow a general Rule. So here, look as no man can fafely and groundedly conclude from no better premises then from some few particular actions (though in themselves materially and substantially good) that this or that mans spiritual estate is good; so on the other hand, no man ought to conclude because of some particular finful actions and extravagant motions, that this or that mans spiritual estate is bad. A trade of Lying can never stand with a trade of Holiness, a course of Lying can never stand with a course of Godlines. Though the Needle of the Seamans Compass may jog this way and that way; yet the bent of the Needle will still be Northward: So though a Facob. a David, a Peter may have their particular finful joggings this way or that way; yet the bent of their hearts will still be God wards, Christ-wards, Heaven-wards, and Holinesswards. But.

Secondly, Such as did truly fear the Lord within or without the Walls of London, such did in their solemn Addresses to the Lord, both together and apart, lament and bewail that trade, that course of lying that was predominant among many that day; and therefore I dare not charge the trade, the course of lying upon their scores. But,

1 Kings 22.22. Acts 5. 3--10.

Gen. 3

Thirdly, A lye draws its Pedigree from the Devil, and such as make a trade of lying, such are certainly Satans children, Job. 8 44. Te are of your father the devil, and the lust of your father ye will do; be was a murtherer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lye, he speaketh of his own; for he is a lyar, and the sather of it. Satan is the sather of all sins, as well as the sather of lyes; but here he is said to be a Lyar and the Father of it, because by lying he first brought sin into the world. Satan began his kingdom by a lye, and by lyes he still labours to uphold it. He is the Inventer and Author of all the lyes that be in the world. The Devils breasts, says Luther, are very fruitful with lyes. Lyars are the Devils children by imitation; there are none that resemble him so much to the life as Lyars do: they are as like him, as if they were spit out of the very mouth of him. Lying is a part of the Devils Image. Other fins make men like beafts; but this of lying makes men like Devils. Leo speaking of Lying, faith : Totam vim fuam in mendacio diabelus collocavit. omniag; deceptionum genera de boc venenatissimo artis fue fonte produxis: The Devil hath placed his whole strength in lying, and from this most poyloned fountain of his craft, hath he brought forth all kinds of deceit. Now upon this account alfo. I dare not charge the trade of lying upon such who feared the Lord within or without the Walls of London. Though many that make a profession of Christ, are no more like Christ then Michols Image of Goats hair was like David; yet all fuch as are really united to Christ, they are like to Christ, they bear upon them the Image of Christ, they resemble him to the life. Jesus Christ is such a sountain, in which wholoever bathes, and of which wholoever drinks, they shall be sure to be changed into the same likeness from glory to glory (that is, from a lower degree of grace, to a higher degree) even as by the Spirit of the Lord. Such as truly fear the Lord, have an Image of Righteousness and Holiness stampt upon them, and do more resemble Christ then Satan; and therefore the trade of lying may not be charged upon them. But,

Leo de Eloemos. serm. 4.

Joh. 1 16.

2 Cor. 3. 18.

Phil.4. 23, 24.

Fourthly, Have they not chosen rather to suffer, then by lying either to free themselves from sufferings, or to scoure themselves against sufferings? Jerom writes of a brave Woman, that being upon the Rack, bad her Persecutors do their worst; so she was resolved rather to dye then to lye. Has not much of this spirit been upon them; and therefore I dare not charge the trade of lying upon them? But,

Fifthly, Such as truly fear the Lord, they hate lying, Pfal. 119 163. I hate and abhor lying. David hated lying as he hated Hell it felf. So Prov. 13. 5, A righteous man hateth lying. Lying is a noisom stinking weed, and therefore a righteous man abhors to touch it, he hates to come near it, and can by no means endure the scent of it in others, least of 5.

Justin Martyr Apol. 2. pro Christianis. all in himself. Justin Marsyr speaking of the persecuted Christians, hath this memorable Saying (In nostra est porestate, ut quum inquirimur negemus; sed vivere nosum us mendaciter quicquam loquentes) It is in our power, when we are sought for and examined, to deny what we are, what we believe; but we will not live speaking any thing untruly. These blessed Souls so hated and abhorred lying, that they would rather dye then lye. A lye, saith Plato, is odious not only to the Gods, but also to every wise man. Cleobulus, another Heathen, affirmeth, that every wise prudent man hateth a lye. Erasmus had such an Antipathy against lying, that from his youth he would usually tremble at the sight of a noted Lyar. Now upon this account also, I dare not charge the trade of lying upon their score that truly sear the Lord. But, Sixthly, Lying is that fad Character and black Brand that the Lord hath only put upon wicked and ungodly men, Plal. 4. 2. O ye fors of men (ye Grandees who are potent at Court) how long will ye turn my glory into shame? bow long will ye love vanity and seek after leasing? Psal. 58. 3. The wicked are estranged from the womb, they go aftray as soon as they be born speaking lyes, no sooner could they do any thing, but they were doing evil, listing out lyes even as soon as they were born. Isa. 30 8, 9. Now go, write it before them in a table, and note it in a book, that it may be for the time to come, for ever and ever. Why, what must be write? mark vers. 9. That this is a rebellious people, lying children, children that will not hear the law of the Lord. Now upon this account also, I dare not charge the trade of lying upon them that feared the Lord in that great City before it was laid in ashes. But.

Col. 3. 9.

Seventhly, A trade of lying is inconsistent with the Relation of Children, If a. 63. 8. Surely they are my people, children that will not lye, so be man their Saviour. God makes this the ear-mark of his people, that they are children that will not lye. When the Heathen Philosopher was askt, in what things men were most like unto God, he answered, In their speaking of truth. Not lying is one of the choice Characters by which which the Lord doth difference and distinguish his own peculiar people from other men, Zepha. 3.13. The remnant of Israel shall do no iniquity, nor speak lyes: neither shall a deceifful tongue be found in their month. In the primitive times this was a common Saying: Christianus est, non mentietur, He is a Christian, he will not lye. Rev. 14.5. And in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault before the Throne of God. Now upon this account also, I dare not charge the trade of lying upon those gracious Souls that feared the Lord within or without the Walls of London, before it was turned into a ruinous heap. But,

Eighthly and lastly, Lyars are reckoned amongst the bafest and the worst of finners that you read of in all the Book of God, Levit. 19. 11. Te shall not steal, neither deal falsely neither lye one to another. Prov. 6. 16, 17, 18, 19. Thefe fin things doth the Lord bate, yea, feven are an abomination to bim. A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood. An heart that devifeth wicked imaginations, feet that be frift in running to mischief. A falle witnest that freaketh lyes, and him that foreth discord among brethren. So the Apostle Paul setting down a Catalogue of the basest and worft of finners, he ranks lyars in the rere of them, I Tim. 1. 9, 10. Knowing this that the law is not made for a rightcom man but for the laroless and disobedient; for the ungoaly and for finners, for unboly and prophane, for murderers of fashers, and murderers of mothers, for man-flivers. For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for men-fealers, for lyars, for perjured perfons. So John numbers them amongst the damined crew, Rev. 21. 8. That hall be fent to hell, and that must perish for ever. Rev. 21.8. But the fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murtherers, and whoremongers, and forcerers, and idolaters, and all lyars shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimftone, which is the fecond death. In this Catalogue of the damined crew, the fearful are placed in the Front, and the lyars in the Rere . See once more how the Holy Choft couples lyars, Kev. 22 19. For without are does, and forcerers, and mintherers.

8.

iberers, and whoremongers, and idolaters, and whosever loveth and maketh a lye. Thus you see in all these Scriptures, that lyars are numbred up among the rabble of the most desperate and deplorable Wretches that are in all the world; and therefore upon this account also, I cannot charge the trade of lying upon them that seared the Lord, whose habitations were once within or without the Walls of London.

8.

The eighth sin that brings the Judgment of Fire, is mens giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange sless, Jude 7. Even as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Cities about them, in like manner giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal sire. In these words there are these three things observable.

Deut. 29.23. Hol. 11.8. First, The places punished, and they are Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Cities about them, which were Admah and Zeboim. Egesippus, and Stephanus say, that ten Cities were destroyed, and some say, thirteen Cities were destroyed when Sodom was destroyed: but these things I shall not impose upon you as Articles of Faith. The overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Cities about them was total, both in respect of the Inhabitants, and the places themselves; their sin was universal, and their punishment was as universal. That pride, idleness, and sulness of bread that is charged upon them by the Prophet Ezekiel, did wher in those abominable wickednesses that laid all waste and desolate.

Ezek 16.49,

2.

Secondly, The fins that brought these punishments, viz. The giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange sless. The first is, Giving themselves over to fornication. Now the word [Fornication] is not to be taken properly and strictly for that act of uncleanness that is often committed between persons unmarried; but it is here to be taken for all sorts of carnal uncleanness. The Heathen thought fornication no vice, and therefore they made it a common custom, and were wont to pray thus: The Gods increase the number of the Harlots.

Harloss The second fin that is charged upon them is, Their going after frange flesh franks streas anosber fl sh, as the words in the Original run. H The Apostle in this modest and covert expression; Going after frange flish, or other flish, or another flest, doth hint to us their monstrous and unlawful lusts that were against the Course. Light, and Law of Nacure ; they gave themselves up to such filthines ; as is scarce to be named among men ; they wern after other flesh then what Nature of the God of Nature had appointed of The Gen. 2. 21. great God never appointed that male and male, but only that male and female should be one flesh mitis impossible that man and man in that execrable act should make one flesh, as man and woman do. The fielh of sa male to a male muft needs be another flesh. The Apostle Pant expresseth their filthings thus. For even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature; and likewise also the men leaving the natural use of the women, burned in their lust one toward another: men with men working that which is unfeem-Chryfolion well observes on these words that whereas by Gods Ordinance in lawful copulation by Marriage, two became one flesh, both Sexes were joyned together in one; by Sodomitical uncleanness the same flesh is divided into two men with men working uncleanness as with women of one Sex, making as it were two. The Gen i es had left the God of Nature, and therefore the Lord in his just Judgment lest them to leave the order of Nature, and for to cast scorn and comtempt upon the whole humane Nature uls.

Rom. 1. 26, 27.

2 Chron. n. . . 3 wais 1 and that is a carnal joyning of a man with a beaft, which is prohibited: Neither shall thou lye with any beast, Oh, what a link of lin is in the nature of man, the heart of man ! And as this pollution is prohibited, fo 'cis punished with death, And if a man lye with a beaft, be shall surely be put to death, and te shall flay the beaft. The Lord to shew the horridness and the hainousness of this beattly sin, commands, that even the poor, harmles, innocent beast (that is neither capable of fin, nor of provoking or enticing man to fin) must be put to death.

Again, There is another fort of pollution by strange fl fl, Levit. 18, 23.

death. Oh, how great is that pollution that pollutes the very beafts, and that makes the unclean more unclean, and that doth debafe the beaft below a beaft! Now to this fort of pollution the beaftly Sodomites had without doubt given up themselves as a solution that are of mid the beaftly sodomites had without doubt given up

3.

Gen. 1. 27. 1 Sam. 15.22. 2 Chron. 7. 2. 1 Kings 8. 1.

- The third thing observable in the words, is the severity of their punishment, Suffering the vengeance of eternal fire. We commonly layothat fire and water have no mercy and we bave frequently experienced the truth of that faying is When God would give the world adproof of his greatest severity against notorious sinners and notorious sine, he doth it by inflicting the Judgment of Fire; when the Sodomites burned in their lufts one cowards sanother. Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and Gomorrab brimftone and fire, from the Lord out of beaven. The Lord rained brimftone and fire from the Lord, (that is) by an elegant Hebraism, from himself; it being usual with the Hebrews to put the Noun for the Pronoun, as you may fee by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together. Now this fiery vengcance came not from any inferior cause, but from the supream cause, even God himself. This brimstone and material fire that was rained by the Lord out of Heaven, was not by any ordinary course of Nature, but by the immediate almighty power of God. Doubtless it was the supernatural and miraculous work of the Lord and not from any natural cause, that such showers, not of water, as when the Old world was drowned; but of material fire and brimstone, should fall from Heaven upon Sodom and Gomorrah (to which add Adama and Zeboim: for all these four Cities were burnt together) God rained, not sprinkled, yea, he rained not fire only, but fire and brimftone for the increase of their torment, and that they might have a Hell above ground, a Hell on this f de Hell. They had hot fire for their burning lefts, and flinking brimftone for their flinking bru-They burned with vile and annatural lufts, and tifhnefs. therefore against the course of Nature fire falls down from Heaven, vand devours them, and their flinking abominable filchiness is punished with the stench of brimstone mingled with fire. Thus God delights to fuit mens punishments to their 1:533 their fins ven, that temporal fire that God rained out of Heaven upon Sodom and Gomorrab, was but a fore-runner of their everlatting punishment in that Lake which burns with fire and brimstone for evermore. The temporal punishment of the impenitent Sodomites, did but make way to their eternal punishments, as Tude tells us le I readily grant, that the fire of Hell was typified by that fire which fell from Heaven upon Sodom and Gomorrab : but I cannot conceive that the Apostle Jude in the place last-cited, doth intend or defign to prove that the Sodomites were destroyed by Hell-fire; for in the History of Genefit (to which the Apostle alludes) there is no mention at all of Hell-fire or of Eternal fire; and doubtless the example that should warn sinners to repent of their fins, and to turn to the most High; is to be taken from the History in Genesis. I cannot at present see how Sodom and Gomorrab can be fet furth as an example to finners by suffering the punishment of Hell-fire, when the History is wholly filent as to any fuch fire. Some to mollifie the feeming austerity of that Phrase which Fude uses, wize Eternal fire, read the words thus: Were made on example of eternal fire, suffering vengeance; by which confiruction they gather, that the fire which hath irreparably destroyed Sodom and Gomerrah, was a type and figure of that fire of Hell, of that Eternal fire that is referved for wicked men, and by which finners ought to be warned; Others by eternal fire understand the duration of the effects of the first temporal punishment, the foil thereabout wearing the marks of divine difpleasure to this very day. Several Authors write, that the Air there is fo infectious, that no creature can live there; and though the Apples and other fruit that grow there from pleasant unto the eye; yet if you do but rouch them, they presently turn into cinders and ashes. The stinking Lake of Apposites near to Sodom; is left as a perpetual Monument of Gods Vengeance, killing all fill that fwimmeth in it, and fowls that flye over it. Others by eternal fire understand an inter destruction, according to that 2 Per 2.61 And mening the cities of Sodom and Gomortal into after condemned them with an overshrow (that is voterly dellroyed them) making them

Rev. 21. 8.

Jude 7.

Fosephus, Terrullian, Augustine, them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly.
God hangs them up in Gibbets, as it were, that others might hear and tear, and not dare to do wickedly as they had done.

What though it be faid, that the fire wherewith these Sodomités were destroyed was éternal; yet there is no necessity to understand it of Hell-fire: for even that very fire which consumed those Cities may be called Eternal, because the punishment that was inflicted on Sodom and Gomorrab by fire. was a punishment that should last as long as the world lasted. God resolved those Cities should never be rebuilt. but remain perpetual desolations in all generations. Now in this sense the word [Eternal] is often used in the Scripture. Again the fire and brimitone that fell upon Sodom and Go. morrah, was a type and figure of that eternal fire or those eternal torments that shall be inflicted upon all impenient finners for ever and ever. The fum of all is this, that the Sodomites by giving themselves over to fornication, and by going after strange flesh, did provoke the Lord to rain Hell out of Heaven upon them: they did provoke the Lord to rain material fire and brimstone both upon their persons and their habitations. Now give me leave to fay, that doubtless the body of the inhabitants of that famous City, which is now laid in alhes, were as free from giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, as any, in any part of the Nation: yea, more free their many in some parts of the Nation: yea, give me leave to fay, that I cannot fee how these fins that are charged upon the Sodomites, can be clearly or groundedly charged upon any of the precious Servants of the Lord that did truly fear him in that renowned City: And my: Reasons are these, noy 3; 154 fees and office

First, Because in all their solemn and secret Address so the Lord, they have seriously lamented and mourned over these crying abominations.

Secondly, Because mens giving themselves over to fornicetion, and going after strange field, are such high and horrid fins against the Light and Law of Nature, that God commonly monly preferves his Chosen from them. He shall be an Apo! lo to me that can produce any one instance in the Old or New Testament of any one person that after real and through Conversion, did ever give himself over to fornication, and to go after strange fiesh. Aristotle calls beastiality a surpassing wickedness By the Laws of those two Emperors, Theodisim and Arcadius, Sodomites were adjudged to the fire. In the Councel of Vienna, the Templers who were found guilty of this fin were decreed to be burnt. And among the Romans, it was lawful for him who was attempted to that abuse to kill him who made the affault. Tertullian brings in Christianity triumphing over Paganism, because this sin was peculiar to Heathers, and that Christians never changed the Sex, nor accompanied with any but their own wives. This and such like (as Tertullian speaks-) being not so much to be called of. fences as monsters, and not to be named without holy deteffation by Saints, though they be committed without shame by Sodomites. The Saxons, who of old inhabited this Land, strangled the Adulteress being taken, and then burnt her body with fire, and hanged the Adulterer over a flaming fire. burning him by degrees till he dyed. Opilius Macrinus an Emperor caused the body of the Adulterer and the Whore to be joyned together, and so burnt with fire. caused the Adulterers legs to be bound to the boughs of two trees bent together, and then violently being lifted up again. his body was torn afunder. And the Inlian Law among the Romans punished Adultery with death, by cutting off the heads of those that were guilty of that fact. And the Turks stone Adulterers to death. Zaleneus King of the Locrians ordained, that Adulterers should have their eyes put out and therefore when his Son was taken in Adultery, that he might both keep the Law, and be compassionate to his Son, he put forth one of his own eyes to redeem one of his Sons. I have read of some Heathers that have punished this fin with a most shameful death mand the death was this; they would have the Adulterers or Adulteresses head to be put into the paunch of a beaft; where lay all the filth and uncleaness of it, and there to be stifled to death. This was a Boniface.

2.

Julius Capito-

Diodor.

fit punishment for so filthy a fin. In old time the Egyptians used to punish Adultery on this sort; the man with a thousand jerks with a reed, and the woman with cutting off her nose: but he who forced a free woman to his lusts, had his privy members cut off. But,

Thirdly, Such who give themselves over to fornication, overthrow the state of mankind; while no man knoweth his own wife, nor no wise knoweth her own husband, and while no father knows his own children, nor no children know heir own father. Assinities and Consanguinities are the joynts and sinews of the world, lose these, and lose all. Now what Assinities or Consanguinities can there be when there is nothing but consusting of blood, the son knoweth not his father, nor the father the son? But,

Fourthly, These expressions of giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange stell, implies,

First, Their making constant provisions for their base lusts. O the time, the pains, the cost, the charge that such are at to make provision for their unsatiable lusts?

Secondly, It implies an excessive violent spending of their strength beyond all measure and bounds in all lasciviousness and Sodomitical uncleanness. Pliny tells of Cornelius Gallus and Selerius, two Roman Knights, that dyed in the very action of filthiness. Theodebert the eldest Son of Glotharius dyed amongst his Whores; so did Bertrane Ferrier at Bacelone in Spain; Giachet Geneve of Saluces, who had both wife and children of his own, being carnally joyned with a young woman, was suddenly smitten with death; his wise and hildren wondring why he stayed so long in his Study, when it was time to go to bed called him, and knockt at his door very hard, but when no answer was made, they broke open the doors that were locked on the inner side, and sound him lying upon the woman stark dead, and her dead also. Clandals of Asses, Counsellor of the Parliament of Paris (a despendent

4.

Rom. 13. ult.

Pliny, lib. 7.

Pentanus. Fulgos, lib. 6. cap. 12.

rate

rate Persecutor of the Protestants) whilst he was in the very at of committing filthiness with one of his waiting Maids. was taken with an Apoplexy, which immediately after made an end of him. Many other inflances might be produced, but let thefe fuffice.

Thirdly, It implies their impudency and shamelesness in their filthiness and uncleanness; they had a Whores forehead; they proclaimed their lasciviousness before all the world; they were not ashamed, neither could they blush: hence 'tis, that the men of Sodom are faid to be finners before the Lord; that is, they finned openly, publickly, and shamelefly, without any regard to the eye of God at all. Bring Gen. 19. 5. them out to us, that we may know them. O faces hatche with impudency! they throwd not their fins in a mantle of fecreey, but proclaim their filthiness before all the world, they had out-finn'd all shame; and therefore they gloried in their shame: they were so arrogant and impudent in finning, that they proclaimed their filthiness upon the house-top. Bur, Fourthly, It implies their resolvedness and obstinacy in finning in the face of all the terrible Warnings and Alarms that God had formerly given them by a bloody War, and by the spoiling and plundering of their Ciries, and by taking away of their victuals (fulness of bread was a part of their fin, and now cleannels of teeth is made a piece of their punishment in Gods just Judgment) and by Lots admonition and mild opposition. It is observable, that when they were fmitten with blindness, they wearied themselves to find the door. God fmote them with blindnets, both of body and mind; and yet they continued grouping to find the door. being highly resolved upon buggery and beastiality, though they dyed for it. "O the hideous wickedness and prodigious madnels of these Sodomites, that when divine Justice had ftruck them blind, their hearts should be so desperately set upon their lufts, as to weary themselves to find the door! But what will not Sarans bond-flaves and fire-brands of Hell do? Sottish and besotted sinners will never tremble when Phil, 2, 12. God ftrikes. But. Fifth-

Jer. 3. 3. Chap. 6. 15. Ila. 3.10. Gen. 12. 13.

Gen. 14- 10, I E, 12.

Gen. 19. E1.

Rom. 1. 32.

182.66.3. 2 Thel.2.12. 2 Pet. 2.13.

Fifthly. These expressions of giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, implies the delight, pleasure, content, and satisfaction that they took in hole abominable practices. They have chosen their own ways, and their fouls delight in their abominations. They bad pleasure in unrighteousness. Luther tells us of a certain Grandee in his Country, that was to beforted with the fin of Whoredom, that he was not ashamed to say, that if he might ever live here, and be carried from one Whore-house to another, there to satisfie his lusts, he would never defire any other Heaven. This fifthy Grandee did afterwards breathe out his wretched Soul betwixt two notorious Harlots. All the pleasure and Heaven that these filthy Sodomites look after, was to satisfie their brutish lusts. Hark, Scholar. (faid the Harlot to Apulcius) it is but a bitter-[weet that you are so sond of; and this the Sodomites found true at the long run, when God showred down fire and brimstone upon them. But-

. 6

Gen. 6.

Gen. 19. 14.

Sixthly and lastly, These words of giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, implies their great fetled fecurity in those brutish practices. The Old world was not more secure when God swept them away with a Flood, then the Sodomites were secure when God rained fire and brimstone out of Heaven upon them. Mercury could not kill Argus till he had cast him into a sleep. and with an inchanted Rod closed his eyes: No more could the Devil have hurt these Sodomites, if he had not first luli'd them affeep in the bed of fecurity. Carnal fecurity opens the door for all impiety to enter into the Soul. Pempey, when he had in vain affaulted a City, and could not take it by force, devised this Stratagem in way of agreement, he told them he would leave the Siege, and make Peace with them, upon condition that they would let in a few weak, fick, and wounded Souldiers among them to be cured. They let in the Souldiers, and when the City was secure, the Souldiers let in Pompeys Army. A carnal setled security will let in a whole Army of lufts into the Soul; and this was the Sodomites case. To sum up all, those expressions in 7 nde, vers. 7.

The Char

of giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange fiesh, do imply or takenin these fix things last mentioned, which things will not fland with the truth of Grace or flate of Grace = and therefore those fins that are specified by Jude cannot be charged with any clear, fair, or full evidence upon the people of God, who did truly fear him within or without the Walls of London. But should this Treatife fall into any of their hands, who have given themselves over to fornication, or to go after ftrange flesh, then I would fay, that it very highly concerns all fuch persons to lay their hands upon their lovns, and to fay, we are the very men, the finners, the monfters that have turned a rich and populous City into a ruinous heap ... But the ser I in here thoub nemer of wave, and (At on the labbach ryin to

The ninth fin that brings the fore Judgment of Fire upon a People, is prophanation of the Sabbath, Fer. 7 ult. But if you will not hearken unforme to hallow the Sabbath-day, and not bear a burden, even entring in at the gates of Jerusatem on the Sibbath day, then mill I kindle a fire in the gages thereof, and it shall devour the palaces of Ferusalem, and it shall not be quenched. In this memorable Scripture you may observe. 1. A specification of the Judgment that God will punish Prophaners of his Sabbath with, and that is fire. 20 The specification of the object that this fire shall fall upon, viz. a City, not a Town, a Village, or any other mean place, but a City, a stately City, a populous City, a trading City, a secure City. 3. Here is the specification of the City, viz. not every City neither, but Ferusalem, the City of Cities, the best of Cities, the beloved City, the joyous City, the glorious City, the renowned City, the crowned City, the Metropolitan City, the City of God, the wonder of the World, the joy of the whole Earth; yet God threatens to destroy this Ferusalem with fire and flames for prophaning of his Sabbath, But did God only threaten Jerusalem? No, for he executed his threatnings upon it, as you may fee in that 2 Kings 25. 8. 9, 10. And in the fifth month, on the feventh day of the month (which is the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnez- Pfal. 74 4, 5, zar King of Babylon & came Nebuzar-adam captain of the 6,7,8.

Ifa. 52. 1. Pfal. 48. 1--8. Pfal. 87. 3. Jer. 22. 8.

So 2 Chron. 26. 17,18,19.

guard.

Those Chaldeans that set Jerusalem on fire, came from literal Babylon, and whether those Chaldeans that first set London inslames, came not from my-stical Babylon, I shall not here enquire nor dispure.

anded a fervant of the King of Babylon to Ferufatem, and be burns the honfe of the Lord nand when Kings boufe, and all the boules of Fernfalem; and every breat himes boule barne he with fire And albebe army of the Chaldees that were with the cap. win of the guard brake down the walls of Fernfalem round abouts oThe fame you have Fence 2 12 14 14. The fews were great prophariers of the Sabbath Nebem 122 175, 16, 17 2815 Amerabofe duys dam Ishmifudab fomer excading wine dreffer derahe fablish grand seringing in freaves ; and tading affect analfor wine; grapes, and fine, and all manner of burdens. which they brought into ferufalem on the fabbuth day; and 1 restified against them in the day wherein they fold victualit There dwelt men of Tyre also therein, phich brought fills and all manner of ware, and fold on the labbash unto the children of Fudub; and ou ferufalem. Then i contended with the no-Her of Indah, and faid unto them What evil thing is this that ye do and prophane the fabbath-day? Did not your fathers thus I and did not our God bring all this evil upon us, and upon this city At pearge bring more wrath abon Ifriel by prophane ing the Subbanh. Now this is observable, that as they had peophaned the Sabbath To Nebuzaradon fet their Temple on fire, and their Noble mens houles on fire, and all the confiderable mens houlds in Ferufalem on fire on their Sabbath day I know Feremy faith, it was on the tenth day Fer. 52. 13. which several of the Learned thus reconcile, viz, That on the ferenthiday, which was their Sabbath, Nebuzuradon kinds led a fire in their habitations, and burnt them allquite down on the tenth, Now Calvin upon the Text gives thefe Reafone of Gods feverity against them for prophaning his Sabbath First, because it was an calle Precept to cease from labour one day in feven; and therefore they that would not herein obey, were worthy of all feverity, as Adam for eating the forbidden fruit. 2 Because the Sabbath was a fign of Gods people by him peculiarly cholen; and therefore net to reft now, was a groß neglect of upholding the memorial of the greatest Priviled got that lever was beste wed input thorials men. Becaule the Lord would by their keeping of a reft now from levile works, draw them to a rell from the fervile works works of fin, as he rested from the works of Creation. To which others add a sourth, vine That it might always be remembred, that the whole World was created by God, that we might acknowledge his infinite Power and Wildom herein appearing. And others add a siste, viz. Because by keeping the Sabbath day (in being the day wherein all religious Duties were done) all the exercises of Religion is meant, which if it had been purely uplied, both Princes, Nobles, Priests, and People should have stoughted for ever, and never have known what twas to have their house set on fire about their ears. Now is not famous London the sad Counterpane of desolate females at a fore and unquenchable. Fire hash turned England Metropolisitate assessed subjests. But,

Exod. 31. 13.

That the Lord may appear most just and righteous in inflicting this dreadful Judgment of Fire upon those that prophaned his Sabbaths in London; consider serjously with me these twelve things. The norm down shows be side in the

First, That God hath senced this Command more strongly about then he has any other, and all to prevent our transgression of it, and the more effectually to singage us to the keeping of it holy. Now here observe,

First, It is marked with a Minento, above, all other Commands, Exod. 20. 8 Remember the Jabbath-day to keep it boly, and that partly, because we are to desperately, apt, and proper to forget it; and partly, because none can keep it holy when it comes, that do not remember it before it comes; and partly, because this is one of the greatest is sometimes put for all the Ten; it is the Synopsis of them all: and partly, because the observation of all the Commandments depends the observation of all the Commandments depends chiefly upon the observation of this south. None walk so much after the Spirit on other days, as they who are most in the Spirit on the Lords day. There are mone that walk so close with God all the fix days, as those that keep closes to God on the seventh day. In the due observation of this Command, obedience to all the rest is compassed, and part faith, that the fourth Commandment is a famous Precept, and prefitable to excite men to all kind of vertue and piety.

Philo Judeus

ly because this Command has least light of Nature to direct us to the observation of it; and partly, because the forgetting of this Duty, and prophaning of this Day, is one of the greatest sins that a people can be guilty of: it is a violation of all the Decalogue at once: it is a sin against all the concernments and Commandments of God at once. But,

Secondly, It is delivered both negatively and affirmatively, which no other Command is, to shew how strongly it binds us to a holy observation of its Thirdly, It hath more Reasons to enforce it, then any other Precept, viz. its equity, Gods bounty, his own Pattern, and the Days benediction.

Fourthly, It is put in the Close of the first, and beginning of the Second Table, to note, that the observation of both Tables depends much upon the sanctification of this Day.

Fifthly, It is very confiderable also, that this Command is more frequently repeated, then others of the Commands are, Exod. 20. 31. Exod. 14. 34. Exod. 24. 35. Levis. 19. 3. Levis. 28. 30. God would have Israel know in these scriptures last cited, that their busiest times, as earing and harvest; yea, and the very building of the Tabernacle must give way to this Precept.

Secondly, Consider that God is highly pleased, and delighted with the sanctification of his Sabbaths, Jer. 17, 24, 25. Now in this promise he sliews, that the flourishing estate both of Church and State, depends greatly upon the sanctification of this day. Two things are observable in this promise. First, the duty unto which the promise is made, and that is in vers. 24. 2. Observe the reward that is promised, and that is twofolds. The first concerns the Commonwealth and Civil State, vers, 25, 25 if he should say, I will maintain the honour and dignity, the wealth and strength the peace and safety of this Nation. The second blessing that

-2.

5.

15

Prophaners of

is promised, concerns the Church and state of Religion, ver/
26. As it he should say, my solemn Assemblies shall be duely frequented, and I will continue my, own Worship in the purity, liberty, and power of it. But,

Thirdly, Consider that all publick Judgments and common Calamities that ever befel the people of God, are imputed by the Holy Ghost to no sin more then to the prophanation of the Sabbath , 2 Chron. 36. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21. turn to it : So Nebem 13. 15, 16-18. Ezek 22. 26 -- 31 Her Priests have violated my law, and have prophaned my boly things; they have put no difference between the holy and pro phane, neither bave they shewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have bid their eyes from my fabbaths, and I am prophaned among them. Therefore have I poured out my indignation upon them; I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath: their own way have I recompensed upon their own beads, faith the Lord God. Levit. 26. 31, 32, 33. And 1 will make your Cities waste, and bring your Sanduaries unto desolation, and will not (mell the favour of your freet odiurs. And I will bring the land into defolation, and your enemies which dwell therein shall be aftonished at it. And I will scatter you among the Heathen, and will draw out a sword after you: and your land first be defolate, and your cities mafte. I but what is the reason, why God brings those two terrible Judgments of Fire and Sword upon them? The resolution of this Oneftion you have in verf. 34. 35. Then shall the land en joy her Sabbaths as long as it lyeth desolute, and ye be in your enemies land, even then shall the land rest and enjoy ber fab baths. As long as it lyeth defolate it fall reft, because it did not rest in your sabbaths when je dwelt upon it. The land did not rest in your Sabbaths, South the Lord, when ye amelt upon it. But when it cased from the wicked weight of such sphabitants, which brought upon it heavy curses, and toyled, and tyred it out with continual tillage, it shall then rest, and be at quier. According to the Law of God the Land should have rested every seventh year, Levit, 25.3. But they got out the very beart of the land to foind on their luits: but faith God.

the Sabbath were to be put to death, they were to be cut off. Exod. 31. 14, 15. This Scripture includes not only death inflicted by the Magiftrate, according to that Numb. 35.36. but also the immediate ftroke of God when that was neglected. If you turn to thát Ezek.20. 13.21.youshall find that God threatens Sabbath-prophanation with his confuming fire. Now what

City, Gates,

strong Holds can stand before divine fury ??

will

Palaces, states ly Structures, Lam. 1. 7.

will ease the land of such inhabitants, and then it shall in a manner take its recreation, then it shall rest, and take its own pleasure. Where there is not a resting from fin, there Sabbaths are not truly kept. Prophaning the Sabbath brings most desolating and destroying Judgments upon a professing people. The first blow given to the German Churches was on the Sabbath-day. For on that day Prague was loft the Sabbaths were wofully prophaned amongst them: their No. bility thought it was for their not trimming and beautifying of their Churches; but better and wiser men concluded, it was for their prophaning of the Lords day. Some are of opinion, that the Flood began on the Lords day, from that Gen. 7. they being grown notorious prophaners of the Sabbath. The Council of Matiscon in France attributed the irruption of the Goths and Vandals to their prophanation of the Sabbath. But.

4.

Fourthly, Confider there are fingular bleffings which the fanctifying of the Sabbath will crown us with, Ezek. 20, 12. Moreover also I gave them my sabbaths to be a sign between me and them, that they may know that I am the Lord that fancifie them. The fingular bleffings that the right sanctifying of the Sabbath will bring upon us, are, 1. Spiritual; they that conscientiously sanctifie the Sabbath, they shall see and know the work of God, the work of Grace upon their own Souls. There are many precious Christians that have a work of God, a work of Grace upon their own Souls, who would give ten (housand worlds (were there so many in their hands to give) to fee that work, to know that work. Oh, but now they that sanctifie the Sabbath, they shall both see and know the work of God upon their own Souls. And they shall find the Lord carrying on the work of Grace and Holiness in their Souls; they shall find the Lord destroying their fins, and filling their hearts with joy, and with a b'effed affurance of his favour and love, Ifa. 56. 6, 7. Allo the fons of the franger that joyn themselves to the Lord to serve him, and to love the Name of the Lord, to be his servants. Every one that keepeth the Sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold on my Covenant,

Even

Even them will biring to my boly mountain, and make them joyful in my boule of prayer : their burnt offerings and their facrifices that be accepted upon my Altan far mine boufe fball be called on bonle of prayer for all people . So Ifa. 58: 12: 14. If thou turn away thy foot from the fab bath, from doing thy pleafore on my boly day, and call the fabbath a delight, the boly of the Lord bonowrable and halt bonour bini, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasures nor peaking thine own words then Shalt thou delight thy felf in the Lord. Now in the fecond place, the other bleffings that the right fanctifying of the Sabbath will invest us with, are temporal bleffings: for fo they follow in the Scripture last cited. And I will cause thee to ride upon the bigh places of the earth, here is honour, and efteem, and fafety; and feed thee with the heritage of Facob the father. Now the Land of Canaan was the Inheritance which God promised to Jacob. Hereby is noted that comfortable provision that God would make for them that lancified his Sabbaths: Such as make the Sabbath their delight, they shall never want protection nor provision. God will be a Wall of fire about them, and a Canaan to them. ใหม่ สู่ใหม่ ๆ เรียบสามารถใหม่ เป็นเป็น But.

Fifthly, Confider that our Lord Jesus, who is the Lord of the Sabbath, and whom the Law it felf commands us to hear, did alter it from the seventh day to the first day of the week, which we now keep: For the holy Evangelists note: that our Lord came into the midft of the Affembly on the ewo first days of the two weeks immediately following his Refurrection, and then bleffed the Church, breathing on them the Holy Ghoft Job. 20. 19-26. Then the fame day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were But where the disciples were affembled for fear of the Fews, came Tesus and stood in the midst, and faith unto them. Peace be unto you. And after eight days, again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them, then came fofus, the deors being fout and food in the midt and faid Peare be anto Look as Christ was forty days instructing Mifes in Sinai, what he should teach, and how he should govern the Church under the Law: fo he continued forcy days teaching

Gen. 28. 13. And Chap.48. 4.

Math. 12. 8. Deut. 18. 18, his Disciples what they should preach, and how they should govern the Church under the Gospel, Acts 1. 2, 3. Until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the Apostles whom he bad chosen. To whom also he shewed himself alive after his Passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days. and speaking of the things pertaining to the Kingdom of God. And it is not to be doubted, but that within those forty days he likewise ordained, on what day they should likewise keep the Sabbath; and 'tis observable, that on this first day, of the week, he sent down from Heaven the Holy Ghost upon his Apostles, Acts 2. 1 -- 4. And when the day of the Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the firit gave them utterance. So that on that day they first began, and ever after continued the publick exercise of their Ministry. Christ who was Lord of the Sabbath, Mark 2. 28. had a soveraign right to change and alter it to what day he pleased. But,

Sixthly. Consider that according to the Lords mind and Commandment, and the direction of the Holy Ghoft, the Apostles in all the Christian Churches ordained, that they should keep the holy Sabbath upon the first day of the week, I Cor. 16. 1, 2. Now concerning the collection for the Saints, as I have given order to the Churches of Galatia. Even fo do ye upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God bath prospered bim, that there be no gathering when I come. In which words you may observe these five things.

First, That the Apostles ordained this day to be kept holy, therefore is of a Divine institution.

Secondly. That the day is named the first day of the week, therefore not the Jewish seventh, or any other.

Thirdly, Every first day of the week, which sheweth its perpetuity.

Fourthly, That it was ordained in the Churches of Galatia, as well as of Corinth, and he setled one uniform in all the Churches of the Saints, therefore it was universal, 1 (or. 14.33. For God is not the Author of confusion, but of peace, as in all Churches of the Saints.

the

Fifthly, That there should be collections for the poor on that day, after the other Ordinances were ended. Now why should the Apostles require collections to be made on the first day of the week? but because on that day of the week the Saints affembled themselves together in the Apostles time. And in the same Epistle he protesteth, that he delivered them no other Ordinance or Doctrine, but what he had received from the Lord, 1 Cor. 11.23. For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, that the Lord Tesus, the same night in which be was betrayed, took bread. I Cor. 14. 37. If any man think himself to be a Prophet, or fpiritual, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you, are the Commandments of the Lord. Now mark, he wrote to them, and ordained among them to keep their Sabbath on the first day of the week; therefore to keep the Sabbath on that day, is the very Commandment of the Lord. But.

Seventhly, Consider, the Apostles on that day ordinarily dispensed the holy Ordinances, Joh. 20. 19.-26. Alls 20,7. And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued his speech until midnight, 1 Cor. 16. 1, 2. 1 Cor. 11. 23. But,

Eighthly, Consider, such things as are named the Lords in Scripture, are ever of the Lords institution. As the Word of the Lord, 1 Tim. 6.3. The Cup of the Lord, 1 Cor. 11.27. The Supper of the Lord, 1 Cor. 11.20. And so the Lords Day, Rev. 1.10. I was in the Spirit on the Lords day. Now why does John call it the Lords day? but because it was a day known to be generally kept holy, to the honour of the Lord Jesus (who rose from death to life upon that day) throughout all the Churches which the Apostles had planted, which St. John calls the Lords day, that he might the better stir up Christians to a thankful remembrance of their Redemption demption by Christs Resurrection from the dead. But,

9.

When the primitive Christians had this question put to them, Servasti Dominicum? Hast thou kept the Lords day? answered Christianus sum, omittere non possum, I am a Christian, I cannot but keep it.

Ninthly, Confider, that a right fanctifying of the Sabbath is one of the best signs in the Bible, that God is our God, and that his fanctifying work is past in power upon us, Ezek, 20. 20. And ballew my fabbaths, and they fall be a fign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God. So Exod. 21, 12. Speak thou also unto the Children of Israel, saying, Verily my fabbaths ye shall keep: for it is a fign between me and you, throughout your generations, that ye may know that I am the Lord that doth sanctifie you. Look as Circumcision and the Passeover were signs that the Tews were in Covenant with God; so likewise was the Sabbath, Ezek. 31. 13. and because it was a fign of the Covenant between God and them. Vers. 16. (Wherefore the Children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations for a perpetual Covenant.) God tells them, that they must observe it for a perpetual Covenant: and hence it was, that when they violated the Sabbath, God accounted it the violation of the Covenant between him and them. The fanctifying of the Sabbath in the primitive times, was the main Character by which fincere Christians were differenced from others; they judged of mens sanctity by their sanctifying of the Sabbath. And indeed as there cannot be a greater argument or evidence of a prophane heart then the prophaning the Sabbath: so there cannot be a greater argument or evidence of a gracious heart then a right fanctifying of the Sabbath.

10.

Tenthly, Consider, a right sanctifying of the Sabbath will be a most sure and certain pledge, pawn, and earnest of cur keeping of an everlasting Sabbath with God in Heaven, Heb. 4.9. There remainest therefore a rest to the people of God, Gr. a sabbatism, an eternal rest, a sabbath that bath no evening Now mark, if this Sabbath be a sign and pledge of Heaven, then we must keep it till we come there. For if we lose the pledge of a benefit, we lose the evidence of that benefit whereof it is a pledge. A man that is in the Spirit on the Lords day, Rev. 1. 10. he is in Heaven on the Lords day: there cannot be a more lively resemblance of Heaven on this side Heaven,

Heaven, then the fanctifying of the Sabbath in a heavenly manner. What is Heaven, but an eternal Sabbath? And what is a temporal Sabbath, but a short Heaven, a little Heaven on this fide Heaven? Our delighting to fanctifie Gods Sabbath on Earth, gives full affurance to our faith grounded upon Gods infallible promise, that we shall enter into Gods eternal Rest in Heaven: for so runs the promise, Isa. 58. ult. Then shalt thou delight thy self in the Lord, and I will cause thee to ride upon the bigh places of the earth, and feed thee with the beritage of Facob thy father; for the mouth of the Lord bath spoken it. The former part of the verse relates to earthly bleffings: but these words, I will feed thee with the heritage of Facob thy father, that is, with a heavenly inheritance; for what is the heritage of Jacob, but Canaan in the Type, and Heaven it self in the Anticype? But should I thus sandifie the Sabbath, should I be sure of going to Heaven? yes, for so it roundly follows in the next words: The mouth of the Lord bath foken it. But.

Eleventhly, Confider, that of all days God hath put the highest honour upon his Sabbaths, by appointing his precious Ordinances in a special manner to be used on those days. The Sabbath is a gold Ring, and the Ordinances are as so many costly sparkling Diamonds in that Ring: All the works of the new Creation are commonly wrought on this day; this is the joyful day wherein ordinarily God gives spiritual fight to the blind, and spiritual ears to the deaf; and spiritual tongues to the dumb, and spiritual feet to the lame. Exod. 12. 42. is here applicable. It is a night to be much observed to the Lord, for bringing them out from the Land of Egypt, this is that night of the Lord to be observed of all the Children of Israel in their generation. Those that are new-born, are commonly new-born on this day; and therefore 'tis a day to be much observed to the Lord. Those that are converted, are ordinarily converted on this day; and therefore 'tis that day of the Lord that ought to be observed by all the converted Ifrael of God. Those that are edified, are commonly most edified on this day. O the sweet communion.

II.

 V_2

munion! O the choice converse! O the singular discoveries! O the blessed manifestations! O the excellent enjoyments that Christ vouchsafes to his people on this day! O the discoveries of Grace! O the exercise of Grace! O the increase of Grace, the progress in Grace! O the comforts of Grace that God vouchsafes to his Chosen on this day! Experience shews that the right sanctifying of the Sabbath, is a powerful means under Christ to sanctifie us, and to increase our faith, and raise our hope, and instame our love, and to kindle our zeal, and to enlarge our desires, and to melt our hearts, and to weaken our sins. But, 12.

.

Rev. 2. 10.

Twelfthly and lastly, Consider this, that a right sanctifying of the Sabbath will cross Satans grand design, it will spoil his plot, his master-piece. Satarris a deadly enemy to the right sanctifying of the Sabbath, witness the many temptations that many Christians are more troubled with on this day, then they are on any other day in the whole week; and witness the many vain, wandring, and distracting thoughts that many precious Christians are more afflicted with on this day, then they are on all the days of the week beside ; and witness that high and hot opposition that he in his instruments makes against the strictest observers of that day : and witness his constant prompting and spurring such on to the prophanation of the Sabbath, whose examples are most dangerous, and encouraging to wicked men, as Magistrates, Ministers, Parents, and Masters, &c. and witness his strong endeavours, constant attempts, crafty devices, and deep policies that he has made use of in all the Ages of the World, to keep people off from a religious observation of the Sabbath; yea, and to make them more wicked on that day, then on any other day of the week: May I not fay then on all other days of the week? I have been the longer upon this ninth Particular, partly because of the weightiness of ir, and partly to encourage the Reader to a more close and strict observation of the Sabbath, and partly to justifie those that are conscientious observers of it, and partly to justific the Lord in turning London into ashes for the horrible prophanation of his day. The

The Sabbath-day is the Queen of days, fay the Jews. The Sabbath-day among the other days, is as the Virgin Mary among Women, faith Austin. Look what the Phenix is among the Birds, the Lyon among the Beafts, the Whale among the Fishes, the Fire among the Elements, the Lilly among the Thorns, the Sun among the Stars, that is the Sabbath-day to all other days; and therefore no wonder, if God burn fuch out of their habitations, who have been prophaners of his day. Ah London! London! were there none within nor without thy Walls that made light of this Institution of God, aud that did offer violence to the Queen of days by their loofeness and prophaneness, by their sitting at their doors, by their walking in Moor fields, by their sportings and wrestlings there, and by their haunting of Ale-houses and Whore-houses, their toffing of Pots and Pipes, when they should have been setting up God, and Christ, and Religion in their Families, and mourning in their Closets for the fins of the times, and for the afflictions of poor Toleph? How did the wrath and rage of King Abasuerus smoak against Haman, when he apprehended that he would have put a force upon the Oueen? And why then should we wonder to see the wrath of the Lord break forth in smoak and flames against such a generation, that put a force upon his day, that prophaned his day, the Oncen of days? Ah Sirs! you have greatly prophaned and abused the day of the Lord; and therefore why should any marvel, that the Lord has greatly debased you, and laid your glory in dust and ashes? In these late years, how has prophaneness, like a flood, broke in upon us on the Lords day? and therefore it highly concerns all the prophaners of the day of the Lord, to lay their hands upon their hearts, and to fay, the Lord is righteous, the Lord is righteous, though he has laid our habitations desolate. Who is so great a stranger in our English Israel, as not to know that God was more dishonoured on the Sabbath-day (within and without the Walls of London) then he was in all the other fix days of the week? and therefore let us not think it strange, that such a fire was kindled on that day, as has reduced all to ashes. What Antick habits did men and women

The Sabbathday differs as muchfrom the reft of the days, as the wax doth to which a Kings Great Seal is pur, from ordinary wax.

Eith. 7. 8, 9,

Prov. 10. 5. Prov. 17. 16. Ifa. 25. 6. Math. 5. 47. put on, on this day? what frothy, empty, airy discourses and intemperance was to be found at many mens Tables this day? How were Ale-houses, Stews, and Moor-fields filled with debauched finners this day? No wonder then, if London be laid Now this abominable fin of open prophaning the Sabbaths of the Lord, I cannot with any clear evidence charge upon the people of God, that did truly fear him within or without the Walls of London. For first, they did lament and mourn over the horrid prophanation of that day. Secondly, I want eyes (at present) to see how it will stand either with the truth of Grace, or state of Grace, for such as are real Saints to live in the open prophanation of Gods Sab-Thirdly, because an ordinary prophaning of the Lords Sabbaths, is as great an Argument of a prophane heart, as any that can be found in the whole Book of God. Fourthly, because Sabbath-days are the Saints Market-days, the Saints harvest days, the Saints summer-days, the Saints feed-days, and the Saints feafting-days; and therefore they will not be such fools as to sleep away those days, much less will they presume to prophane those days, or to toy and trifle away those days of Grace. Fifthly, what singular thing do they more then others, if they are not strict observers and conscientious sanctifiers of the Lords day. Sixthly and lastly, of all the days that passover a Christians head in this world, there are none that God will take such a strict and exact account of, as of Sabbath-days; and therefore it highly concerns all people to be strict observers and serious sanctifiers of that day. Now upon all these accounts, I cannot charge such throughout Saints as lived within or without the Walls of London, with that horrid prophanation of the Sabbath as brought the late fiery Dispensation upon us, and that turned a glorious City into a ruinous heap. Whatever there was of the hand of man in that dreadful Conflagration, I shall not now attempt to divine, but without a peradventure, it was Sabbath-guilt which threw the first Ball that turned London into flames and ashes. When fire and smoaking was on Mount Sinai, God was there; but when London was in Hames and smoak, Sabbath-guilt was there. Doubtless all the

Exod. 19.18.

the power of Rome and Hell should never have put London into flames, had not Londons guilt kindled the first coal. But,

We come now to the Use and Application of this important Point.

Tenthly, The prophanenels, lewdness, blindness, and wickedness of the Clergy, of them in the Ministry, brings the Judgment of Fire, and provokes the Lord to lay all waste before him, Zeph. 3. 4 -- 6. Her Prophets are light and treacherous persons, her Priests have polluted the Sanctuary, they have done violence to the law, I bave ent off the nations, their towers are desolate. I have made their street wifte, that none paffeth by, their cities are destroyed, so that there is no man, that there is none inhabitant. Their Prophets and Priests were rash, beady, and unstable persons, they were light, faithlist men (or men of faithlesness, as the Hebrew runs.) They were neither faithful to God, nor faithful to their own Souls, nor faithful to others Souls: they invented and feigned Prophefies of their own, and then boldly maintained them, and imposed them upon their Hearers: they were prophane and light in their carriages, they fitted their Doctrines to all fancies; humours, parties, and times; they betrayed their trust, they betrayed the lives of men into the hand of divine Justice, and the Souls of men into the hands of Satan; they polluted the Sanctuary, they polluted the Holy things of God, by managing of his Worship and Service in a prophane carnal way, and with a light, flight, perfidious spirit, and by perverting the true sense of the Law in their ordinary teaching of the people. They did violence to the Law, or they contemned, removed, or cast away the Law, as the Original run: the Hebrew word here used, fignifies also to ravish. Their Prophets and Pfal. 50. 17. Priests did ravish the Law of God by corrupting the Law, and by putting falle gloffes upon it, and by turning of it into fuch shapes and senses as would best suit the times, and please the humours of the people. Now for these abominations of their Prophets and Priests, God denounces a dreadful Wo against the City of Ferufalem in verf. 1. Wo to ber that is fil. thy and polluted, to the oppreffing city, Lam. 4. 11-13. The 10.

Lore

Lord hath accomplished his fury, he hath poured out his fierce anger, and hath kindled a fire in Zion, and it hath devoured the foundation thereof. For the fins of her Prophets and the iniquity of her Priests, that have thed the blood of the just in the midst of her. God sent a consuming flame into Ferusalem. which did not only burn the tops of their houses, but also the foundations themselves, leaving no mark whereby they might know where their houses stood, nor any hopes of building them up again. But why did God kindle such a devouring fire in Ferusalem, which was one of the Worlds wonders, and a City that was not only strong in situation and building, and deemed impregnable, but a City that was Gods own Seat, the Palace of his Royal residence; yea, a City that the Lord had for many years, to the admiration of all the world, powerfully and wonderfully protected against all those furious faults that were made upon her by her most potent and mighty Adversaries? Answ. For the fins of her Prophets. and the iniquities of her Priests, as God himself testifies, who can neither dye nor lye. You may see this further confirmed, if you please but seriously to ponder upon these scriptures, Ezek. 22. 25, 26. 31. Fer. 23: 11. 14, 15. 39, 40. Look as the body Natural, so the body Politick cannot be long in a good conflitution, whose more noble and effential parts are in a consumption. The enormities of Ministers have the strongest influence upon the fouls and lives of men. to make them miserable in both worlds. Their falls will be the fall and ruine of many; for people are more prone to live by Examples then by Precepts, and to mind more what the Minister does, then what he says: Pracepta docent, exempla movent, Precepts may instruct, but Examples do perswade. The Complaint is ancient in Seneca, That commonly men live, not ad rationem, but ad similitudinem. The people commonly make the Examples of their Ministers the Rules of their Actions; and their Examples pass as current among them, as their Princes Coyn. The Common-people are like tempered Wax, eafily receiving impressions from the Seals of their Ministers vices. They make no bones of it to fin by prescription, and to damn themselves by following the lewd Examples Mich. 2. 11. Ifa. 30. 10, 11. Jer. 5. ult. Hof. 4. 9. Ifa. 9. 16. Lam. 2 14. Ezek. 3. 18.

Seneca de vita beata, cap. 1. Examples of their Ministers. The Vulgar unadvisedly, take up crimes on trust, and perish by following of bad Examples. I will leave the serious Reader to make such Application as in prudence and conscience he judges meet. But,

Eleventhly, Sometimes the fins of Princes and Rulers bring the fiery Dispensations of God upon Persons and Places, Fer. 38. 17, 18, 23. Then faid Feremiab unto Zedekiah, Thus Lith the Lord the God of Hofts, the God of Ifrael, if thou wilt Inredly go forth unto the King of Babylons Princes, then thy foul shall live, and this city shall not be burnt with fire, and thou shalt live and thine house. But if thou wilt not yo forth to the King of Babylons Princes, then shall this city be given into the bands of the Chaldeans, and they foill burn it with fire, and thou fhalt not escape out of their hand, but shalt be taken by the hand of the King of Babylon, and thou shalt cause this city to be burnt with fire : Or as the Hebrew runs, Thou halt burn this city with fire, that is, thou by thy obstinacy wilt be the means to procure the burning of this City, which by a rendition of thy felf, thou mightest have faved. So Jer. 34. 2. 8, 9, 10, 11. compared with Chap. 37. 5 to verf. 22. Judges and Magi-frates are the Physicians of the State (faith B. Lake in his Sermon on Ezra) and fins are the diseases of it; what skills it, whether a Gangrene begins at the head or the heel, seeing both ways it will kill, except this be the difference, that the head being nearer the heart, a Gangrene in the head will kill sooner then that which is in the heel: Even so will the fins of great. Ones overthrow a State sooner then those of the meaneft fort, 2 Sam, 24 9. to verf. 18. But.

Twelfthly, The abusing, mocking, and despising of the Messengers of the Lord, is a fin that brings the fiery Dispensation upon a People, 2 Chron. 36. 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 Math. 23. 34. 37, 38. Behold your house is lest unto you deso. late. Here is used the present for the suture, to note the certainty of the desolation of their City and Temple, and their own utter ruines: and about forty years after the Romans came and burnt their City and Temple, and laid all waste before

II.

It is a strange faying in Lipfius, viz. That the names of all good Princes may easily be engraven or written in a small Ring. Lips. de Constantia, lib. 2. cap. 25.

12.

E.10 (1.19.25

Turn to these two pregnant Texts, and ponder seriously upon them; for they speak close in the case.

Ma. 58. 1.

Acts 26. 15, 16, 17, 18. Dan. 12, 3.

James 5. 16, 17, 18.

The first on the 24. of August, and the other on the 2. of September.

13.

See Ezek. 21. 28. 31, 32. And Chap. 25. 3. 4, 5. ...

them. They had turned the Prophets of the Lord out of all. and therefore the Lord resolves to turn them out of all. Sirs! will you please seriously to consider these six things. First, that all faithful, painful, conscientious Ministers or Messengers of the Lord, are great Instruments in the hand of the Lord for sto pping or steming the tide of all prophaneness and wickedness in a Land, which bring all desolating and destroying Judgments upon Cities and Countries. 2. For converting Souls to God, for turning poor finners from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to Jesus Christ. 3. For promoting of Religion, Holiness, and Godliness in mens hearts, houses, and lives, which is the only way under Heaven to render Cities, Countries, and Kingdoms fafe, happy, and prosperous. 4. For the weakning of the Kingdom of Satan and Antichrift, the weakning of whose Kingdom is the glory, fafety, and security of the Land. . 5. For the turning away of wrath, either felt or feared, 6. For the bringing down of the greatest, weightiest, and noblest of temporal favours and bleffings upon Cities and Countries. as might be proved from scores of Scripture. And therefore never marvel, if God revenges the abuses done to them in flames of fire. It was on a Sabbath that the publick liberty of the painful, faithful Ministers of London was terminated and came to an end, and it was on a Sabbath that London was burnt.

Thirteenthly, Shedding of the blood of the Just, is a crying sin that brings the Judgment of Fire, and lays all desolate, Ezek. 35. 4, 5. 7. I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord. Because thou hast bad a perpetual hatred (or hatred of old) and hast she blood of the children of Israel by the force of the sword in the time of their calamity, in the time that their iniquity had an end. Thus will I make mount Seir mest desolate, and cut off from it him that passethout, and him that returneth. Vers. 10. Because thou hast said these two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will possessing to the Lord was there. Vers. 11. Therefore as I live, said the Lord God, I will even do according to thine anger, and according to thine envy which then bast used out of thy hatred against them : and I will make my felf known among them when I have judged thee, Verf. 12. And those shalt know that I am the Lord, and that I have beard all thy blafbemies which thou hast spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying, They are laid desolate, they are given us to consume (or devour.) Vers. 13. Thus with your mouth you have boafted against me, and have multiplied your words against me, I have heard them. Vers. 14. Thus faith the Lord God, when the whole earth rejoyceth I will make thee desolate. Vers. 15. As thou didst rejoyce at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I do unto thee, Thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea, even all of it, and they shall know that I am the Lord. The Edomites were deadly enemies to the Israelites, their hatred was old and strong, and active against them; and they took hold on all occasions wherein they might express their rage and cruelty against them, both in words and works. And there- Pfal. 137. 7. fore when the Babylonians took Jerusalem, they cryed, Rase it, Rase it, even to the foundation thereof. When the Babylonians entred Jerusalem, many of the Jews fled to the Edomites for succour, they being their brethren; but instead of sheltring them, they cruelly destroyed them, and greatly infulted over them, and were glad of all opportunities wherin they might vent all their rage and malice against them, that so they might the better ingratiate themselves with the Babylomians. Now for these cruel practices and barbarous severities of theirs towards the poor, afflicted, and distressed Israel of God, God is resolved to bring utter desolation upon them. Verf. 3. Thus faith the Lord God, Behold, O mount Seir, I am against thee, and I will stretch out my hand against thee, and I will make thee most desolate; Or as the Hebrew is, Shemamab Umeshammab, desolation and desolation. Now this doubling of the Hebrew word shews the certainty of their defolation, the speediness of their desolation, and the greatnels and throughness of their desolation, Fer. 26. 14, 15. As for me, behold, I am in your band, do with me as feemest good and meet unto you. But know ye for certain, that if you put me to death, ze shall surely bring innocent blood upon your felves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof. That was good counsel, which Tertulian gave Scapula a Pagan Persecutor. God will surely make Inquisition for our blood, therefore (faith he) if thou wilt not spare us, yet spare thy self; if not thy self, yet spare thy Country, which must be responsible when God comes to visit for blood. So Lam, 4. 11. 12, 13. The Lord hash accomplified his fury, be buth poured out his flerce anger, and bath kindled a fire in Zion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof. The Kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed that the advertary and the enemy (bould have entred into the gates of Fernfalem. For the fins of her Prophets; and the iniquities of her Priests, that have feed the blood of the just in the midst of ber. The Prophets and the Priests enraged the people against them, and ingaged the Civil Power against the just and the innocent, to the shedding of their blood. But this innocent blood could not be purged away but by fige. To shed the blood of the Just is a most crying fin, and that for which God has turned the most glorious Cities in the World into ashes. Ferom upon the Fext saith, that the Prophets and Priests shed the blood of the Just in the midst of Ferujalem, by drawing them into errour, which is to the destruction of the Soul. But Calvin upon the Text well observes this cannot stand, because just men are not so destroyed; but the w cked only that take no heed to their false teaching. Therefore (faith he) the true Prophets of God are meant by the just, for whom they had Prisons, Dungeons, and Stocks to put them into: and sometimes stoning, or otherwise, tue mules, which they stirred up among the people, whereby their blood was fied. "He i still bear bers well history to Rome has much of the blood of the Saints upon her skirts.

X 2

See verf. 8,

VOHT

and for this very fin she shall be utterly burnt with fire, as you may see at large, if you will please to read the 18. Chapter of the Revelations at your leisure. Though Rome was a Cage of unclean Birds, and full of all manner of abominations; yet the sin that shall at last burn her to ash s, is the blood of the Saints: mark, though the people of Godare in Babylon, and may partake of her Plagues, and fall under the

Rev. 16. 6. Rev. 17. 6. Rev. 19 2. Rev. 18. 24.

hery

fiery Dispensation with her : it is not the fins of the Saint's but the firs of Babylon that bring the Judgment of Fire upon Bubyton. Mark, the people of God may live in a City that may be burnt to ashes; and yet their fins may not be the procuring causes of that Judgment. Lot lived in Sodom, and Gen. 19. bad his failings and infirmities as well as other Saints; but ir was not his finst that brought the Judgment of Fire upon that City, but the fins of the Citizens, as the Scripture affores

But you may fay, Pray, Sir, why is God fo severe as to turn stately Cities, rich and populous Cities, great and glorious Cities into a ruinous heap, for shedding the blood of the Tust? Answ. Because next to the blood of Christ, the blood of the Just is the most precious blood in all the world. Marki there are these nine things that speak out the preciousness of the blood of the Tuft.

> Pfal.73/22,33 Pfal. 72, 14. In. 97, 25.

First, Cleanand plain Scriptures speak out the blood of the Saints to be precious. He hall redeem their foul from decest and violence, and precious hall their blood be in bis fight. And for Plat. 176. 15. Precious in the fight of the Lord is the death of bir Saints ... Bur warer and or Louis Tillians AF)

Crying is a. scribed to blood by a fi. gurative peech.

2. 3 45.3

Secondly The cry of their blood reaches as high as Heaven, and this speaks it out to be precious blood, Gen. 4 1,011. The blead of one Abekhad formany tongues as drops, and every drop a voice to cry for vengeance, and the cry of his blood did frongly ingage the Justice of God to punish it. Rev. 16. 6. Give them blued to drink for they are morthy. But.

3,

Thielly, God's curfing their bleffings, who have thed the blood of his Saints, speaks out their blood to be precious blood, Gen. 4. 10; 11 And now art the curfed from the earth, which hath opened ber month to receive thy brothers blood from thy band. Now this is added by the way. It. To aggrayate the fie of Cam? . 12. To they the finel of the cunishment : feis as if he had faid, the earth did, asie were, in compassion receive into her bosoin that blood which thou dide cruelly and wickedly thed and therefore out of the carth

(which

(which hath sucked in by the pores thereof thy brothers blood) shall spring a curse that shall plague thee for shedding that blood. The earth which was created for thy blessing and service, shall execute this curse against thee in vengeance, not yielding thee the fruits which otherwise it would have done. As is expressed in vers. 12. When thou tillest the ground, it shall not benceforth yield unto thee her strength. (Heb. It shall not go on to give thee its ability.) This was a second curse, whereby the earth became worse for Cains sin then it was for Adams. Now if this curse were not general; yet doubtless it was a particular curse upon Cains portion: so that wheresoever, or whensoever he should till the earth as a Husbandman, the earth by its barrenness should upbraid him as a Murderer. But,

Ifa. 43. 4, 5.

Exod. 14.

Tía. 37. 36.

Efth. 9.

Fourthly, Gods pouring out of the blood of the wicked as water is poured out upon the ground, to prevent the effusion of his Childrens blood, speaks out their blood to be precious blood. At the Red-sea God made way, not only through the Sea, but also through the blood of the Egyptians to preserve the blood and lives of his poor people. God, to preserve the lives and blood of his people, destroys a hundred sour-score and five thousand of Zenacheribs Army by the hand of his Angel in one night. And you know in Esthers time, how God made way for the preservation of the lives and blood of his people through the blood of Haman his Sons, and the rest of their enemies that hated them. I might give you twenty other Scriptures to the same purpose, but enough is as good as a Feast. But,

5.

Fifthly, The strict Inquisition that God has made after the blood of the Just in all Ages of the World, argues the preciousness of their blood, Pfal. 9. 12. When he maketh inquisition for blood, he remembreth them, he forgetteth not the cry of the humble. Did not Pharaoh, Abab, Jezabel, Haman, Herod, Amalek, Maah, Ammon, Zenacherib, &c. find by wosu experience, that God did make a strict Inquisition after the blood of the Just. And so did those men of violence, who shed the blood of the Just in the primitive times, &c. But, Sixthly, Sixthly. The speedy and dreadful Vengeance of God upon fuch as have shed the blood of the Just, speaks out their blood to be precious in his eyes, Ffal. 55. 23. But thou, O God, halt bring them down into the pit of destruction, bloody and deceitful men fhall not live out balf their days, Pfal. 94. 21-23. They gather themselves together (Heb. Run by troops as thieves do) against the soul of the righteous, and condemn the innocent blood; he shall bring upon them their own iniquity, and shall cut them off in their own wickednes ; yea, the Lord our God thall cut them off. Richard the III. and O. Mary were cruel Princes, and shed the blood of the Just, and they had the (hortest Reign of any since the Conquest.

Charles the IX. was a great shedder of the blood of the Just, he had a deep hand in the Massacre of the Protestants in Paris, and in other Parts of his Kingdom, he glutted himself with the blood of the Just, and gloried greatly in their ruines. In his latter days he was surprised with a great debility and tormenting pains in his body, after a great effusion Pag. 808.800. of blood which issued out by all the passages of his body, he breathed forth his wretched Soul. Oh the horrid butcheries that were committed and commanded by this bloody Prince his Reign, throughout his whole Realm! but at last divine Vengeance overtook him, and he dyed wallowing in his own blood, &c.

The Duke of Guise, next to the King, had the greatest Pag. 793,794. hand in the Massacre of the Protestants, he was a most barbarons Prince, and at last he falls by barbarous hands; for he being called by Revoll Secretary to Henry the III. to come to the King into his Cabinet, as he lifted up the Tapestry Page 867. with one hand to enter, he was charged with Swords, Daggers, and Partifans, and so dyed by the hands of Murderers, He that had murthered many thousands of the Protestants. was at last murthered by men of his own Religion.

Henry the M. King of France, was a most cruel Enemy to French Histo-the Protestants, and he was by James Clemmont a Monk, ry, pag. 279, stabled in the same Chamber, and on the same day wherein he had helped to contrive the French Maffacre. Doubtles God will one day reckon with France for all that Protestant blood that they have shed. -Maxi-

Hiftory of France, pag. 791 . to pag. 798.

History of the Council of Trent, pag. 417.

Maximinus was a great Persecutor of the people of God, he set forth a Proclamation ingraven in Brass for the utter abolishing of Christ and his Religion, he was at last eaten up of Lice. The same Judgment befel Philip King of Spain, who swore he had rather have no Subjects then Luther an Subjects; and when he had narrowly escaped drowning in a shipwrack, he said, he was delivered of God to rout off Lutheranism, which he presently began to do, but God soon cut him off.

Theatrum Historicum. Thomas Blavar, one of the Privy Counfellors of the King of Scors, was a fore Perfecutor of the people of God in that Land; when he lay on his dying bed he fell into despair, and cryed out, that he was damned, he was damned and when the Monks came about him to comfort him, he cryed out upon them, saying. That their Masses and other trash would do him no good; for he never believed them, but all that he did was for love of money, and not of Religion, not respecting or believing that there was either a God or a Devil, a Hell or a Heaven; and therefore he was damned, there was no remedy but he must go to Hell, and in this case without a sign of repentance he dyed.

A Popish Magistrate having condemned a poor Protestant to death, before his execution he caused his tongue to be cut out, because he should not confess the truth: but the Lord did retaliate it upon him; for the next child he had, was born without a tongue.

Anno 1552.

Cardinal Crelcentius was a most desperate Persecutor of the people of God, he was the Popes Embassador to the Council of Trent, and being one night busic in writing to his Master the Pope, a huge black Dog with great flaming eyes, and long ears dangling down to the ground, appeared to him in his Chamber, and went under the Table where he sate: Upon which the Cardinal was amazed; but as as soon as he had recovered himself, he called his Servants to put out the black Dog that was come into his Chamber: but they lookt round about his Chambers, and the next Chambers, but could find no black Dog: upon which the Cardinal sell presently sick with a strong conceit, which never left him till his death, still crying out. Drive away the black Dog, drive away the black Dog, which feemed to him to be climbing up his Bed; and in that humour he dyed.

After the Martyrdom of Gregory the Bishop of Spoleta, Flac. | Phil. Lonicer. chus the Governour who was the Author thereof, was struck with an Angel, and vomited up his entrails at his mouth, and dycd.

Mammea Agrippitus when he was fifteen years old, because Cent. 2. cap. he would not facrifice to their Idols, was apprehended at Preneste, and whipt with Scourges, and hanged up by the heels, and at last slain with the Sword; in the midst of whose tor, ments the Governour of the City fell down dead from the Tribunal-feat

Genfericus King of the Vandals (an Arrian) was a most cruel Perfecutor of the Orthodox Christians, he was possessed of the Devil, and dyed a most miserable death in the year 477.

Herod the Great, who caused the Babes of Bethlehem to be flain, hoping thereby to have destroyed Christ, shortly after was plagued by God with an incurable disease, having a flow and flack fire continually tormenting of his inward parts, he had a vehement and greedy defire to eat, and yet nothing would fatisfie him; his inward bowels rotted, his breath was short and stinking, some of his members rotted, and in all his members he had so violent a cramp, that nature was not able to bear it, and so growing mad with pain, he dyed miserably.

Herod Antipas, who beheaded John Baptist, not long after Euseb. Hist. falling into difgrace with the Roman Emperor, with his incestuous Herodias the Suggester of that murther, they were banished, and fell into such misery and penury, that they ended their wretched lives with much shame and misery.

Herod Agrippa was a great Persecutor of the Saints; he was caten up of worms in the third year of his Raign, as Fosiphus He went to Cefarea to keep certain Plays in the Honour of Cafar; the Gown he was in (as the same Author relates) was a Gown of Silver wonderfully wrought, and the beams of the Sun reflecting upon it, made so it glister, that it dazled the eyes of the Beholders; and when he had made an Sigeb.in Chron.

Eufeb. Hist.

Acts 12. Foseph. Antiq. ib. 19. cap. 7.

Send

Acts 12. 21,

Joseph. Antiq. hb. 18. cap.13.

Eufeb. Hift.

Euseb.Hist. lib.

end of his starched Oration in this his Bravery, his Flatterers extolled him as a God, crying out, I is the voice of a God, and not of a man: Whereupon he was presently smitten by the Angel of the Lord, and so dyed with worms that eat up his entrails; the blow the Angel gave him was an inward blow, and not so visible to others; and his torments more and more increasing upon him, the people put on sack-cloth, and made supplication for him, but all in vain; for his pains and torments growing stronger and stronger every day upon him, they separated his wretched soul from his loathsom body within the compass of sive days.

Caiaphas the high Priest, who gathered the Councel, and suborned false Witness against the Lord Christ, was shortly after put out of his Office; and one Jonathan substituted in his room, whereupon he killed himself.

Not long after Pontius Pilate had condemned our Lord Christ, he lost his Deputiship, and Casars savour; and being sallen into disgrace with the Roman Emperour, and banished by him, he fell into such misery, that he hanged himself.

Oh the dreadful Judgments that were inflicted upon the chief Actors in the Ten Perfecutions! Shall I give you a brief account of what befel them?

Nero that Monster of men, who raised the first bloody Perfecution (to pick a quarrel with the Christians) he set the City of Rome on fire, and then charged it upon them; under which pretence he exposes them to the sury of the people, who cruelly tormented them, as if they had been common burners and destroyers of Cities, and the deadly enemies of mankind; yea, Nero himself caused them to be apprehended and clad in wild beasts skins, and torn in pieces with Dogs, others were crucified, some he made Bonsires of to light him in his night-sports: To be short, such horrid cruelty he used towards them, as caused many of their enemies to pity them. But God sound out this wretched Persecutor at last; for being adjudged by the Senate an enemy to mankind, he was condemned demned to be whipt to death, for the prevention whereof he cut his own throat.

Domition the Author of the second Persecution against the Christians, having drawn a Catalogue of such as he was to kill, in which was the name of his own Wise and other friends: upon which he was by the consent of his Wise slain by his own Houshold-servants with Daggers in his Privy-Chamber; his body was buried without Honour, his Memory cursed to posterity, and his Arms and Ensigns were thrown down and defaced.

Trajan raised the third Persecution against the Church; he was continually vexed with Seditions, and the vengeance of God followed him close. For first, he fell into a Palsie, then lost the use of his senses; afterwards he fell into a Dropfie, and dyed in great anguish.

Adrian being vexed with great and perpetual Commotions in his life, dyed with much anxiety.

Maximinus being declared an Enemy by the Senate, was killed in his own Tent.

Decius by the Goths (in their first Invasion of the Empire) with his whole Army was cut off.

Valerianus was overcome by the Persians, and made use of by Sapor, as a Stirrup for his foot, when he went to take Horse:

Julian in his height of contempt against Christ, was deadly wounded in Battel against the Persians, and throwing his blood in the Air, dyed with that desperate expression in his mouth, Vicifi tandem Galilee. de la late

Valentine being a great Favourer of the Arrians, and a great Perfecutor of the Orthodox (the Arrians exceeding the Heathens in cruelty) was in Battel against the Goths in Thraita wounded, and being carried to a house that was near, it was set on fire by the Enemy, in which he miserably perished.

Musentim and his chief Officers being put to flight on the other fide of the River Tyber by Conftantine, was necessitated to secure by a Bridge whereupon he had made devices in a secret way to have drowned Constantine, by which he and those that

The Christians compared his destruction in the water to Pharaoh's drowning in the Red Sea.

Were

were with him were drowned in the River: upon which occasion the Christians took occasion to sing that word, Pfal.9. 16. The Lord is known by the judgments which he executeth, the wicked is snared in the work of his own hand: And that word, Pfal. 7. 15. He made a pit and digged it, and he himself is fallen into it.

Dioclesian being sent for by Constantine upon suspicion, chose rather to poyson himself then to see him.

Maximianus Herculeus endeavouring again to recover his Authority, was discovered in his design by his Daughter Constantines Wife: whereupon he was pursued and besieged by Constantine, and was either killed, or during the Siege hanged himself, as is diversly reported by several Writers.

Maximinus Tovius through intemperance becoming corpulent, was smitten with boils in the secret parts, out of which issued abundance of vermine : his Physicians were either suffocated by the odious smell of his loathsom disease, or else they were killed by him, because they could not cure him. One of his Physitians told him, that it was Gods Judgment on him for persecuting the Christians, which no man could cure. At last he fell under such convictions, as forced him to confess, that the wrongs and injuries that he had done to the people of God, were the cause of that plague; and therefore being fruck with terror and horror, gave out Edicts, that the Perfecution should cease; and that Churches should be builded; and that in their Meetings prayers should be put up for him? as formerly used to be: which Edict is to be found in Eusebins. The other Tyrant in the East (to wit Maximinus who was called Cafar) had been industrious to invent cruel tortures for the Christians, especially to pull out their eyes: but at last he was defeated, and in a base habit made to hide himfelf, and afterwards he was purfued by fuch a fickness which made both his eyes to drop out of his head, by which Judgment he was necessitated to confess, that the God of the Christians was the only true God, and that he had been mistaken concerning the gods whom he chose to worship; which words were uttered by him when he was even expiring, as Enfebius. tefti . Were Euseb. Hist. lib. 8. cap. 29.

Eufeb. de vita Constantini, lib. 2. cap. 52. testifies. By all these dreadful Instances, you may run and read that heavy Vengeance that has been inslicted upon those who have fied the blood of the Just.

Falix Earl of Wartenburge was a great Persecutor of the Saints, and did swear that ere he dyed, he would ride up to the Spurs in the blood of the Lutherans: but the very same night wherein he had thus sworn and vowed, he was choaked with his own blood.

The Judgments of God were so samous and frequent upon those that did shed the blood of the Saints in Bohemia, that it was used as a Proverb among the Adversaries themselves, That if any man be weary of his life, let him but attempt against the Picardines (so they called the Christians) and he should not live a year to an end.

Sir Thomas Moor, once Lord Chancellor of England, was a sworn Enemy to the Gospel, & persecuted the Saints with fire and faggot; and among all his praises he reckons, this is the chiefest: That he had been a Persecutor of the Lutherans, i.e. the Saints: but what became of him? he was sistanced of Treason, and then condemned, and at last beheaded.

Judge Morgan was a great Persecutor of the people of God; but shortly after he had passed the Sentence of Condemnation upon that vertuous Lady, the Lady Jane Grey, he fell mad, and in his mad raving fits, he would continually cry out, Take away the Lady Jane, take away the Lady Jane from me: and in that horror he ended his wretched life.

Drabomiza, after the death of her Husband, usurped the Government of Bohemia, and was a cruel Persecutor of the people of God; but by a righteous hand of God it so sell out, that on that very place where the Ministers bones lay unburied, the earth opened of it self, and swallowed her up alive with her Chariot, and those that were in it: which place is now to be seen before the Cast e of Prague. There is no end of Instances of a later date. But, we will a pro-

Seventhly, The strange, miraculous, and wonderful pre-

7

Hefiod fpeaks of thirty thoufand Demi-Gods that were keepers of men; but what are fo many thoufand Gods to that one God that neither flumbers nor fleeps, but day and night keeps his people as the apple of his eye, Zeph. 5. 8. As his Yews. Mal. 3. 17. that keeps them in his Pavilion, as a Frince his Favourite. Pfal. 31. 20.

Cicero.

Conscience is Gods Preacher in the bofom. Conscience is mille teffes, a thousand witnesses for or against a man. Conscience hath a good memoty.

servation of the lives and blood of the Just, speaks out their blood to be precious blood. Who can fum up the many Miracles of divine Love, Power, Wildom, and Care, &c. that God manifested in the preservation of Toseph in the Prison, Teremiah in the Dungeon. Daniel in the Den, and the three Chil. dren in the fiery Furnace, and not fay, furely the blood of the Saints is very precious in the eyes of the Lord? I have read of a certain Witch that fent her Spirits to kill Ambrofe; but they returned her this Answer. That God had hedged him in as he did 70b, and therefore they could not touch him, they could not hurt him. Another came with a drawn Sword to his Bed-side to have killed him, but he could not stir his hand, till repenting, he was by the prayer of Ambrose restored to the use of his hand again. For Luther (saith my Author) a poor Frvar to stand it out against the Pope and all the Power of Rome, was a great miracle, and that he should prevail against all that Power, was agreater, and that after all, he should dve in his bed, was the greatest of all. There are many thousand Instances more of the like nature, but enough is as good as a Feaft.

Eighthly. The spiritual Judgments that God hath given such up to, who have shed the blood of the Just, speaks out their blood to be precious blood. Oh the dreadful horrors and amazing terrors of conscience that such have been given up to! Take a few Instances among the many that might be given. The Vaivod that had betrayed Zegeden a godly man, professed to Zegedine, that he was so haunted with Apparitions and the Furies of his own Conscience, that he could not rest day nor night. Dionysius a cruel Tyrant, a bitter Enemy to all good men and good things, was so troubled with fear and horror of conscience, that not daring to trust his best friends with a Rasor, he used to sindge his beard with burning coals. A fleepy conscience, when awakned, is like a fleepy Lyon, when he awakes he roars and tears his prey. It is like Prometheus Yultur, it lyes ever gnawing. Sin brings a stain and a sting. Horror of conscience meets a man in the dark, and makes him leap in the night, and makes him quake in his fleep; and makes him fart in every corner, and makes him think think every bush is a man, every man a Devil, and every Devil a Messenger to setch him quick to Hell. By this Theodorick saw the face of a man in the mouth of a fish. Nessen heard the noise of murther in the voice of birds. Saundes ran distracted over the Irish Mountains. This made Cain wander, Saul stab himself, Judas hang himself, Arius empty his bowels at the stool, Latomus cry desperately, he was damned, he was damned, and Julian confess, that he was conquered. It makes man, the Lord of all, to be Slave to all. Lord, what is man? Certainly 'tis better with Evagrius' to lye secure on a bed of straw, then to have a turbulent conscience on a bed of Doune, having Curtains embossed with Gold and Pearl. But,

Ninthly and laftly. The shedding of the blood of the Tust, is a fin of so high a cry, and so deep a dye, that for it God is resolved (except men repent) that he will shut them out of the highest Heaven, and cast them down to the lowest Hell, as you may fee by comparing the Scriptures in the Margine together; and therefore certainly the blood of the Just is most precious blood. Now seeing that the blood of the Just is such precious blood, who will wonder, if God sets fuch Cities, and Towns, and Countries into a flame about their ears, upon whose skirts the blood of the Just is to be found? Josephus speaking of the desolation of Jerusalem, faith, Because they have sinned against the Lord God of their Fathers in shedding the blood of just men and innocents that were within thee, even in the Temple of the Lord, therefore are our forrowful fighings multiplied, and our weepings daily increased. Twas the blood of the just, the blood of the innocents that turned Ferufalem into asbes.

I have read of one Rabbi Samuel, who fix hundred years fince writ a Tract in form of an Epittle to Rabbi Isaac Master of the Synagogue of the Jews, wherein he doth excellently disuls the cause of their long Captivity and extream misery, and after that he had proved, that it was institled for some grievous sin, he sheweth that sin to be the same which Amos speaks of. For three transgressions of Israel, and for four

9

Gal. 5. 21. Rev. 21. 8. Rev. 22. 15. I Joh. 3. 15. Math. 22. 7.

four I will not turn away the punishment thereof, because they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes. The selling of Toseph he makes the first sin, the worshipping of the Calf in Horeb the second sin, the abusing of Gods Prophets the third sin, and the selling of Jesus Christ the south sin. For the first, they served sour hundred years in Egypt, for the second, they wandred forty years in the Wilderness; for the third, they were Captives seventy years in Babylon; and for the fourth, they are held in pitiful Captivity eventill this day.

When Phocas, that bloody Cut-throat, fought to fecure himself by building high Walls, he heard a voice from Heaven telling him, That though he built his Bulwarks never fo high; yet sin within (blood within) would soon undermine all. Shedding the blood of the Just, is a fin that hath undermined the strongest Bulwarks, and that hath blown up, and burnt up the most glorious Cities, that have been in the World. And who can tell but that the blood of the Just that was shed in the Marian days, might now come up into remembrance before the Lord? For in four years of her Reign there were confumed in the heat of those flames two hundred seventy seven persons, viz. Five Bishops, one and twenty Ministers, eight Gentlemen, eighty four Artificers, one hundred Husbandmen, Servants, and Labourers, fix and twenty Wives, twenty Widows, nine Virgins, two Boys, and two Infants. I say, who can tell but that the blood of these precious Servants of the Lord hath cryed aloud in the ears of the Lord for vengeance against that once glorious, but now desolate City? Men of brutish spirits, and that are skilful to destroy, make no more of shedding the blood of the Just, then they do of shedding the blood of a Swine; but yet this hideous fin makes so great a noise in the ears of the Lord of Hosts, that many times he tells the World by his fiery Dispensations, that it cannot be purged away but by fire. And thus much for the fins that bring the fiery Judgment: our way now to the Application is plain.

Speeds Ghronicle in Queen Mary. THE

FIRSTPART

OF THE Application.

1. To see the Hand of the Lord in it. Ten Considerations to work to this.

2. To mourn under the sense of so great a Judge-

E come now to the Use and Application of this important Point. The Explication of a Doctrine, is but the drawing of the Bow: the Application is the hitting of the Mark, the white, &c.

Is it so, that God is the Author or Efficient cause of all the great-calamities and dreadful Judgements that are in-

Aided upon Cities and Countreys, and in particular of that of Fire : then, (2, 1,20 auc) al world yu has 200 as 200 at

First, Let us see the hand of the Lord in this late dreadful Fire that hath been upon us: for certainly God is the Author (perunsevely at least) he is the great Agent in all those Use.

terrible

Ruth. 1- 13. 21 Pialm 39.9. 1 Sam. 3- 18.

The Souldiers Fire-brand by which was fired the famous Temple of Jerufalem, was commissionated by a Divine Command.

Matth. 8. 5.11. Whatever Miscreants made the Fire-Balls, yet God did blow the fire, and fo turned London into a Ruinous heap. Certainly there was much of Gods hand, whatever there was of mens heads in this fatal Fire.

terrible Judgements that befall Persons, Cities and Kingdoms. Whosoever or whatsoever be the Rod, its his hand that gives the stroke. The power of bringing Judgements upon Cities God challengeth to himfelf, Amos 3. 6. Shall there be evil in a City, and the Lord bath not done it? Whatever the Judgement be that falls upon a City, God is the Author of it; he acts in it, and orders it according to his own There is no Judgement that casually falls good pleasure. upon any person, City or Countrey: Every Judgement is inflicted by a Divine Power and Providence. The Chaldeans could never have burnt Ferufalem, if the Lord had not granted them a commission. Hence faith the Prophet, Evil came down from the Lord, unto the gate of Jerusalem, Mich. 1. 12. Twas a fore evil, that Ferusalem (which was one of the worlds wonders) should be destroyed by fire; but this evil was determined at the Counsel-board in Heaven. Ferujalem was burnt by a Commission signed in Heaven, both when the Chaldeans under Nebuchadnezzar, and when the Romans under Titus Vespasian laid it in Ashes. All sorts of Judgements are more at the beck of God, and under the command of God, than Servants are under the commands of their Masters, or Souldiers under the commands of their General, or Children under the command of their Parents. ever Judgement God commands to destroy a Person, a City, or Countrey, that Judgement shall certainly and effe-Qually accomplish the command of God, in spite of all that creatures can do. God as he is our Creator, Preserver, and Soveraign Lord, has an absolute power both over our persons, lives, estates and habitations : and when we have transgressed his rightcous Laws, he may do with us, and all we have as he pleases: he may turn us out of house and home, and burn up all our comforts round about us, and yet do us no wrong. Those things which seem accidental and casual unto us, are ordered by the wife Councel, Power and Providence of God. Instruments can no more stir till God gives them a commission, than the Axe or the Knife can cut of it self without an hand. Tob eyed God in the fire that fell from Heaven, and in all the ficay tryals that befell him.

And therefore as one observes, he doth not fay, the Lord gave, Austine. and the Devil took away; nor the Lord gave, and the Chaldeans and Sabeans took away; but the Lord bath given, and the Lord bath taken, and bleffed be the name of the Lord. Certainly without the cognizance and concurrence of a Wife. Omniscient and Omnipotent God, no creatures can move; nor without his fore-fight and permission, no event can befall any Person, City, or Countrey. Acts 17. 28. For in bim we live, move and bave our being. No man can put forth a natural action without him. Whatever the means or instruments of our misery be, the hand is Gods, and this the Saints in all the Ages of the world have confest. It becomes us in every Judgement, to see the hand of the Lord, and to look through visible means to an invisible God: for though the Lord may, and many times do's make use of Satan and his influments to fcourge his dearest children, yet it is but one hand; and many instruments that he smites us with. God makes use of what second causes he pleases for the exeeution of his pleasure. And many times he makes the worst of men the Rod of his indignation to chattile his people with. Witne's Pharaob, Abab, Haman, Herod, and the Affr rian Kings, with scores of other instances that the Scripture affords. And all Histories abound in nothing more than in Instances of this nature, as all know that have read any thing of History. The Conclave of Rome, and the Conclave of Hell can do nothing without a commission from Heaven. They can't make a Loufe, nor burn a Houfe, nor drown a Pigg, without a commission under the Broad Seal of Heal ven. A Sparrow lights not upon the ground, nor a hair falls not from our heads, no nor a briffle from a Sow's back, (faith Tertullian) but by a Divine Providence. All created creatures both in that upper, and in this lower world depend upon God for their being, motion, and several activities. Now in that God did not exert his Power neither to prevent, nor check those furious flames, which he knew without his interpolure, would lay all in alhes; 'tis evident that it was his Divine pleasure, that London should be turned into a ruinous heap. " Gods not hindering the defo-Aa 2 lation

Job 1. 20, 21

Levit. 10. 1, 2, 3, 4. Heb.11.25,26.

Ifa. 10.5.10 20.

Exod. $. 18. Ter. 21.10. Matth. 8. 32. Chap. 10. 30. Luke 21. 18.

lation of London was a tacit commissioning of the stames to burn down all that stood in their way. That such are under a high mistake, that ascribe the burning of London, so to second causes, as that they will allow no more Judgement of God in it, than that which accompanies common casualty. I thall sufficiently evidence, before I have finished this first Use. But I hope the prudent Reader will make it his business to see the fignal hand of God in this late fiery dispensation, and to remember, that the Scribe is more properly faid to write, than the Pen; and he that maketh and keepeth the Clock, is more properly faid to make it go and firike. than the Wheels and Poizes that hang upon it; and every Workman to effect his work, rather than the tools which he useth as instruments. So the Lord of Hosts who is the Chief Agent and Mover in all things, and in all actions; may more fitly and properly be faid, to effect and bring to pals, all Judgements, yea, all things that are done in the earth, than any inferiour or subordinate causes; seeing they are but his tools and instruments which he rules and guides according to his own Will, Power and Providence. At this some of the more civilized Heathen hath long since harnmered, viz, That the same power dispenseth both comforts and croffes, when they painted Fortune in two forms, with two faces of contrary colours, the foremost white, the hindermost black, to fignifie that both good and evil came from the Goddels Fortune. When twas told Prince Henry, that delitic genera bumani, that darling of mankind . That the fins of the people caused that affliction that was upon bim: O no. faid he, I have fins enough of mine own to cause that. So should we all confess, that though God take occasion by another mans fin, or by another mans hand to fire my house; Yet the cause is just that it should be so, and that I my self have deserved it, whatsoever the occasion, or the instrument God had matter enough against the seventy thousand that died of the Plague, though Davids fin were the occasion, yet the meritorious cause was in them. Certainly there is no man that hath been a sufferer by this late dreadful Fire. but upon an easie search into his own heart and life, he may find matter enough to filence himfelf," and to facisfic himfely that though God has turn'd him out of his habitation, and burnt up all his comforts round about him, vet he has done him no wrong. Surely in the burning of the City of London, there was more of the extraordinary hand of God, than there was of the hand of Papilt or Atheist. God if he had pleased, could have prevented brutish and skilful men to deftroy. and burn, by discovering of their hellish plots before they had taken effect, as he did Abitopbels, 2 Sam. 17.10, to the 24. and as he did Tobiabs and Sanballats , Neb. 4. 7. to v. 16. And as he did the lews who took counsel to kill Paul, Ads 9.23, 24,25. Ads 23.12.to 25. And as he did that of the Gun-Powder-Treason. And God could have directed and spirited men to the use of the means, and then have given such a bleffing to the means, as (hould have been effectual to the quenching of it when it was first kindled, but he would not, which is a clear evidence, that he had given from Heaven a commission to the Fire to burn with that force and violence as it did, still all was laid in affics, and the was

Now that you may the better fee and acknowledge the hand of the Lord in the late dreadful Fire that has been amongst us. Consider seriously with me these ten sollowing particulars.

First, Consider the intemperate heat, the drought of the season, such a hot and dry Summer as that was, has not been known for many years: How by this means every mans habitation was as stubble, sully dry, prepared and fitted for the burning slames. Before God would strike fire, he made our houses like tinder: When suell is wet and green, what puffing and blowing must there be to kindle a fire, and to make it burn? but when suell is light and dry, it is so conceptive of fire, that even the very smell of fire puts it into a slame. And this was poor London's case; for every mans house had lain long a Sunning under the scorching beams of the Sun, and much brightness of weather, which made every thing so dry and combustible, that sparks and slakes of sire were sufficient to set mens houses all in a slame about their cars. Now this singer of God we are neither to over-

Ezek. 21, 31.

Nah. 1. 10.
Jo:12. 5.
By this parching feafon
every mans house was prepared for fuel.

Exod. 8. 19.

Amos 4. 7.

1 King. 17. 1,2. Tob 38. 31. Doubtless there was much wrath in this, that the Water-house which ferved much of the City with water, should be burnt down in a few hours after the fire first began. To want a proper emedy when we are under a growing mifery, is no fmall calamity. 'Tis fad with the people that have nothing to quench the furious flames. but their own tears and blood. To be stript of water when God strikes a people with that tremendous Judgement of Fire, is wrath to the utmost.

look, nor vet deny; 'eis our wisdom, as well as our work, to fee not only the finger, but the hand of the Lord in every circumstance that relates to that fore Judgement of fire, that we are: fill fighing under. Tis God that withholds feafonable showers, and that causeth it to rain upon one City, and not upon another. The Earth cannot open her bowels. and vield feed to the Sower, and bread to the Eater, if not watered from above: por the Heaven cannot drop down farness upon the Earth, if God close it up, and withhold the feasonable showers. This the very Heathens acknowledged in their fictions of Jupiter and Juno. God only can make the Heavens as Brass and the Earth as Iron, and rettrain the Cele-(hial influences. Can man bind the sweet influences of Pleiades? or loofe the bends of Orion? Can any but God forbid the Clouds to drop fatness? Surely no. Beloved, drought and scantness of water, upon a Land, a City, &c. is a Judgement of God. 'Tis no small misery to have the streams dried up, when the fire is at our doors, Jer. 50.28. A drought in upon ber maters, and they shall be dried up: for it is the Land of Graven Images, and they are mad upon their Idols, Jer. 51. 35, 36. The violence done to me and to my flish, be upon Babylon, shall the inhabitant of Zion fay; and my blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea, shall Jerusalem fay. Therefore thus faith the Lord, Behold I will plead thy cause, and take vengeance for thee; and I will dr; up her Sea, and make her Springs dry. Now mark what fol lows, ver. 27. And Babylon shall become heaps, a dwelling place for Dragons, an aftonishment, and an hissing without an inbabitant. When God comes to plead the cause of Zion, against Babylon; not by words, but by deeds, by blowes, by terrible Judgements. When he comes to burn up the inhabitants of Babylon; and to turn them out of house and home; he first dayes up her Sea ; and makes her Springs dry, Haggai 1 11. And I called for a drought upon the Land, and up n the Mountains, and upon the Corn, and upon the new Wine, and upon the Oyl, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon Men, and upon Cattel, and upon all the labour of the bands. Tis God that brings droughts and rain, and that opens and stops (the Clouds) the bottles of Heaven at his pleafure.

pleasure, Jer. 14. 2, 3, 4. Judab mourmeth, and the gates thereof languish, they are black unto the ground, and the cry of Jerusalem is gone up. And their Nobles have fent their little ones to the waters, they came to the pits, and found no water, they re turned with their veffels empty; they were ashamed and confound ed, they covered their heads. They muffled up their heads and faces, as a token of great grief and forrow as clase mourners do with us. Because the ground is chapt, for there was no rain in the earth the Plommen were ashamed they covered their heads. There are many calamities that are brought upon us by humane means that are also avoidable by humane helps; but drought and want of water, especially when a devouring fire is kindled in the midft of a people, is no small judgement of Heaven upon that people, to want water when the house is all in flames is a high evidence of Divine displeasure. We had no rain a long time before the fire, and the Springs were low, and the Water-works at the Bridge foot which carried water into that part of the City that was first in flames were burnt down the first day of the fire. And was there not wrath from Heaven in this: Surely yes. Look as 'tis a choice mercy to have God at hand, and the creatures at hand when we most need them: So tis a fore Judgement, to have God at a distance, and the creatures remote, when they should be of most service and use unto us. Certainly Gods arming of the Element of fire against us, and his denying at the same time water unto us, cannot but be a fignal of his great indignation against us. And therefore it highly concerns us, to see the hand of the Lord in that late lamentable fire that has been amongst us. But,

Secondly, Consider the suddenness and unexpectedness of this Judgement. Who among all the burnt Citizens, did ever expect to see London laid in after in sour dayes time? Gods Judgements many times seize upon mens persons houses and citates, as the Souldiers did Archimedes, whilst he was busic in drawing lines in the dust. Ita. 64.3. When show didst terrible things which we looked not for. When the Citizens saw London in slames, they might truly have said, This is a terrible thing which we looked not for: we were minding

TUC

Babylon bore it fell bold upon the feventy years provision laid up before hand, to flaud out a Siege, and upon its flrength and ticks, but for all this twas taken by Cyrus.

1King.8.37,38. Ifa. 9. 13, 14,

I٢.

Jer. 8. 6.

I Sam. 15. 32.

our bufinels, our Shops, our trades, our profits, our pleasures, our delights; we were studying, and plotting, and contriveing how to make our felves and our children great and rich, and high and honourable in the earth; and it never entered into our thoughts, that the destruction of London by fire. was so near at hand, as now we have found it to be, Isa. 47. 7, 8, 9, 11. Thou saidst I shall be a Lady for ever : fo that thou didit not lay these things to thy beart: (what things, we the Judgements of God that were threatned) neither didft remember the latter end of it. Therefore hear now this, thou that art given to pleasures, that dweleft carelefly; that fayeft in thine beart, I am, and none else besides me. I Rall not sit as a widow, neither shall I know the loss of children. But these two things shall come to three in a moment, in one day; the loss of Children and Widowbood, they shall come upon thee in their perfection. Evil hall come upon thee, and thou shalt not know from whence it rifeth; and mischief hall fall upon thee, thou halt not be able to put it off: and desolation shall come upon thee suddenly, which thou shalt not know. Was not London the Lady City of our Land? Did the inhabitants of London lay those Judgements of God to heart that they either felt or feared? Did London remember her latter end? Were not most of the inhabitants of London given to finful pleasures and delights? Did they not live carelesly and securely? Were they ever so secure and inapprehensive of their danger, than at this very time when the flames broke forth in the midft of them? They had newly escaped the most sweeping Plague, that ever was in the City and Suburbs: but instead of finding out the plague of their hearts, and mourning over the Plague of their hearts, and repenting of the evil of their doings, and returning to the Most High, they returned to their fins and their Trades together; from both which for a time the Plague had frighted them; concluding in themselves, that surely the bitterness of death was past. They thought that the worst was past, and that after so dreadful a storm they should have a blessed calm; and dreamed of nothing but peace, and quiet and fafety, and Trade; ftriving with all their might to make up those losses, that they had sustained by the Pestilence. They having escaped the Grave, when so many score thousands were carried to their long homes, were very secure; they never thought, that the City, which had been so lately intected by a contagious Plague, was so near being buried in its own ruines: they never imagined, that of Septemb. the the whole City should be put in slames, to purge that Air that their fins had infected. And therefore no wonder if defolation came upon them fuddenly, in a moment, in one day. No marvail that fo great a Fire was kindled in the very heart of the City, and they not fee the hand that kindled it, nor have no hands nor hearts to quench it. Judgements are never to near, as when men are most secure, I This: 5. 3. The old world was very secure until the very day that Noah entered into the Ark. Luke 17, 27. They did eat, they drank they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the Ark, and the flood came and destroyed them all. Luther observeth, that it was in the Spring that the flood came, when every thing was in its prime and pride, and noing less looked for than a flood: They neither believed nor regarded Noahs preaching, nor his preparations for his own and his childrens fecurity; but merrily passed without intermission, from eating to drinking, and from drinking to marriage till the very day that the flood came and swept them all away. Their destruction was foretold them to a day, but they were drown'd in security, and would take no notice of Noabs predictions, nor their own peril. They had made their guts their God; they had buried their wits in their guts, and their brains in their bellies : and fo were neither awakened, nor bettered by any thing, that either Nab faid or did; and so they perished suddenly and unexpectedly. So Sodom was very fecure, till the very day that fire and brimftone was rained from Heaven about their ears, ver. 28, 29. Likewife alfo asit was in the dayes of Lot, They did eat, they drank, they bought, they fold, they planted, they builded : But the fame day that Lot went out of Sodom, it rained fire and brimftone from Heaven and deffroyed them all. Lot was no sooner taken out of Sodom, but Sodom was as foon taken out of the world: their fair funshine morning had a foul dismal evening: they Bb

In the Moneth Plague was at the highest, and in the fame Moneth the flames of London were at highelt. Doubtless there is some mysterie in this fad Providence, London was Judgement-proof, Plague-proof in Septemo. 64. and therefore God fer London in flames in September 66.

Gen. 19. 23.

Jude 7.

Compare these together.
Amos 6: 3.
Lam.4. 11, 12.
Ezek. 12.22,
27, 28.

Hab. 1.7. Luke 2.19,41, 42,43,44.

had a hansel of Hell on this side Hell; they past through fire and brimstone here, to an eternal fire in Hell, as Jude speaks. So the Jews were deadly secure before the first and latter defiruction both of their City and Countrey by sword and fire. All the world could not perswade them, that their Temple and City should be laid in Ashes, till the Chaldeans at one time, and the Romans at another, had fer both their City and Temple in a flame before their eyes. Now mark sudden and unexpected Judgements do alwayes carry a great deal of the anger and severity of God in them, Deut. 7. 4. So will the anger of the Lord be kindled against you, and destroy thee suddenly. God being greatly angry with Ferusalem, Is. 29. 1, 2, 3, 4. He tells her, that her Judgement should be at an instant, suddenly, ver. 5. Pfal. 64. 7. But God shall shoot at them with an arrow, suddenly shall they be wounded. Hab. 2.7. Shall they not rife up suddenly that shall bite thee, and awake that shall ver thee, and thou shalt be for booties unto them? Prov. 6. 14, 15. Frowardness is in his heart, he deviseth mischief continually, he foweth discord. Therefore shall his calamity come suddenly; suddenly shall be be broken without remedy. Here is a dismal doom; not bruised, but broken; yea, suddenly broken, when they least dream or dread the danger. And this without remedy, there shall be no possibility of piecing them up again, or putting them into a better condition, Chap. 24. 22. Their calamity shall rife suddenly; when they think that they have made all cock fure, then ruine and defolation lyes at their door. Certainly there are no judgements so dreadful and amazing, as those which come most suddenly and unexpectedly upon the fons of men: for these cut off all hope; they hinder the exercise of reason; they cloud mens minds; they distress mens spirits; they marr mens councils, and they weaken mens courage; and they daunt mens hearts fo, that they can neither be serviceable to themselves, nor their friends, nor the publick; all this was evidently feen upon the body of the Citizens, when London was in flames. The more eminent cause have we to take notice of the hand of the Lord, in that late fiery dispensation that has past upon us. The year 1666. according to the computation of several sober, wife, learned men, should have been the Christians Jubilee: many mens expectations were high, that Rome that year should be laid in afhes; but it never entered into any of our hearts or thoughts, that this very year London thould be laid in affies. Ounexpected blow! Berlin in Germony who in the Pulpit Scultet, Anna! charged the Apostle Paul with a lie, was suddenly smitten with an Apoplexy, while the words were yet in his mouth, and fill down dead in the place. The Parlon of Chrondal in Kent having got a Pardon from Cardinal Pool) as the Popes Substitute in that work) the next Lords Day in his own Parish presses all his people to do the like, with this Areument, that he was now to free from all his fins, that he could die prefently; and God prefently fo ffruck-him in the Pulpit that he died and never spoke more. As Bibulus a Roman General was riding in triumph in all his glory, a Tyle fell from the house in the Street and knockt out his brains. Otho the Emperour flew himfelf with his own hands, but flept so soundly, the night before, that the Grooms of his Cham: ber heard him fnort. And Plutareb reporteth the like of Cato. Lepidm and Aufidius flumbled at the very threshold of the Senate and died: the blow came in a cloud from Heaven Supportes died fuddenly by excessive joy: and Homer by immoderate grief. Mr. Perkins speaks of one; who when it thundered, scoffingly said, it was nothing but Tom Tumbrill a hooping his Tubs, and presently he was struck dead with a Thunderbolt. Olympus the Arrian Heretick bathing himfelf, uttered fad words against the bleffed Trinity, but fuddenly a threefold Thunderbolt struck him dead in the same blace. Attilus King of the Huns, proudly gave out, that the Stars fell before him, and the earth trembled at his prefence, and how he would be the scourge of all Nations; but foon after he died by a flux of blood breaking out of his mouth, which choaked him on his wedding-day. Henry the Second of France upon the Marriage of his Sifter with the King of Spain, was so puffed up, that he called him felf by a new Title, Tres-beureuse Roy, The thrice happy King. But (to confute him) in folemnizing that Marriage, he was flain at Tilt, by the Captain of his Guard (though against Thearre of Gods Tudgemenis: 46. 1. cap. 9. p. 64.

Ter. 8. 15.

Many Authors freak much of the Greek Fire Clome of which burnt the Saracens Fleet) to be of fuch force, that the Ancients accounted no other means would extinguish it but Vinegar. And certainly Several fires that have been enkindled by Romisto Teluits, have not been less furious. Stone walls and Brickwalls, and those noble and ftrong Pieces of Archite Sture were all but fuel to those furious flames.

his will, but not without Gods determinate counsel) in the very beginning of his supposed happinels. Now every one that is a man either of reason or Religion, will certainly say, that in these sudden Judgements that befell these persons, there was the angry and displeased hand of God to be seen. O how much more then should we see the angry and displeased hand of the Lord, in that sudden dreadful fire, that has turned our once renowned City into a ruinous heap. In this year 1666. many thought that there had been many great and glorious things in the womb of Providence, that would have been now brought forth, but they were mistaken: for unexpectedly London is laid in ashes. But,

Thirdly, Confider the force, violence, vehemency and irrefiltibleness of it: despising and triumphing over all those weak endeavours that were used. This Fire broke forth with that violence, and raged with that fury, and appeared in that dreadfulness, and spread it self with that dismalness. and continued for fo long a time with that irrefiftibleness, that discouraged hearts and weak hands with their Buckets. Engines, Ladders, Hooks, opening of Pipes, and sweeping of Channels, could give no check to it. This fire broke in upon the Inhabitants like an Arm of the Sea, and roared and taged, like a Bear robbed of her Whelps, until it had laid our glory in ashes. When the fire was here and there a little allayed or beaten down, or put to a stand, how soon did it recover its force and violence, and make the more furious onfers; burning down Water houses, Engines, Churches, and the most strong, pleasant and stately houses, nothing being able to stand before its rage. How foon did the flames mount up to the tops of the highest houses, and as soon descend down to the bottom of the lowest Vaults and Cellars? How did they march along Jehu-like on both fides of the Streets, with such a roaring; dreadful and astonishing noile, as never was heard in the City of London before? Londons fins were now fo great, and Gods wrath was now fo hot, that there was no quenching of the furious flames. The Decree for the burning of London was now gone forth, and none could reverle it. The time of Londons fall was now come. The fire had now received its commission under the Broad Seal of Heaven, to burn down the City, and to turn it into a ruinous heap; and therefore it defied and contemned all remedies, and scorned to be supprest by humans attempts. Who ever kindled this fire. God blew the coal; and therefore no arts, counsels, or endeavours of men were able to quench it. If God commission the Sword to walk abroad, and to glut it felf with blood, who can command it into the Scabbard again? No art, power or policy can cause that Sword to lie still, that God has drawn in the Nations round us, untill it hath accomplished the ends for which he has drawn it. As to our present case, when I weigh things in the ballance of right reason, I can't but be of opinion, that had Magistrates and People vigorously and conscienciously discharged their duties, much of London (by the bleffing of God upon their endeavours) that is now ruined, might happily have been preserved. When in a storm the Ship and all the vast treasure that is in it, is in danger to be lost, itis sad to fee every Officer and Marriner to mind more, and endeayour more the preservation of their Chests, Cabins and particular interests, than the preservation of the Ship, and the vast treasure that is in it. Now this was just our case : Cicero in his time laughed at the folly of those men, who conceited that their Fish-ponds and places of pleasure, should be safe when the Common-wealth was lost. And we may well mourn over the folly and vanity of those men, who were to amazed, confounded; diffracted; besotted and infatuated (if not worse) as not to improve all heads, hands, hearts, councils and offers, that were made for the preservation of the City. This is, and this must be for a lamentation, that in the midft of publick dangers, all ranks and forts of men should take more care for the preservation of their trifling Fardels; (for fo is any particular mans offate, though never so great, when compared with the riches of a Rich, Trading, Populous City) than they do for the preservation of the publick good. That there might have been rational and probable anticipations of those dreadful conflagrating progreffes, I suppose all sober men will grant: that these were

Lib. 1. Ep. 15. ad Asticum. either hid from some mens eyes, and seen by others, and not improved, was Londons wo. When London was almost destroyed, then some began to blow up some houses for the preservation of that little that was left, and God blest their endeavours; but had some had encouragement, who long before were ready for that work, and who offered themselves in the case, 'tis very probable that a great part of London might have been preserved. But what shall I fay. Divine Justice dos as eminently sparkle and shine in the shutting of mens eyes, and in the stopping of mens ears, and in the hardning mens hearts, against the visible and probable means of their outward prefervation, as in any one thing. This we must feriously consider, and then lay our hands upon our mouths, and be silent before the Lord. The force and violence of this fire was fo great, that many that removed their goods once, twice, thrice, yea, and some oftner, yet lost all at last. The fire followed them so close from place to place, that fome faved but little, and others loft all. Now how well dos it become us, in the rage and fury of the flames, to fee the hand of the Lord, and to bow before him, as this fire being like Time, which devours all before it. Ferufalem was the glory and beauty of the whole Earth; and the Temple was one of the worlds wonders: but when Titus Vespasian's Souldiers had set it on fire, it burnt with that rage and fury, that all the industry and skill that ever could be used, imagined, or thought on could not quench it, though Titus would gladly have preserved it, as a matchless monument. They threw both water and the blood of the flain into it, but it burnt with that violence, that nothing could extinguish it. King Herod for eight years together, before the ruine of it, had imployed ten thousand men at work to beautifie it; but when once 'twas on fire, it burnt with that fierceness, that there was no preserving of it, the Decree of Heaven been gone out against it, &c. But,

Fourthly, Consider the swiftness of it. It flew upon the wings of the wind, that it might the sooner come to its journes end: It ran along like the fire and hail in Ægyps, destroying

Fosephus.

destroying and consuming all before it. The Apostle Fames | Pfalm 18, 10. speaks of fierce winds. The wind was so boiltrous, that it scattered and carried the fire, the flames sometimes one way, sometimes another, in despite of all the restraints, resistances and limits, that the amazed Citizens could have fet to it. I shall not trouble you with the various notions of Philosophers concerning the wind, partly because they will-do no service in the present case; and partly because our work is to look higher than all hatural causes. All that either is or can be faid of the Wind, I suppose may be thus summed up that it is a creature that may be r. Felt : 2. Heard : and Little understood. Very wonderful is the rice of the Winds; when it is so calm and still upon the Seas, that scarce a breath of air is perceivable, upon a sudden the wind is here and there, and every where, Eccles. 1.6. The wind goeth toward the South, and turneth about unto the North, it whirleth about continualy, and the wind returneth again according to his circuits, Plal. 135.7. He bringeth the wind out of bis treasu-But what those treasuries are, and where they are, no man on earth can certainly tellus. The Wind is one of the great wonders of the Lord, in which, and by which the Lords Name is wonderfully magnified, Pfal. 107. 24, 25. They that go down to the Sea, fee the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep. What wonders? He commandeth and raifeth the flormy wind; although some thing may bek nown of this creature in the natural causes of it; yet it is a wonder John 3.8. above all, that we can know of it. What the Wind is, and from whence it comes, and whither it goes none can tell.

God is the great Generalissimo and Soveraign Commander of the Winds, so that a blast of wind cannot pass without his leave, licence and cognizance, Jonah 1. 4. But the Lord fent a great wind into the Sea, and there was a mighty Tempest in the Sea. The winds are Gods Posts; they are sometimes mellengers of mercy, and fometimes mellengers of wrath. Pfal. 147. 18. He canfeth his wind to blom. The winds are at Gods command, to come and go, and go and come at his pleasure. When there is nothing but a sweet, smooth and filver calm on the Seas, if God dos but give forth a word of Exod. 9.23,24. James 3. 6. 2. The winds are the Fan of Nature to cool and purge the Air. But at this time God brought the winds out of his Treafury; to scatter the flames of his indignation, that fo London might become a defo arion.

Mat. 8: 27. Num. 11.21. Ifa. 27. 8. Num. 11. 12. Gen. 8. Exod. 1. 10. Chap. 13.

command.

Pfal. 18. 10. 2 Sam. 22. 11. Pfal. 104. 3.

Exod. 15. 10. Exod. 14. 21.

Prov. 30. 4.

command, how foon are they thrown into Hills and Mountains, and how dreadfully do the waves dash and clash one sgainst another? Pfal. 148.8. Fire and Hail, Snow and Vapours, formy Wind fulfilling his word. Sometimes the wordthat God has to fulfill, is a faving word, and sometimes'tis a destroying word, a drowning word, a finking word. Now according to the word that God has to fulfill, fo do the winds alwayes blow. The Lord hath the winds at com. mand, to be his Executioners and administrators; either of destruction or preservation. What are stormy winds at Sea or a Shore, but the utterings of Gods voice in wrath and judgement. Sometimes God is faid to fly upon the wings of the wind: and formetimes he is find to ride upon the wings of the wind: and formetimes he is fald to walk upon the wings of the wind. Now the fe things are spoken after the manner of men, to thew that the winds are continually acted and governed by a Divine Power. God flies upon the wings of the tempestuous winds speedily to execute the vengeance written: and he rides and walks upon the wings of the more fost, easie and gentle gales of the wind, that he may make good the mercies promised. No creatures in Heaven or on Earth, hath the winds at command, but God folely and properly. Every wind that blows, has a commission under the Great Seal of Heaven to bare it out in allit dos. If the winds should be examined, questioned and required, to give in a full and exact account, of the many thousand Marriners that they have drowned, and of the many thoufand Ships that they have spoyled and destroyed, and of the many ten thousand houses that they have blown down at some times, and of the many score thousand houses, that (when the fire has been kindled) they have helpt to confume and reduce to ashes at other times, they would thew you the hand and feal of Heaven for all they have done. The Soveraignty and greatness of God doth eminently thine and sparkle in this, that the winds are originally in his He gathereth the wind in his fift. God keeps the royaltie of all the creatures in his own hand. The winds are greater or leffer, of a longer or shorter continuance, according cording to the will and pleasure of the great God; and not according to the workings of second causes. The more civilized Heathens had this notion amongst them, That the winds were under the Dominion of one Supream Power; and therefore dividing the world among fundry Gods, they gave the honor of the Winds to Holus, whom they ignorantly suppose, had a power to lock them fast, or to let them loose at his pleasure. These poor besotted Heathens thought, that their feigned God Æylus had power to govern and bridle the winds, and to turn them this way and that way, as a man governs the Chariot in which he rideth. And many ignorant Atheistical wretches when the winds are boifterous and violent, they are ready to fay, that there is conjuring abroad; and that the Devil is at work; but they must know, that the Devil has not power of himself, to raise one blaft of wind, no nor so much wind as will stir a seather. I know that the Devil is the Prince of the power of the air, and that when God will give him leave to play Rex for ends best known to himself, he can then raise such storms and tempefts, both at Sea and a Shore, as shall dash the foutest Ships in pieces, and remove Mountains, and make the most glorious Cities in the world a ruinous heap, he can easily and quickly raze the foundations of the fairest, the richeft, the strongest, and the renownest, and the oldest build ings in the world, if God will but permit him But without Divine permission, no Angel in Heaven, no Devil in Hell, nor no! Witch on Earth, can raise or continue the winds one moment. Satans power over the wind is only a derivative power, a permissive power; but the Lords power over the wind, is a supream power, an absolute power, an independant power. Now O what eminent cause have we to see the hand of the Lord in that boisterous wind that continued four dayes and nights, and that carried the fire to all points of the Compais, to all parts of the City, (if I may to speak) till our glorious City was laid in Alhes! Oh how great were the fins of that people ! Oh how great was the anger of that God, who united two of the most dreadfullest elements Fire and Wind, to destroy our City, and lay our glo-

Ephel. 2. 2.

Tob 1. 19.

Jos phus An-

Page 758.

ry in the dust! When the Romans put fire to the Walls of ferusalem, at first the North Wind blew it suriously upon the Komans themselves; but suddenly the wind changing and blowing from the South, (as it were by Gods Providence, faith my Author) it turned the fire again upon the wall, and so all was consumed and turned into ashes. And this Eleazir in his Oration to his companions, takes special notice of, where he faith, Neither bath our Castle by nature inexpugnable, any thing profited us to our preservation; but we baving store of victuals and armour, and all other necessaries, have lost all hope of safety; God bimself openly taking it from us. For the fire that once was carried against our enemies, did not of it self return against us, and unto the wall we built. Suppose the Romans, or some set on by the Conclave of Rome, did at first fet our City on fire, by casting their fire-brands (for by that means Ferusalem was set on fire) or fire-balls here and there; yet how highly dos it concern us, when we confider the furious wind that helpt on the fury of the fire, to lay our hands upon our loynes, and to fay, the Lord is righteous; and that our present ruine, is but the product of incensed Suffice, &c.

When the Lord hath any service for the wind to do, it is presently upon the march, to run and dispatch his errands, whether of indignation or of mercy. If the Lord General of Heaven and Earth, the great the supream Commander of the winds, will have them to destroy a people, and to help on the destruction of their houses, when the flames are kindled; or to break and dash in pieces their Ships at Sea, it shall soon be accomplished, 2 Chron. 20 37. Because thou hast joyned thy felf with Ahaziah, the Lord bath broken thy works, and the Ships were broken, that they were not able to go to Tarshish. Boilterous winds at Sea or a shore, are the arrows of God shot out of the bended bow of his displeasure; they are one of the lower tier of his indignation, that is fired upon the children of men, Nahum. 1. 3. The Lord hath bis way in the whirle wind, and in the storm, and in the clouds are the dust of his feet. The great Spanish Armado that came to invade our Land in 88. were broken and scattered by the winds: So that

c their

dice-games were frustrated, and they sent into the bottom of the Sea, if not into a worse bottom. And when Charles the V. had belieged Algier (that Pen of Thieves) both by Sea and by Land, and had almost taken it; by two terrible Tempelis, the greatest part of his great Fleet were destroyed, as they did lye in the Harbour at Anchor. Ships, Houses, Trees, Steeples, Rocks, Mountains, Monuments can't stand before a tempestious wind. I Kings 19. 11. A great strong wind rent the Mounsains, and brake in pieces the rocks. What more frong than Rocks and Mountains? and yet they were too weak to stand before the firength of a tempelious wind. Oh the terrible execution that God doth many times by the winds both at Sea and ashore. Pfal. 18. 7. The earth shook and trembled, the foundations of the Hills moved and were Baken, because he was wroth. ver. 8. There went up a smoke out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it, ver. 10: He rode upon a Cherub, and did flie, yea, he did flie upon the wings of the wind. ver. 12. His thick Clouds paffed bailftones and coals of tire, verse 12. The Lord also thundred in the Heavens, and the bigbest gave his voice; bail-stones and coals of fire, &c. The fire in London carried the noise of a whirlewind in it: and that made it so formidable and terrible to all that beheld it, especially those that looks upon it as a fruit of Gods displeasure. The wind was commissionated by God to joyn iffue with the raging fire, to lay the City desolate. I think the like dreadful instance can't be given in any age of the world. We can't fay of the wind that blew when London was in flames, that God was not in the wind; as 'tis faid in that, I Kings 19. 11. For affuredly, if ever God was in any wind, he was remarkably in this wind, witness the dismals effects of it amongst us to this very day. Had God been pleased to have hindered the conjunction of these two Elements, much of London might have been standing, which now lyes buried in its own ruines. I grant that 'tis probable enough, that those that did so long before prophelie and predict the burning of London, before it was laid in allies, were the prime contrivers and furtherers of the firing of it: but yet when they had kindled the fire, that Cc 2

Val. Max. Christian. page 13: Gen. 3. ult.

Pfalm 13. 5. Mark 4. 39.

Gen. 7.11.

God by the bellows of Heaven, should so blow upon it, as to make it spread, and turn like the flaming Sword in Paradife every way; till by its force and fury, it had deltroyed above two third parts in the midft of the City: as the phrase is, Ezek. 5. 2. This is and this must be for a fore lamentation. God who holds the winds in his fift, who is the true Æalus, could either have lockt them up in his treasures, or have commanded them to be still; or else have turned them to have been a defence to the City. God who holds the bottles of Heaven in his hand, could eatily have unftopt them; he could with a word of his mouth have opened the windows of Heaven, and have poured down such an abundance of rain upon the City, as would quickly have quencht the violence of the flames, and so have made the conquest of the fire more easie. But the Lord was angry, and the Decree was gone out, that London should be burnt, and who could prevent it?

To close up this particular, consider much of the Wisdom, Power and Justice of God shines in the variety of the motions of the wind. Ecclef. 1. 6. The wind goeth toward the South, and turneth about unto the North, it whirlesh about continually, and the wind returneth again according to his circuits. The wind hath its various circuits appointed by God: when the wind blows Southward, Northward, Westward, or Eastward, it blows according to the Orders that are issued out from the Court of Heaven. Sometimes the wind begins to blow at one point of the Compais, and in a short time whirles about to every point of the Compass, till it comes again to the same point where it blew at the first; yet in all this they observe their circuits, and run their compass, according to the Divine appointment. As the Sun, so the winds have their courses ordered out by the wife Providence of God. Divine Wildom much sparkles and shines in the circuits of the winds; which the Lord brings out of his treasure, and makes them serviceable, sometimes to one part of the world, and at other times to other parts of the world. Tis the great God that appoints where the winds shall blow, and when the winds shall blow, and how long the Exod. 14. 24. Jonah I. 4 Chap. 4. 8.

winds

winds shall blow: and with what force and violence the winds shall blow. The winds in some parts of the world. have a very regular and uniform motion in some moneths of the year, blowing constantly out of one quarter, and in others out of another. In some places of the world (where I have been) the motions of the wind are fleady and constant, which Marriners call their Trade-wind. the flated or setled winds. Divine Providence dos very greatly ferve the interest of the children of men. Eut now in other parts of the world, the winds are as changeable as mens minds: The Laws that God layes up in the winds in most parts of the world, are not like the Laws of the Medes and Perfians, which alter not. One day God laves Dan. 6. 8. a Law upon the winds to blow full East, the next day to blow full West, the third to blow full South, the fourth to blow full North: yea, in several parts of the world, I have known the winds to change their motions several times in a day. Now in all these various motions of the winds, the Providence of God is at work for the good of mankind. That there is a dreadful florm in one place, and at the same time a sweet calm in another; that a tempessuous storm should destroy and dash in pieces one fleet, and that at the same instant, and in one and the same Sea, a prosperous gale should blow another fleet into a safe harbour : That some at Sea should have a stiff gale of wind, and others within fight of them should live becalmed: That some Ships should come into harbour top and top gallant, and that others should fink down at the same harbours mouth, before they should be able to get in; is all from the Decree of God, and that Law that he has laid upon the winds. That terrible tempeltuous wind that affrighted the Disciples, and that put them not only to their wits end, but also to their faiths end, was allayed by a word of Christs mouth, Matth. 8, 26, He arose and rebuked the winds and the Sea, and there was a great calm. O Sirs, when London was in flames, and when the winds were high, and went their circuits, roaring and makeing a most hideous noise, how case a thing had it been with Jefus, by a word of his mouth, to have allayed them? but Ce2

ne was more angry with us, than he was with his Disciples. who were in danger of drowning; or else he would as cerainly have faved our City from burning, by rebuking the winds and the flames, as he did his Disciples from drowning, by rebuking the winds and the Seas. I have been the longer upon this fourth particular, that you may the more easily run and read the anger of the Lord in those furious flames. and in that violent wind that has laid our City desolate. Tis true Aftrologers afcribe the motions of the winds to special Planets: The East wind they ascribe to the Sun, the West wind to the Moon, the South wind to Mars, and the North wind to Jupiter; but those that are wise in heart, by what I have faid concerning the winds; may fafely and and groundedly conclude, that God alone hath the Supream power of the winds in his own hand: and that he alone orders, directs, and commands all the motions of the winds. And therefore let us look to that terrible hand of the Lord that was lifted up in that fierce wind, that did so exceedingly contribute to the turning of our City into a ruinous heap. But.

Within the Walls of the City, there were eighty one Parifhes confumed. For every hour the fire lafted, there was a whole Parifh confumed.

Fifthly, Confider the extensiveness of it. How did this dreadful fire spread it self, both with and against the wind, till it had gained so great a force, as that it despised all mens attempts? It quickly spread it self from the East to the West, to the destruction of houses of State, of Trade, of Publick Magistracy, besides Mynes of Charity; it spread it self with that violence, that it foon crumbled into ashes our most stately Habitations, Halls, Chappels, Churches, and famous Mo-Those Magnificent Structures of the City that formerly had put stops, and given checks to the furious flames, falls now like stubble before the violence of a spreading fire. This fire like an Arm of the Sea, or like a Landflood broke in suddenly upon us; and soon spread it self all manner of wayes amongst us: it ran from place to place like the fire and hail in Ægypt; now 'twas in this Street, and anon in that: Now this Steeple is on fire, and then that: Now this place of Judicature is laid in after, and then that : Now this Hall is in flames, and then that: Now this Parish is burnt down to the ground, and then that: Now this Ward is turned into a ruinous heap, and then that: Now this Quarter of the City is level with the ground, and then that : Now this Gate of the City is demolished and consumed and then that. The adversary bath spread out his band upon Lam. 1. 10. all ber pleasant things, saith the Prophet lamentingly; and and we may fay fighingly, the fire hath spread out its hand upon all our pleasant things, upon all our pleasant Houses. Shops, Trades, Gardens, Walks, Temples, &c. The Plague the year before, did so rage and spread, that it emptied many thousand houses of persons; and now this dreadful fire hatth fo foread it felf, that it has not left houses enough for many thousands of persons to dwell in, there being more than 13000. houses destroyed by the surious stames. Sin is of a spreading nature, and accordingly it had spread it self over all parts of the City; and therefore the Lord (who delights to fuit his Judgements to mens fins) fent a spreading fire in the midst of us. The merciless slames spreading themselves every way, in sour dayes time laid the main of our (once glorious) City in ashes : a Judgement so remarkable and past president; that he that will not see the hand of the Lord in it, may well be reckoned amongst the worst of Atheifts. But.

Exod. 9.23.

Sixthly, Consider the impartiality of it. It spared neither Sinners nor Saints, young nor old, rich nor poor, honourable nor base, bond nor free, Male nor semale, buyer nor seller, borrower, nor lender: God making good that word, Ifa. 24. 1, 2. Behold the Lord maketh the earth empty, and maketh it waste, and turneth it upfide down, and scattereth abroad the in habitants thereof. And it hall be as with the people, so with the Priest: (or with the Prince, for the Hebrew word fignifies both) as with the fervant, so with his Master, as with the maid fo with the Mistris as with the buyer so with the seller, as with the lender so with the borrower, as with the taker of usury, so with the giver of usury to bim. In the day of the Lords wrath that was lately upon us, all orders, ranks and degrees of men fuffered alike, and were abased alike: the furious flames made no difference, they put no distinction between the Ruffet

Russet Coat and the Scarlet Gown, the Leathern Jacket and the Gold Chain, the Merchant and the Tradesman, the Landlord and the Tenant, the Giver and the Receiver.

> There is no difference, Fire bath made, Equal the Scepter and the Spade.

Ezek. 20. 47. Behold I will kindle a fire in thee and it shall dev ur every green Tree in thee, and every dry Tree : the flaming fl me shall not be quenched, and all faces from the South to the North, feall be burnt therein. (I have in the former part of this Treatife given some light into these words) The fire, the flames in the Text, takes hold of all forts of people, rich and poor, Lord and Lad, high and low, great and small, strong and weak, wife and foolish, learned and ignorant, Commanders and Souldiers, Rulers and ruled. So did the late lamentable fire in London take hold of all forts and degrees of men, as the Citizens have found by fad experience. The firelike the Duke of Parma's Sword, knew no difference'twixt Robes and Rags, 'twixt Prince and Pealant, twixt honourable and vile, twixt the righteous and the wicked, the clean and the unclean, twixt him that facrificed and him that facrificed not, 'twixt him that sweareth, and him that feareth an oath. The Judgement was universal; the blow reacht us all: the flames brake into every mans house; such a dreadful, impartial, universal fire, eyes never faw before, nor ears never heard of before, nor tongues never discoursed of besore, nor Pens never writ of besore. Beloved, you know, that 'tis our duty to take ferious notice of the hand of the Lord in the least Judgement, and in every particular Judgement: Oh how much more then dos it highly concern us, to take ferious notice of the hand of the Lord that has been lifted up against us, in that late dreadful, impartial, universal fire, that has burnt us all out of our habitations, and laid our City desolate. But,

Seventhly, Confider the greatness of it, the destructiveness of it. Oh the many thousand families that were destroyed and impoverished in sour dayes time! Of many it might

١.

Ecclef. 9.1, 2.

might have been faid the day before the fire, who fo rich as these? and the very next day it might have been said of the fame persons, who so poor as these? as poor as 70b; yea, poor to a Proverb, Jer. 21. 13, 14. Behold I am against thee, O inhabitant of the valley, and rock of the plain, faith the Lord; which far, who hall come down against us? or who shall enter into our habitations? But I will punish you according to the fruit of your doings, faith the Lord, And I will kindle a fire in the fortelf thereof, and it hall devour, all things round about it. Some by the Forrest, understand the sair and sumptuous buildings in Feinsalem, that were built with wood that was hewen out of the Forrest of Libanon, and stood as thick as Trees in the Forrest. Others by the Forrest, understand the whole City of Ferusalem with the Countrey round about it, that was as full of people, as a Forrest is full of Trees. Others by Forrest understand the house of the Lord, and the Kings house, and the houses of the great Princes, which were built with excellent matter from the Wood of Lebanon. Ferufalem was 2 Sam. 5.6. so strongly defended by nature, that they thought themselves invincible, as once the Jebusites did: they were so confident of the firength of their City, that they formed the proudeft and the strongest enemies about them. But fin had brought them low in the eye of God, so that he could fee nothing eminent or excellent among them; and therefore the Lord resolves by the Chaldees; to fire their magnificent buildings in which they gloried, and to turn their firing and stately City into a ruinous heap. Though Fern- Pfalm 125. 2. falem stood in a Vale, and was environed with Mountains. vet the upper part of it, flood high as it were upon a rocky sifing hill. Now the Citizens of Fernfalem trufted very much in the scituation of their City: they did not fear their being belieged, firaitned, conquered or fired : and therefore they fay. Who hall come down against us? Who shall enter into our habitation? Where is the enemy that has courage or confidence enough to affault our City, or to enter into our habitations? but God tells them that they were as barren of good fruit, as the Trees of the Forrest were barren of good fruit; and therefore he was resolved by the hand of the Chal-

London was the Lady-City where the Riches of many Nations were laid up. I would rather be bound to weep over London, than be bound to fumm up the loffes of London by this dreadful fire.

Dd

deans

deans to hew them down, and to fire their most stately Structures, and to turn their glorious City (in which they greatly trusted and gloried) into a ruinous heap. All which accordingly was done (not long after) by Nebuzaradan and his Army; as you may see in Fcr. 52. 12, 13, 14, 15. How often hath the Citizens of London been alarm'd with the cryof fire; which hath been as often extinguished before they could well know where it was, and how it began? but all former fires were but small fires, but Bon-fires to this dreadful fire that has been lately amongst us.

Sir Richard Bakers Chronicle, p.31.47.

Eccles. 9. 14.

Can. 2. 4.

In the twentieth year of the Reign of William the first fo great a fire happened in London, that from the West-gate to the East-gate, it confumed houses and Churches all the way. This was the most grievous fire that ever happened in that City, faith my Author. And in the Reign of King Henry the first; a long tract of buildings, from West cheap in London to Aldgate, was confumed with fire. And in King Stephens Reign there was a fire that began at London Stone, and confumed all unto Aldgate. These have been the most remarkable fires in London. But what were any of these, or allthese, to that late: dreadful fire that has been amongst us? London in those former times was but a little City, and had but a few men in it in comparison of what it was now! London was then but as a great Banqueting-house, to what it was now: Nor the confumption of London by fire then, was nothing proportionable to the consumption of it by fire now. For this late lamentable devouring fire hath laid waste the greatest part of the City of London within the walls by far, and some part of the Suburbs also. More than fourscore Parishes; and all the Houses. Churches, Chappels, Hospitals, and other the great and magnificent buildings of Pious or Publick use, which were within that circuit, are now brought into ashes, and become one ruinous heap. This furious raging fire burnt many flately Monuments to powders it melted the Bells, in the Steeples; it much weakned and thatered the strongest Vaults under ground. On what Age or Nation hath ever feen or felt fuch a dreadful vifitation as this hath been Nebyzaradan General to the King of Baby lon.

lon, first fets the Temple of Ferufalem on fire, and then the Fof. Ant. p. 255. Kings Royal Palace on fire, and then by fire he levells all the houses of the great men; yea, and all the houses of 7erusalem are by fire turned into a ruinous heap, according to what the Lord had before foretold by his Prophet Feremiab. Now this was a lamentable fire. Some hundred years after the Roman Souldiers fackt the City, and fet it on fire, and laid it desolate with their Temple, and all their stately build. ings and glorious monuments. Three or four Towers and the Wall that was on the West side they lest standing as monuments of the Romans valour, who had surpized a City fo Brongly fortified. All the rest of the City, they so plained. that they who had not feen it before, would not believe that it had ever been inhabited. Thus was Ferusalem one of the worlds wonders, and a City famous amongst all Nations. made desolate by fire, according to the prediction of Christ, some years before. There was a great fire in Rome in Nero's time, it spread it self with that speed, and burnt with that violence, till of fourteen Regions in Rome, there were but four lest entire. I know there are some, who would make the world believe, that this fire began cafually, (as many now would perswade us, that the late fire in London did) but I rather joyn issue with them, who conclude that Nero fet Rome on fire, and when he had done, he laid it upon the Christians, and thereupon grounded his Persecution: as all know, that have read the History of those times. Anna 80. Rome was fet on fire by fire from Heaven (fay fome) it burned three dayes and nights, and confumed the Capitol. with many other flately Buildings and glorious Monuments; it burnt with that irrelistible fury, that the Historian concludes, that it was more than an ordinary fire. And in the time of Commodius the Emperour, there happened such a dreadful fire in Rome, as confumed the Temple of Peace, and all the most stately Houses, Princely Palaces, glorious Stru-Gures and rare Monuments that were in the City.

In the Reign of Achmat the eighth Emperous of the Turks, about the beginning of Navember, a great fire arose at Constantinople, wherein almost five hundred Shops of Wares,

A: M. 3356.

Ter. 52. 12, 13, 14.

Fos. Ant. p. 741 A. M. 4034:

Fof. Ant. p. 745.

Luke 19. 41, 42, 43, 44. Tacit. An.15.

Anno 64:

Knoll's General History of the Turks. pag. 1275.

with many other fair Buildings were destroyed by fire; so that the harm that was then done by fire, was esteemed to amount to above two Millions of Gold. But alas, what was this fire and loss to the fire of London, and the loss of the Citizens in our day!

In Constantinople in A. D. 465. in the beginning of September, there brake forth such a fire by the water side, as raged with that dread, force and fury, and violence four dayes and nights together, that it burnt down the greatest part of the City, the strongest and the stateliest houses, being but as dried stubble before it. It bid defiance to all means of resistance; it went on triumphing and scorning all humane helps, till it had turned that great and populous City (once counted by some the wonder of the world) into a ruinous heap. This of all fires comes nearest to the late fire of London: but what is the burning of a thousand Romes, and a thousand Constantinoples, or the burning of ten thousand Barbarous Cities, to the burning of one London? Where God was as greatly known, and as dearly loved, and as highly prized, and as purely ferved, as he was in any one place under the whole Heavens! O Sirs, 'tis our duty and our high concernment to see the hand of the Lord, and to acknowledge the hand of the Lord in the least fires: how much more then does it become us, to see the hand of the Lord lifted up in that late dreadful fire that has laid our City desolate. But, . . c.

Eighthly, Confider how all forts, ranks and degrees of men were terrified, amused, amazed, associated and dispirited in the late dreadful fire that was kindled in the midst of us. When men should have been a strengthning of one anothers hands, and encouraging of one another hearts, to pull down, and blow up such houses, as gave life and strength to the surious stames, how were their hearts in their heets, every one slying before the fire, as men slye before a victorious enemy? What a Palsie, what a great trembling had seized upon the heads, hands and hearts of most Citizens; as if they had been under Gain's curse, most men were unman'd and amazed? and therefore no wonder if the su

rious

0.

rious flames received no check. In former fires; when Deut. 28. 65. Magistrates and People had resolved hearts and active hands, how easily, how quickly were those fires quenched? But now our Rulers minds were darkned and contufed. their Judgements infatuated, their fouls dispirited, and their ears stopped, so that their Authority did only accent their misery: and this filled many Citizens hearts with fear, terror, amazement and discontent; these things being done, the City quickly was undone. Had the care and diligence both of Magistrates and People, been more for the securing of the publick good, than twas for fecuring their own private interest, much of London by a good hand of Providence upon their endeavours, might have been standing, that is now turned into a ruinous heap. Troy was lost by the sloth and carelesnels of her inhabitants; and may I not say, that much of London was loft, by the floth and carelefness of some, and by the fears, frights, and amazement of others; and by others endeavouring more to secure their own Packs and Patrimonies, than the safety of the whole. When London was in flames, mens courage did flag, and their spirits did fail; the firong helpers flood helpless: Some flood loking on. others flood weeping and shaking their heads, and wringing their hands; and others walkt up and down the Streets like fo many Ghofts, Pfal. 76. 5. The stone hearted are spoiled (or as the Hebrew runs, the flour hearted have yielded themselves up for a prey: which the Rabbins thus expound, They are spoiled of their understandings and infatuated) and none of the men of might have found their hands: (or as some read the words, none of the men of riches, that is, rich men, have found their bands) or as others carry the words, God took away their courage, and their wonted strength failed them. So when London was in flames, how were high and low, rich and poor, honorable and base, spoiled of their understanding, and infatuated? The Lord took away all wildom, courage, counseland strength from them : So Judges 20. 40. But when the flames began to arise out of the City with a pillar of smoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and behold the flame of their City ofcended up to Heaven: and when the men of Ifrael turned again, D da 1 Sami. 13. 7. 14, 15. Acts 1: 12: Why fland ye gazing? O the feebleness, the frights the tremblings, the distractions that was then in every house, in every heart. When a Ship is finking, 'tis fad to fee every man run to his Cabin. when every one should be at the Pump, or a flopping of Leaks.

Job 34. 19,

t Kings 19 36.

Dan. 5. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6.

Drexellius's School of Patience, p. 150, 151, 152.

2 Sam. 18.14. Ger. 3. 24.

the men of Benjamin were amazed, for they faw that evil was come upon them. These Benjamites were the very picture of our Citizens; for when they faw the flame began to arife out of the City with a Pillar of smoke, when they saw the flame of the City ascend up to Heaven, O how amazed and confounded were they ! All wisdom, courage and council was taken away, both from Magistrate and People; and none of them could find either heads, hands, or hearts to prevent Londons desolation. In Pfal. 76. v. ult. God is faid, to cut off the Spirits of Princes .: (or as the Hebrew runs, He shall flip off the Spirits of Princes, as men slip off a bunch of Grapes, or a Flower between their fingers, easily, suddenly, unexpectedly, as he did by Senacheribs Princes) Princes usually are men of the greatest spirits; and yet sometimes God dos dispirit them; he flips off their spirits, as men do a flower which foon withereth in their hand. How foon did God flip off the Spirit of that great, proud, debauched Monarch Belfhazzir, who when he was in the midft of his Cups, bravery and jollity (with all his great Princes, Lords, Ladies and Concubines about him) faw a hand writing upon the wall, which did so amaze him and terrific him, that his countenance was changed and his thoughts troubled, and the joints of his loins loofed, and bis knees dashed one against another. But you may fay, What was the reason that so great a Prince should be so greatly assonished. An. The Text tells you, he saw a band: What hand? we the hand of a man; what could one hand of a man (faith One) terrifie and flartle so great a Monarch? Had he feen the Paws of a Lion, or the Pawes of a Bear, or the Paws of a Dragon, there had been some cause of terror. But what need such a Puissant Prince sear the hand of a man so much, at whose command and beck, an hundred Troops of Armed Horse would presently flye to his assistance? What terrible Weapons could that one hand wield or manage? none but a Pen with which it wrote. But will any man, much less a King, be afraid of a writing Pen? Had he beheld the three Darts of Foab, or the fiery flaming Sword of the Chernh, brandished directly against him, he had then had some argument of assonishment: But one Hand, one Pen, one piece of Writing which he understood not; this was that which daunted him. Many Citizens were as much amazed, aftonished, terrified and startled when they faw Lon don in flames, as Billhazzar was, when he faw the hand writing upon the wall. Abab trembled like a shaken leaf, and fo did his Grand fon Manaffeh, he that faced the Heavens, and that dared God in the day of his Prosperity, when troubles came thick, and his fears rife high, he hides his head among the bushes. Such a fear and trembling was upon many Citizens when London was in flames. Though Tuliw Hostilius (the third King of the Romans) had a great warlike Spirit, as Lactantius notes, yet he carried in his bosom two new Gods, Pavorem and Pallorem, fear and paleness, which he could not possibly shake off. Oh the fear that was in Citizens hearts, and the paleness that was upon Citizens cheeks when London was in flames! Now excessive fear fills the heart with all confution, they strip a man of his reason and understanding; they weaken his hands, and they do fo fuddenly and totally dispirit and unman a man, that he is not able to en, counter with those visible dangers that threaten his utter ruine: and this the poor Citizens found by woful experience when London was in flames. At the fight of this fire, how were the Citizens hearts melted, their hands feeble, their spirits faint, and their knees weak! Oh the horror, the terror, the amazement, the confusion, that had now seized up on the spirits of all sorts of Citizens! How were the thoughts of men now distracted, their countenances changed, and their hearts overwhelmed? O the fad looks, the pale checks, the weeping eyes, the smiting of breasts, and the wringing of hands that were now to be feen in every Street, and in every corner! What an universal conflernation did my eyes behold upon the minds of all men in that day of the Lords wrath! there is no expressing of the lighs, the tears, the fears, the frights and the amazement of the Citizens; who were now compaffed about with flames of fire! Othe cryes, the tumults, the hurries, and the hinderances of one another, that was now in every Street, every one fisiving with his Pack at his back, to secure what he

Ifa. 7. 1, 2. 2 Chron. 33. 11, 12.

Till London was laid in Ashes that effectual means of prefervation, viz. The blowing up of houses was either ' greatly hid, or ladly gainfaid. When the Disease had killed the Paients than the Physicians ." agreed upon a Remedy. When the Ladder was turned, than the Pardon came.

could from the rage and fury of the flames. Now one cries out, five pound for a Cart, another cries out, ten pound for a Dray, in one Street one cries out, twenty pound for a Cart, and another in the next Street cries out, thirty pound for a Cart; here one cries out forty pound for a Cart, and there another cries out, fifty pound for a Cart. Many rich men that had time enough to have removed their goods, their wares, their commodities, flattered themselves, that the fire would not reach their habitations; they thought they should be safe and secure; but when the slames broke in upon them, O then any money for a Cart, a Coach, a Dray, to fave some of their Richest and Choicest goods! Oh what fear were many Parents now in, that their Children would either be now trod down in the press, or lost in the crowd, or be destroyed by the flames! And what sear were many Husbands now in, concerning their Wives, who were either weak or fick, or aged, or newly delivered! Words are too weak to express that distraction that all men were under. when the fire went on raging and devouring all before it. And this was an evident token to me, that the hand of the Lord was eminent in the fire, and that the Decree was gone. forth, that Dear London must now fall. But.

Rev. 1. 10. Ifa. 58. 13,14.

Ninthly, Consider the time that the fire began. It began on the Lords Day (being the second of September) about one or two of the clock in the morning. Our fears fell upon us on the Lords Day, on that day that should have been a day of joy and delight unto us. On this day our, finging was turned into fighing, our rejoycing into mourning, and all our praisings into tremblings. O the sears, the frights, the distresses that men were now under! O the amazed spirits, the bedewed cheeks, the faint hearts, the feeble knees, the weak hands, and the dejected countenances that were now to be seen every where! O Sirs, the time when this satal fire first began, was very ominous, it being at a time when most Citizens were but newly fallen into a dead sleep, being wearied out in their several employments: Several dayes before, but especially on Saturday (or, the last day of the week) that being with very many the most busiest day in all the week. And of all mornings, most Citizens did us wally lye longest in Bed Sabbath Day mornings. Such as used to rife early every morning in the week to gain the meat the Plat 127-1,2 perisheth, to make sure and to treasure up for themselves and I John 6.27. theirs the things of this world. Such commonly made most bold with the Lords Day, and would frequently be in their beds, when they should have been either instructing of their families, or at prayers in their Closets, or else a waiting upon the Lord in his publick Ordinances. Fire in the night is terrible to all, but mostly to such whose spirits and bodies were tired out in the preceding day. Wasting and destroying Judgements are sad any day, but saddest when they fall on the Lords Day. For how do they disturb, difires and diffract the thoughts, the minds, the hearts and the spirits of men? So that they can neither wait on God, nor wrestle with God, nor act for God, nor receive from God, in any of the duties or services of his day. And this the poor Citizens found by fad experience, when London was in flames about their ears. Certainly the anger and wrath of God was very high, and very hot, when he made his day of rest to be a day of labour and disquiet. When his people should have been a meeting, hearing, reading, praising, praying. For the Lord now to scatter them, and to deliver them, their substance and habitations as a prey to the devouring fire; what dos this speak out, but high displeasure? That the fire of Gods wrath, should begin on the day of his rest and solemn Worship, is and must be for a lamentation. In several of those Churches where some might not preach, there God himself preacht to the Parishioners in flames of fire. And fuch who loved darkness rather than light. because their deeds were evil; might now see their Churches all in a flaming fire. What a terrifying and an amazing Sermon, did God preach to his people of old in Mount Sinai. when the Mount burned with fire? And fo what terrifying and amazing Sermons did God preach to the Citizens on his own day, when their Temples and their habitations were all in flames. Instead of holy rest, what hurries were there in every fireet, yea, in the spirits of men? Now instead of rake-

John 3. 19. Exod. 19. 16, 17, 18. Gen. 19. 15,

Lam. 2. 2, 3.

Ifa. 58, 13.

ing up of Buckets, men in every Street take up arms, fearing a worse thing than fire. The Jealousies and Rumors that fire balls were thrown into several houses and Churches by fuch that had no English tongues but out-landish hands, to make the furious flames flame more furiously) were so great that many were at a stand, and others even at their wits end. Now relations, friends and neighbours haftened one another out of their houses, as the Angels hastened Lot out of Sodom. Such were the fears, and frights, and fad apprehensions that had generally seized upon the Citizens. Not many Sabbaths before (when men should have been instructing of their families) what bonfires, what ringing of Bells, and what joy and rejoycing was there in our Streets, for burning the Dutch Ships in their Harbour (where many English and others, were highly concerned as well as the Dutch) little did they think, who were pleasing and warming themselves at those leffer fires, that the great God would in so short a time after, kindle fo great a fire in the midft of their Streets, as should melt their Bells, lay their habitations in ashes, and make their Streets desolate: So that those that were so jolly before, might well take up that sad lamentation of weeping Jeremiah. The Lord bath [wallowed up all the habitations of Jacob, and bath not pittied: be bath thrown down in bis wrath, the strong bolds of the daughter of Judah: be bath brought them down to the ground. He burned against Jacob like a flaming fire which devoureth round about. May we not foberly guels. that there were as many strict observers and sanctifiers of the Lords Day, who did turn away their feet from doing their pleasure on Gods holy day, and that did call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, and honourable within the Walls of London, as in a great part of the Nation besides. Now for the Lord of the Sabbath, to kindle fuch a devouring fire in such a City, and that on his own day ! O what extraordinary wrath and displeasure dos this speak out ! When God by his Royal Law, had bound the hands of his people from doing their own works; for him now to fall upon his strange work, and by a staming confuming fire to turn a populous City, a pious City, an honourable City, and an Agrient City into a ruinous heap, what indignation to this! indignation! O Sirs, it highly concerns us, to take notice of the Judgements of the Lord that fall upon us on any day. but especially those that fall upon us on his own day; b:cause they carry with them more than a tincture of Gods deep displeasure.

In the Council of Paris, every one labouring to perswade could Paris. unto a more religious keeping of the Sabbath Day. When lis. 1. cap. 50. they had justly complained, that as many other things, so also the observation of the Sabbath was greatly decayed, through the abuse of Christian liberty, in that men too much followed the delights of the world, and their own worldly plea fures, both wicked and dangerous. They further add, For many of us have been eye witheffes, many have intelligence of it, by the relation of others, that some men upon this day, being about their husbandry, have been strucken with Thunder; some have been maimed and made lame; som. have had their bodies (even bones and all) burnt in a mo ment with visible fire, and have confurned to ashes; and ma ny other Judgements of God have been, and are daily inflicted upon Sabbath Breakers.

Strafford upon Sluon was twice on the same day twelve moneth (being the Lords Day) almost consumed with fire, chiefly for prophaning the Lords Day, and contemning his word in the mouth of his faithful Minister. Feverson in Devonshire (whose remembrance makes my heart bleed, saith my Author) was oftentimes admonished by her godly Preachers, that God would bring some heavy Judgement on the Town for their horrible prophanation of the Lords Day, occasioned chiefly by their Market on the day following: Not long after his death, on the third of April 1598. God in less than half an hour consumed, with a sudden and fearful fire, the whole Town, except only the Church, the Court-house, and the Alms-houses, or a few poor peoples. dwellings; where a man might have seen sour hundred dwelling houses aff at once on hire, and above fifty persons confumed with the flames. And on the fifth of August 1612. (fourteen years fince the former fire) the whole Town was again

Ee 2

The Theatre of Gods Judgements. pag. 419, 420.

again to led and confumed, except some thirty houses of poor people, with the School-house and Alms-houses. Now certainly rhey must be much lest of God, hardned in sin, and blivided by Satan, who do not, nor will not see the dreadful hand of God, that is listed up in his siery dispensations upon be own day. But,

10.

When one member in the natural body fuffers, all the members of the body suffer: tis foin the Politick body, Orc. Look as all Rivers run into the Sea, and all the lines of the circumference meet in the center : fo did the interests of the most eminent persons in the whole Nation meet in Landon, &c. Now Loadon is laid in ashes, we may write Ichabod upon poor England. By the flames hat have been kindled in Lordon, God hath fpit fire into the face of Englaid.

Tenthly, and laftly, Confider, That the burning of London is a National Judgement. God in smiting of London, has fmitten England round: the stroke of God upon London, was an universal stroke. The fore strokes of God, which have lately fallen upon the head City (London) are doubtless defigued by Heaven, for the punishment of the whole body. In the sufferings of London, the whole Land suffers. For what City, County, or Town in England was there, that was not one way or other, refreshed and advantaged, if not enriched; with the filver streams of Lindon that overflowed the Land. as the River Nilus doth the Land of Egypt. Doubtless there are but few in the Land, but are more or less concerned in the burning of London. There are many thousands that are highly concerned in their own particulars; there are many thousands concerned upon the account of their inward friends and acquaintance: and who can number up the many score thousands imployed in the Manusacture of the Land, whose whole dependance (under God) was upon London. What Lamentation, mourning and wo is there in all places of the Land, for the burning of Lindin, especially among poor Tradelmen, Inn-keepers, and others, whose livelihoods depended upon the safety and prosperity of London. Certainly he is no English man, but one who writes a Roman band, and carries about him a Romife beart, who feels not, who trembles not under this universal blow. Many years labour will not make up the Citizens losses to them. Yea, what below the Riches of the Indies will effectually make up every mans losses to him? He shall be an Apollo to me, that can justly summup the full value of all that have been destroyed by those surious stames, that has turned the best (if not the richest) City in the world, into a ruinous heap. Now their loss is a loss to the whole Nation; and this the Nation already feels, and may yet feel more and more, if God in mercy dos not prevent the things that we have cause to sear. Tis true London is the back that is smitten: but what corner is there in all the Land, that hath not more or less, one way or another, contributed to the burning of London. Not only those that lived in Ferusalem. but also those that came up to Ferusalem, and that Traded with Ferusalem, they even they did by their sins contribute to feruselems ruine. They are under a high mistake, that think it was only the fins of the City which brought this fore desolation upon her; doubtless as far as the Judgement extends and reaches, so far the sins extend and reach, which have provoked the Lord, to make poor London fuch an aftonishing example of his justice. How are the eff. cts of Londons ruine already felt and fighed under, all the Nation over. The blood and spirits which this whole Nation, hath already lost by this late lamentable fire, will not be eafily nor fuddenly recovered. The burning of London, is the Herald of God to the whole Nation, calling it to repentance and reformation; for the very same sins that have laid London in ashes, are rampant in all parts of the Nation; as you may eafily perceive, if you please but to compare that Catalogue that in this Book I put into your hands, with those fins that are most reigning and raging in all places of the Land : by which you may also see, that they were not the greatest sinners in England, upon whom the fire of London fell; no more than they were the greatest sinners in Feru-Calem, upon whom the Tower of Silvam fell. That the burn. Luke 13: 4,5 ing of London is a National Judgement, is evident enough to every man that has but half an eye. But if any should doubt of it, or dispute it, the Kings Proclamation for a General Fast on that account, puts it beyond all dispute. The words of the Proclamation that are proper to my purpose, are these, A Visitation so dreadful (speaking of the burning of London) that scarce any Age or Nation bath ever seen or felt the like; wherein although the afflicting hand of God fell more immediately whom the inhabitants of this City, and the parts adjacent; yet all men ought to look upon it, as a Judgement Ec 2 ubon

the whole Nation, and to humble themselves accordingly. O Sus, you are to see, and observe, and acknowledge the hand of the Lord in every personal Judgement, and in every Domestical Judgement: O how much more then, in every National Judgement that is instituted upon us! And thus I have done with those ten Considerations, that should not only prove the us, but also prevail with us, to see and acknowledge the hand of the Lord, in that late dreadful five that has laid our City desolate.

Use 2.

Luke 19.41, 42,43,44.

Pfaim 98.
12, 13.
London the 'Crown of England, ha h ioft its Jewel of Wealth and Beauty.

Isa. 23. 7, 8

Chap. 25.2.

The second use is a use of Lamentation and mourning. Is Lond n laid in ashes? Then let us all lament and mourn, that Landon is laid desolate. Shall Christ weep over Ferusalem, when 'twas standing in all its glosy (knowing that it would not be long before it was laid even with the ground) and shall not we weep over London, whose glory is now hid in the dift? Who can look upon London, as the Antient and Noble Metropolis of England, and not lament and mourn, to fee it laid in ashes? It might have been said not long since, Walk about Sion, (walk about London) and go round about ner, tell the Towers thereof, mark ye well her Bulwarks, consider her Palaces: look upon her stately Houses, Halls and Hospitals, take notice of her Shops, and fair Warehouses, and Royal Exchange, &c. and lo, the glory of all hefe things, is now buried in a common ruine! O the incredible change, that a devouring fire hath made in four dayes time within thy Walls, O London! So that now we may lamentingly (Alas poor London) Is this the joyous City. whose antiquity is of ancient dayes? Is this the crowning City, whose Merchants were Princes, and whose Traffickers were the horourable of the Earth? Who can but weep, to see how the Lord bath made a City an heap, and a ruine of a definced City, and a Pallace to be no City? Who can look upon naked Steeples, and useless Chimneys, and pittiful fragments of ragged walls? Who can behold stately Structures, and noble Halls, and fair Houses, and see them all laid in ashes, or turned into a heap of Rubbish, without paying some tears, as due to the fadness of so dreadful a spectacle? Who can with with dry eyes hear Lindon thus speaking out of its raines, to Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by? Behold and fee, if there Lam, 1. 12. be any forrow like unto my forrow, which is done unto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fire anger. Who can look upon the Lord as making London empty, as laying it walte, as turning it uplide done, and as scattering abroad the inhabitants thereof, and not mourn. Beloved under desolating Judgements, God dos expect and look. that his people should lament and mourn, Jer. 4. 7, 8. The Lion is come up from bis thicket, and the destroyer of the Gen. tiles is on his way; he is gone forth from his place to make thy Land defolate, and thy City shall be laid maste, without an inhabitant. For this gird you with Sackcloth, lament and howl: for the fierce anger of the Lord is not turned back from us. Under wasting Judgements, God expecteth, not only inward, but also outward expressions and demonstrations of sorrow and grief. Shall our enemies rejoyce over the Ruines of London, and shall not we mourn over the Ruines of London! Shall they that are afar off, lament over Londons desolation, and shall not we lament over Landons desolation, who are every day a walking up and down in Londons Ruines and Rubbish! O Sirs, as ever you would see Londons breaches repaired, her Trading recovered, her beauty restored, her riches augmented, her glory advanced, and her inhabitants rejoyced, make conscience of mourning over Londons Ruines. After Ferusalem was destroyed by the Romans, many of the Iews obtained leave of the Roman Emperors, once a year (viz. on the tenth of August, which was the day whereon their City was taken) to enter into Jerusalem, and bewail the destruction of their City, Temple and People, bargaining with the Souldiers who waited on them, to give so much for so long abiding there, and it they exceeded the time they conditioned for, they were to stretch their purses to a higher rate: which occasioned Hierom to say, That they who bought Christs blood, were then glad to buy their own tears. O Sirs, what cause have we, once a year, yea, often in a year, to bewail the desolation of Lindon ! The Statue of Apollo, is faid to shed tears, for the afflictions of the Grecians, though

Ifa. 24. I. Sr. Edw. Turner in his Speech to the King o. Friday the 18. day of Fanuary, hath thefe words, They find (meaning the Parliament) your Majesty incapiel in a shap and costly war, oppoled by Migby Princes and States; that are in conjunction azainst us : they fee with forrow the greatest part. of your Mestopolitan City buried in ashes.

Fosephus.

Lev. 14. 35.

he could not help them. Though we could not prevent the burning of Landon, yet let us weep over the Ruines of London. The Leprofie of the Citizens sins, had so fretted into Londons Walls; that there was no cleanling of them, but by the furious flames of a confurning fire. In the Law you know, that when the old fretting Plague of Leprofie, was so got into the house, and spread in the Walls, that no scraping within or without, could cleanse it away, then the house was to be pulled down: this seems to be Londons case. God by former Judgements, laboured to scrape away the Leprofic of fin out of London, but that deadly leprofic was so got into mens hearts and houses, that there was no getting of it out, but by pulling them down. This is, and this must be for a lamentation. Now the better to work you, to lament and mourn over the ruines of London, consider with me these ten following particulars.

Rev. 6. 4, 8.

Fosiphus p.13.

First, Who can look upon the burning of London, as ushered in by fuch fad Prodigies, and dreadful fore runners as it was, and not lament and mourn over its ruines? By what a bloody Sword, and by what a dreadful Plague, was this late Judgement of fire ushered in. First God sends his Red Horse amongst us, viz. a cruel bloody War; and then he sends his Pale Horse amongst us, viz. a noisom sweeping Pestilence. O the garments that were rolled in blood! O the scores of thoufands, that were by the hand of the deltroying Angel fent to their long homes to their eternal homes! Now in the rear of these Judgements, follows such a devouting fire, as hath not been known in any Ages past. Not long before Vespasian came against ferusalem, there happened divers Prodigies: 1. There was a Comet in form of a Fiery Sword, which for a year together did hang over the City. 2. There was seen a Star on the Temple so bright, as if a man had so many drawn Swords in his hands. 3. At the same time that this Star appeared, which was the Solemn Paffeover, that whole night the Temple was light, and clear as mid-day, and continued so seven dayes together. 4. At the same time also, they brought a Heifer for a Sacrifice, which when the was knocked down, the calved a Lamb. 5. The inner Gate of the Temple

Temple on the east side, being of Massive Brals, that was never opened nor shut, but twenty men had enough to do about it, this Gate was seen at the first hour of the night. to open of its own accord, and they could not thut it, till a great number joined"their strength together. 3736. There was differend on the Santium Santiorum, a whole night long the face of a man very terrible. 7. At the same time, before the Sun-fet, there were feen in the Air, Iron Chariots, all over the Countrey, and an Army in battel array, paffing along the clouds and begirting the City. 8. Upon the Feath Day called Pentecoft, at night the Priefts going into the In ner Temple, to offer their wonted Sacrifice, at first they felt the place to move and tremble, and afterward they heard a man walking in the Temple, and flying with a great and wonderful terrible voice, Come let us go away out of this Temple, let us depart bence. But Ninthly and laftly, that which was most wonderful of all, was this, that there was one Fefas the Son of Ananus, a Countrey-man, of the common people, who four years before the Wars began, when the City flourished in peace and riches, coming to the celebration of the Feast to Terusalem, which we call the Feast of Tabernacles; fuddenly began to cry out thus, A voice from the East, a voice from the West, a voice from the four winds of the Heavens, a voice against Terusalem, a voice against the Temple, a voice against the Bridegroom, a voice against the Bride, and a voice against the whole people: and thus crying day and night, he went about all the Streets of the City. The Nobility scourged him, yet still he cried, wo, wo unto Jerusalem: he did never curse any one, though every day he was beaten by one or other: neither did he thank any one that offered him meat. All that he spake to any man, was this heavy prophecy, Wo wo unto Ferufalem. He never went to any Citizens, neither was he feen to speak to any one, but fill as it were; fludying of some speech, he cryed Wo, mo unto Ferusalem. Thus for four years space, lay some, for seven years and five moneths, faith Josephus, his voice never waxed hoarle, nor weary, till in the time of the Siege, beholding what he fore told them, as he was walking upon the Walls, crying Woto Jerusalem, wo to the Temple, wo to all the People, he added, and wo to my felf; and as soon as the words were out of his mouth, a stone came out of an Engine from the Camp, that dashed out his brains. These Prodigies were fore runners of Jerusalems desolation? What Comets, what Blazing Starrs, what sheets of fire have been seen slye over London, and what slames of fire have been seen over the City, a little before it was laid in ashes, I shall not now insist upon. Certainly when a consuming fire; shall be ushered in by other dreadful Judgements and amazing Prodigies, it highly concerns us to set down and mourn. But,

Ifa. 23. 7. Jer. 5 · 15.

Fofeph. p. 745.

Secondly, Who can look upon London as an Ancient City, as a City of great Antiquity, and not mourn over the ruines of it! Our Chronologers affirm, that the City hath stood two thousand seven hundred and seventy odd years. Tis recorded by some, that the soundation of London was laid in the year of the world 2862. London by some Antiquaries, is called Troynovant, as having been first founded by the Trojans. London is thought by some, to be Antienter than Rome. That London was a very ancient City, might several wayes be made good; but what should I spend time to prove that, which every one is ready to grant. Jesephus speaking of Jerusalem, faith, That David the King of the Jews baving driven out the Cancans, gave it unto bis people to be inbabited, and after four bundred three score and four years and three moneths, it was destroyed by the Babylonians. And from King David who was the first 7em that reigned there, untill the time that Titus destroyed it, were a thousand one bundred seventy and nine years; and from the time that it was first erected, until it was by bim destroyed, were two thousand one hundred and seventy feven years; yet neither the Antiquity, nor riches, nor the fame thereof, now spread all over the world, nor the glory of Religion did any thing profit or hinder it from being destroyed. So it was, neither the Antiquity, nor the Riches, nor the Fame, nor the Greatness, nor the Beauty, nor the Glory, nor the Religion, that was there profest, that could prevent Londons being turned into a Chaos in four dayes time. London that had been climbing up to its Meridian of worldly greatness and glory above two thousand years, how is she made deso late in a sew dayes; and of a glorious City become a ruinous heap? Physitians make the threescore and third year of a mans life, a dangerous climacterical year to the Body Natural; and Statists make the five hundreth year of a City, or Kingdom, as dangerous to the Body Politick, beyond which (say they) Cities and Kingdoms cannot stand. But Jerusalem, and London, and many other Cities have stood much longer, and yet in the end have been laid desolate. Now what true English man can look upon Londons Antiquity, and not mourn to see so antient a City turned into a ruinous heap. But,

Thirdly, What true English-man did ever look upon London, as an honourable City, as a renowned City, as a glorious City, that will not now mourn to fee London laid in ashes? London was one of the wonders of the world: London was the Queen City, the crowning City of the Land, a City as famous as most Cities, for worldly grandeur and glory : yea, a City, more famous and glorious, than any City under Heaven. for Gospellight, and for the power of Religion, and real holiness, Pfal. 76. 1, 2. In Judah is God known, bis name is great in Israel: In Salem also is bis Tabernacle, and his dwelling place in Zion. In London was God known, his name was great in London; and in London also was his Tabernacle, and his dwelling place. And as God was known in Judah, not only by his word, but also by his glorious works; so God was known in London, not only by his word, but also by his glorious works. And as God was known in Judah, first by the multitude of his mercies, but afterwards by the feverity of his Judgements; fo God was known in London. first by the multitude of his mercies, but afterwards by the Severity of his Judgements: witness the sweeping Pestilence, and the devouring fire, that he fent amongst us. And as God was known in Judab, first by lesser Judgements, and then by greater; for he first lasht them with Rods. and then with Scourges, and at last with Scorpions, so God was first known in London by lesser Judgements, witness the Violent Agues, strange Feavours, Small Pox, and small fires

Ifa. 23. 8. 'Tis an Italian Proverb, He who hath not feen Venice will not belleve and he who bath not lived Sometime there. doth not underfand what a City it is. I shall leave the Application tothe prudent Reader.

Pfal. 101. 8. Ifa. 60. 14. Pfal. 48. 1. 8, &c. Neh. 11. 1. Ifa. 18. 52. Dan. 1. 9, 24.

Look what the face is to the body, that London was, to England, the beauty and glory of it.

Lament. 1. 1.

Jer. 9. 1,2, 3. Ezek. 9. 4. 6. that broke forth in several places of the City and Suburbs; but these having no kind, no effectual operation upon us; God at last made himself known in the midst of us, by such a Pestilence, and by such a Fire, that the like was never known. in that City before. We were once the objects of his noble favours, but we made our lelves at last, the subjects of his fury. And as the Philosopher tells us, corruptio optimi, eft. pessima: or as we find, that the sweetest Wines, become the tartest Vinegar; so Gods heavenly favours and indulgencies being long abused, they at last turned into storms of Wrath and Vengeance. What English man did look upon London, as the City of the great God, as a holy City, as that City. wherein God was as glorioully made known, and wherein Christ was as much existed, and Religion was as highly prized, as in any part of the world beside; and not mourn over it, now 'tis laid desolate. 'Twas long since said of Athens and Sparta, that they were the eyes of Greece. Was not London the eyes of England? And who then can but weep, to fee those eyes put out? Great and populous Cities, are is it were, the eyes of the Earth; and when these eyes are loft, who can but fit down and figh and mourn! London, was the joyous City of our Solemnities, it was the Royal Chamber of the King of Kings, it was the Mart of Nations, it was the lofty City, it was the top gallant of all our. glory. Now who can but shed tears, to see this City laid even to the ground; to fee this City, fit like a defolate Widow in the dust. Such a fight made Feremiab to lament: How doth the City fit solitary (speaking of Ferusalems ruine) that was full of people? How is she become as a widow? She that was great among the Nations, and Princes among the Provinces? How is the become tributary? Let prophane, ignorant, Superstitious, and Popish desamers of London say, what they please, yet doubtless God had more of his mourning ones, and of his marked ones in that City, than he had in a great part of the Nation beside. There was a time, when London was a faithful City, a City of righteousness, a City of Renown, a City of Praile, a City of Joy; yea, the Paradife of the world, in respect of the power and purity of Gospel-Ordinances, and that glorious light shined in the midst of her. Who can remember those dayes of old, and not mourn to fee fuch a City buried in its own Ruines ! Under the whole Heavens there were not so many thousands to be found, that truly feared the Lord, in so narrow a com pass of ground, as was to be sound in Lindin? and yet he London is laid in the dust, and the Nations round gaze and wonder at her desolation! Who can but hang down his head, and weep in screet for these things. But,

Fourthly, who did look upon London as the Bullwark, a the Strong-hold of the Nation, that can't mourn to fee their Bullwark, their Strong hold turned into a ruinous heap. Pfal. 48. 12, 13. Walk about Sion, and tell the Towers thereof, mark ye well her Bullwarks, confider ber Palaces, that ye may tell it to the generation following. Sion had her Bullwarks. her Towers, her Palaces; but at last the Chaldeans at one Jer. 52 12,13. time, and the Romans at another, laid them all waste, So London had her Bullwarks, her Towers, her Palaces, but they are now laid desolate, and many fear, and others fay by male-content-Villains, and mischievous Forreigners of a Romish faith. London was once terrible, as an Army with Cant. 6. 10. Banners. How terrible were the Israelites, encamped and bannered in the Wilderness unto the Moabites, Cansanites, &c. So was Landon more than once terrible to all those Madbites. Canaanites, that have had thoughts to swallow her up, and to divide the prey among themselves. How terrible were the Huffites in Bobemia, to the Germans, when all Germany were up in arms against them, and worsted by them. London hath been as terrible to those that have been cozen-Germans to the Germans. London was once a Battel-ax, and Battel-bow in the hand of the Almighty, which he has wielded against her proudest, strongest and subtillest enemies. Was not London the Head City, the Royal Chamber, the glory of England, the Magazine of Trade and Wealth, the City that had the Strength and Treasure of the Nation in it. there not many thousands in London, that were men of fair effaces, of exemplary picty, of tried valour, of great prudence, and of unspotted Reputation? and therefore why

Luke 19. 41,

Exod. 15, 14, 15, 16.

Jer. 51.20, Zech. 9. 10. & Chap.10.4. Ezek. 21. 31.

The French were then drawn down to the Sea fide, and great were the fears of many upon that account.
Remember
the Gun-Powder Plot.

Dan.11.24,39

Gen.31.24,29. Chap.33. 1,4. 2 Eings 19. 27,28, 32.

Dan. 5. 5, 6.

should it seem impossible, that the fire in London, should be the effect of desperate designs and complotments from abroad, seconded and incouraged by male-contents at home. London was the great Bullwark of the Reformed Religion, against all the Batteries of Popery, Atheism and Prophaneness; and therefore why should any English man wonder, if these uncircumcifed ones, should have their heads and their hands, and their hearts engaged in the burning of London. Such whose very Principles, leads them by the hand, to blow up Kings, Princes, Parliaments, and Reformed Religion, to make way for their own Religion, or for the good old Religion, as some are pleased to call it: such will never scruple to turn such Cities, such Bulwarks into a ruinous heap, that either flands in their way, or that might probably hinder their game. In all the Ages of the world, wicked men have designed the ruine and laying waste of Christians Bulwarks and Strong holds, in order to the rooting out of the very name of Christians, as all know that have read any thing of Scripture or Hillory, and therefore why should any men think it strange, if that Spirit should still be at Was ever England in such eminent danger of being made a prey to forreign power, or of being rid, by men of a forraign Religion, and whose Principles in Civil Policy are very dangerous both to Prince and People, as it hath been since the firing of Lindon, or since that Bullwark has been turned into a ruinous heap? Had not the great God who laid a Law of Restraint upon churlish Laban, and upon bloody Esan (and his four hundred bloody cut-throats) and upon proud blasphemous Senacherib, laid also a Law of restraint upon ill-minded men, what mischief might they not then have done, when many were amazed and aftonished and many didhang down their heads, and fold their hands, crying alas, alas, London is fallen ! and when many had forrow in their hearts, paleness upon their cheeks, and trembling in all their joints! yea, when the flames of London were as terrible to most, as the hand writing upon the wall, was to Bellhazzar! How mightily the burning of London would have retarded the supplies, of men, money and necessaries which which would have been needful to have made opposition, against an inviding enemy, had we been put to it, I shall not here fland to dispute. Whilft London was standing, it could raise an Army and pay it when it had done. London was the Sword and finews of War; but when London was laid in ashes, the Citizens were like Sampson when his hair was cut off, and like the Sechemites, when they were fore. Beloved, the People of God have formerly made the firing of their strong holds, matter of bitter Lamentation; as you may see in 2 Kings 8. 11, 12. And be feeled his countenance ftedfaftly, until be was ashamed : (till Hazzel blushed to see the Prophet look fo earnestly upon him) and the man of God wept, and Hazael faid, why weeperb my Lord? and be answered, because I know the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of I frael; their strong bolds wilt thou set on fire (well and what will he do, when their strong holds are in flames, or turned into a ruinous heap? why this you may fee in the following words) and their young men wilt thou fly with the fword, and wilt dash their children, and rip up their women with child. Other Kings of Spris had born an immortal hatred against the children of Ifrael, and the Prophet knew by Revelation from Heaven, that he should be King over Syria, and that he had as cruel and as bloody a mind against Gods Ifrael, as any of the former Kings of Spria had. Now to evidence this, the Prophet instances in those particular excessive acts of cruelty, that he should practife upon the children of Israel. Their strong bolds wilt thou fet on fire. Hazzel would nothhink it enough to enter into their firong Towns, and Cities, and Forts, and Castles, and other strong holds, and spoil, and plunder them of their Treasure and Goods, but he would burn all down to the ground; that so he might daunt them, and weaken them, and render them the more uncapable of makeing any relistance against him. But now mark what follows, burning work; Their young men wilt thou flay with the fword. Such as make no conscience of burning Ifraels strong holds, fuch will never scruple the slaying of Ifraels young men with the fword. When their strong holds were set on fire. Hazzel would give them no quarter for their lives : fuch Judg. 16.18, 19, 20. Gen. 34 25. Pfal. 137. 9.

Deut. 25. 17 18, 19. as had escaped the surious slames, should be sure to fall by the bloody fword. And wilt dash their children: Their poor innocent harmless children that never thought amis, nor never spoke amisof Hazael, these must have their brains dasht out against the stones. Men that are set upon burning work, are men of no bowels, of no compassion. And rip up their women with child: He would defiroy the very Intants in the womb, that so he might cause to cease, the very name of Israel, Such Hizzels as are resolute by fire to lay our Cities and strong Bullwarks desolate; such will be ready enough to practite the most barbarous cruelties imaginable upon our persons and relations, when a fit opportuaity shall present. When Ifrael was weary, and faint, and teeble, then Amslek fell upon them. It was infinite mercy. that the Amalekites of our day, did not fall upon the amazed and astonished Citizens, when they were seeble; and faint, and weary, and tired out with hard labour, and want of cest. O Sirs, shall the Prophet Elisha weep, fore-seeing that Hazzel would fet Ifraels strong holds on fire; and shall not we weep, to see London, our strong hold, our noblest Bullwark, turned into a ruinous heap? So Lam. 2. 2. 5. The Lord hath freshowed up all the babitation of Jicob, and bath not pitied: be buth thrown down in his wrath the strong holds if the daughter of Judah : he hath brought them down to the round. The Lord was an enemy; be bath swallowed up Israel. be but for allowed up all her Palaces; he bath destroyed his strong bolds, and bath increased in the daughter of Judah mournings ind lamintation. These two words, mourning and lamenation, are joyned together, to note the great and eminent lamentation of the Daughter of Judah, upon the fight and fense of Gods defroying, razing and levelling to the ground, (by the hand of the Chaldeans, &c.) all the Strong holds and Fortreffes, that were built for the defence of the Ifraelites. Now shall the Daughter of Judah greatly lament, to fee her strong holds laid desolate, and shall not we at all lament, to fee London, to fee our Strong holds, turned into a ruinous heap. Bur, Fifthly, Who did ever look upon London as a fountain, as a Sanduary.

Sanctuary, and as a City of refuge, to the poor, afflicted, diffred, fed and impoverished people of God; that is not now free to weep, to lee such a City laid in ashes? Who can number up the diffressed strangers, that have been there courteously entertained, and civilly treated? Who can number up the 2 Sam-16,14. many thousand families, that have been preserved, relieved, revived, and refreshed with the silver streams, that has isfued from that fountain Lindon, and not mourn, to fee it laid desolate, Plal. 46. 4. There is a River, the streams where- Isa 8. 6. of Ballmake glad the City of God: It is an allusion to the River Silve, which ran fweetly, foftly, quietly, pleafantly, constantly to the refreshing of all that were in need. London was a River, a Fountain, whose silver Streams ran sweetly. quietly, pleasantly, constantly, to the refreshing of many thousand needy ones in the Land. Now who can but weep to fee fuch a Fountain, fuch a River, not only flopt, but dried up by a devouring fire? But,

Exod. 22.12.

Ifa. 23. 3. Ezek. 27. I. Rev. 8. 11.

Sixthly, Who did eyer look upon London, as a City compact, a City advantagiously scituated for Trade and Commerce, year as the great Mart-Town of the Nation; that has not a heart to weep over it, now it lves in ashes? London was the Mirt of the Nations Trade, and the Magazine of the Nations wealth. London was that great Store-house, in which was laid up, very much of the Riches and Glory of the Land. London was the very heart of England; it was as useful every way to Englands security and selicity, as the heart is useful in the natural body: and therefore no wonder if such as envy at Englands Greatness, Grandeur, and Glory. have made London (Englands Mirt Town) to bear the marks of their displeasure. Who is so great a stranger in our English Israel, as not to know how rarely well London was scituated as to Trade, and as not to know, how London was furrounded with plentiful flore of all Creature comforts. If London had not been so nobly scituated and surcounded, its desolation had not been so great a Judgement; nor it may be the deligns of men fo deeply laid, as to its ruine. They that did look upon England as rich could not but look on Landon, as the Exchequer of it. But. Seventhly, Seventhly, Who are they that have lookt upon London, as a City, that hath for many hundred, yea, some thousands of years, been very strangely and wonderfully preserved, by the admirable wisdom, constant care, and Almighty power of God; notwithstanding all the wrath, rage, malice, plots and designs of wicked men, to lay it waste, and to turn it into a ruinous heap; and not have a heart to weep over its desolation? The great preservations, the singular salvations, that God hath wrought for London, many hundred years together, renders the desolation of London, the more terrible. And accordingly, it concerns all that are well affected, to weep over its asses. But,

Eighthly, Who can look upon the asses of London, as

8. Obad. 10 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16.

Lam. 5. 16.

Tob 2. 8.

9.

and at home, do daily triumph and rejoice; and not weep over Londons desolation? Shall the vilest of men glory, that Englands glory is laid in the dust; and shall not we lament, when our Crown is fallen from our head? The more wicked men rejoyce in our misery, the greater obligation lyes upon us, to lye low and mourn at the soot of God. London, like Job, lies on its dung-hill. London, like the Jewes, lies in its ashes, Esther 4. 3. And therefore it highly concerns all

Ninthly, Surely fuch as have lookt upon London, as the City of their folemnities; fuch can't but weep, to fee the those ashes, in which Englands worst enemies, both abroad.

Londoners, to put on fackcloth and affices, But,

City of their Solemnities, laid desolate, Isa. 33. 20. Look upon Zion the City of oursolemnities; or meetings. Zion is here called a City, because it stood in the midst of the City. The City of Jerusalem was very large, and Zion stood in the midst of it; and tis called a City of Solemnities, because the people slocked thither, to hear the Law, to renew their Covenant with God, to call upon his name, and to offer Sacrifices. O Sirs, was not London the City of our Solemnities? the City where we solemnly met to wait upon the Lord, in the beauty of Holiness? the City, where we offered prayers and praises?

the City, where we worshipped the Lord in Spirit and in truth? the City, wherein God, and Christ, and the great things of eternity were revealed to us? the City, wherein

I Chron. 16.

Pfal. 29.2.

many many thousands were converted and edified; walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comforts of the Holy Ghoft? the Acts 5.31. City, where we had the clearest, the choicest, and the highest enjoyments of God, that ever we had in all our daves? the City, wherein we have fate down, under Christs shadow with great delight; bis fruit bas been freet unto our tafte ? rhe Cant. 2: 3, 4, City, in which Christ bas brought us to his banqueting boufe, and his banner over us, has been love ? the City, in which Christ has Staid us with flaggons, and comforted us with Apples? the City, in which Christs left band bath been under our heads, and bis right band bath imbraced us ? The City, wherein the Lord of Hofts bath made unto his people a feast of fat things, a 112, 25, 6. feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined. London, the City of our Solemnities. is now laid desolate: and therefore for this, why should not we be disconsolate, and mourn in secret before the Lord? This frame of Spirit, hath been upon the people of God of old, Zeph. 3. 18. I will gather them that, are forrowful for the folemn affembly, who are of thee, to whom the reproach of it was a burden. By Solemn Affemblies, are meant, their feveral conventions at those set times, which God had appointed them; viz. on the weekly Sabbath, the new Moons, Deut. 16. the stated Feasts and Fasts, which they were bound to obferve. Now for the want, the lack, the loss of those Solemn Affemblies; fuch asdid truly fear the Lord, were folemnly forrowfull. Of all loffes spiritual loffes are most sadly resented by gracious fouls. When they had loft their houses, their estates, their Trades, their relations, their liberties, and were led captive to Babylon, which was an Iron Fornace, a second Raype to them; then the loss of their Solemn Affemblies. made deeper impressions upon their hearts, than all their outward losses did. The lews were famous Artists; they fland upon record for their skill, especially in Poetry, Mathematicks and Musick: but when their City was burnt, and their Land laid defolate, and their Solemn Affemblies broken in pieces, then they could fing none of the Songs of Pfalm 137. 1, Zion; then they were more for mourning, than for mufick; for fighing, than for finging; for lamenting, than for laughing. Gg 2

253,455

r Sam. 4.17,

2 Kings 25.8,

Nah. 1. 3, 4. Chap. 2. Jer. 52, 12, 13, 14.

Zech. 7.3.

10.

There were fome Miniflers, and feveral other fober prudent Citizens, who did converfe again and again with Hubert, and laughing. Nothing goes so near gracious hearts, as the loss of their Solemn Assemblies, as the loss of holy Ordinances; health, and wealth, and friends, and Trade, are but meer Ichabods, to the Saints Solemn Affemblies, and to pure Ordinances. When the Ark was taken, Eli could live no longer: but whether his heart, or his neck, was first broken upon that sad tydings, is not easie to determine. Nehemiah understood, that the walls of Ferusalem were broken down, and that the Gates thereof were burnt with fire. and that the whole City was laid detolate by Nebuz gradan. and his Chaldean Army; he fits down, and weeps, and mourns, and fasts; and prayes; he did so lay the burning of the City of their Solemnities to heart, that all the smiles of King Artaxerxes, could not raise him, nor rejoice him. It was on the tenth day of the fifth moneth, that Ferusalem was burnt with fire; and upon that account, the lewes fasted upon every tenth day of the fifth moneth. Now shall the Jews solemnly fast and mourn on the tenth day of the fifth moneth, (during their Captivity) because their City, and Temple, and Solemn Affemblies, were on that day buried in ashes; and turned into a ruinous heap; and and shall not we fast-and mourn, to see the City of our Solemnities, buried in its own ruines. But, Villain Hubert, confest the fact, of firing the first house in Pudding Lane, (though he would not confess who set him at work) and accordingly was executed at Tyburn for it. Now who can look upon the dreadful confequences (the burning of a renowned City) that followed upon the firing of the first house; and not mourn over Londons desolations? Hubers did confess to several persons of note and repute, that he was a Catholick; and did further declare, that he believed confession to a Priest, was necessary to his falvati-are ready to attest, that he was far from being mad; and that he was, not only very rational, but also very cunning and subtile, and so the fitter instrument for the Conclave of Rôme, or some subtle Jesuit to make use of, to bring about our common wo. It was never known, that Rôme of Hell, did ever make use of mad men or fools, to bring about their Divilish Plots.

on.

And being advised (by a Chaplain to a person of Honor) to call upon God, he repeated his Ave Mary, which he confest, was his usual prayer. Father Harvey confest him. and instructed him, and we need not doubt, but that he abfolved him also, according to the custom of the Ramish Church. Hubers died in the profession of the Romish faith. flourly afferting, that he was no Hugonite. I know that men of the Romift Religion, and fuch who are one in Spirit with them; would make the world believe, that this Hubert who by order of Law, was executed upon the account of his own publick and private confessions) was mad, distra-Ged, and what not. But what mad men, do these make the Judge and Jury to be? for who, but mad men, would condemn (to such a shameful death) a mad man, for confesfing himself guilty of such a hainous and horrid sach, which he had never committed? Doubtless both Judge and Jury, were men of more wildom, Justice and conscience, than to hang a mad man upon his own bare confession. The German Hiltories tell us, what encouragement men of a Ramish faith have had from Rome, to make way for their Religion throughout Germany, by fire and sword: and when some of those Incendiaries have been taken in setting houses on fire, they have confest, that there have been many more in combination with them, who by all the wayes they could, were to confume Silefia, and other parts with firings. the Spanish Armado came against this Nation, in 1588. with an Invincible Navy (as they counted it) they had two thoufand eight hundred forty three Great Ordnance, twenty eight thousand eight hundred and forty Marriners, Souldiers, and Slaves rowing in Gallies, with innumerable Fire-balls and Granado's; in order to the making of England desolate by Fire and Sword. Did not F. Parfons, Doleman, and Holt the Jesuit, draw other Incendiaries, into a combination, to fire the Royal Navy with wild-fire, in Queen Elizabeths Reign; for which they were ftretcht at Tyburn? A. D. 1595. on that very day, when King James was crowned, when the generality of the people were intent upon that noble spectacle; five were suborned by the Jesuits, to fet London on fire in feveral Gg 3

Luc. Hist. p. 613. p. 519, 520.

Hisp. F. 184,

Speeds Hift. p. 1178. Luc. Hift. p. 298, 199.

Luc. Hist. p. 509,510, 511.

Compl. Hist. p. 443, 449. Roy. Favour. p. 54, 55. Rom. Mr. Peece. 31.

Thuanus.

Gasper.

Anno 1580.

Meter. Hift. de reb. Belg. l. 15.

The fact of Faux was horrid and fanguinary; and you know who fer him on work.

Anno 1555. Calvin. several places; but were frustrated, as is evident upon Record. Mr. Waddesworth did depose, both in writing, and viva voce, at the Lords Bar, that one Henry alias Francis Smith, alias Lloyd, alias Rivers, alias Simons, before the beginning of the Scotch Wars, did tell him in Norfolk (where he met him) That the Popish Religion was not to be brought in here, by disputing, or Books of Controversite; but with an Army, and with fire and fword. Pope Martin the fifth fent Cardinal Julian (who was name fake, and near of kin to Julian the Apostate) with an Army of fourfcore thousand, to root out Huffites (or Protestants) in Bihemia, where they burnt up their Towns; and at the same time, Alberius his Affistant, burnt up five hundred of their Villages. It was Philip the Second of Spain, who faid, That he had rather lofe all his Provinces, than feem to grant, or favour any thing, which might be projudicial to the Catholick Religion. It was Cardinal Granveilanus] who was wont to fay, That he would reduce the Catholick Religion in all places, though one hundred thousand men were to be burned in an hour. It was the Spanish Ministers of State, who declared openly, in the Pacification of Colen, That the Protestants would be very well served, if they were stripped of all their goods, and forced to go feek new Countreys, like Fews and Egyptians, who wander up and down, like Rogues and Vagabonds. The Duke of Alba (a bloody Papist) sitting at his Table, said, That be bad taken diligent pains, in rooting out the tares of Herefres, having delivered eighteen thousand men in the space of fix years only, to the hands of the Hang-man. From the begining of the Jesuits, to 1580. (being the space of thirty years) there were almost nine hundred thousand Protestants put to death, in France, Spain, Italy, Germany, England, and other parts of Christendom. Men of that Religion, that burnt the Martyrs in Queen Maries dayes, are men of fuch bloody, desperate Principles, that they will flick at nothing, that may be a means, to advance the Romife Religion. Some men besides the Romans, have practifed most prodigious things. and all to raife themselves a name in the world. Serustus at Geneva, gave all his goods to the poor, and his body to be burnt; and all for a name, for a little glory among men.

The Temple of the great Goddels Diana (which was one) of the worlds wonders) was fet on fire when Alexander was born, by Herostrains a base sellow; and this he did, That be might be talkt of when he was dead, So Judas and Sadoc. with their feditious Sect, burnt down the Temple of Ferusolem, and all the beautiful Buildings in the City. And at another time, when the Romans had fet the Temple on fire, Tism by entreaties and threatnings; did all he could, to perswade the Souldiers, to extinguish the fire, but could not prevail with them. They feeing the Gates of the inward Temple, to be Gates of Gold, thought that the Temple was full of money; and that they might have a rich booty; and therefore regarded not their Generals commands. eus did all he could to quench the Flames; but a certain Souldier, fired the Posts about the doors of the inward Temple, and presently the flame appearing within, Titus and and his Captains departed; and so every one stood looking upon it, and no man fought to extinguish it. Thus the Temple was burnt by the hand of a fingle Souldier, against Titus his mind. One man that is of a cruel Spirit, and of cruel Principles, may do a world of mischief. Take that instance of Nero, who malitiously raised the first Persecution against the Christians; pretending, that they were Incendiaries, and Authors of the burning of Rome: whereas he himself, had most wickedly done it: But this barbarous act of his, was fathered upon the Christians; and accordingly they suffered severely for it. Another Author faith, New succeeded Calignia in the Government, and in no less fierce nels and cruelty, because he was a man in whom (if posfible it might be) all the other cruelties were enclosed, and all else that could (by men) be imagined, for without any regard of fanctified things, or persons fof like quality) private or publick, he caused the City of Rome, to be let on fire, with express prohibition, not to quench it, or any man to make fafety of his own goods : So the fire continucd feven dayes and feven nights, burning the City's and he being on a high Tower, forme small distance off, clapped his hands, and joyed, to behold this dilmal spectacle; to far exceeding Fosephus Ant. 1.18.c.1.p.463.

Lib. 7. de Bello Jud. ca. 10. P. 737.

Pareus on the Revelation,

The Treasury of Aucient and Modern times page 321, 322.

ह हुए, कुड़ इ

Eccles. 9. 18.

exceeding all humanity. The wifest Prince that ever swayed a Scepter, hath told us, That one sinner destroyeth much good. Who can summ up the mischief, that a sew ill-minded men may do in a little time? The same Devil, the same lufts, the same wrath, the same rage, the same revenge, the fame ends, the fame motives, that have put others upon burning work in former times, may probably have put fome, upon the same work in our time. Burning work is so odious and abominable, so destructive, hateful and hurtful a thing in the eyes of all true English men, who have any sense of honour or conscience, that I shall never wonder, to see such who have either had a head, or a hand, or a heart in it, of Arts and Crafts, to bury for ever the remembrance of it. Was not London the glory of England? Was not London Englands Treasury, and the Protestants Sanctuary? Was not London as terrible to her enemies abroad, as the was joyous to her friends at home? Has not London been as dreadful to her forraign foes, as the hand-writing upon the Wall, was to Belfhazzar? Was not London the great Mountain, that her enemies seared would be most prejudicial to their pernicious designs? Was not London, that great Rock, against which, many have dasht themselves in pieces? Was not Landon, as Briars and Thorns, as Goads and Gulfs, and two-edged Swords, to all her enemies more remote, and nearer home? Had the French invaded us, when London was in flames (as many feared they would-) or had fuch rifen up at that time, in the bowels of the Nation, whose very Principles lead them by fire and fword, to make way for their Religion; what doleful dayes had we feen, and to what a lowebb might the Protestant Interest have then be brought? What greater encouragement could be given, to French, Dutch, Dane, and all of the old Religion (as they call it) to make desperate attempts upon us, than the laying of the City desolate by fire? but 'tis the glory of Divine Power, to daunt and over-rule all hearts and counsels; and to turn that to his peoples greatest good, which their enemics design to be their utter ruine. We know Papilts are no changelings: their cruel, bloody, fiery Spirits and Principles, are fill the - fame:

Dan. 5.5,6.

Zech. 4. 7.

The French, the Dutch, the Dane, the Spaniard, &c. have at times experienced, what Londons Treasure and force, have been able to do, &c.

Pfal. 96. 5.10. Gen. 32. 24, 29.

Chap. 33.3,4.

same: Both King and Parliament have taken notice, how vigilant and active they have been of late, by what hath been discovered, confessed, proved, printed, &c. Is it not more than probable, that some influenced from Rome, have kindled and promoted that dreadful fire, that hath laid our City desolate? The Statue of Apollo, is said, to shed tears for the afflictions of the Grecians, though he could not help them. Though none of us could prevent the desolation of London; yet let us all be so ingenious, as to weep over the ashes of London. Who can look upon Londons glory, as now facrificed to the slames, and made a burnt-offering, to appeale the wrath and sury (as many say) of a Popist Conclave, and not mourn?

The woful defolations that the Popish Party made by fire and fword, amongst the Protestants in Ireland, is written with the Pen of a Diamond.

Sir, We readily grant, that 'tis our duty, to lament and mourn over the ruines and desolations of London; yea, some of us have so lamented and mourned over Londons dust and asses, that we have almost reduced our selves to dust and asses; and therefore what Cordials, what Comforts, what Supports can you hand out to us, that may help to cheer up our spirits, and to bear up our hearts, so as that we may not utterly faint, and sink neither under the sight of Londons Ruines: nor yet under a deep seuse of our many great and sore lesses.

Now that I may be a little serviceable and useful to you in the present case; give me leave to offer to your most serious consideration, these following particulars by way of support.

First, Consider for your Support and comfort, that the great God might have burnt up all: he might not have lest one house standing, nor one stone upon another. 'Tis true, the greatest part of the City is sallen; but 'tis rich mercy, that the whole is not consumed. Though most of the City within the Walls, be destroyed; yet 'tis Grace upon the Throne, that the Suburbs are standing. Had not God spared some houses in the City, and the main of the Suburbs, where would thousands have had a livelihood? How would any Trade have been maintained? yea, how would the lives of

Obj.

ı.

Luke 19.41.

many thousands have been preserved? Tis true, the fire was

Zech. 3. 2.

Mat. 24: 1, 2.

very dreadful, but God might have made it more dreadful? he might have laid every house level; he might have confurned all the goods and wealth, that was there treasured up; and he might have refused, to have pluckt one man, as a brand out of the fire. He might have suffered London, to have been as totally destroyed, as Fernfilem was, Mat. 24.1,2. And Telus went out, and departed from the Temple, and bis Difciples came to him, to their him the buildings of the Temple. And Tefus faid unto them, fee ye not all thefe things? Verily, I fay unt, you, there shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown diwn. In these words, Christ doth foretell the utter destruction, and devastation of Ferusalem, which came to pals by Titus and the Roman Army: wasting all with fire and fword, and evening with the ground, that Magnificent Temple and City; which was the glory of the world. Though Tiens by a strict Edict, at first storming of the City, forbad the defacing of the Temple, yet the Souldiers burnt it, and the City, The Temple was burnt (.fay some) August: 10. when it had stood five hundred eighty nine years; and the City was burnt, September 8. in the year of our Lord seventy one.

See Foseph.l.7. c. 9, 10, 18. d: Bcl. Fud.

Queft.

But why d'd Christs Disciples, show him the buildings of the Temple, which they knew were not unknown unto him?

Anfw.

Matth 23.38. Foseph. lib. 15. Antiq. cap. 14. To move him to mercy, and to moderate the severity of that sormer sentence, of leaving their houses desolate unto them. Herod had been at a wonderful charge, in building and beautifying the Temple. Josephus tells us, that for eight whole years together, he kept ten thousand men at work about it: and that for magnificence and stateliness, it exceeded Solomons Temple. The Disciples might very well wonder at these stately buildings, at these goodly, stately fair Stones, which were (as Josephus writeth) sisteen cubits long, twelve high, and eight broad. Now the Disciples condly thought, that Christ, upon the full sight of these tately glorious buildings, (which to see laid waste, was pi ty) might have been fo workt upon, as to reverse his former fentence, of laying all defolate. But here they were millaken; for bis thoughts was not as their thoughts. Others think, that the Disciples shewed Christ the stately buildings of the Temple, that upon a ferious consideration of the firength, pomp, stateliness, greatness and magnificence of the buildings, he might be the more careful to preserve them from destruction. Others think, that the Disciples shewed him thefe frong and stately buildings; to infinuate fecretly thereby, how difficult, yea, impossible, it was for them to be destroyed; especially considering the strength of the City alfo. And hence our Saviour feems to answer. See ye not all thefethings: Verily, I fay unto you, there shall not be left here one stone upon another that shall not be thrown down. &c.

But when was this prediction fulfilled. That not one stone should Queft. be left upon another, which should not be thrown diwn? &cc.

This was fulfilled, forty years after Christs Ascension, by Vestafian the Emperor, and his Son Titus; as Ensebius and Fosephus do declare. Yea, this Prophecy was not only accomplified, in the destination of the old Temple, but then also, when in Julian the Apostates time, the Jews (to spite the Christians) were by him encouraged, to build the Temple at his charge; and they attempting it accordingly, were hindered from Heaven, by a mighty Earthquake, which cast down that in the night, which was built in the day; and belides, a fire from Heaven; that confumed the work and work-mens instruments; which Cyrillin Bishop of Ferusalem; then feeing, applied unto that event, this predict on of our Saviour, There wall not be left one stone upon another, that hall not be thrown down. Ah London, London, this might have been thy doom, that there should not have been one house standing, neither within, nor without thy walls ; year this might have been thy doom, that there should not have been one stone left upon another, that should not have been thrown down. In that 'tis otherwise with thee, thou hast cause O London, to cry Grace, Grace, to him that fits upon the Throne, and is bleffed for ever, O'en they do the non the rung to a Anfiv.

Socrat, lib. 3. cap. 17.

Hh 2

Carthage

Orof. Eutrop.

Carthage was a Noble City, Mistris of Africa, and Paragon to Rome. She made her part good against Rome for many years, but at length, by means of her own inward civil jarrs, she was utterly destroyed by them. For the inhabitants being not able to stand any longer in their own descence, were constrained to yield themselves to the mercy of their enemies: the Women, to the number of five and twenty thousand, marching first forth; and after them, the men in number thirty thousand following, all which poor Captives, were sold for bond-slaves, a sew only of the principal excepted: and then fire was put to the City, which burnt seventeen dayes without ceasing; even till it was clean consumed. This might have been thy doom, O London, but God in the midst of Judgement hath remembred mercy.

Athens was once the most samous flourishing City of Greece, for her fair buildings, large Precinces, and multitude of inhabitants; but especially for her Philosophy, by means whereof, recourse was made from all parts to her, as the sountain and well-spring of Arts, and the School and University of the whole world. Whose Policy and manner of Government, was so much esteemed by the Romans, that they drew from thence their Laws: but now she lies dead and buried in the ashes of sorgetfulness, not carrying any of her former proportion or appearance. If this had been thy doom, O London, we must all have set to our seales, that the Lord had been Righteous: but blessed be the Lord, London is not, and I hope never shall (let Rome and Hell do their worst) be buried in the ashes of sorgetfulness, &c. But.

But

The second Support, to bear up the hearts, and to cheer up the Spirits of all that has smarted by the late siery dispensation, is this, viz. that God has given them their lives for a prey. O Sirs, what a mercy is it, that though the sire has reacht your houses, your shops, your goods, your commodities, your warehouses, your treasure; that yet it has not reacht your lives, nor the lives of your relations or friends?

friends? though your habitations are confumed, and your loffes have been great, yet that in the midft of fo many deaths and dangers by the flames, and by the press of the people. and notwithstanding all the confusions, that was in all parts of the City, you should have your lives for a prey, and be fnatcht as to many fire-brands out of the burning. O how should this miraculous Providence of God, be owned and admired by you! The Devil hit the mark, when he faid, Skin for skin; yea, all that a man bath, will be give for his life. Job 2. 4. Mens estates in those times, did lye mostly in Cattel. Now faith Satan, Job is a very great life lover, he is fond of life, and afraid of death; and therefore he will give skin upon skin, to fave his life: he will give many sains, abundance of skins ; year all his skins, to fave his life : he will give his Cattels skins, and his Servants skins, and his Sons skins, to fave himself in a whole skin. By this Pro verbial Speech, Skin for skin, &c. Satan intimates, that Fob cared not for the loss of his Cattel, nor for the loss of his servants, nor for the loss of his children, so he might secure his own life. 70b fet a higher price upon his own life, than he did upon all other lives: let others fink or fwim, fo he might escape, all was well. Natural life is a precious Jewel; a man will cast all over-board, when he is in danger of drowning; to fave his life. A man will hold up his arms. to fave his head; or fuffer the loss of a limb, to fave his life ... Men will bleed , fweat, vomit, purge , part with an estate; yea, with some of their limbs, to preserve their lives. As he who cryed out Give me any deformity, any torment, any mifery, fo you fpare my life. Wherefore doth a living man complain (or murmur) a man for the punishment of bis sin, Lam. 3. 39. O what a fimple. senseles, bruitish, blockish thing is it, for a man, a mortal man, a finful man, a man on this fide the grive, on this fide Hell, to complain, or murmur against a holy and righteous God ! He that is alive on this fide everlasting burnings, on this fide a devouring fire; has no just cause to complain, what ever his loffes, croffes, or fufferings are. He that has deserved a hanging, if he escape with a whipping, has no Hh2 cause

The Philosopher saith, that a Flye is more excellent than the Heavens: because the Fly has life, which the Heavens have note.

Proximus quifque fibi:
Every man is nearest to himself.

Ifa. 33. 14.

Lam. 4. 5.

Chap. 1.

Chap. 5.9.

Chap. 3. 22.

Knolles his General Hiflory of the Turks, p. 1244. cause to complain, or murmur. Men that have deserved a damning, if they escape, with the luss of house, goods, chates, &c. they have no cause to complain, or murmur. Mark at this time ferufalem was burnt, City and Temple, was laid in ashes, the Citizens were turned out of house and home, and fiript of all their comforts and contentments. They that did feed delicately, were desolate in the Streets: they that were brought up in Scarlet, embraced dunohills. They were fcattered among the Heathen, who did mock at their Sabbaths, and who trod their mighty men under fost; yea, they fought their bread with the peril of their lives. And yet faith the Prophet, Why doth the living man complain? Though City, and Temple, and Goods, and Estates, were all consumed in the stames, yet some had their lives for a prey. And upon that very account, they ought not to complain. God might have turned them into ashes; as he had turned their houses into ashes: and it was meer Grace, that he did not: which the Church wisely and ingeniously observes, when she saith, It is of the Lords mercy that (me.) are not consumed. She doth not fay, 'cis of the Lords mercy, that our houses are not confumed : but 'tis of the Lords mercy that (we) are not confumed: nor the dos not fay, 'tis of the Lords mercy that our goods are not confumed; but 'tis of the Lords mercy that (we) are not confumed. The Church faw mercy, much mercy, tender mercy, yea, bowels of mercy, (as the word there imports) that a remnant had their lives given them, when their City and Substance was turned into ashes. O Sire, others have loft their goods, and their lives together, and 'tis miraculous mercy, that you han't, when mens wits were puzzel'd, their hearts discouraged, and their industry tired out. When the wind was at the highest, and the fire at the hottest, and the hopes of most at the lowest: that then you should be as brands pluckt out of the fire, was glorious mercy, &c. In the Reign of Achmon the eighth Emperor of the Turke,

In the Reign of Achman the eighth Emperor of the Turks, a great fire arole in the City of Constantinople, wherein many, both men and women perished, with above five hundred Shops and Ware-houses full of rich Merchandize, most of which belonged unto the Jews, of whom, almost two hundred are said to be burnt. These lost their goods and their lives together, but so have not you: the greater obligition lyes upon you, both to think well of God, and to fpeak well of God, and to lay out your lives to the uttermoft for God.

0

Certain Tartars at Confrantinople in their infolency, fet fire upon a certain Jews house; whereof arose fuch a terrible fire, as burnt not only many houses; but a great many of the lews themselves. Here lives and estates went together. Though Out-landish hands have fet our City, our houses on fire, yet God has preferved our lives in the midft of the flames: and this is a mercy more worth, than all we have

loft, Oc

There was a flately Palace in Ferufalem, that Solomon had built, which joyned near to the Temple : this Palace Josephus. the lews abundantly anointed all over with Brimstone and Prech. fo that when the Romans purfued the lews unto this Palace, they entered the Palace after the Tews, who went out again another way, and thut up the Palace, and fet fire on the Gates, which they had before anointed with Brimstone and Pitch; and straight way, the side walls of the house, and the whole building, began to be on a light fire; fo that the Romans had no way to escape, because the fire compaffed the house on every side. The Jews also stood round about the Palace, with their drawn Swords, to cut off any that should attempt to escape the flames. Now there was two and twenty thousand of the Romans destroyed in this fire. Tims hearing the lamentable cry of the Romans, that were compassed about in flames of fire, made speed with alk his Army, to come and rescue them; but the fire burnt to vehemently, that he could fave none of them. Upon which, Titus and his Army wept bitterly. O Sirs, when London was in flames, if men of a Romile faith, had compaffed the City round about with their drawn Swords, that none should have escaped the surious stames, how dread-full would such a day have been. Whether such a thing was intended, or defigned, and by any firange Providence

Knolles pag. 1 265.

Pfal. 46.

Providence prevented: we shall know in the sittest

Numantium a City in Spain, being belieged by the Romans, and after it had born the brunt of War along time, and made many desperate Sallies upon their enemies, and were almost conformed with famine; rather than they would bow their necks to the Roman yoke, they barred their Gates, and fet all on fire, and so burned themselves in the flames of their City, that so they might leave the enemy, nothing but ashes for his prey and triumph. Here City and Citizens, are defroved together, and 'tis infinite mercy, that this was not the fate, the doom of the Citizens of London. They and their City, might have fallen together: but God was good, and a very present belp in time of trouble. O Sirs, if not only your houses, your shops, your goods, your wares, but also your persons, had been enclosed with flames, and no possibility of escape; how dreadful would the fire have been then! O what tongue can express, or heart conceive, the fighs, the groans, the cryes, the tears, the gashful looks, the horrible shrieks, the dreadful amazement, and the matchless assonishment, that would have been upon all forts, and ranks of people, that had been compassed round about with flames, and could see no door of deliverance open to them! O what a mercy is it, that we are yet alive; though we are stript of many comforts and contentments, which formerly we have enjoyed! Now here give me leave, to open my self a little, in these following particulars.

First, What a mercy was this, to all unregenerate and unconverted persons, that they have had their lives for a prey, when London was in slames? Had God by the slames, or any other accident, put an end to their natural dayes, they might at this time, have been a Rolling up and down in unquenchable slames. Sinners, Sinners, the greatest weights, hang upon the smallest Wyars. Eternity, Eternity, depends upon your improvement of that time, that life, and those seasons, and opportunities of Grace, that yet you do enjoy. That Rabbi hit, it, who said, Nemo est cui non sit bora sure. Every man bail bis bour. He who overslips that scason, may never

Austin faith, that he would not be a wicked man one half hour, for all the world; because he might die in that half hour, and then he was undone for eyer.

4 10 .5.2 1 ביניהו ושנים

323 barr

Ke, Midell,

never meet with the like again all his dayes. O Sirs, to have a little more timesto, believe, to repent, toy fecure your interest in Christ, a changed nature, a Canchifred frame of heart : a pardomin the bolom, is a merch more worth than ten thousand worlds. To have a little more time, to thake your calling and election fure, and sto get the New Name; and White Stone, that none knows, butithole that are the favourites of Heaven II To have time, to make fure a City that hath foundations ; la Kindgom; that thakes not so Riches chat corrupt not; an inheritance, that fadeth hot away; la house not made with hands, but one eternal in the heavent ai To have time to make fure to your felves a Crown of Righteoutness a Crown of Life, a Crown of Glory, a Crown of immortality, are mirecies by ond all the expressions aband shoperallishe valuations of the Sons of mentio The Poets paint Filme with wings, to shew the volubility and swiftnels of it. Sumpeus pretiocissimus tempus : time is of precious coft laith Theophraftus. Know time, lofe not a minute, faith Rittacus. Alian gives this tellimony of the Lacedemonians That they were hugely coverous of their time ! [pending it all about necessary things, and suffering no Citizen; either to beidle or play. Titus Veftafian having frent a day, without doing Suctorius. any man any good, as he fate at Supper, heuttered this memorable and praise worthy Apothegme, Amici diem perdidi, My friends I have loft a day! O Sirs; will not the fe poor liter thefiguifed in bludgement against what hose of the trifle, and fool and fine a way their precious times it Take heed of crying francings to morrow, to morrow ho playnot the Courtier with your precious fouls withe Courtier doth all things late, the rifestite, and dines lated and supported and goes the hed laten and repents late, a Remember of at Malma mul beigathered in the morning: The Orient Pearling generated of the morning dow. yn Chelo is morning pads as more feriouse frame into a mans Spirit, when to write worth o his time and Tisyvery dangerous sputting of charge another day; which multibe done to day; or the undone to morsow Num aut nunguam, Now or News ; was the faving of cold, d not done mow, nit may never the done, and beher dundous for even

2 Pet .1. 10. Rey. 12. 17. 1 Heb. 11.10. Chap. 12. 28. 1 Pet. 1. 4. 2 Cor. 5. I. 2 Tim 4.8. Rev. 2. 10. James 1. 12. 1 Pet. 5.4.

Sr .: . 15! Sophocles, Phocilides.

.: ri-il

Acts. 9, 15. Judg. 14. 20.

Beroaldus
fpeaks of a Fool, who cried out, Ob Repentance, Repentance, where art thou, where art thou, Repentance?

ever. Eternity depends on this moment of time. What would not many a man give for a day, when it is a day too late. Whilst many blind Sodomites have been groping, to find a door of hope, God has rained Hell out of Heaven upon them. The seasons of Grace are not under your locks and keyes. Many thousand poor sinners have lost their seasons, and their souls together. Judas repented, and Esas mourned, but neither timely nor truly; and therefore they perished to all eternity. The damned in Hell may weep their eyes out of their heads, but they can never weep sin out of their souls on their souls out of Hell, Oc.

Heb. 2. 3. Heb. 3. 18. of that the flames of London might be so sanctified to every poor sunner, who have had their lives for a prey, in that dole ful day, that they may no longer neglectathose precious seafons, and opportunities of Grace, that yet are continued to them; lest God should swear in his wrath, that they should never enter into his rest. O Sirs, yet you have a world of gracious opportunities, and O that God would give you that heavenly wisdom, that you may never neglect one gracious opportunity, though it were to gain a whole world. God hy giving you your lives in the midst of those surious and amazing slames, has given you time and opportunity, to secure the internal and the eternal welfare of your precious and immortal souls: which is a mercy that can never be sufficiently prized or improved. But, and such I bridge the Acts 1. 9, 10. Judg. 14.20. an Secondly, What la indrey was this to poor doubting flags, gering Christians, that they have had their lives for a prey when London was in flames. For by this means, they have gained time to pray down their doubts, and to argue down their doubts, and to argue down their doubts, and the Angel aftendated to Heaven in a cloud; and the Angel aftendated to Heaven in a cloud; and the Angel aftendated to Heaven in a cloud; and the Angel aftendated to Heaven in the flame of the Altare of Tisi ten to one in this thad been the case of whithy doubting, trembling Christians, thad they dyed when London was in flames and know it good getting to Heaven any way; though it be more whirlewind of addiction bor in ab fiery Charitot of temp ptation of one in the flames of Perfecution, nor sin a cloud of cases doubts and barkness a hut yet that man is more happy; that gets to Heaven in a quiet calm of inward peace, and in the fair Sunshine of joy and assurance. Tis a good thing for a man to get into a fafe Harbour, though it be in a Winter night, and through many Storms and tempelts, ha zards, dangers, and deaths, with the loss of Matts, Cables and Anchors: but yet he is more happy, that gets into safe Harbour in a clear, calm, fair Sun-thiny day, top and top gallant, and with Colours flying, and Trumpets found ing. The prudent Reader knows how to apply it. O that al poor doubting Christians would seriously lay this to heart. viz. That for them to have time to have their judgements and understandings enlightned, their doubts resolved, their objections answered, their consciences setled, and their souls assured, that all is well, and shall be for ever well between God and them, is a mercy, more worth than all the world ... But,

Thirdly. What a mercy was this, to poor languishing, declining and decaying Christians, that they have had their lives for a prey when London was in flames. There wera great many in London, who were fallen from their first love, and whole Sun was fet in a cloud. There were many whose Graces were languishing, whose comforts were declining, Rev. 2. 4. whose fouls were withered, and whose communion with God was greatly impaired. Many within and without the Wells of Landon, had a Worm knawing at the root of their Graces; they had lost their spiritual rellish of God, of Christ. of Ordinances, as dying men lose their rellish. Dying men can rellish nothing they fip or eat, or drink: they had lost their Spiritual strength and they knew it not, as Sampson had lost his natural firength and knew it not. O what an Image of deat! Judg. 16. 20. was upon their highest professions. Now for these men to live. for these men to have time to get their Graces repaired, their comforts revived, their ipiritual strength restored, their soulfatned, and their communion with God raised, O what a matchless, what an incomparable mercy is this! But,

Fourthly, What a mercy was this, to poor clouded, deferted and benighted Christians, that they have had their lives for a prey, when London was in flames! Beloved, 'sis fac dying under a cloud; itis fad dying, when he who should

The whole Scripture: 16 (faith Luther doth principally aim at this thing, that we should not doubt bur that we should hope, that we should truft, and that we should believe, that God is a merciful, a bountiful, a gracious and patient God to his people.

Lam. 1. 16. Pfal. 39. 13.

Ifa. 38. 1,2,3. See more of this, in my Mute Christian, under the imarting Rod pag. 279. 304. Judg. 16. 18, 19, 20, 21.

Phil. 1. 22,23.

comfort a mans foul, stands afar off. Some think, that the face of God was clouded; when David thus prayed, O spare me that I may recover frength before I go bence, and be no more. And forne think Hezekiahsis Sunt was fet in a cloud? and God had drawn a Curtain between Hezekiah and himfelf; when being under the fentence of death, He turned bis face toward the wall, and prayed unto the Lord, and faid. Remember now, O Lord, I befeech thee, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect beart; and have done that which was good in thy fight : and Hezekiah wept fore ? or with great weeping, as the Hebrem runs. It is with clouded! and deferted Christians, as it was with Sampson, when his locks were cut off, bis strength was gone; and therefore though he thought to go out, and do wonders; as he had formerly done, yet by fad experience, he found himself to be but as another man. So when God dos but withdraws the best of Saints have their locks cut; their Arength (which lyeth not in their hair, but in their head Christ Jesus) is gone, and they are but like other men : They think, they speak, they act, they walk, like other men. Christians under real difertions, commonly fall under fore temptations; great indispositions barrenness, flatness, dulness and deadness of Spirit un And is this a fit season, for such to die in? Christians under a cloud afually have their joyes eclipfed, their comforts damped, their evidences for Heaven blotted, their communion with God impaired, and their title to Heaven is by themselves in such a day) much questioned it And is this a case for them to die in? O clouded and deserted Christians , who have had your lives for a prey in the midft of Londons flames! and ever fince those stames, what a great, what a glorious obligation, has the bleffed God put upon you, to labour to ecover your selves from under all clouds and desertions, and to spend your dayes in a serious and deep admiration of that free, that rich, that infinite, and that Soveraign Grace that spared you, and that was active for you, in that day when you were compassed about with flames of fire on every hand. But, Fifthly, What a mercy was this; to poor folicited tempted Christians, that they have had their lives for a prey, when London

London was in flames? For by this means, they have gained time to firengthen themselves against all Satans temptations. The daily Bills that were given in, to pray for poor tempted Christians, did sufficiently evidence, how active Satan was to diffrels and perplex poor Christians with all forts of hideous and blasphemous temptations. Were there not many tempted to distrust the power of God, the goodness of God, the faithfulness of God? Were there not many tempted to deny God, to blaspheme God, and to turn their backs upon God ? Were there not many tempted to flight the Scrip tures, to deny the Scriptures, and to prefer their own fancies, notions and delutions above the Scriptures. Were there not many tempted to have low thoughts of Ordinances, and then to leave Ordinances, and then to vilifie "Ordinances ; and all under a pretence of living above Ordinances ?! Were there not many tempted to prefume upon the mercies of God; and others tempted to despair of the Grace of God ? Were there not many tempted to defiroy themselves, and others tempted to defiroy their relations ? Were there not many tempted to draw others to fin, and to uphold others in fin, and to encourage others in fin ; and to be partners with others in fin ? Were there not many tempted, to have hard thoughts of Christ, and others to have low thoughts of Christ, and others to have no thoughts of Christ. Now for these poor tempted fouls, to have their lives for a prey, and to have precious leasons and opportunities, to recover themselves out of the marcs of the Devil, and to arm themselves against all his fiery darts, is a comprehensive mercy, a big-bellied mercy; a mercy that has many thousand mercies in the womb of it. But. Sixthly and lattly, What a mercy was this, to all flumbering, flothful, fluggith, lazy Christians, who had blotted and Matth. 25. blurred their evidences for Heaven? and who inflead of runing their Christian race, were either at a stand, or elle did but Heb 12. 1. halt in the way to Heaven, that they have had their lives for a prey when London was in flames, and that they have had time to clear up their evidences for Heaven, and to quicken Pfal. 119. 32. up their hearts, to run the wayes of Gods commands. Surely, had all the world been a lump of Gold, and in their hands, to have been disposed of sithey would have given it, for a little time, to have brightned their evidences, to have got out of their sinful slumber, and to have set all reckonings even between God and their poor souls, And let thus much suffice for this second support.

113

See my Mute Christian paz. 260. to p. 279. Our whole life is nothing but a temptation, faith Auftin.

3.

The commonnels of our fufferings, doth fomewhat mitigate the sharpnels of our fufferings, &c.

The third Support to bear up the hearts, and to cheer up the Spirits of all that have foffered by the late fiery difpenfation, is this, viz. that this has been the common lot, the common case, both of Saints and sinners. God has dealt no more severely with you, than he has with many others. Have you lost much? so have many others. Have you lost half? to have many others. Have you lost all? so have many others. Have you lost your Trade? so have many others. Have you lost yoour goods? so have many others. Have you loft your credits? fo have many others. Have you loft many friends, who before the fire were very helpful to you and yours? so have many others. Hive you lost more than your all? so have many others. This very Cordial, the Apostle hands out to the suffering Saints in his time, r. Cor. 10. 13. There bath no temptation taken you, but such as is comm n to man. (by temptation, he means affliction; as the word is used, Fam. 1.2. 1 Pet. 1.6.) that is, there hath no affliction befallen you, but that which is incident, either to men as men, or to Saints as Saints : or thus, there hath no affliction befallen you, but such as is common to man; that is, there is no affliction that hath befallen you, but fuch as men may very well bear without murmuring or buckling under it. So I Pet. 5. 9. Knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished (or finished) in your bretbren, that are in the world: or in your brother-hood, that is in the world. Afflictions are the common lot of the Saints; and who shrugs, repines, complains, murmurs, or faints, under a common lot, its at the Sun because it scorches. Oz. There are none of the brother-hood, but first or last, they shall know what the fiery tryal, what the fiery fornace means. Ferom writing to a fick friend, hath this expression, I account it a part of unbappiness.

John 16. ult. Acts 14. 22.

happiness, not to know adversity. I judge you to be the more miferable, because you have not been miserable : it being the common lot of the people of God, to be exercised with adverticy and mifery. I think he hit it who faid, Impunitas fecu- Bernard. ritatis mater, virtutum noverca, religionis virus, tinea Sanctiratis: i. e. freedom from punishment is the Mother of searity, the Step-mother of Vertue, the poison of Religion, the Moth of holiness. Nibil eft infalicius en, cui nil unquam contigit adverfi. There is nothing more unhappy, than he who never felt adversity, said the refined Heathen; and shall not Grace rife as high as nature. The calamity has been common, therefore wipe your eyes, and don't fay, there is no forrow to my forrow: no loss to my loss no ruine to my ruine. ... Under common calamities, men should neither groan nor grumble, Look, as no man may conclude, upon the Ecclef. 9. 1,2. account of common -mercies, that he is really beloved of God: fo no man may conclude, upon the account of common calamities, that he is really hated of God. And therefore bear up fweetly, bear up chearfully, under your prefent trials. In the common calamity of the Plague, the destroying Angel perceiving the blood of sprinkling upon the posts of your doors, and upon the doors of your hearts, palt you by and faid unto you Live. But by the common calamity of the Fire, the Lord has turned you out of house and home, and burnt up your substance before your eyes. Now do but lay your hands feriously upon your hearts, and tell me, whether you have not more cause to admire at the mercy of God; towards you in 65, than you have caufe to complain of the severities of God towards you in 66. A way a observe thank any

The fourth Support to bear up the hearts, and to cheer up the spirits of the people of God; who have been sufferers. deep fufferers, under the late fiery dispensation, is this, viz. That though they have lost much, as they are men, as they are Citizens, Merchants, Tradelmen; yet they have loft nothing; as they are Christians; as they are Saints, as they are the called and cholen of God. Though they have loft their goods, yet they have not loft their God. Though they

Seneca'.

Lam. r. 12.

Exod. 12. 7.

have

Eris &

Joh. 14 · 16.26. 2 Cor. 5. 1.

I Pct. 1. 4.

Pfal. 73. 25.

Marth. 6. 6.

Gen 18.25.

have loft their Shops and Chefts, yet they have not loft their Christ: Though they have lost their outward comforts, yet they have not loft the comforts of the Holy Ghoft Though they have lost their houses made with hands, yet they have not loft their house not made with hands, eternalninithe Heavens. Though they have lost their earthly inheritance, yet they have not loft their heavenly inheritance. Though they have lott their temporal portions, yet they have not loft their eternal partions : Though they have loft their open Publick Trade; yet they have not loft their Secret Trade, their private Trade to Heaven. I readily grant, that your stately houses, and your well furnishe Shops, are turned into affice; and that your credit is gone; and your trading gone, and your money gone, and you utterly undone fis to this world) and yet in all this, God has done you no hurts the has done you no wrong : and though this at first fight; may seem to be a great Paradox, a very strange Affertion; yet 1 shall thus evidence it to be an unquestionable itruth. The happiness of man in this life confilts it In his Union with God: 2. In his Communion with God: 31 In his Conformic ty to God: and Fourthly and laftly, in his spiritual fruition and enjoyment of God. Now none of those losses, crosses, and afflictive dispensations that have past aponyou, have; or can make any breach upon your happiness, or upon any one of those four things of which your happiness is made lup. The top of mans happiness in Heaven, lyes in his near untob with God, and in the beatifical vision of God, and in his: full communion with God, and in his exact and perfect conformity to God and in his everlasting fruition and enjoyment of God. Now the more of these things any Christian enjoves in this world the more of Heaven he enjoyes on this nde Heaven; the more happinels he has on this fide happlnels; and therefore I would willingly know, how it is polfible for any outward croubles or tryals, to make a breach upon a Christians happiness aboubites fobius as happy when he face upon the Dunghil without a ragg on his back, ord penny in his purie, as he was when he fate Chief, and dwelt as a King in the Army W God be the most perfect Being, aveli

Job 2.

Jo' . 29. 25

Being, then to enjoy him and refemble him, is our greatest perfection. If God be the best of Beings, then our communion with him, and fruition of him, must be our greatest glory and highest selicity. Let what will befall our outward omne bouin, man as long as our union and communion with God holds in fummo bono. good, as long as our precious and immortal fouls are in a fafe and flourishing condition; as long as the Springs of Grace, of holinels, of comfort, of affurance, rifes in our fouls, we are happy, and no outward miseries can make us miserable. There is, faith one, Bona Throni, and there is Bona Scabelli. Augustine. there is goods of the Throne, as God, Christ, the Spirit, Grace, the favour of God, pardon of fin, peace of conscience, &c. And there is goods of the footfool, as food, raiment; house, honors, riches, trade, credit, and all bodily conveniencies and accommodations. Now it was not in the power of the flames, to burn up the goods of the Throne; they fill remain fafe and secure to you: all that the flames could reach too, was only the goods of the footstool, the lumber of this world. And therefore what cause have you to bear up cheerfully, quietly, fweetly and contentedly, under all your croffes and loffes, trials and troubles. They which adorn themselves with Gold (saith one) and think themselves bettered thereby, are werfetban Go'd, and no Lords of it, as all should be. He is poor (laith Another) whose foul is void of Grace, not whose coffers are empty of money. By these short hints, you may clearly see, that the people of God are never the worse, for all their loffes; they are as happy now they are houseless, monyles, breadles, friendles, tradeles, as ever they were, when they were most surrounded with all the comforts of this life. Wo, wo, would be to the people of God, if their happines should hang upon the comforts of this world. which like a Ball are toft from man to man; a Ball of fire, a storm at Sea, a false Oath, a subtle enemy, a treacherous friend, may cally deprive a man of all his carthly bleffings at a clap. Now who so miserable as that man whose bles-Codness lyes in earthly bloffings. But, and a sale took Clemens Alexandrinus. Gregory the Great.

Time goods your it was I was an and the your many cand of the 5.

John 16.

Heb. 11.

Ver. 3, 4.

When God takes away Christians estates in this world, Manet altera Cælo, he looks for a better in Heaven.

The Fifth Support to bear up the hearts of the people of God under the late fiery dispensation, is this, viz. That the Lord will certainly one way or another make up all their losses to them. Sometimes God makes up his peoples outward losses, by giving them more of himself, more of his Son, more of his Spirit, more of his favour, more of his Grace, as he did by the Disciples of Christ. When God takes away your carnals, and gives you more spirituals; your temporals, and gives you more eternals; your outward losses are made up to you. Now this was the very case of those believing Hebrews, who were turned out of house and home; and who were driven to live in holes and caves, and dens of the earth, and who had lost all their goods; (not having a Bed to lye on, or a Stool to fit on, nor a dish to drink in, and who had loft all their Apparel, not having a ragg to hang on their backs, and therefore cloathed them-Elves in Sheep-skins and Goat-skins.) They took joyfully the spoiling of their goods, knowing in themselves, that they had in Heaven a better and an enduring Substance. When under outward losses, God shall seal to his people a Bill of Exchange of better and greater things, than any they have loft; their losses then are made up to them. If a man should loose feveral baggs of Counters, and have a Bill of Exchange fealed to him for the receiving of so many baggs of Gold; would not his loss be abundantly made up to him? When God takes away our earthly treasures, and seals up in our hearts a Bill of Exchange, to receive all again with interest upon interest in eternal treasures, then certainly our losses are abundantly made up to us. If men should take away your old cloathes, and give you new; your Raggs, and give you Robes; your Chaff, and give you Wheat, your Water, and give you Wine; your Tinn, and give you Silver; your Brass, and give you Gold; your Pibble, and give you Pearls, your Cottages, and give you Royal Palaces; certainly you would have no cause to complain; you would have no cause to cry out undone, undone. If God takes away your houses, your goods, your Trades, your honors, and gives you more of himfelf, and more Grace, and more Affurance of Glory, he dos you no injury. It is an excellent change, to get eternals for temporals. If God takes away your earthly riches, and makes you more rich in Grace, in spiritual comforts, in holy expériences, in divine employments, then you are no losers, but great gainers. What are all the necessary comforts of this life, to union and communion with God, to interest in Christ, to pardon of lin, to peace of conscience, and to that loving kindness, that is better than life, or better (Chaiim) than lives, as the Hebrew runs. If you put many lives together, there is more excellency and glory in the least discovery of divine love, than in them all. Many a man has been weary of his life; but never was any man yet weary of the love and favour of God. The least drop of Grace, the least smile from Heaven, the least cast of Christs countenance, the least kiss of his mouth, the least embrace of his arm, the least hint of his favour, is more worth than ten thousand worlds. That Christian cant be poor, that is rich in Grace; nor that Christian can't be miscrable, that has God for his portion. That Christian can't be unhappy, who hath a manfion prepared for him in Heaven; though he hath not a cottage to hide his head in, in this world: nor that Christian has no cause to complain of want of food for his body, whose soul is feasted with Manna, with the dainties of Heaven, with those rarities, that are better than Angels food. He that hath but raggs to cover his nakedness, if his foul be cloathed with the garments of falvation, and covered with the Robe of Christs Righteousness, he has no reason to complain. When Stilpo the Philosopher, had his Wife, and Children, and Countrey, all burnt up before him, and was asked by Demetrius, what loss he had sustained : answered, That be had loft nothing; for be counted that only his own, which none could take from bim , to wit, his virtues. Shall blind NI ture do more than Grace? Shall the Heathen put the Chri-Rian to a blush ?

Again, Sometimes God makes up his peoples outward losses, by giving in greater outward mercies, than those were that he took from them; as you may see, by comparing the

Kk 2

Pfal, 63 3.

Cant. 2. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.

Rev. 2. 8, 9. Lam. 3. 24. John 14. 1, 2, 3, 4. Heb. 11. 37, 38. Rev. 2. 17. John 4. 20, 21.

Ifa. 61. 10.

Plutarch.

first Chapter of Job, and the last Chapter of Job together; Job had all doubled to him. I have read of Dionifius, how he took away from one of his Nobles, almost his whole estate, and seeing him as cheerful and contented as ever, he gave him all that he had taken from him again, and as much more. God many times takes away a little, that he may give more: and formetimes he takes away all, to shew his Sove raignty; and then he gives them all back again with interest upon interest, to shew his great liberality and noble bounty. That is a lovely loss, that is made up with so great gain.

Queft.

But Sir, How fall me know (or probably conjecture) when ther in this world, God will make up our worldly loffes to us or not? If you please to speak a little to this question; it may be many wayes of ule unto us.

Now that I may give you a little light to the Question, give me leave to put a few Questions to such, who have been fufferers by the late fiery dispensation. 12. 17

First, Did you make conscience of improving your estates to the glory of God, and the good of others, when you did enjoy them; or did you only make them subservient to your. lusts? If you have laid out your estates for God, and for his childrens good; 'tis ten to one, but that the Lord, even in this world, will make up your losses to you. But if you mis-improved your estates, and turned your mercies into encouragements to fin, then you have more cause to sear, that the Lord may farther blast you; than you have to hope that God will make up your losses to you. But, :-

Secondly, Did you daily and feriously labour, to enjoy much of God in all those worldly enjoyments, which formerly you were bleft withal ? If fo, 'tis very probable, that the Lord may make up all your loffes to you : But if you made a God of your worldly enjoyments; if they had more of your thoughts, and hearts, and time, than God himfelf had, then you have more cause to sear a surther curse, than to ex-

ped a future bleffing, Prov. 3. 32. Mal. 2. 2. But, and hads

Thirdly.

Deut. 32. 15, Hef. 4. 7: James 4. 3.

Thirdly, Did your hearts commonly, ordinarily, habitually, lye low under your worldly enjoyments? Abrabam under all his worldly enjoyments, was but dust and after; and Facob under his, was less than the least of all mercies. And fo David under all Gods royal favours his heart lyes low. Pfal. 22, 6. But I am a worm and no man. David in the Arabick Tongue, signifies a Worm, to which he seems to allude. The word in the Hebrew for Worm, is Tolagnath, which fignifies fuch a very little Worm, that a man can very hardly fee it or perceive it. Though David was high in the world, yet he was little yea, very little in his own eyes, Was it commonly, mostly thus with you, when your comforts compasfed you round about ? If so, then itis very probable, that the Lord in this world will make up all your loffes to you. But, if your blood did commonly rife with your outward goods; and if your hearts did usually so swell under your worldly enjoyments, as to fay with Pharach; Who is the Lord shar I (hould obey bis voice? or to lay with Nebuchadnezzar, Who is that God that can deliver you out of my hands ? or to fay with shofe proud Atheifts, Who is Lord over we? or to lay with those proud Monsters, We are Lords, we will came no more unto thee, &c. then you have great cause to sear that God, that hath yet some further controversie with you; and (except you repent) will rather firip you of what you enjoy, than multiply further favours or bleffings upon you. Butter ilol, i ans vielus i il con i ulu. " w dodiwi

Fourthly, Since God has burnt up your worldly goods have you been fervent and frequent with God, that he would burn up those lufts, that have burnt up your comforts before your eyes? Have you pleaded hard with God, that a Spirit of burning might rest upon you, even that Spirit of burning Isa. o. 2. which alone can burn up your fins, your drofs. Since London hath been laid in affies, have you made it your great bufiness. to treat, and trade with God, about the deliguetion of those fine that have laid all desolate ? If to , then you have cause to hope, that God will turn your captivity and make up all your loffes to you, Job 42 200 Busing so Fufthly Since God has surned woid out of all are you turn

Kk a

Gen. 18. 27. Chap. 32. 10.

Exod. 5. 2.

Dan. 3. 15.

Pfalm 12. 4. Ter. 2. 3.

Chap: 4. 4.

cd

Luke 15.

ed nearer and closer to himselt? though you have been prodigals, yet have you in the light of Londons stames, seen and sound your way to your Fathers house? then God will make up all your losses to you. When Judgements are so sandisted, as to bring a people nearer to himself, then God will drop down mercies upon them, Hos. 2. 18. nlt. But,

Exod. 13- 21,

Sixthly, Has the fire of London been as a pillar of fire, to lead you Canaan ward, Heaven wards? Has God by burning up the good things of this world, caused you to set your hearts and affections more than ever upon the great things of another world? If so, then it is a hundred to ten, but that the Lord will make up all your losses to you. But,

Phil. 4. 12,

Seventhly, Are your hearts under this fiery dispensation, brought into fuch a quiet submission to the good will and pleasure of God, as that you can now be contented, to be at Gods finding, at Gods allowance? Can you now be contented, to be rich or poor, to have much or little, to be high or low, to be formething or nothing, to have all again, or to have nothing but necessaries again? Are you now willing, that God shall choose for you? Can you sit down satisfied with Gods allowance, though it be far short of what once you had? Content is the Deputy of outward felicity, and supplies the place where it's ablent. A contented frame of heart, as to all outward occurrences, is like Ballast to a Ship, which will help it to fail boldly and fasely in all waters. When a mans mind is conformable to his means, all is well. One brings in God rebuking a discontented Christian thus, What is thy faith? Have I promised thee these things? What wer't thou made a Christian, that thou Bouldst flourish bere in this world? Tis an excellent expression, that Bellarmine hath in his Catechilm, Suppose (faith he) a King baving many children of several ages, should apparel them in Cloth of Gold: now he that is fixteen years old bath more Gold in his Robe, than the Child that is but five or fix years old; yet the child would rather have his own garment than his elder Brothers, because 'tis fitter for bim. Surely the fitteft effate, is the belt effate for us Isook, as a great Shoe fits not a little foot, nor a great Angustine upon Psalm 12. Sail a little Ship, nor a great Ring a little Finger: fo a great effate is not alwayes the firtest for us. He that hath most, wants something: and he that hath least, wants nothing, if he wants not a contented Spirit. O Sirs, let not Heathens put you to a blush.

He that can be content to be at Gods finding, as a Guest at a Table; that takes what is carved for him, and no more; be needs not fawn upon any man, much less violate his conscience for the great things of the world. When a mans heart is brought down to his condition, he is then temptation-proof. When one told the Philosopher, that if he would but please Diony sius, he need not seed upon green hearbs; the Philosopher replied, If thou wer's but content to feed upon green bearbs, thou needest not flatter Dionysius. A man that can be contented with a little, will keep his ground in an hour of Temptation.

Diogenes the Cynick, housed in his Tub, and making even with his victuals and the day together, being invited to a great Feast, could say, I had rather lick Salt at Athens, than feast with Craterus. Diogenes had more content with his Tub to shelter him from the injuries of the weather, and with his wooden dish, to eat and drink in, than Alexander had with the conquest of half the world; and the fruition of all the honors, pomps, treasures and pleasures of Asia.

The way to true riches (faith Plato) is not to encrease our beaps but to diminish the covetoufness of our bearts.

And faith Seneca, Cui cum paupertate bene convenit, pauper non

eft. A contented min cannot be a poor man.

I have read of another Philosopher, who seeing a Prince going by, with the greatest pomp and state imaginable; he said to some about him, See how many things I have no need of

And faith another, It were well for the world, if there were no Gold in it. But fince its the fountain whence all things flow; its to be defired, but only as a pals, to travel to our journeys end without begging.

When Crafus King of Lydia, asked Solon (one of the feven wife men of Greece) who in the whole world was more

happ

Epictetus Enchirid, 6.21. happy than he? Solon answered, Tellus, who though he was a poor man, yet he was a good man, and content with that which he had.

So Cato could say, (as Aulus Gellius reports of him) I have neither House, nor Plate, nor Carments of price, in my hands; what I have, I can use: if not, I can want it. Some blame me, because I want many things; and I blame them, because they cannot want. Now shall Nature do more than Grace? Shall the poor blinded Heathen, outstrip the knowing Christian? O Sirs, he that can lose his will in the will of God, as to the things of this world; he that is willing to be at Gods allowance; he that has had much, but can now be satisfied with a little; he that can be contented to be at Gods sinding; he is of all men the most likely man to have all his losses made up to him. But,

8. Eighthly and

Eighthly and lastly, Are your hearts more drawn out, to have this stery dispensation functified to you, than to have your losses made up to you? Do you strive more with God, to get good by this dreadful Judgement; than to recover your lost goods, and your lost states? Is this the daily language of your fouls, Lord let this stery calamity be so fanctified, as that it may eminently issue in the mortifying of our sins, in the encrease of our Graces, in the mending of our hearts, in the reforming of our lives, and in the weaning of our souls from every thing below thee; and in the fixing of them upon the great things of Eternity? If it be thus with you, its ten to one but God even this world, will make up your losses to you. But,

6.

The fixth Support to bear up the hearts of the people of God, under the late fiery dispensation, is this, viz. That by fiery dispensations, the Lord will make way for the new Heavens and the new Earth: he will make way for the clorious deliverance of his people, Isa 66.15.16.22. For behold, the Lord will come with five, and with his Chariots like a whirle-wind, to render his anger with fury, and his rebuke with flames of fire. For by fire, and by his sword, (or by his sword,

Isa. 9. 5, 6. Psalm 66. 12.

Sword of fire) will the Lord plead with all flesh, and the flain of the Lord shall be many. For as the new beavens, and the new earth which I will make, Shall remain before me, faith the Lord, fo shall your feed and your name remain. The great and the glorious things that God will do for his people in the last dayes, are let forth by new heavens and new earth; and these God will bring in by tiery dispensations. The glori ous ditate of the universal Church of I ws and Gentiles on earth, is no lower, an effate, than that of a new heaven and a new earth. Now this bleffed Church-State is ushered into the world by firry Judgements. By fiery dispensations God will put an end to the glory of this old world, and bring in the new. Look as God by a watery Deluge made way for one new world, so by a fiery Deluge, in the last of the last dayes, he will make way for another new world; wherein shall dwell righteousness, as Peter speaks. All men in common speech, call a new great change, a new world. By fiery dispensations God will bring great changes upon the world, and make way for his Sons reign, in a more glorious manner than ever he has yet reigned in the world. Rev. 18 Chap. 19. Chap. 20. and Chap. 21. The fumm of that I have in thort to offer to your consideration out of these Chapters is this. Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen. How much she bath glorified ber felf, fo much forrow and tormeni shall be given her. Her plagues come in one day, death and mourning and famine, and the shall be utterly burnt with fire. Rejoyce over her thou beaven, and ye boly Apostles and Prophets, for God hath avenged you on ber. And after thefe things, I beard a great voice of much people, &c. Saying, Allelniab, Salvation, and glory, and bonour, and power unto the Lord our God; for true and righteous are thy judgements, for be bath judged the great Whore that bath corrupted the earth, and hath avenged the blood of his Saints. And again they faid Alleluiab. And the four and twenty Elders faid Amen, Alleluiab. And I beard as it were the voyce of a great multitude, and as the voyce of many waters, and as the voyce of mighty thunderings, faying, Allelwiah; for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. And the Beaft and the falle Prophet were cast into the lake of fire : And the rest were flain with the Goord.

Ifa. 65. 17. Joel 2. 1,2, 3, 4, 5, 30, 31, 32. Zeph. 3. 8, 9.

2 Pet. 3. 10, 11, 12, 13.

Gen. 9.
See our new Anotationists on Is 2. 65.
Is 17.
on Chap. 66.
Is, 16, 22.
and on Rev.

sword. But the Saints reigned with Christ a thousand years, in the new Heavens, and new Earth, to whom the Kings of the earth, and Nations of the world bring their bonour. God by his fiery dispensation upon Babylon, makes way for Christs Reign, and the Saints Reign in the New Heavens and new Earth. But,

Pfalm 50, 3.

The seventh Support to bear up the hearts of the people of God under the late fiery dispensation is this, viz. That by fiery dispensations God will bring about the ruine and destruction of his and his peoples enemies. Pfal. 97. 3. A fire goeth before him, and burneth up his enemies round about. Hab. 3. 5. Before bim went the Pestilence, and ourning coals went forth at his feet. Ver. 7. I sow the tents of Cushan in affliction: and the curtains of the Land of Midian did tremble. Ver. 12. Thou didft march through the Land in indignation, thou didft thresh the Heathen in anger. Ver. 13. Thou wentest forth for the Calvation of thy people; even for salvation with thine anointed, thou woundest the head out of the house of the wicked by discovering the foundation even to the neck. Selah. Jer. 50. 31, 32. Behold, I am against thee, O thou most proud, faith the Lord God of Hofts: for thy day is come, the time that I will vifit thee. And the most proud shall sumble and fall; and none Ball raise bim up : and I will kindle a fire in his Cities ; and it shall devour all round about bim. There is nothing more fearfull or formidable, either to man or beaft, than fire; and therefore by fiery dispensations God will take vengeance on the wicked. This will be the more evident, if you please but to consider, to what the wicked are compared in Scripture,

First, They are compared to stubble and chasse which the fire doth easily consume, Isa. 5. 24. Therefore as the fire devouresh the stubble, and the stame consumeth the chasse; so their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as dust. Nah. 1.10. For while they be folden regester as thorns, and while they are drunken as drunkards, they shall be devoured as stubble fully dry. Mark that word fully dry, and so as it were prepared and fitted for the flames.

Secondly, The wicked are compared to thorns: and how eafily castly doth the flaming fire consume them? Isa. 27. 4. Fury is not in me: Who would fet the bryars and thorns against me in Battel ? I would go through them, I would butn them together. 162. 33. 12. And the people (hall be as the burnings of lime; as thorns out up shall they be burnt in the fire. Mark, 'tis not faid as thorns standing and rooted in the earth, and growing with their moisture about them; but as thorns cut up, as dead and dry thorns which are easily kindled and confumcd. Oc.

Thirdly, The wicked are compared to the melting of was before the fire, and to the paffing away of smoak before the wind, Micab 1. 4. Pfal 8. 2.

Fourthly and laftly. The sudden and certain ruine of the wicked, is fet forth by the melting of the fat of Lambs before the fire, Plal 37: 20. But the wicked hall perift, and the enemies of the Lord hall be as the fat of Lambs (which of all fat is the most easiest melted before the fire,) they faill consume, into fmook shall they confume away. The fat of Lambs in the Lev. 3. 15, 16, Sacrifices was wholly to be burnt and conformed: Thus you 17. fee by the feveral things to which wicked men are compared, that God by fiery calamities will bring ruine and d fructi on upon his and his peoples enemies. Such as have burnt the people of God out of house and home, may in this world have burning for burning. God loves to retaliate Judg. 1. 6, 7. upon his peoples enemies. Such as have clapt their hands at the fight of Londons flames, may one day, lay their hands upon their loins; when they shall find Divine Justice appearing in A mes of fire against them. But,

The eighth support to bear up the hearts of the people of God under the late fiery dispensation is this: viz. That all shall end well, all shall work for good. God by this fiery dispensation, will do his people a great deal of good. God cast Judib into an Iron furnace, into a fiery furnace, but it was for their good, Jer. 24.5. Like thefe, good figs, fo will 1 acknowledge them that are carried away captive of Judah, whom I have fent out of this place, into the Land of the Chaldeans for their good. Plalm 119. 71. It is good for me, that I have been 3.

2 Consult these Scriptures, Ifa. 1. 25. Chap. 27, 8, 9, 10, 11. Zech. 13. 9. Heb. 12, 10. Holea 2.6. Acts 14. 22. John 16. ult. ler. 29. 11.

afflilled. Though afflictions are naturally evil, yet they are morally good; for by the wife, fanctifying, over-ruling Providence of God, they shall either cure the Saints of their spiritual evils, or preserve them from spiritual evils, Though the Elements are of contrary qualities, yet Divine Power and Wisdom hath so tempered them, that they all work in an harmonious manner, for the good of the Universe. So though fore afflictions, though fiery tryals seem to work quite cross and contrary to the Saints Prayers and defires, yet they shall be so ordered and tempered by a skilful and omnipotent hand, as that they shall all issue in the Saints good. At the long-run by all forts of fiery tryals, the Saints shall have their sins more weakned, their Graces more improved, and their experiences more multiplied, their evidences for Heaven more cleared, their communion with God more raised, and their hearts and lives more amended. God by fiery tryals will keep off from his people more cryals: God loves by the Cross to secure his people from the curse; and certainly 'tis no bad exchange, to have a cross instead of a curse. God lead the Israelites about and about in the Wilderness forty years together, but it was to humble them, and prove them, and do them good in their latter end. God lead them through fire and water, that is, through variety of fore and sharp afflictions, but all was in order to his bringing them forth into a wealthy place. God fript Fob to his Shift, but it was in order to his clotheing of him in Scarlet: he brought him low, but it was in order to his raising him higher than ever : he set him upon a Dunghil, that he might the better fit him to fit upon a Throne. Joseph is not, and Simeon is not, and ye will rake Benjamin away: all these things are against me, faith old Facob; but yet as old as he was, he lived to fee all working for his good, before he went to his long home. Under all fiery dispensations. God will make good that Golden Promise, Rom. 8. 28. And we know that all things work together for good, to them that love God. Mark, the Apostle doth not say, we suppose, or we hope, or we conjecture, but we know. I know, and you know, and all the Saints know by daily experience, that

Deut. 8. 2. 16.

Pfal. 66. 12.

Compare the first and last Chapter of Fob together.

Gen. 42.36.

all-their lufferings and afflictions work together for their good : the Apolile doth not fay de futuro, they shall work, but de prafenti, they do work. All second causes work together with the first cause for their good who loves God, and who are called according to his purpose. The Greek word ourseza, work together, is a Phylical expression. Look as several poisonful ingredients put tog ther, being well tempered and mixed by the skill and care of the prudent Apothecary, makes a Soveraign Medicine, and work together for the good of the Patient. So all the affictions and sufferings that befall the Saints, they shall be so wisely, so divinely tempered, ordered and fanctified by a hand of Heaven, as that they shall really, and fignally work for their good. Those dreadful Providences which feem to be most prejudicial to us, shall in the issue prove most beneficial to us. Look as vessels of Gold are made by fire, so by fiery dispenfations, God will make his people Veffels of Gold, veffels of Honour. Commonly the most afflicted Christians, are the most golden Christians, Zechary 13. 9 And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as filver is refined; and will try them as gold is tried : they shall call on my name, and I will bear them : I will say it is my people, and they shall fay, the Lord is my God. The fire of London was rather Phylick, than Poison; there was more of a Paternal chastisement, than there was of an extingating vengeance in it : and therefore certainly it shall work well, it

Gen. 50, 20.

2 Tim. 2. 20,

The ninth Support to bear up the hearts of the people of God under the late fiery dispensation, is this, viz. That there was a great mixture of mercy in that dreadful Judgement of fire that has turned London into a ruinous heap. At the final deftruction of Jerufalem there was not one fione left up- Luke 19, 41. on another. This might have been thy case O London, had 45. not mercy triumphed over Justice, and over all the plots and deligns of men. Though many thouland houles are destroyed, yet to the praise of free grace, many thousand houses in the City and Subusbs have been preserved from

Gen. 19.

Pfalm 136.23.

Lam. 1. 18.

Josh. 2. 9,10,

the rage and violence of the flames. What a mercy was that, that Zoar should be standing, when Sodom was laid in ashes? And what a mercy was this, that your houses should be standing, when so many thousand houses have been laid de folité? Is more than a third, part of the City deffroyed by fire? Why the whole City might have been destroyed by fire, and all the Suburbs round about it. But in the midft of wrath, God has remembred mercy: in the midft of great feverity God has exercised great clemency. Had the fire come on with that rage, fury and triumph, as to have laid both City and Suburbs level; we must have said with the Church. The Lord is righteous. Had the three Children their Songs in the midflot the fiery Furnace? and why should not they have their Songs of praise, whose houses by a miraculous Providence were preserved in the midst of Londons sames. O Sirs, what a mixture of mercy was there in this fiery calamity that all your lives, should be spared, and that many of your houses should be preserved, and that much of your goods, your wares, your commodities, thou'd be fratcht as fo many fire-brands out of the fire, If ever there were an obligation put upon a people, to cry Grace, Grace, Grace, the Lord has put one upon you, who have been sharers in that mixture of mercy, that God has extended to the many thoufand fufferers by Landons flames. Had this Judgement of fire been inflicted, when the raging Peffilence Iwept away Come thousands every Week, and when the City was even left naked as to her inhabitants, and when the whole Nation was under a dreadful fear, crembling and dismayedness of spirit, might therenot have been far greater desolations both of houses, goods and lives, in the midst of us? Had God conrended with London by Pestilence and fire at once, who would have lodged your persons in their beds, or your goods in heir Barns? Had thefe two dreadful Judgements met Londoners would have met with but few friends in the world! Well, when I look upon Londons fins and deferts on the one hand, and upon the principles, old hatred plots deligns, rage and wrath of forme malicious persons, on the other hand, inflead of wondering, that so much of the City and Suburbs

Ezek. 25. 15.

Suburbs is defiroved; Trather wonder, that any one house Tacitus writing in the City or Suburbs is preferved. Whilft London was in flames, and all men under a high distraction, and all things in a fad confusion, a secret, subtle, designing, powerful enemy might have rifen up in the midft of you, that might have spoiled your goods, ravished your wives, defloured your daughters; and after all this have sheathed their swords in all your bowels: and in that it fell not out thus, what caule have Londoners to bow for ever before preventing and reffraining Grace. Since the creation of the world, God has never been to fevere in the execution of his most dreadful Judgements, as not to remember mercy in the midst of wrath. When he drowned the old world-(who before were drowned in lusts and pleasures) he extended mercy to Noab and his family. When he rained Hell out of Heaven upon Sodom and Gomorrab, turning those rich and pleasant Gen. 19. Cities into ruinous heaps, he gave Lot and his Daughters their lives for a prey. And when by fire and fword, he had made Ferufalem a dreadful spectacle of his wrath and venge- Isa. 6. 11, 12, ance, yet then a remnant did escape. This truth we Citizens have experienced, or elfe we and our all, before this day had been destroyed. Every Citizen should have this Motto written in characters of Gold on his fore head, It is of the Lords mercies that we are not consumed. God might have made London like Sodom and Gomorrah; but in the day of his anger fome beams of his favour darted forth upon your London. By which means, the hopes of some are so far revived, as to expect, that London yet may be re-built and bleft. That's a dreadful word, When he begins be will make an end: and the fire of his wrath shall burn, and none shall quench it: These eradicating Judgements had certainly fallen upon London, had not the Lord in the midft of his fury remembred mercy. If the Lord had not been on our fide may London now Pfalm 124. 1, fay, if the Lord had not been on our fide when the fire role up against us, then the fire had swallowed us up quick, when its rage was kindled against us. Doubtles God nenever mingled a cup of wrath with more mercy than tell upon Sadam and Gosserrah sidt of Rome, faith Sequitur clades, onnibas quid urbs pr violentiam igaium acciderar gravior ata; atrorior. Anal. lib. 15. p. - 91. It was rich mercy, that it was not fo with Lordon

Jer. 5. 10. 18.

Lam. 3. 22.

Sam. 3.12. Ter. 4. 4. Chap. 21. 12.

Though

Though the fire of London was a very great and dreadful fire, yet it was not so great, nor so dreadful a fire, as that of Sodom and Gomorrab was: for that fire of Sodom and Gomorrah.

They finned aga not the light and course of nature; and therefore, they were destroyed against the course of nature, by fire from Heaven, lie

First, It was a miraculous fire; a fire that was besides beyond and against the course of Nature, Gen. 19.24. Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and Gomorrah brimstone, and fire from the Lord out of Heaven, Fire mingled with brimtione hath been found, 1. Most obnoxious to the eyes, 2. Most loathform to the smell. And 3. Most fierce in burning. He hit the mark, who speaking of fire and brimtione, said Facillime incenditur, pertinacissime fervet, &c. Difficillime extinguitur. It is easily kindled, violently fuelled, and bardly extinquifbed. Brimstone and all that vast quantity of sulphureous hery matter, by which those rich and populous Cities were furned into ruinous heaps, were never produced by natutal causes, nor after a natural mainer, (no culinary fire being so speedy in its consumptions) but immediately by Gods own miraculous power and allmighty arm. But the fire that has laid London in ashes, was no such miraculous or extraordinary fire, but such a fire which Divine Providence permitted, and suffered to be kindled and carried on, by such means, instruments, and concurring circumstances, as hath buried our glory under heaps of ashes. But,

Secondly, The fire that fell upon Sodom and Gomorrah, confumed not only the greater part of those Cities, but the whole Cities: yea, and not only Sodom and Gomorrah, but all the Cities of the Plain (except Zoar which was to be a Sanchuary to Lot) but the fire of London has not destroyed the whole City of London. Many hundred (may I not say thousands) houses are yet standing, as monuments of Divine Power, Wisdom and goodness: and the greatest part of the Suburbs are yet preserved; and all the rest of the Cities of England are yet compassed about with loving kindness and mercy; and I hope will be reserved (by a gracious Providence) as shelters, as Sanchuaries, and as hiding places to poor Englands diffressed inhabitants. But, fume not only places; but persons; not only houses, but inhabitants; but in the midft of Londons flames, God was a Zech 2.5. wall of fire about the Citizens, in that day of his fiery indignation he was very tender of the lives of his people. Though the Lumber was burnt, yet God took care of his Treasure, of his Tewels; to wit, the lives of his people. But having spoken before more largely of this particular; let this touch now fuffice.

Thirdly, The fire that fell upon Sodom and Gomorrab did

3

Fourthly, Sodom and Gomorrab were destroyed by fire suddenly and unexpectedly; they were defroyed by fire in a moment, Lam. 4. 6. For the punishment of the iniquity of the daughter of my people, is greater than the punishment of the sin of Sodom, that was overthrown as in a moment, and no hands Sodom and Gomorrab sustained no long siege stayed on ber: from forreign forces, neither were they kept long in forrows and sufferings, in pains and milery, but they were quickly and fuddenly, and instantly dispatched out of this world into another world. Men had no hand in the destroying of Sodom, no mortal instrument did co-operate in that work. God by his own immediate power, overthrew them in a moment. Sodom was very strangely, suddenly, and unexpectedly, turned upfide down, as in a moment, by Gods own hand, without the help of armed Souldiers: Whereas the Chaldeans Armies continued for a long time in the Land of Judah, and in Ferufalem, vexing and plaguing the poor people of God. Now in this respect, the punishment of the lews. was a greater punishment, than the punishment of Sodom, that was overthrown as in a moment. But that fire that has turned London into a heap of ashes, was such a fire, that was carried on gradually, and that lasted four dayes. God giving the Cirizens time to mourn over their fins, to repent, to lay hold on everlasting strength, and to make peace with God. But.

Fifthly and laftly, Sodoms and Gomorrabs Judgement, is termed Eternal fire; which expression, as it refers to the Jude 7. places themselves, do import, that they were irrecoverably destroyed by fire; so as that they shall lye eternally waste. Those monstrous sinners of Sodom, had turned the glory of

The Judgemen's of God upon the Jews, were lo great, that they exceeded all credit amongst their neighbour Nations.

Daut. 29, 23.

Strabe, Solinus, Tacitus, Plinius, Jos phus, &c.

Zech. 12. 10.

Ifa.61. 3.

Ifa. 60. 1, 2.

God into shame; and therefore God will turn them both into a Hell here, and a Hell hereafter. God will punish unusual finners with unufual Judgements. The punishment by this fire is lafting, yea, everlafting: 'tis 'a standing monument of Gods high displeasure. We never read, that ever God repented himself of the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrab; those Cities are under a perpetual destruction; and so shall continue to the end of the world, if we will give credit to Authors of great credit and reputation. It well becomes the wifest and best of Christians, seriously to consider, how God setteth forth the destruction of his Churches enemies, Isa. 34. 8, 9, 10, 11. For it is the day of the Lords Vengeance, and the year of recompences; for the controversie of And the streams thereof shall be turned into Pitch, and the dust thereof into Brimstone; and the Land thereof Bill become burning Pitch. It shall not be quenched night nor day: the smoke thereof shall go up for ever : from generation to generation it shall lye waste, none shall pass through it for ever and ever. But the Cormorant and the Bittern shall possisit; the Owle also and the Raven shall dwell in it; and he shall stretch out upon it the line. of confusion, and the stones of emptiness. In these words, you have a rhetorical description, of that extream devastation that God will bring upon the enemies of the Church, in way of allusion to the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrab. But I hope Landons doom is not fuch; for God has given to thousands of her inhabitants a Spirit of Grace and Supplication: which is a clear evidence, that at the long run; they shall certainly carry the day with God. I have faith enough to believe, that God will give Landons mourners, beauty for ashes, the oyle of joy for mourning, and the garment of praise, for the spirit of heaviness. And that London may yet be called a City of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he may be glorified. I hope that God will one day fay to London, Arise, shine, for the light is come, and the glory of the Lord is rifen upon thee, the Lord shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be feen upon thec. By what has been faid, 'tis evident enough, that there has been a great mixture of mercy, in that fiery dispensation, that has past upon London, And there-therefore why should not this consideration bear up the hearts of the people of God, from fainting and finking under their present calamity and misery. But,

The tenth Support to bear up the hearts of the people of God, under the late fiery dispensation, is this, viz; That there are worse Judgements, than the Judgement of fire, which God might, but has not inflicted upon you. me evidence the truth of this in these five particulars.

First, The bloody Sword is a more dreadful Judgement, than that of fire. Fire may consume a mans house, and his Now at what estate; but the Sword cuts off a mans life. a poor rate, do men value the whole world, when it stands in competition with their lives. He very well knew, that man was a very great life lover, who faid, Skin for skin (or skin upon skin) and all that a man hath, will be give for bis life. God might have brought upon England, I, and upon London too, the Sword of a forreign enemy, as he did upon ferusalem and the Land of Judea. In that one only City of Ferusalem; during the time of the fiege by Vehalians Armies, which were made up of Romans, Syrians and Arabians, there died and were killed, a thousand thousand. At this time there were flain in all Judea, in several places, to the number of twelve hundred and forty thousand Jews. The whole City of Ferusalem flowed with blood, intomuch that many parts of the City that were fet on fire, were quenched by the blood of them that were flain. In feventeen years time the Carthaginian War only in Italy, Spain and Sicily, confumed and wasted, fifteen hundred thousand men. The Civil Wars between Pompey and Cafar, swallowed down three hundred thousand men. Caius Casar did confessit, and gloried in it, that eleven hundred ninety and two thousand men were killed by him in Wars. Pompey the great writ upon Minerva's Temple, that he had scattered, chased and killed twenty hundred eighty and three thousand men. Q. Fabius killed an hundred and ten thousand of the Gauls. C. Marius put to the sword two hundred thousand of the Cimbrians. Aetius in that memorable battle of Catalonia, flew an hundred Mm 2 fixty fixty and two thousand Hunnes. Who can number up the many thousands, that have fallen by the bloody sword in Europe, from the year 1620. to this year 1667. Ah London, London, thy Streets might have flowed with the blood of the flain; as once the Streets of Ferusalem, Paris, and others have done. Whilst the fire was a devouring thy stately houses and Palaces, a Forreign Sword might have been a destroying thine inhabitants. Whilst the surious stames were a confurning thy goods, thy wares, thy fubstance, thy riches, a close and secret enemy, spirited, counselled, and animated from Rome and H. Il, might have rifen up in the midft of thee; that might have mingled together the blood of Husbands and Wives, and the blood of Parents and Children, and the blood of Masters and Servants, and the blood of rich and poor, and the blood of the honourable with the blood of the vile. Now had this been thy doorn, O London (which many feared, and others expected) what a dreadful day would that have been! 'Tis better to see our houses on fire, then to fee our Streets running down with the blood of the But, flain.

Tob 2. 4.

Fosephus de Bello. Fud.

Gen. 45. 46. Joel 1. 2. Chap. 2. 3. Jer. 24. 10. Ezek. 6. 11. 2 Sam. 21, 1.

Lam, 2.11,12.

Verse 19.

Verse 20.

Chap. 4. 4, 5

Secondly, God might have inflicted the Judgement of famine upon London; which is a more dreadful Judgement, than that of fire. How sad would that day have been, O London, if thou hadft been so forely put to it, as to have taken up that sad lamentation of weeping Jeremiah, Mine eyes do fail with tears: my bowels are troul led, my liver is poured upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people: because the children and the sucklings swown in the streets. They say to their Mothers, where is corn and wine, when they swooned as the wounded in the streets of the City. When their soul was poured into their Mothers bosom. Arise, cry out in the night: in the beginning of the watches pour out thine beart like water before the face of the Lord: lift up thy hands towards him, for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger, in the top of every street. Shall the woman eat her fruit, and children of a span The tongue of the suckling child cleaveth to the roof of his mouth for thirst: the young children ask bread, and no man breaketh it unto them. They that did feed delicately, are defolate in the freets : they that were brought up in skarlet embrace dungbils. Her Nazarites were purer than fnow, they were whiter Verfe 7. than milk, they were more ruddy in the body than rubies : their polishing was of Sathir. Their visage is blacker than a coal! Veise &. they are not known in the streets; their skin cleaveth to their bones : it is withered, it is become like a flick. They that be flain with the fword, are better than they that be flain with Verse 9. hunger: for thise pine away, stricken through for want of the fruits of the field. The hands of the pitiful women have fodden Verle 10. their own children, they were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people. We have drunken our water for mo- Chap. 5 4. ney, our wood is fold unto us. We have given the hand to the Verle 6. Egyptians and Assyrians to be satisfied with bread. We gat our bread with the peril of our lives, because of the sword of the Wildernefs. Our skin was black like an Oven, because of the ter Verse 10. rible famine. So great was the famine in Ferusalem, that a Lib. 6. c. 16. Bushel of Wheat was fold for a talent, which is six hundred Crowns, and the dung and raking of the City Sinks was held good commons: and fuch pinching necessities were they under, that they acted against all piety, honesty, humanity, Oc. Women did eat their children of a span long: yea, the hands of pittiful women did boyl their own children; and meneat one other: yea, many did eat the flesh of their own arms, according to what the Lord had long before threatned, Isa. 9.19, 20. Through the wrath of the Lord of Hofts, is the Land darkned: and the people shall be as the fuel of the fire: no man shall spare his brother. And he shall snatch on the right hand, and be hungry; and he Ball eat on the left hand, and they shall not be satisfied: they shall eat every man the flesh off bis own arm. In the Reign of William the first, there was lo Sr. Richard Bagreat a Dear hand famine, especially in Northumberland, that bers Chronomen were glad to eat Horses, Dogs, Cats and Rats, and what elle is most abhorrent to nature. In Honoring's Reign, there was such a scarcity of all manner of provision in Rome, that men were even afraid of one another; and the common voice that was heard in the Kirk, was, Pone pretium bumanæ carni: Set a price on mans flesh. In Italy when it was wasted by the Gothi, under Justinian, the famine was so Mm 3 great, cle. p. 26.

'de Bello_ Fuda-

great, that in Picene only, fifty thousand persons died with

All these things do the Histories of Spain report.

Thucyd.

Polyb.

Türk. Hift. Fol. 18.

Toid. 426.

Val. Max. 1.7. cap. 6. Turk. Hift.

2 Kings 6. 25.

nunger: and not only mans flesh was made meat of, but the very excrements of men alfo. In the Reign of Hubid King of Spain, there was no rain for fix and twenty years together, so that the drought was so great, that all the Fountains and Rivers, except Iber and Betis were dried up; so that the earth gaped in several places, that whole fields were parted; and that many who had thought to have fled into other parts, were hindered, and could not get passage over these searful openings of the earth. Hereby Spain, especially those places nearest the Mediterranean Sea, being stripped naked of all Herbs, and the glory of Trees being dryed up (-except a few Trees which were preserved upon the banks of the River Betie) men and Beafts being confumed with thirst and famine, was turned by this Judgement, into a miscrable solitude and Wilderness. The Royal line of the Kings, was by this means extinct: and the poorer fort of men, whose means were short, and provision small, went into other places, as they could conveniently, and with all speed, not being able to fland or flay out this fix and twenty years milesy. In the Peleponnesian War, at Poridea, men eat one another. When Utica was befieged by Amilear the Father of Hannibal, men eat one another, the famine was so great amongst them. At Antioch in Syria, many of the Christians (in the Holy War) through famine, devoured the dead bodies of the late flain enemies. At the siege of Scodra; Horses were dainty meat; yea, they were glad to eat Dogs, Cats, Rats, and the skins of beafts fod. A little Mouse, and Puddings made of Dogs guts, was fold at fo great's price, as exceeds all credit. When Hannibal befreged Cassilinum, the famine was so great, that a Moule was fold for two hundred groats, that is, for three pound eighteen shillings and eight pence. That was a fore famine in Samaria, when an Asses head was fold for eighty pieces of filver; that is, fay fome, for four or five pound: Others fay ten; for a shekel of silver was with the Jews, as much as two shillings fix pence with us : by this account, an Asses head was sold for ten pound sterling. In Edward the Seconds time, Anno 1316. There was fo great great a famine, that horses, dogs, yea, men and children were tioln for food, and the Thieves newly brought into the Gaols, were torn in pieces, and eaten presently, half alive by fuch as had been longer there. In War, Oppression, Cap. i vity, and many other calamities, much of the hand of man is to be seen, but Famine is a deep, evident and apparent Judgement, which God himfelf brings upon the fons of men, by his own high hand. Many, or most of those calamitics that are brought upon us by humane means, are avoidable by humane helps: but famine is that comprehensive Judgement, that the highest power on earth cannot help agair. At. If the Lord do not help thee, whence shall beip thee? out of the barn flor, or out of the Wine press? faid the King of Ifra: l in the famine of Samaria. Ah Lindon, London, if the Lord had inflicted upon thy inhabitants this fore Judgement of famine, making the Heavens as Iron, and the Earth as Brass. If the Lord had cut off all thy delightful and necessary provisions, and thy Citizens had been forced to eat one another, or every one to eat the flesh of his own arms, and the fruit of his own body; how difinal would thy condition have been. Certainly such as have been fwept away by the raging Pestilence ashore, and such as have been slain by the bloody (word at Sea, might very well be counted happ/ in comparison of those who should live and die under that lingering Judgement of a famine: Doubtless samine is a sorer Judgement, than either Sword, Eire, or Pestilence. There be many deaths in a Dearth. Famine is the top of all bumane calamities: as Bafil termeth it: extream hunger hath made Mothers Murtherers, and so turned the Sanctuary of life into the Shambles of death.

Toirdly, God might have overturned London and her inhabitants in a moment by some great and dreadful Earthquake, as he hash done several great, rich, strong and populous Cities and Towns in sormer times. Under Tiberius the Emperour, thirteen Cities of Asia sell down with an Earth-quake: and six under Trajan; and twelve under Constantine. In Campania, Ferraria in Italy 1569, in the space of sorty hours, by reason of an Earthquake, many Palaces, Parch.Pilgrim. p. 189. Speed. 6, 4.

2 Kings 6 27

Lev. 26, 19. Hab. 3. 17. Deut. 28, 23.

3

Ifa. 13.13, Pfalm 18. 7.

Fardentius.

Bodia.

St. Richard Bakers Chronocle, p. 47.

Hoveden.

Sr. Richard Bakers Chronocle, p. 65.

See the Relation in Print.

Polan. Syntag. 841. Temples and houses were overthrown, with the loss of many a man, the loss amounting to forty hundred thousand pounds. In the year 1171, there was such a mighty Earthquake, that the City Tripolis, and a great part of Damaseus in Antiochia, and Hulcipre, the chief City in the Kingdom of Loradin, and other Cities of the Saragens, either perished utterly, or were wonderfully defaced. In the year 1509, inthe moneth of September, there was so great an Earthquake at Constantinople, that there were thirteen thousand men destroyed by it, and the City miscrably shattered and ruined by it. In the Reign of Henry the first, the earth moved with so great a violence, that many buildings were shaken down; and Malmesbury faith, That the house wherein he sate, was lifeed up with a double remove, and at the third time fettled again in the proper place. Allo in divers places it yielded forth a hideous noise, and cast forth flames. In Lombardy there was an Earthquake, that continued forty dayes, and removed a Town from the place where it flood, a great way off. In the eleventh year of the Reign of King Henry the fecond, on the fix and twentieth day of January, was so great an Earthquake, in Ely, Norfolk, and Suffolk, that it overthrew them that stood upon their feet, and made the Bells to ring in the Steeples. In the four and twentieth year of his Reign, in the Territory of Derlington, in the Bishopwrick of Durham, the earth lifted up her felf in the manner of an high Tower, and so remained unmoveable from morning till evening, and then fell with so horrible a noise, that it frighted the inhabitants thereabouts, and the earth swallowing it up, made there a deep pit, which is feen at this day: for a testimony. whereof, Leyland faith, he saw the Pits there, commonly called Hell-Keitles. In the year 1666. the City of Raguza was overthrown by a most dreadful Earthquake, and all the inhabitants (which were many thoulands) except a few hundied were destroyed, and buried in the ruines of that City. At Bern, Anno 1584. near unto which City a certain Hill, carried violently beyond and over other Hills, is reported by Polanus (who lived in those parts) to have covered a whole Village that had ninety families in it, one half house only excepted, wherein the Master of the Family, with his Wife and Children, were earnestly calling upon God. Oh the terror of the Lord! and Oh the power of fervent prayer. At Pleures in Rhetia, Anno 1618. Aug. 25. the whole Town was over- Alf. Chronol. covered with a Mountain, which with its most swift motion, oppressed fifteen hundred. In the dayes of Uzziah King Amos I. I. of Indah, there was such a terrible arthquake, that the people with fear and horror fled from it. Zech. 14. 5. Yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from before the Earthquake in the dayes of Uzziah King of Judah. The Jewish Doctors affirm, that this amazing Earthquake fell out, just at that instant time, when Uzziah offered Incense, and was therefore smitten with a Leprosie: but this is but their conjecture. However this dreadful Earthquake was an horrible fign and prefage of Gods wrath to that finful people. Josephus tells us, that by Atiq. 1.9. it, half a great hill was removed out of its place, and carried four furlongs another way; so that the High-way was obstructed, and the Kings Gardens utterly marted. same Author further tells us, that at that time, that Cefar and Anthony made tryal of their Titles in the Adian War, (and in the leventh year of the Reign of King Herod) there happened fuch an Earthquake in the Countrey of Judes, that never the like was feen in any other place: fo that divers Beafts were flain thereby, and that ten thousand men were overwhelmed and destroyed in the ruines of their houses. The same Author faith, that in the midft of the Adian War; Tosephus lib. 1. about the beginning of the Spring time, there happened fo c. 14. de Bello great an Earthquake, as flew an infinite multitude of Beales, Judaico. and thirty thousand people: yet the Army had no harm, for it lay in the open Field. Upon the report of this dreadful Earthquake, and the effects of it, the Arabians were fo highly encouraged, that they entered into Judea, Supposing that there were no men left alive to relift them, and that they should certainly conquer the Countrey: and before their coming, they flew the Embaffadors of the Jews that were fent unto them. Ah London, London, if the Lord had by some terrible Earthquake utterly overthrown thee, and buried all thy inhabitants under thy ruines (as he hath dealt dealt by many Cities and Citizens, both in former, and in these latter times) how dreadful would thy case then have been, over what now it is. Certally such Earthquakes as overwhelm both Cities and Citizens, are far greater Judgements, than such a fire, or fires, that only consumes mens houses, but never hurts their persons. God might have inflicted this fore Judgement upon thee, O London, but he has not; therefore it concerns thee to be still a crying Grace, Grace. But,

The L. 15. 6. 7.

Such Virgins that had been defloured, the Heathen buied a live, accounting that the forest of all punishments.

Fosephus Antiq.l.4.c.3..

Fourthly, God might have inflicted that Judgement, both upon City and Citizens, that he did upon Korah, Dathan and Abiram, and all that appertained to them, Numb. 16. 31, 32, 33, 34. And it came to pass, as he had made an end of speaking all thefe words, that the ground clave affunder, that was under them: And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their houses, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods. They and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them: and they perished from among the Congregation. And all Israel that were round about them, fled at the cry of them: for they faid, lest the earth smallow us up alfo. Whilft Moses spake these words (faith Fosephus) and intermixed them with tears, the earth trembled, and Thaking began to remove (after fuch a manner, as when by the violence of the wind a great billow of the Sea floateth and is toffed hither and thither) hereat all the people were amized, but after that a horrible and thattering noise was made about their Tents, and the earth opened and swallowed up both them and all that which they esteemed dear, which was after a manner so exterminate, as nothing remained of theirs to be beheld. Whereupon in a moment the earth closed again; and the vast gaping was fast shut; so as there appeared not any sign of that which had hapned. Thus perished they all, leaving behind them an example of Gods Power and Judgements. And this accident was the more miscrable, in that there were no one, no not of their kinsfolks or allies that had compaffion of them: to that all the people whatfoever, forgetting those things which were past, did allow Gods Justice with joyful joyful acclamations, effeeming them unworthy to be b.moaned, but to be held as the plague and perverters of the O what a dreadful Judgement was this, for persons to be buried alive; for houses, and inhabitants; and all their goods, to be swallowed up in a moment. What tongue can express, or heart conceive, the terror and astonishment that fell upon Korab, Dathan and Abiram, when the earth (which God had made firm, and established by a perpetual Decree to stand fast under mens feet, was weary of bearing them, and therefore) opened her mouth and swallowed them, and all their concernments up. Ah London, London, If the earth had opened her mouth, and swallowed up all thy houses and inhabitants, with all thy goods and riches in a moment? Would not this have been ten thousand thousand times a greater Judgement, than that fiery dispensation that has past upon thee? But, Sing I may a go to Fifthly and lastly, God might have rained Hell out of Heaven upon you, as he did upon Sodom and Gom rrah: and this would have been a forer Judgement, than what he has inflicted upon you. If God by raining fire and brimftone from Heaven, had confumed your persons, houses, riches and relations, would not this have been the heighth of Judgement, and infinitely more terrible and dreadful to you, than that fiery dispensation, that has consumed part of your effaces, and turned your houses into ashes? Now by these five things, 'tis most evident. That there are worse Judgements, than the Judgement of fire, which God in Justice might have infl cted upon you. But free mercy has fo interposed, that God has not stirred up all his wrath; and though he has severely punished you, yet it is less than your iniquities have deserved, Ezra 9. 13. and therefore let this contidera tion support and bear up your hearts under all your present forrows and fufferings. But,

Elevently, Though your houses are burnt, and your habtations laid desolate, yet your outward condition is not worse than Christs was when he was in the world. The estate and condition of Christ was low, yea, very low and N n 2

Gen. 19.

'II

Marth. 8. 20,

mean in this world. Witness his own relation when he was upon the earth; The Foxes bave boles, and the Birds of the air have nefts, of or refting places where they go to reft, as under a Tent, like as the Greek word properly imports,) But the Son of man bath not where to lay bis head. He doth not fay, Kings have Palaces, but I have none: nor he dos not fay, that rich men have Houses, and Lands and Lordships to entertain their followers, but I have none: But, the Foxes have boles, and the Birds of the air have nelts, but the Son of man bath not where to lay his head. Christ was willing to undeceive the Scribe, and to shew him his mistake: thou thinkest O Scribe, by following of me, to get riches, and honor, and preferment, and to be some body in the world, but thou art highly mistaken : for I have neither Silver nor Gold, Lands nor Lordships; no not so much as a house to put my head in. When I was born, I was born in a Stable and laid in a Manger: and now I live upon others, and am maintained by others: I am not rich enough, to pay my Tr. bute, and therefore do'nt deceive thy felf. The great Architect of the world had not a house to put his head in, but emptied himself of all, and became poor, to make us rich, not in goods, but in Grace; not in worldly wealth, but in the treasures of another world. He that was heir of both worlds, had not a house of his own, to put his head in. Christ lived poor, and died poor. he was born in another mans house, so he was buried in another mans Tomb. Aust observes, when Christ died, he made no Will, he had no Crown lands, only his Coat was left, and that the Souldiers parted amongst themselves. Are you houseless, are you penyless, are you poor and low, and mean in this world? So was Christ. Remember the servant is not greater than his Lord. 'Tis good scriously to posider upon that faying of Christ; The Disciple is not above bis Master, nor the servant above his Lord : It is enough for the Disciple, that he be as his Master; and the Servant as his Lord. If Foab the Lord General be in Tents, it is a shame for Uriah to take his case at home in a soft bed. It is unseemly to see the Head all begored with blood, and crowned with Thorns, and the members to be decked with Roses and Tewels.

Luke 2. 17. Chap. 8. 3. Marth. 17. 27

Phil. 2. 7. 2 Cor. 8. 9. Cirifti Paupertas meum est parrimonium. Ambros.

John 13. 16.

Matth. 10.

2 Kings 11. 11.

Tewels, and to smell of rich Odors, Spices and Persumes. Art thou in a worse condition, than Christ was in this world? Oh no, no. Why then doft thou murmur and complain? Why dost thou say, there is no forrow to thy forrow, nor no fuffering to the fuffering? O Sirs, it is honor enough, for the Disciples of Christ, to fare as Christ fared in this world. Why should the Servant be in a better condition than his Lord? Is not that Servant happy enough, that is equal with his Lord? Did the burnt Citizens but seriously aud frequently meditate and ponder upon the poverty and low estate of Christ whilst he was in this world: their hearts would be more calm and quiet under all their crosses and loffes, than now they are, But,

Twelfthly, Though your houses are burnt, and your habitations laid defolate, and you have no certain dwelling place, &c. yet your outward condition in this world, is not worse than theirs was, of whom this world was not worthy, Lam. 5. 2. Our ind ritance is turned to strangers, our bonses to Aliens. Plalm 107. 4, 5. They wandered in the Wilderness, in a folitary way, they found no City to dwell in, bungry and thirfty their souls fainted in them. 1 Cor. 4. 11. Even unto this present bour, we both bunger and thirft, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no certain dwelling place. Heb 11.37,38. They wandered about in theep skins and goat skins, being deftitute, afflitted, tormented. They wandered in defarts, and in mountains, and in dens, and in caves of the earth. Some of the learned, by their wandering up and down in Sheep skins and Goat skins, do understand their disguising of themselves, for their better fecurity. One well observes from the words, That they did chrylostome. not only wander, and were removed from their own habitation, but that they were not quiet, even in the Woods, Defarts, Mountains, Dens and Caves of the earth, but were hunted by their Persecutors, from Desart to Desart, and from Mountain to Mountain, and from Den to Den. and from one Cave to another.

But hereupon some might be ready to object and reply;

12.

Thefe

Object.

These were the very worst of the worst of men. Surely, these were very vile, hase and unworthy wretches, these were the great of sinners, &c.

Anfw.

On no, They were fuch (faith the Holy Ghost) of whom the world was not worthy. The Heathenish world, the poor, blind, ignorant, Atheittical world, the prophane, superstitious, Idolatrous, oppressing and persecuting world, was not worthy of them : that is, they were not worthy, 1. Of their presence and company. 2. They were not worthy of their prayers and tears. 3. They were not worthy of their counseland advice. 4. They were not worthy of their gracious lives and examples. In this Scripture, you may plainly fee, that their wandering up and down in Defarts, and on the Mountains, and in Dens, and in the Caves of the earth, is reckoned up amongst those great and dreadful things, that the Saints luffered in that world day. Those precious souls that dwelt in Caves and Dans, and wandered up and down in Sheep skins and Goat skins, might have rufiled in their Silks, Sattins, and Velvets; they might (Nebuchadnezzar like) have vaunted themselves on their stately Turrets and Palaces, if they would have wounded their contciences, and have turned their backs upon Christ and Religion. Now if the burnt up Citizens of London, would but feriously lay to heart, the sad dispensations of God towards his choicest worthies; then their hearts would neither faint, nor fink under their present losses, crosses and sufferings. But, Thirteenthly and lastly, There is a worse fire, than that which has turned London into a ruinous heap, viz the fire of Hell, which Christ has freed believers from. There is un quenchable fire, Matth. 3. 12. He will hurn up the chaffe with unquenchable fire. There is everlasting burnings, Isa. 33. 14. The sinners in Zion are asraid; searfulness hath surprized the Hypocrites: Who among us shall dwell with everlasting burnings. Wicked men, who are now the only burning

13.

Luke 3. 17. Matth. 18. 8.

Jolly fellows of the time, shall one day go from burning to Some devoue burning: from burning in fin, to burning in Hell: from burning in flames of lufts, to burning in flames of torment, except there be found repentance on their fides, and pardoning Grace on Gods. O Sirs, in this devouring fire in these everlasting burnings, Cain shall find no Cities to build, nor his posterity shall have no instruments of Musick to invent there; none shall take up the Timbrel, or Harp, or rejoyce at the found of the Organ. There Belfeszzar cannot drink Wine in Bowls, nor eat the Lambs out of the flock, nor the Calves out of the midft of the Stall. In everlasting burnings, there will be no merry company, to pass time away; nor no Dice, to cast care away: nor no Cellars of Wine, wherein to drown the finners grief. There is everlasting tire. Matth. 25. 41, Then shall be say also unto them on the left hand. depart from me ye cursed into everlisting fire prepared for the Devil and his Angels. This terrible sentence breaths out nothing but fire and brimitione, terror and horror, dread and wo. The last words that ever Christ will speak in this world, will be the most tormenting and amazing, the most killing and damning, the most stinging and wounding; De part from me: there is rejection: Pack, begone, get you out of my light, let me never fee your faces more. It was a heavy doom that was past upon Nebuchadnezzar, that he Dan 4.25. should be driven from the fociety of men, and in an extremity of a fortish melancholly, spend his time amongst the Beatts of the field: but that was nothing to this foul-killing word, depart from me. It was nothing to mens being cast out of the presence of Christ for ever. The remembrance of which, made one to pray thus, O Lord deliver me at the great day from that killing word Depart. And what faith another.

Personages caused this Scripture to be writ in letters of Gold upon their Chimney-pieces. B. of Betty in France in his. Draught of Eternity. Gen. 4. 17. Amos 6. 5. Job. 21. 12. Dan. 5 23. Amos 6. 4.

Bernard, in Pfal. 91.

Sphynx.

Bafil. Afc. Etic. c. 2. Chryfoft. in-Mal. Hom. 24

This word Depart, the Goats with horror hears, But this word Come, the Sheep to joy appears.

Bafil faith, That an alienation and utter separation from God. is more grievous than the pains of Hell. Chryfoftome faith, That the torments of a thousand Hells, if there were fo many, comes far Heb.12,22,23.

Acts 20. 38.

Curfings now are wicked mens Hymns: but in Hell they shall be their woes. Rev. 16. 9.

short of this one, to wit, to be turned out of Gods presence with a Non novi vos, I know you not. What a grief were it, here to be banisht from the Kings Court with Absolom, or to be turned out of doors, with Hagar and Ismael, or to be cast out of Gods presence with cursed Cain. But what is all this, to a mans being excommunicated, and cast out of the presence of God, of Christ, of the Angels, and out of the general Assembly of the Saints, and Congregation of the first born: to be feeluded from the presence of God, is of all miseries the greatest. The serious thoughts of this, made one say, Many do abhor Hell, but I esteem the fall from that glury, to be a greater punishment than Hell it felf; 'tis better to endure ten thousand Thunder-claps, than be deprived of the bearifical vision. Certainly the tears of Hell are not sufficient, to bewail the loss of Heaven. If those precious souls wept because they should see Pauls face no more; how deplorable is the eternal deprivation of the beatifical vision. Depart from me, is the first and worst of that dreadful sentence, which Christ shall pass upon sinners at last. Every syllable sounds horror and terror, grief and forrow, amazement and aftonishment to all whom it doth concern.

Te curfed: there is the malediction. But Lord if we must depart, let us depart bleffed. No, depart ye cursed : you have cursed others, and now you shall be curst your selves; you shall be curst in your bodies, and curst in your souls; you shall be curst of God, and curst of Christ, and curst of Angels, and curft of Saints, and curft of Devils, and curft of your companions. Yea, you shall now curse your very selves, your very fouls, that ever you have despised the Gospel, refuled the offers of Grace, scorned Christ, and neglected the means of your falvation. Oh finners, finners, all your curses, all your maledictions, shall at last recoyle upon your own fouls. Now thou curfest every man, and thing, that stands in the way of thy lusts, and that crosses thy deligns; but at last all the Curses of Heaven and Hell, shall meet in their full power and force upon thee. Surely that man is curfed with a witness, that is curfed by Christ him-CH.

But

But Lord, if we must depart, and depart cursed; Oh let Of this fire us go into some good place: No. Depart je imo everlasting fire. There is the vengeance and continuance of it. You shall go into hire, into everlatting fire, that shall neither confume at felf, nor confume you. Eternity of extremity, is the Hell of Hell. The fire in Hell is like that stone in Arcadis, which being once kindled, could never be quenched. If all the nies that ever were in the world wire contracted into one tire, how terrible would it be & Yet fuch a fire would be but as painted fire upon the Wall to the fire of Helle 1f it be fo fad a spectacle, to behold a mal factors flesh con furned by piece meales in a lingering fire; Ah, how fad, how dreadful would it be, to experience, what it is to lie in unquenchable fire; not for a day! a moneth or a year or a hundred, or a thousand years, but for ever and ever to If it were: faith One, but for a thousand years, I could bearit : but feeing it is for ecernity, this amazeth and affrighteth me. I am afraid of Hell, faith Another, because the Worm there never dies, and the fire never goes out. For to be torment ed without end, this is that which goes beyond all the bounds of desperation. Grievous is the torment of the damined, for the bitterness of the punishments, but it is more grievous, for the divertity of the punishments, but most grievous for the eternity of the punishments.

To lye in everlasting torments, to rour for ever for difquietness of heart; to rage for ever for madness of foul, to weep and grieve, and gnash the teeth for ever, is a milery beyond all expression, Bellarmine out of Barocius tells of a learned man, who after his death appeared to his friend, complaining that he was adjudged to Hell torments, (which (faith he) were they to last but a thou and thousand years, I should think it tollerable i but alas, they are cternal. And it is called evernal fire, Jude 7. I have read of a Prison among the Persians, which was deep, and wide, and dark, and out of which the Prisoners could never get; and therefore it was called by them Lethe, Forgetfulnels : this Pilon was a Paradice to Hell Mark, every thing that is conducible to the torments of the damned is eternal. God you had need of some Devil, or accuried wretch to descant, faith Cne.

Ifidor. clar. Orat. 12.

Dionyl. in 18. Apoca'ypf. Fel. 301.

Matth 25.ult.

De arte mo-that damns them is eternal, Ifa. 32. 14. Rom. 16. 26. 2. The fire that torments them, is evernal, Ifa. 30, 33. Cap. 66, 24. Jude 7. 2. The Prison and Chains that holds them, are eternal, Jude 6, 7, 13. 2 Pet. 2. 17. 4: The Worm that gnaws them is eternal, Mark 9. 44. Melandhon calls it a Hellish fury. 5. The sentence that shall be passed upon them. shall be eternal, Matth. 25. 41, 42. The fire of Hell is called a Burning Lake, R.v. 20, 15. Wholoever was not found write ten in the book of life, was cast into the lake of fire. You shall know, that fire is the most tormenting Element. Oh the most dreadful impressions, that it makes upon the flesh The Schoolmen diffingish thus of fire; they fay, there is ignis orderis fasoris. & terroris, fire of heat, of flench. and of terror; of heat, as in Mount Atna; of french, as in Mount Heda; of terror and fear : as ignis fulguris, the fire of lightning in America: All these fires they say are in Hell. But to let the Schoolmen pais. It is disputed among many of the learned, Whether there be material fire in Hell or no. That 'tis very probable, that there is material fire in Hell, or that which is full as terrible, or more terrible. may I suppose, be thus evidenced. First, The fire of Hell is frequently mentioned in the bleffed Scripture. Who Shall fay to bis Brother, thou Fool, Shall be in danger of Hell fire. At the day of Judgement the tares are burnt in the fire. Into this fire offending members are cast, Marth. 18. 18, 19. To this everlasting fire the Goats are adjudged, Matth, 25, 41. In this fire, those that worthin the Beaft are tormented. Rev. 14. 10. And the Sodomites at this very day, fuffer the vengeance of eternal fire, Jude 7. Into this fire shall all barren and unfruitful Christians be cast: Matth. 2. 10. And now also the Ax is laid unto the root of the trees, therefore every tree which bringeth forth not good fruit is become down, and cast into the fire. Negative goodness will never secure a man either from the Ax, or from the fire. Yez, every man and woman under Heaven, that keeps off from Christ. and that lives and dies out of Chrift, and that are never entered into a marriage union with Christ: they shall all be cast into this fire, John 15.6. If a man abide not in me be is Marth. 5. 22. Chap. 13. 40: cast forth as a branch that is mithered, and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned. Thus you see, how the Scripture runs. Now you know, that 'cit taself for us, to adhere to the very letter of the Scripture, unless evident and necessary occasion draw us from a literal interpretation of it. But,

1 Pet. 3. 19. Lucian faith. that it was the common opinion among them, that the wicked were held in chains by Pluto (so they call the Prince of Dèvils) in chains, which cannot be loofed.

Secondly, To this fire is ascribed Sulphur, flames, wood, 16. 30. 33. For Topbet is ordained of old (that is Hell, those terrible allusions to Topbet, to the shricks and yellings of those children that were sacrificed there, are but dark representations of the pain and miseries of the damned I yea, for the King it is prepared (If Princes be wicked, its neither their Power nor their Policy, their dignity or worldly glory, that can secure them from Topbet.) be bath made it deep and large: the pile thereof is fire and much wood, the breath of the Lord like of fream of brimstone, doth kindle it. Now he shall be an Apollo to me, that can shew me, where the Lord in his Word gives such properties to immaterial fire, that are here given in the Text. But yet remember this, that that God that makes the damned live without sood, is able to maintain this fire without wood. But.

Thirdly, Fire is the most surious of all Elements; and therefore the bodies of men can't be more exquisitely tormented, than with fire. The bodies that sinned on earth, shall be punished and tormented in Hell. Now what can be more grievous and vexatious, more afflicting and tormenting to the bodies of men, than material fire. Bilney the Martyr could not endure to hold his singer in the slame of a Candle for a little while, for a quarter of an hour, though he tryed to do it before he burnt at the stake. O then how will the bodies of men endure to dwell in unquenchable fire, to dwell in everlasting burnings. The Brick kilns of Agypt, the Furnace of Bibel are but as the glowing sparkle, or as the blaze of a Brush-saggot, to this tormenting Topbes, that has been prepared of old, to punish the bodies of sinners with. But

Fourthly, Several of the Fathers & Schools, generally agree, that the fire which shall torment the wicked in Hell, shall be material

2. 4 2 King. 23.18.

3

Water doth only kill, but fire doth vex, terrifie and torment in killing. Att. & Mon.

4

Zarch.
Austin,
Peter Lumbard.
Tho. Aqu.
Gregory, &c.

material fire but yet they fay, that this material fire shall wonderfully exceed ours, both in degree of heat, and fire eness of burning. Our Elementary or Culinary fire is no more to be compared with the fire of Hell, than fire painted upon the Wall, is to be compared with fire burning in our Chimneys.
Si igne damnabit reprobos, quare non in igne cruciabit damnatos, sayes one of the Antients, If he will judge the reprobates in fire, why not condemn them to fire.

Object.

But if it be mater al fire, then it may be quencht: besides we see by common experience, that material fire in a short time will consume and spend it self. Neither can we see how material fire can make impressions upon Spirits, as the Devils and souls of men are.

Answ. Exod. 3. 2, 3 First, Don't we find, that the Bush burned and was not confumed? Though all cloaths by daily experience wax old; yet when the Israelites were in their wilderness condition; their clothes did not wax old, Deut. 8.4. Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot swell these forty years. Nch. 9.41. Tea, forty years dids thou sustain them in the Wilderness, so that they lacked nothing; their clothes waxed not old, and their feet swelled not. Their clothes were never the worse for wearing. God by his Allmighty Power kept their clothes from waxing old: and so God by his Allmighty Power can keep the fire of Hell unquenchable. But,

S. condly, Such as thus object, draw things to the feantling of their own Reason; which may be mainy wayes of a dangerous consequence; both to themselves and others. Certainly such as go about to make the fire of Hell only spiritual fire, they go about to make it no fire at all; for it passeth the natural fire, to be spiritual. But,

Thirdly, We fee in this life, that badily tortures work upon the spirits in the same bodies: And why may it not be so in Hell? Don't men by their daily experience find, that their souls are frequently afflicted in, and under corporeal distempers, diseases and weaknesses? Doubtless God can by his allmighty Power insue such power into material fire,

200

3.

โดยเขอรีสเต

as to make it the inflrument of his dreadful wrath and vengeance, to plague, punish, scorch and burn the souls of damn's ed finners. "Bodies and fouls are co-parmers in the fame fins, and therefore God may make thirm co-partners in the fame punishments !! Every creature is such as the great God will have it to be, and commands it to be , and therefore if the Lord shall lay a command upon the fire of Hell to reach, and burn the fouls of damned finners; it shall certainly do it. God is the God of Nature, as will as the God of Grace; and therefore I can't fee, how the fire of Hell can be faid how to act against its own nature, when it dos but act according to the will and command of the God of Na ture. I readily grant, that if you confider infernal fire in it felf, or in its own nature, and fo it cannot have any power on such a spiritual substance as the soul of man is; but if you confider infernal fire, as an inftrument in an Allmighty hand, and so it can act upon such spiritual Beinge, as De vils and damned fouls are, and make the fame dreadful and pairful impressions upon them, so it would do upon corpore al Beings. Though Spirits have nothing material in their nature, which that infernal fire thould work upon vet fuch is the Almighty Power of God, that he can make Spirits most sentible of those siery tortures and torments which he has declared and appointed for them to undergo. Let them tell us (faith One) how it is possible, that the soul of man, which is an immortal substance, should be truly wedded to the body, or magerial substance: and I shall as ca fily answer them, that it is as possible, for the same soul, to be as eafily wrought upon by a material fire. It is much disputed and controverted among the Schoolmen, how the Devils can be tormented with corporeal fire; feeing they are Spirits, and (as I Suppose) it is well concluded of them thus, First, Phat in Hellshere is corporeal fire; as appears thus: First, Because the Scripture affirmsit, Munh. 2. 10 Matth. 5: 22 Matth. 25, 41. Secondly, Because the bodies finning against God, are to be vexed and formented with corporeal pains. Secondly, They conclude, that the Devils are tormented in that fire; Because Christ faith fo, Mat. 25.41. 003 Depart.

Vide August. 1.21. c. 10. de Civitate Dei.

Dr. Fack fon.

Depart from me ye carfed, into everlasting sire, prepared for she Devil and his Angels. Thirdly, It being demanded, how the Devils are tormented in that sire? they answer, they are tormented, not only First, With the sight of it? or Secondly, With an imaginary apprehension thereof. But Thirdly, As an instrument ordained of God for that very end. And

Fourthly, Ve locus locatum continens, erc. cogens. Hell is a fiery Region, or a Region of fire: and therefore the Devils being contained and included therein must needs be toxmented thereby. Cum Dives ab igne patietur, quis neget, animas ignibus puniri. None must question this truth (faith my Author) that fouls and spirits are punished by fire, seeing our Saviour himself telleth us, that Diver (who was in Hell but in soul) was tormented in the flames, Luke 16, 24.

The. Supplim.

Grig. Dial 4. cap. 28, 29.

But. de . & steres Pr. Inc Fourthly. It is not fafe to leave the plain letter of the Scripture to Allegorize, and whether the opinion of Metaphorical fire in Hell, hath not been an introduction to that opinion, that many have taken up in these dayes, viz: That there is no other Hell, but what is within us; I shall not now stand to determine. I know Calvin, and some others: are for the Allegory; and they give this for a Reason, that there is mention made of Wood, and of a Worm, as well as fire. Now these are Allegorical; and therefore the fire is Allegorical alfo. But by their favour, we find in the Scripture, that those things which are spoken together, are not alwayes taken in the fame nature and manner. As for example, Christ is called, the Rock of our falvation. Now the Rock is Allegorical, Is our falvation, therefore Allegorical So likewise buke 22. 30. Te shall est and drink (saith our Savieur) at my Table in my Kingdom : Eating and drinking is Allegorical; is therefore the Kingdom Allegorical too? Allegories are not to be admitted, but where the Scripture it self doth warrant them: and commonly where an Allegory is propounded, there it is also expounded. As in Galat, 4.24. Which things are an Allegory; for these are the two. Testaments. Many men have been too wanton with Allegories. Origen, Ambrose, Hierom and several others of

Deut. 32. 15, 18, 30, 31. 2 Sam. 22.47. 1 Cor. 10. 4.

of the Ancients, have been blamed for it by learned men.

Fifthly and laftly, I cannot tell but that the fire by which the damned shall be punished, may be partly material, and partly spiritual : partly material, to work upon the body; and partly spiritual, to torment the soul. Dr. Gonge puts this Question, Is it a material fire, wherewith the damned in Dr. Goinge on Hell are tormented? and gives this answer, viz. This is too curious a point to refolve to the full; but yet this answer may fafely be returned. It is no wasting or confurning fire but a torturing; and to far corporal, as it tormenteth the body: and fo far incorporeal, as it tormenteth the foul. Socrates speaking of Hell, faith, I was never there my felf. neither have I ever spoke with any that came from thence. Suppole, faith One, there be no fire in Hell, yet I affure thee this, that thou shalt be scorched with fire the fire of Gods Mr. Boulton. wrath thall torment thee more, than bodily fire can do : and therefore it will be your wildom, not fo much to question this or that about Hell fire, as to make it your work, your business, not to come there. He gave good counsel who Bernard. faid, Let us go down to Hell while we are alive, that we may not go to Hell when we are dead. And fo did he, who speaking of Hell faid. Ne queramus ubi fit, sed quomodo illam fugiamus. Let us not feek where it is, but bow we shall avoid it. The fame Author gives this further counsel; viz. That at all Banquets, Feafts, and Publick Meetings, men should talk of Hellish pains and torments, that so their hearts may be over-awed, and they provoked to avoid them, and fecure themselves against them. Doubtless the serious thoughts of hellish pain while men live, is one bleffed way to keep them from those torments, when they come to die. Ano ther gives this pious councel. Let us carnefly importune the Lord, that this knowledge, whether the fire of Hell be material or not, be never manifelled to us by experience. Tis infinitely better, to endeavour the avoiding Hell fire, than curiously to dispute about it. Look, as there is nothing more grievous then Hell: So there is nothing more profitable than the fear of it. 2 (E3: 03)

Heb. 10. 27. Sett. 58.

Chryfoftome.

But

Obj.

The Rule what difference is there between our common fire and Hell the Rule of the Rule of Anfw.

Rev. 14. 10.

Chap. 21. 8.

but ignis pictas

a painted fire,

and the fire of Purgatory

is but ignis

fire. Now

what are these to Hell fire?

The fire in a Laniskip is

I answer, a mighty difference, a valt difference. Take it in these six particulars.

First. They differ in their heat : no heart can conceive, nor o tongue can express the exquifice heat of infernal fire, were all the fires under Heaven contracted into one fires vea, were all the Coles, Wood, Oyle, Hemp, Flax, Pich, Tarr, Brimstone, and all other combustibles in the world, contracted into one flame into one fire, vet one fpark of infernal fire would be more hot, violent, dreadful, amizing, aftonishing, raging and tormenting, than all that fire that is (Supposedly) made up of all the combustibles the earth affords. To mans fente there is nothing more terrible and afflictive, than fire : and of all fires, there is none for scalding and tormenting, as that of brimstone. Now into that lake which burns with fire and brimttone for ever and ever shill the wicked of the earth be call Informal fire far exceeds ours f that are on our Hearths, and in our Chimneyes Jim degree of heat and fierceness of burning. Our fire hath not that terrible power to forch, burn torment, as the fire of Hell hath. Our fire (as Polycarpus and others fay) compared to Hell fire, is but like painted fire upon the Wall! Now you know, a printed file upon the Well will not hurt you, nor burn, nor afright you, nor torment you; but the fire of Hell, will beyond, all your conception, and expression, hurt, barn, afflight and torment you. The fire of Hell for digrees of heat, and fiercenels of burning, must wonderfully furpals our most furious fires, because it is purposely created by God to corment the creature; whereas our ordinary fire was created by God, only for the comfort of the creature. The greatest and the hottest fires that over were on earth, are but Ice in comparison of the fire of Hell.

Alfted,

2.

S. condly, There are unexpressible torments in Hell, as well as unspeakable joyes in Heaven. Some who write of Purgatory, tell us, that the pains thereof are more exquisite (though

(though of shorter continuance) than the united torments that the earth can invent, though of longer duration. If the Popes Kitchin be fo warm, how hot is the Devils Furnace? A Poetical Fiction is but a Meiofis, when brought to thew the nature of these reals torments: the lashes of Furics, are but petry scourgings, when compared to the stripes of a wounded conscience: Tytins his Vulture, though sceding on his Liver, is but a Flea-biting to that Worm, whick gnaweth their hearts and dieth not. Ixion his Wheel is a place of reft, if compared with those Billows of Wrath, and that Wheel of Justice, which is in H.ll brought over the ungod ly: the task of Danaus his Daughter, is but a sport, compared to the tortures of those, whose souls are filled with bitterness, and within whom are the arrows of the Almighry, the poilon whereof doth drink up their spirits. Hell is called a Furnace of fire, which speaketh intolerable heat : place of torment, which speaketh a total privation of case. A Prison, which speaketh restraint. Gehenna (from the valley of Hinnom, where the unnatural Parents did facrifice the fruit of their bodies, for the fin of their souls, to their merciles Idols) the which word, by a neighbour Nation. is retained to fignifie a Rock, than the torture of which. what more exquilite? It, is called a Lake of Fire and Brimfione, than the torment of the former, what more acute? than, the smell of the latter, what more noisome ? But Secondly, Our fire is made by the hand of man, and must be maintained by continual supplies of suel: take away the Coals, the Wood, the combustible matter, and the sire goes out: but the infernal fire is created, and tempered, and blown by the hand of an angry sin revenging God. Ita. 30. 33. For Tophet is ordained of old: yea, for the King it is prepared, be bath made it deep and large: the pile thereof is fire and much mood, and the breath of the Lord, like a stream of Brimstone, dath kindle it: and therefore the breath of all the Reproducts in Hell shall never be able to blow it out. Our fire is blown by an ajery breath, but the insernal fire is blown by the angry breath of the great God, which burns far hoter, than ten thousand thousand Rivers of Brimstone.

Bellarm. de Purg. l. 2.0.14 Bellarm. de Æter. Fæli. Sanct.l. 1.0.11.

Matth. 13. 42. Luke 16. 28. Matth. 5. 25. & <. 22.

A River of Brimstone is never consumed by burning.

The breath of Gods mouth, shall be both Bellows and fuel to the infernal fire: and therefore Oh how terrible and torturing, how fierce and raging will that fire be. If but three drops of Brimftone should fall upon any part of the stesh of a man, it would fill him to full of torment, that he would not be able to fo:bear roaring out, for pain and anguish, Oh how dreadful and painful will it be then, for damned finners to swimm up and down in a Lake or River of Fire and Brimstone for ever and ever. There is no proportion between the heat of our breath, and the fire that it blows. O then what a dreadful, what an amazing, what an altonishing fire must that needs be, which is blown by a breath difsolved into brimstone. Gods wrath and indignation shall be an everlasting supply to Hells conflagration. Ah Sinners, how fearful, how formidable, how unconceivable will this infernal fire prove ! Surely, there is no mifery, no torment to that of lying in a torrent of burning Brimstone for ever and ever. Mirk this infernal fire is a fire prepared by God himfelf, to punish and torment all impenitent persons and reprobate rebels: who scorned to submit to the Scepter of Christ. Depart from me, ye curfed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels. The wisdom of God hath been much exercised in preparing and devising the most tormenting temper for that formidable fire, in which the Devil and his Angels shall be punished for ever and ever. Not as if it were not prepared also for wicked and ungodly men: but it is said to be prepared for the Devil and his Angels; because it was firstly and chiefly prepared for them. All impenitent finners, shall have the Devil and his Angels for their constant companions: and therefore they shall be fure to fhear with them in the extremity and inevitableness of their torments. . But, ...

Matth. 25.41.

3.

Thirdly, Our fire when it burneth, it shineth, it casts a light. Our fire burns, and in burning shines, light is a natural property of our common fire: tis true, the elementary fire in its own sphere shineth not, because of its subtilnes, and the infernal fire of Hell shineth not, because of its grofness. Yet our ordinary fire (being of a mixt nature) hath light.

light as well as heat in it, and thats our comfort. It hath light to thew it felf to us, and to our felves, and it hath light to thew others to us, and us to others, &c. Some men can work, as well as talk by the light of the fire. Our fires have their beams and rayes, as well as the Sun: but the fire of Hell burns, but it dos not shine, it gives no light at all Infernal fire hath no light, or brightness attending of it; Marth. 25 30. and therefore Christ calls it witer darkness, or outer darkness. that is, darkness beyond a darkness. I have read of a young man who was very loofe and vain in his life, and was very fearful of being in the dark, who after falling fick, and could not flee, cryed out, O'i if this darkness be so terrib'e, what is eternal darkness! Hill would not be so uncomfortable a Prison, if it were not so dark a Prison. Light is a blefling that shall never shine into that infernal proton. In Jude, v. 6. you read of chains of darkness. It would be a little ease, a little comfort to the damined in Hell, if they might have but light and liberty, to walk up and down the infernal coasts, but this is too high a favour for them to enjoy; and therefore they shall be chained and flaked down in chains of darkness, and in blackness of darkness; that so they may fully undergo the scorchings and burnings of Divine wrath and fury for ever and ever. In Verfe 13. you thus read. To whom is referved the blackness of darkness for ever. The words are an Hebraism; and fignific exceeding great darkness. Hell is a very dark and dismal Region, and extream are the miseries, horrors and torments which are there. The Poets described the darkness of Hell by the Cimmerian darkness. There was a Territory in Italy betwixt Baie and Cume where the Cimmerii inhabit, which was so environed with Hills, and overshadowed with such hanging Promontories, that the Sun never comes at it. The darknels of Egypt, was such a strong and horrid thick darkness, that it was palpable it might be felt. Even darkness which may be felt. The darkness that is here threatned, is called darkness that may be f.lt; either by way of an Hyperbole, to fignifie what an exceeding great darkness it should be : or else because the Air should be so thickned

Chap. 8. 12.

Drexellius. Balil Speaking of Hell fire, faith, Vim com burendi retinet, Muminandi amisit. It retains the proserty of burning: it hath loft the property of thining.

Exod. 10. 21. The words are figurative, importing extraordinary. black darkness.

with

with gross mists, and thick foggy vapours, that it might be felt; or else because this extraordinary darkness should be caused by a withdrawment of the light of the celestial bodies, or by drawing a thick curtain of very black clouds betwixt mens eyes and them. Yet this horrid darkness was nothing to the darkness of Hell; the darkness of Agypt was but as an over casting for three dayes, Exod. 10. 22,23. And there was a thick darkness in all the Land of Ægypt three dayes. They fam not one another, neither rofe any from his place three dayes: For three dayes they were deprived not only of the natural lights and lamps of Heaven, but of all artificial light also. 'Tis possible that the vapours might be so thick and moilt as to put out their Candles, and all other lights that were kindled by them. Tis probable, that they had neither light from Sun! Moon, or Stars above, nor yet from fire, or candle below : fo hat they were as blind men, that could not see at all, and as lame men that could not move from their places: and fo they fare still as under the arrest of this darkness, because they could not see what to do, nor whither to go. God would teach them the worth of light, by the want of it. Some think, that by that dreadful Judgement of thick darkness, they were tilled with that terror and horror, that they durft not fo much as move from the places where they were fate down. But after these three dayes of darkness were over, the Egyptiann enjoyed the glorious light of the Sun again. O but finners are in Hell, when they are in chains of darkness, when they are in blackness of darkness, they shall never fee light more. Hell is a house without light. Gregory and all other Authors that I have cast my eye upon, agree in this, that though our fire hath light as well as heat; yet the infernal fire hath only heat to burn finners: It has no light to refresh finners; and this will be no small addition to their torment. A Philosopher being asked; Whether it were not a pleasant thing to behold the Sun? answered, that that was a blind mans quettion. Sarely life without light; is but a lifeless life. But, with see the reaches not, it torments not the precious and immortal foul;

foul; but infernal fire burns and torments both body and foul. Now the foul of pain, is the pain of the foul Marth. 10. 28. And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the foul ; but rather fear him which is able to deffroy bath body and foul in H. If the Glutton in the historical Para ble, who had but one half of himfelf in Hell, viz. his foul, cried out, that he was horribly tormined in that flame. What tongue can express, or heart conceive, how great the damneds torments shall be in Hell, when their bodies and fouls in the great day shall be re-united for torrure. loved it is a just and righteous thing with God, that such bodies and fouls that have finned (impenitently) together, should be tormented everlastingly together. To this purpose, the Hebrew Doctors have a very pretty Parable, viz. That a man planted an Orchard, and going from home, was careful to leave such Watchmen; as might both keep it from frangers, and not deceive him themselves: therefore he appointed one blind, but firong of his limbs, and the other feeing, but a Cripple. These two in their Masters absence conforred together, and the blind took the lame on his shoulders, and fo gathered the fruit, their Master returning, and finding out this subtilty, punished them both together. Now to shall it be with those two finful companions, the foul and the body in the great day of our Lord. With Simeon and Levi they have been brethren in iniquity, and fo shall be in eternal misery. As body and soul have been one in finning, so they shall be one in suffering. (only remember this; that as the foul has been chief in fin, fo it shall be chief in suffering) But O Sirs, if a consumable body, be not able to endure burning flames for a day; how will an unconfumable foul and body; be able to endure the forching flames of Hell for ever : Bur, Enthly, Our fire wasteth and consumeth whatsoever is cast into it. It turns slesh into ashes, it turns all combustibles into ashes, but the fire of Hell is not of that nature; the fire of Hell consumes nothing that is cast into it: it rages, but it dos not waste, either bodies or souls. Look as the Salamander liveth in the fire, so thall the wicked live in

Luke 16. 24.

Pet. Mart.

2 Cor. 5. 10. 2 Theff. 1.7, 8, 9, 10.

5.

P.p. 3

th

Rev. 9.6.

Rev. 6.16,17.

Mark 9, 44, 46, 48.

Gen. 1. 26.

Isa. 27.11.

Aug.
This fire is pana inconsumpta. Ferom.

Numb. 16.35.

2 Kings 1. 10.

Hell torments punish, but not finish the bodies of men. Prosper.

the fire of Hell for ever. They shall feek for death, but they shall not find it. They shall desire to die, and death shall fly from them. They shall cry to the Mountains to fall upon them, and to crush them to nothing. They shall defire that the fire that burns them, would confume them to nothing : That the Worm that feeds on them, would gnaw them to nothing: that the Devils which torment them, would tear them to nothing. They shall cry to God who first made them out of nothing, to reduce them to that first nothing from whence they came: But he that made them, will not have mercy on them; be that formed them, will not hew them fo much favour. Semper comburentur, nunquem confamentur; they shall alwayes be burned, but never consumed. Ah how well would it be with the damned, if in the fire of Hell they might be confurned to alhes. But this is their mifery, they shall be ever dying, and yet never dye: their bodies shall be alwayes a burning, but never a consuming. 'Tis dreadful to be perpetual fuel to the flames of Hell. What mifery to this? For infernal fire, to be still a preying upon damned finners, and yet never making an end of them. The two hundred and fifty men that usurped the Priests Office, were confumed by that fire that came out armed from the Lord against them. And the fire that Elijah, by an extraordinary spirit of prayer, brought down from heaven upon the two Captains, and their fifties confumed them. The fierce and furious flames of hell, shall burn, but never annihilate the bodies of the damned. In hell there is no cellation of fire burning, nor of matter burned. Neither flames nor smoak shall consume or choak the impenitent; both the infernal fire, and the burning of the bodies of Reprobates in that fire, shall be preserved by the miraculous power and providence of God. The foul through pain and corruption will lose its beate vivere, its happy being; but it will not lose its effentialiter vivere, its effential life or being. But.

Sixtly and lastly, Our fire may be quenched and extinguished. The hottest flames, the greatest confligrations, have been quenched and extinguished by water. Fires on our hearths, and in our chimneys, are sometimes put out by the Suns beams, and often they die and go out of themselves. Our fire is maintained with wood, and put out with water: but the fire of hell never goes out, it can never be quenched. It is an everlafting fire, an eternal fire, an unquenchable fire. In Mark 9. from v. 43. to v. 49. this fire is no less than five times said to be unquenchable; as it the Lord could never speak enough of it. Beloved, the Holy Ghoff is never guilty of idle repetitions: but by these frequent repetitions the Holy Ghoft would teach men to lo k about them, and to look upon it as a real thing, and as a ferious thing, and not sport themselves with unquenchable flames; nor go to Hell in a dream. Certainly the fire into which the damned shall be cast, shall be without all intermissi on of time or pun shment. No tears, nor blood, nor time, can extinguish the fire of hell. Could every damned finner weep a whole Ocean, yet all those Oceans together, would never extinguish one spark of infernal fire. The damned are in everlatting chains of darkness; they are under the vengeance of eternal fire: they are in blackness of darkness for ever. The moke of their torment ascended for ever and ever, and they shall have no rest day nor night. The damned in hell would fain die, but they cannot; Mors fine morie, they shall be alwayes dying, yet never dead; they shall be alwayes a confuming, yet never confumed. The smoak of their Furnace ascends for ever and ever. Biernin funiemur panis. They thall be everlastingly punished, faith Mollerus on Pfal. 9. 17. And Mulculus on the fame Text faith, Animi impiorum cruciatibus d bitis apud inferos puniemur. The fouls of the in godly shall be punished in hell with deserved corments. Usi per mi li millia annorum cruciandi, nec in feculo feculorum liberandi, faith August. Myriades of years shall not determine or put a period to their sufferings. Plato could say, that who ever are not expired, but prophane; shall go into hell to be tormented for their wickedness, with the greatest, the most bitter and terrible punishments, for ever in that prison of hell. And Tr. Inegistus could say, That souls going out of the body defiled, were toft to and fro with eternal punishments. Yea, the very Turki speaking of the house of per-

6.

Jerom was out when he faid, I-feraum zibil elle, nifi conficative horrowrem. And Tully was out, who held, that there are no other Hell furies, than the flings of conficience.

Jude 7. 6.

Rev. 14. 11. O that word Never, faid a poor despairing creature on his deathbed, breaks my heart. They are lying Histories that tell us, that Trajan was de= livered out of Hell, by the prayers of Gregory; and Falconella, by the prayers of Toclaes.

Alcoran. Mahom. c. 14-p. 165. & c. 20. p. 198. dition, do affirm, That they who have turned Gods Grace into wantonness, shall abide eternally in the fire of, hell, and there be eternally tormented. A certain Religious man going to visit Olympius, who lived cloustered up in a Monastery near Fordan: and finding him cloiffered up in a derk Cell, which he thought uninhabitable, by reason of heat, and fwarms of Guats and Flyes; and asking him, how he could endure to live in fuen a place: he answered. All this is but a light matter, that I may escape eternal torments : I can endere the stinging of Gnass, that I might not endure the stinging of confeience, and the gnaming of that Worm that never dies : this heat thou thinkest grievous, I can easily endure, when I think of the eternal fire of Heu: these sufferings are but short, but the sufferings of b lare eternal. Certa nly infernal fire is neither tolerable nor terminable. The extremity and eternity of hellish torments, is set forth by the Worm that never dieth. Christ at the close of his Sermon makes a threefold repetition of this Worm, Mark 9.44. Where their Worm dicth, not. And again, ver. 46. Where their Worm dieth not. And again ver. 40. Where their Worm dieth not, and their fire goeth not Certainly those punishments, are beyond all conception. and expression, which our Lord Jesus doth so often inculcate within to small a pace.

A Pertelogia aolor inferni.

Prudentius the

In Hell there's nothing heard, but yells and cryes:
In Hell the Fire never flacks, nor Worm never dies.
But where this Hell is plac'd (my Muse) stop there.
Lord shew me what it is, but never where.
To Worm and Fire, to torments there
No term he gave, they cannot wear.

If after so many millions of years, as there be drops in the Ocean, there might be a deliverance out of hell; This would yield a little case, a little comfort to the damned: O but this word Eternity, Eternity, Eternity, this word Everlasting, Everlasting, will even break the hearts of the damned in ten thousand pieces. There is scarce any pain or torment here on earth, but there is ever some hope

ot

of ease, mitigation, or intermission, there is some hope of relief or delivery, but in hell the torments there, are all caseless remediless and endless. Here if one fall into the fire; he may like a brand be pulled out of it, and faved; but out of that fiery Lake, there is no redemption. That Majetty that the finner hath-offended and provoked, is an inhnite Majesty. Now there must be some proportion betwine the finners fin, and his punishment and torment. Now the finner being a finite creature, he is not capable of bearing the weight of that punishment or torment that is intensively infinite, because it would be his abolishing or annihilating; and therefore he mult bear the weight of that punishment or torment that is extensively infinite; namely, duratione infinite, infinite in the continuance and endurance. What is wanting in torment, must be made up in time. Everlasting Fire and everlatting punishment in the New Testament, Matth. 25. is directly opposed to eternal life; to that bleffed flate of the 2 Theff. 1.7, righteous which will never have an end. And therefore according to the Rules and Maximes of right reason, doth necessarily import a punishment of the same duration, that c, 24, de civithe reward is. Now the Reward of the Saints in that other tate Dis. world, is granted on all hands to be everlasting, to be eternal; and therefore the punishment of the damned, can't be but everlasting and eternal too. The Rewards of the Elect shall never be ended; therefore the punishment of the damned shall never be ended: because as the mercy of God is infinite towards the elect, so the Justice of God is infinite towards the Reprobate in hell: The Reprobate shall have pu- prexel. nishment without pity, misery without mercy, forrow without fuccour, crying without compassion, mischief without measure, and torment without end. All men in misery comfort themselves with hope of an end : The Prisoner with hope of a Gaol-delivery: the Marriner, with the hope of his arrival in a fafe harbour : the Souldier, with hope of victory: the Prentice, with hope of liberty; the Gally-flave, with the hope of ranfome : only the impenitent finner, bath no hope in hell. He shall have end, without end; death without death: night without day: mourning without mirth:

8, 9, 10, 6. Vide August. 1.21. C. 22. 0

There is not a Christian which doth not believe. the fire of hell to be everlasting Dr. Fack/os on the Creed, l. 11. 6. 23.

If the fire of Hell were terminable, it might then be tolerable: but being endless, it mult needs be ease!ess and emediles. We may well lay of it, as one doth, O killing life, Oh immorral death! Bellar. de arte moriendi, l. 2. C. 2.

mirch: forrow, without folace: and bondage, without liberty. The damned thall live as long in hell, as God himself shall live in heaven: their imprisonment in that Land of darkness, in that bottomless pie, is not an imprisonment during the Kings pleasure; but an imprisonment during the everlatting displeasure of the King of Kings. Suppose (fay some) that the whole world were turned to a Mountain of Sand, and that a little Wren should come every thousandth year, and carry away from that heap one grain of fand, what an infinite number of years (not to be numbred by all finite beings) would be spent and expired, before this supposed Mountain could be setcht away. Now if a man should lye in everlasting burnings so long a time, and then have an end of his wo; it would administer some ease, refreshment and comfort to him. But when that immortal Bird shall have carried away this (supposed) Mountain a thousand times over and over: 'alas, alas, man shall be as far from the end of his anguish and torment, as ever he was He shall be no nearer coming out of hell, than he was the very first moment that he entered into hell. Suppose (say others) that a man were to endure the torments of hell, as many years and no more, as there be fands on the Sea-shore, drops of water in the Sea, Stars in heaven, leaves on the trees, piles of grass on the ground, hairs on his head, yea, upon the heads, of all the fons of Adam, that ever were, or are, or shall be in the world, from the beginning of it to the end of it : yet he would comfort himself with this poor thought, Well, there will come a day, when my mifery and torment shall certainly have an end. But wo and alas, this word Never; Never, Never, will fill the hearts of the damned with the greatest horror and terror, weath and rage, amazement and aftonishment. Suppose, say others, that the torments of hell were to end, after a little Bird should have emptied the Sea, and only carry out her Bill full once in a thousand years. Suppose, say others, that the whole world, from the lowest earth to the highest heavens, were filled with grains of fand, and once in a thousand years, an Angel should come and fetch away one grain, and to continue till the : dixien whole heap were spent. Suppose, say others, if one of the damned in hell should weep after this manner, viz That he should only lee fall one tear in a hundred years; and thef should be kept together, till such time as they should equal the drops of water in the Sea .: how many millions of ages would pass, before they could make up one River, much more a whole; and when that were done, should he wrep again after the same manner, till he had filled, second, a third, a fourth Sea if then there should be an end of their miseries, there would be some hope, som: comfort that they would end at last; but that shall never, never, never end. This is that which fi ks them under the most tormenting terrors and horros acti way to Drezelius makes this Observation from the words of our Saviour, John 15:6: If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and it is withered, and men gather them, and caft. them into the fire, and they are burned. Where he observeth. that the words do not run in the Future Tense, he shall be cast forth, and shall be cast into the fire, and burned : but all in the Present Tense, he is cast forth, is withered; men cast them into the fire, and they are burned. This Clark he) is the flate and condition of the damned. They are burned: that is, they are alwayes burning: When a thoufand years are past, as it was at first, so it is still, they are burned: after a thousand thousand years more, as it was before, to it is ftill, they are burned: If after millions of years. the question was asked. What is now their state and condition, what do they ? What fuffer they ? how doth it fare with them? there can be no other answer returned . bus they are burned: continually, and eternally, burning, Son ciniant fay, There will come a time, when the fallen Angels and the wickedst men, shall be freed from infernal, torn ments. And Augustine speaks of some such merciful men in Aug. 1. 21. c. his time. And Origen held and taught, that not only impe 17. 00, 18. nitent Christians, but even Pagans and Devils after, the term of a thousand years, should be released out of Hell; and become as bright Angels in heaven, as they were before. But these dangerous fancies, and ungrounded opinions fall flat

C. 19. 6. 20. C. 21. (. 22. de Civitate

be-

before (the clear evidence of) those sad and serious truths, that I have now tendered to your consideration. And thus I have shewed you the difference between our Fire and Hellstre.

Now Oye Citizens of London, who truly fear the Lord, and who are united to Christ by faith, know for your everlafting comfort and support, that Christ has secured you from infernal Fire, from everlasting Fire, from unquenchable Fire, from eternal Fire, and from the Worm that never dieth : as you may fee clearly and fully, by comparing the Scriptures in the Margent together. Christ by his blood hath quenched the violence of infernal flames; so that they shall never scorch you, nor burn you, hurt you, nor harm you. 1 Nebuchadnezzars Fiery Furnace, was a Type of Hell (fay forme) Now look as the three Children (or rather Champions) had not one hair of their heads findged in that FieryFurnace, so Hell Fire shall never singe one hair of your heads. Your interest in Christ, is a noble and fifficient security to you against the flames of Hell. Pliny faith, that nothing in the world, will so soon quench fire, as Salt and Blood: and therefore in many Countreys where they can get plenty of blood, they will use salt and b'ood, rather than Water, to quench the Fire. If you cast water on the Fire, the Fire will quickly work it out; but if you cast blood upon it; it will damp it in a moment. O Sirs, Christs blood has so quench ed the flames of Hell, that they shall never be able to scorch or burn those souls that are interested in him. The effufion of Christs blood is so rich and available (saith my Author) that if the whole multitude of captive finners would believe in their Redeemer, not one should be detained in the Tyrants Chains. All those spots that a Christian finds in his own heart, thall first or last, be washed out in the blood of the Lamb. I John 1. 7. The blood of Jesus Christ bis Son cleanseib us from all our fins. Now fuch as are washed and cleanled from their fins in the blood of Jefus, fuch shall never experimentally know, what everlafting burnings (1) or a devouring Fire means. Such as are walkt in Christs blood, needs no pur fying by Hells flames. Pliny faith of Polium,

John 3.17.18, 36.
Luke 1.68, 69,70,71,74
Rom. 6. ult.
Chap. 8.1.31, 32, 33,34,35.
37.
1 Cor. 3. 21, 22, 23.
Chap. 15. 54, 55, 56, 57,58.

1 Thest. 1. ult. Rev. 20. 5, 6.

Leo de Pas. Serm. 12. c. 4.

that it is a preservative against Serpents. Sure I am, that the blood of Christ is an effectual preservative against all insernal

Serpents and infernal torments.

You believing Citizens, who have fet up God as the obicht of your feat, and whose hearts are enflamed with love to Christ; know for your everlatting refreshment, that Christ has freed you, and secured you from everlasting Fire, from unquenchable Fire, from eternal Fire; and therefore bear up tweetly, bear up cheerfully under that Fiery difpenfation that has past upon you. What is the burning of your houses, and substance, to the burning of bodies and touls in Hell? What was the Fire of London, to infernal Fire? What is a Fire of four or five dayes continuance, to that everlasting Fire, to that unquenchable Fire, to that eternal Fire that you have deserved; and that free-Grace hath preserved you from. A frequent and serious consideration of Hell Fire, (as I have opened it unto you') and of your happy deliverance from it, may very well bear and cheer up your hearts under all your greatest sufferings by that dreadfu! Fire; that has turned beloved London into a ruinous heap.

Nero had a Shire inade of a Salamanders skin, forhat if he did walk through the fire in it, it would keep him from burning. O Sirs, Christ is the true Saamanders skin, that will certainly keep every gracious foul from ourning in everlasting flames.

Sir, You have been a discoursing about hellish torments; but for the further clearing up of the truth, we defire your ferious Answer to this fad Oueshon, viz.

How will it stand with the unspotted Holiness, Justice and Obje&. Righteousness of God, to punish a temporary offence with eternal punishments ? for the evil of punishment should be but commensurate to the evil of fin. Now what proportion is there betwixt finite and infinite? Why Bould the finner lye in bellish torments for ever and ever, for finning but a short time, a few years in this world !

I judge it very necessary, to say something to this impor- Answ. tant Question, besore I come to discourse of those Duties that are incumbent upon those Citizens whose houses are turned into a ruinous heap; and therefore take me thus.

Firft.

Tim. 1. 15. Gen. 13 25. First, Gods Will is the Rule of Righteousies, and therefore what he doth or shall do, must needs be righteous. He is Lord of all; he hath a Soveraign Right and an absolute Supremacy over the creature: he is the only Potentate, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords: he is the Judge of the whole world. And shall not the Judge of all the earth do right? But, 49:114.

Aquis.

It si peccator i aternum viperes in aterum peccaret.

Peccare si velis vis aternotus, rmire aquum
st te Doum is aterno suo.

Gregory.

1 Pet. 3. 20.

S condly, I answer, There is a Principle in man to fin eternally: and therefore it is but just with God, if he punish him eternally. The duration of torment, respects the dispolition of the delinquent. Pana singularum inaquales intentione, fare omnium equiles duratione. If the finner should live ever, he would defhonor God ever, and crucifie the Lord of G'ory ever, and grieve the Spirit of Grace ever, and traisgress a righteous Law ever; and therefore 'ris just with God to purish such sinners for ever. If the sinner might live eternally, he would fin eternally, if he might live still, he would Though the finner loses his life, yet he dos not lose his will to fin. Sinners fin as much as they can, and as long as they can; and did not the grave put a trop to their lufts, their hearts would never put a stop to their lusts. The sinner fins in his eternity, and God punishes in his eternity. The finner never loses his will to fin; his will to fin is everlasting; and therefore 'tis but just with God, that his punishment should be everlasting. A will to sin is sin in Gods account. God looks more at the will, than at the deed; and therefore that being lasting, the punishment must be fo. The mind and intention of the finner, is to fin ever-Tastingly; eternally: if the sinner should live alwayes, he would in alwayes; and therefore as one faith, Quia mens in hac vita nunquam voluit carere peccato, justum est, & nunquam caret Supplicio. Because the mind of man in this life, would never be without fin, it is just that it should never be without punishment in the life to come. Many of the men of the old world lived eight or nine hundred years, and yet faith and repentance was hid from their eyes: that patience, forbearance, long-fuffering gentleness and goodness, which should have lead them to aspeedy repentance, to a serious repentance.

pentance; to a thorough repentance, to that repentance that was never to be repented of; was only made use of to patronize their lewdness and wickeduels. This is certain wicked men left to themselves, will never be weary of their fins, nor never repent of their fins, and therefore God will never be weary of plaguing them, nor never repent of pu nishing them. The sinner never leaves his sin, till sin-tirst leaves him : did not death put a stop to his fin, he would never cease from fin. This may be illustrated by a similitude thus. A company of Gamesters resolve to play all night, and accordingly they fit down to Chess, Tables, or some other Game, their Candle accidentally, or unexpectedly goes out, or is put out, or burnt out, their Candle being out, they are forced to give over their Game, and go to bed in the dark; but had the Candle lasted all night, they would have played all night. This is every finners case, in regard of fin did not death put out the candle of life, the finner would fin ftill. Should the tinner live for ever, he would fin for ever; and therefore it is a righteous thing with God, to punish him for ever in hellish torments. Every impenitent sinner would fin to the dayes of eternity, if he might but live to the dayes of eternity, Plal. 74. 10 O God bow long shall the adversiry reproach? Shall the enemy blashheme thy name for ever. For ever and evermore; or for ever and vet : (for so the Hebrew loves to exaggerate) as if the linner, the blafphemer. would fet a term of duration longer than eternity to fin in. The Pfalmist implicitely faith, Lord, if thou dost but let them alone for ever, they will certainly blaspheme thy name for ever and ever. I have read of the Crocodile, that he knows no Maximun qued sie, he is alwayes growing bigger and bigger, and never comes to a certain pitch of Monstrofity fo long as he lives. Qu'im din vivit crescit. Every habituated finner would (if he were let alone) be fuch a Monster, perpetually growing worler and worler. But

Thirdly, l'aniwer, That God against whom they have sinned is an infinite and eternal good. Now a finite creature can't bear an infinite punishment intensively, and therefore he must bear it extensively. They have sinned impenitently

Peccart is ater of o, ergo business is aterno Dei.
Argaft ne.
The finner alwayes finned
in its eternity, therefor:
he ihall alwayes be punished in Gods cternity.

3

Sin is cortra Doum offictum against an infinite Majesy.

Vide August. l. 21.6.11. de C'v tate De .

penitently against an infinite Majesty, and accordingly their gunishment must be infinite. Now because it cannot be infinite, in regard of the degree, men being but finite creatures, and so no capable of infinite torments at one time: therefore their punishment must be infinite in the length and continuance of it. What is wanting in torment, must be made up in time. Every sin is of an infinite nature, because of me infinite dignity of the person against whom it is committed; and therefore it deserveth an infinite pun shment; which b cause it can't be infinite secundum intentionem, in the intention and greatness of it: It remaineth that it should be infinite, secundum durationem, in respect of the duration and continuance of the same. Mark, all punishments ought to he levied according to the dignity of him, against whom the offence is committed. Words against common persons, ocar but common actions; words against Noble men, are feandala magnatum, great scardals; but words against Princes, So the dignity of the person against whom sin are Treason. is committed, dos exceedingly aggravate the fin. To strike an inferiour man, is matter of Arreft, but to ftrike a King. s matter of death. Now what an infinite distance and disproportion, is there between the Lord of Hosts and such poor crawling Worms as we are, he being holiness, and we linfulness; he fulness, and we emptiness; he omnipotency, and we impotency; he Majesty, and we vanity; he (instar omnium) all in all, and we nothing at all. Now to fin against such an infinite glorious Majesty, deserves infinite punishment. But,

Fourthly, I answer, Though the 2ct of sin be transient, yet it leaveth such a stain upon the soul, as is permanent, and continueth in it evermore, and evermore it disposeth the sinner unto sin (if it be not pardoned and purged out by mercy and Grace) and therefore it is but just, that this perpetual purpose of sinning, should be punished with perpetuity of pair. The guilt and stain of sin, of its own nature, and unpardored, endures eternally upon the soul; and therefore what can sollow, but eternal torments. The lasting continuance of sin, is remarkably described by the Pro-

As long as the guilt of fin remains, punishments and torments will remain.

phe

6.

phet Jeremiab, Chap. 17. 1. The sin of Judah is written with a Pen of Iron, and with the point of a Diamond; it is graven upon the table of their bearts. Not only written, but engraven that no hand can deface it. Slight not the commission of any sin, it perishes not with the acting. The least vanity hath a perpetuity, nay, an eternity of guilt upon it. Sen leaving a blot in the soul, brings the matter of Hell fire, is eternally punished, because there is still matter for that everlasting fire to work upon a But.

b Fifthly, I answer, Though death put an end to mens lives, vet not to fins. Hell is as full of fin, as it is of punishment or torment. Though the Schoolmen determine, that after this life, men are capable neither of merit nor demerit; and therefore by their fins do not incurr a greater measure of punishment; yet they grant, that they tin fill. Though when the creature is actually under the fentence of condemnation, the Law ceases to any further punishment, vet there is an obligation to the precepts of the Law still. Though a man be bound only to the curle of the Law as he is a finner, yet he is bound to the precept of the Law, as he is a creature: so that though the demerit of fin ecaseth after death, yet the nature of fin remaineth; though by finning they do not incurr a higher and a greater degree of punishment; yet as they continue finning, to it is just with God, there should be a continuation of the punishment already infl. Cted. : But,

Sixthly, I answer, It is no injustice in God, to punish temporal offences with perpetual torments. God measuresh the punishment, by the greatness of the offence, and not by the time wherein the sin was acted. Murder, Adultery, Sacriledge, Treason, and the like capital crimes, are doomed in the Judicatories of men, to death without mercy, and some times to perpetual imprisonment; or to perpetual banishment; and yet these high offences were committed and done in a short time. Now this bears a proportion with a ternal torments. O Sirs, if the offences committed against God, be infinitely hemous, why may not the punishment be infinitely lasting. Sinters offences

Auftin

Aug. de C'vis. De , l.i. c.11.

Austin well observes, are not to be measured temporis, longitudine; by the length of time wherein they were done: but iniquitatis magnitudine, by the foulness of the crime: and if so, then God is just in binding the sinner in everlasting chains. We must remember, that God is a great and a glorious God, and that he is an omniscient and an omnipotent God, and that he is a mighty, yea, an almighty God, and that he is a holy and a just God, and that he is (out of Christ) an incomprehensible, incommunicable, and very terrible God, and that he is an infinite, eternal, and independent God. we must remember, that man is a shaddow, a bubble, a vapour, a dream, a base, vile, sinful, worthless Worm. Now these things being considered, must we not confess, that eternity it felf, is too short a space, for God to revenge himfelf on finners in. But.

Heb. 12, 29.

Deut. 11. 26, Chap. 30 15. Heb. 2. . 2, 3. Chap. 10. 28,

John 2. 14, 15, 16, 17,36. Chap: 1.11.

Ichn 5. 40. Matih. 22. 2, 3, 4,5.

2 Cor. 4. 3, 4

· Seventhly and lastly, I answer, Such sinners have but what they chose. Whilest they lived under the means of Grace, the God of Grace fat before them Heaven and Hell, Glory and misery, eternal life, and eternal death; so that if they eternally miscarry, they have none to blame but themselves, for choosing Hell rather than Heaven, misery rather than glory, and eternal death, rather than eternal life. Ah how treely, how fully, how frequently, how graciously, how gloriously, hath Christ been offered in the Gospel to poor sinners; and yet they would not choose him, they would not close with him, they would not embrace him, nor accept of him, nor enter into a marriage Covenant with him morrefign themselves up to him, nor part with their lusts to enjoy him: They would not come to Christ, that they might have life; they flighted infinite mercy, and despised the riches of Grace, and trode under foot the blood of the everlatting Govenant, and forned the offers of eternal falvation; and therefore is but juft, that they should lye down in everlatting forrows. How can that finner be faved, that this refuses salvation? How can mercy save him; that will not be laved by mercy? yea how can Christ fave fuch a man, that will not be faved by him? All the world can't fave that man from going to Hell, who is peremptorily resolved, that he will not go to Heaven. Sinners have boldly and daily refused eternal life, eternal mercy, eternal glory; and therefore tis but just, that they should endure eternal misery.

And let thus much suffice for answer to the Objection.

But Sir, pray what are those duties that are incumbent upon those that have been burnt up, and whose habitations are now laid in its ashes?

I answer, They are these that follow.

. Si sidira insi linaa m First, See the hand of the Lord in this late dreadful fire, acknowledge the Lord to be the Author of all Judgements, and of this in particular; 'Tis a high point of Christian Prudence and Piety, to acknowledge the Lord to be the Author of all personal or National sufferings that befall us Jer. 9. 12. Who is the wife man that may understand this? for what the Land perisheth, and is burnt up like a Wilderness that none passeth through. It is very great wi dom to know from whom all our afflictions come; and for what all our afflictions come upon us. God looks that we should observe his hand in all our sufferings. Hear the rod, and who bath appointed it. God challenges all forts of afflictions, as his own special Administration, Amos 3.6. Is there any evil in the City, and the Lord bath not done it ? I form the light, and create darkness; I make peace, and create evil, I the Lord do all thefe things, Ifa. 45.7. God takes it very hainoufly, and looks upon it as a very great indignity that is put upon his Power, Providence and Justice, when men will neither see nor acknowledge his hand in those fore afflictions and sad suff: rings, that he brings upon them : Of fuch the Prophet Isaiab complains, Chap. 26. 11. Lord when thy hand is lifted up, they will not fee. The hand, the power of the Lord was fo remarkable and conspicuous in the Judgements that were inflicted upon them, as might very well wring an acknowledgement out of them, that it was the Lord that had flirred his wrath and indignation against them : and yet they wilfully and desperately; thut their eyes against all the severities

Rr2

Queft.

Anfw.

٠I.

Lev. 26 41. Mich, 7. 9.

Mich. 6, 9.
See this Text fully opened in my first Epistle to my Treatise ou Closet Prayer.

of God, and would not behold that dreadful hand of his that was firetched out against thom. O Sirs, God looks up on himself as reproached and slandered, by such who will not fee his hand in the amazing Judgements that he inflicts upon them, Jer. 5. 12. They have belied the Lord, and faid it is not be: or as the Hebrew runs, be is not. Such was the Atheism of the Jews, that they flighted divine warnings; and despised all those dreadful threatnings (of the Sword, Famine and Fire) which should have lead them to repentance, and so tacitely said, the Lord is not God: such who either say, that God is not omniscient, or that he is not omnipotent, or that he is not so just, as to execute the Judgements that he has threatned. Such belie the Lord; such deny him to be God. Many feel the rod, that cannot hear it; and many experience the finant of the rod, that don't fee the hand that holds the rod; and this is fad. How can the natural man without faiths prospective, look so high, as to fee the hand of the Lord in wasting and destroying Judgements. By common experience we find, that natural men are mightily apt to father the evil of all their fufferings up on secondary causes: sometimes they cry out, this is from a distemper in nature, and at other times they cry out, this is from a bad Air: Sometimes they cry out of the malice, Plots, envy and rage of men; and at other times they cry out of Stars, Chance and Fortune, and so fix upon any thing, rather than the hand of God, But now a gracious Christian under all his sufferings, he overlooks all secondary causes, and fixes his eye upon the hand of God. You know what Foleph faid to his unnatural Brethren, who fold him for a flave; Non vos, fed Deus; Treas not you, but God that fint me into Agpt. Tob met with many fore loffes and fad croffes, but under them all, he over-look all instruments, all secondary causes; he over looks the Sabeans, and the Chaldeans, and Satan, and fixes his eye upon the hand of God: The Lord bath given, and the Lord bath taken away; bleffed be the name of the Lord. Judas, and Annas, and Caiaphas, and Pilate, and Herod, and the bloody Souldiers, had all a deep hand in the sufferings of Christ- but yet he over-looks them

Gen. 45. 7.

Job 1. 21.

all, and fixes his eye upon his fathers hand. The cup which my Father, bath given me, shall I not drink it. ... This cup was John 18. 11. the cup of his sufferings. Now in all his sad sufferings he had still an eye to his Fathers hand. Let us in all our sufferings write after this Copy that Christ has fet before us But of this I have spoken very largely already; and therefore let this touch suffice here.

Secondly, Labour to justifie the Lord in all that he has done: Say, the Lord is righteous, though he hath laid your City desolate. When Ferusalem was laid desolate, and the Wall thereof broken down, and the Gates thereof were burnt with fire; Nebemiab justifics the Lord, Chap. 9. 33. Howbeit, thou are just in all that is brought upon us, for thou bast done right, but we have done wickedly. The same Spirit Was upon Feremiah, Lam. 1. 1, 4, 8. How doth the City fit folisary, that was full of people? Him is the become as a Widow? She that was great among the Nations, and Princes among the Provinces ? How is the become tributary? The wayes of Zion do mourn, because none come to the selemn feafts: all ber Gates are defolate; ber Priefts figh, ber Virgins are afficied, and she is in bitterness. The Lord is righteous, for I have rebelled against his commandment. The same Spirit was upon David, Pfal. 119.75. I know, O Lord, that thy Judgements are right. and that thou in faithfulness balt afflitted me. So Plat 145.17. The Lord is righteous in all bis mayes, and holy in all bu works. This Maxim we must live and dye by, though we don't alwayes fee the reason of his proceedings. Tis granted on all hands, that voluntus Dei est summa, pertedissima, & infallibilin Regula divina justitia, & Deus sibi ipsi lex est. The will of God is the chiefest, the most perfect and infallible Rule of Divine Justice; and that God is a Judge to himself. Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right? In this Negative question, is emphatically implyed, an Affirmative Polition: which is, that God above all others, must and will do right; because from his Judgement there is no appeal! Abraham confidering the Nature and Justice of God, was confidently affured, that God could not do otherwise but right. Hith Nehem. 1. 4: So Maur cius the Emperour justified God. when he saw his Wife and Children butchered be . fore his eyes by the Travior Phocas, and knew that h mfelf flould foon after be flewed in his own Broth; cryed out Fuft art they O Lord, and just are all thy Fudgements.

Gen. 18. 25.

God

God turn'd you out of house and home, and marred all your pleafant things, and stript you naked as the day wherein you were born: yes. Why if he hath, he hath done you no wrong: he can do you no wrong: he is a Law to himself; and his rightcoas Will is the Rule of all Justice. God can as soon cease to be, as he can cease to do that which is just and right. So Pia 97.2. Clouds and darkness are round about bim; Righteousness and Judgement are the habitation of his throne. Clouds and darknifs, notes the terribleness of Gods adminifirations: though God be very terrible in his administrations, yet rightcousness and judgement are the habitation of his Throne. It hath been a day of Gods wrath in London, a day of trouble and diffress, a day of wasting and desolation, a day of darkness and gloominess, a day of clouds and thick darkness, as it was once in Jerusalem: yet righteousness and judgement are the habitation of his Throne: or as it may be translated, are the foundation of his Throne. Gods Scat of Judgement, is alwayes founded in righteoufness. So Daniel 9, 12. And he bath confirmed his words which be spike against us, and against our Judges that judged us, by bringing upon us a great evil: for under the whole heaven hath not been done, as bath been done upon Ferufalem. Vcr. 14. The Lord our God is righteous in all his works which he doth; for me obeyed not his voice. God is only righteous, he is perfectly righteous, he is exemplarily righteous, he is everlastingly righteous, he is infinitely righteous, and no unrighteousness dwells in him. There are four things that God can't do: 1. He can't lie. 2. He can't die. 3. He ca'nt deny himself: Nor 4. He can't look upon imquity, and not loath it: he can't behold iniquity and approve of it, or delight in it. God has a Soverainty over all your persons and concernments in this world; and therefore he may do with you, and all that is yours as he pleafeth: upon this account you ought to fay, The Lord is righteous, though he hath laid your habitations desolate, and burnt up your houses before your eyes. Its true, God has dealt severely with London; but he might have dealt more severely with it: he might have burnt up every house; and he might have consumed every inhabitant

Pfal. 92. 15.

Job 36. 23.

Zeph. 1. 15.

Lam. 3. 22.

in Londons flames. He might have made good that fad word upon them, They fall go from one fire, and another fire shall Ezek, 15. 7. devour them. The Citizens of London may fay with good Ezra. God hath punished us less than our iniquities deserve : and therefore it highly concerns them to fay, The Lord is righteons. All that God doth is good: you know what Hezekiab faid, 2 Kings 20. 19. Good is the word of the Lord. This was a hard word; a fad word, that all his treature (h) uld be carried unto Babylon, and his Sons also, and made Servants there; and yet he faith, Good is the word of the Lord, What ever God doth is good. God in that he is good (faith One) can give nothing, do nothing, but that which is good sothers Pfalm 120. do frequently, he cannot possibly. Upon this account also it concerns us to fay, The Lord is righteous, though our City be laid desolate. 'Tis better to be under a fiery Rod. than to be wallowing in the mire of fin. 'Tis better that London should be laid desolate, than that God should fay, England farwell. Thats a Christian worth Gold, who can feriously, heartily and habitually say, The Lord is righteous, though all our pleasant things are laid desolate.

Luther in

See more of this in my Mute Chr Stian.

I would fay, the Lord is righteous; but by this fiery dispensation I am turned out of boufe and bome.

Object.

Now in answer to this Objection, give me leave to en-1 2 1 2 2 2 cm & B' " 12 1 2 " 17. quire, cal .

Eirst, Whether your house was dedicated to the Lord by falling and prayer, or not? If it were only dedicated to the Deut. 20, 5. lervice of fin, Saran, or the world, no wonder if the Lord has curned it into a heap. But origin and

Secondly, Give me leave to enquire, Whether you had fet up Christ; and holiness, and holy orders in your house or no? Did you in good earnest resolve with Toshua, That you and your bouse would serve the Lord, Josh. 24. 15. If not, no wonder, if the Lord has laid your habitations desolate. But,

See Pfal. 101

Thirdly, Give me deave to enquire, Whether you did labour and endeavour to the utmost of what you were able, that Christ might have a Church in your house or no? Col

See Dr. Ham. mo 'd on this Scripture. V'd. B'fh. Dav Cotton. Rez4. Scultetus, Ambris. &c. Cot. 4/15. Salute the Brethren, which are in Ludicea, and Nymphas, and the Church which is in his boufe : that is, faith Dr. Hammond, which meets together in his house. I Cor. 16. 19. The Churches of Alia Calute you. Aquila and Priscilla Calute you much in the Lard, with the Church that is in their boufe. Philemon v. 2. And to our beloved Apphia, and Archippus our fellow Souldier, and to the Church in thy boufe. Philemons house was a publick meeting-house, where the faithful had their Affemblies; and so continued for many years after, as Theodores and others witnesseth. Some understand this last Scripture, of the Church which kept their Affemblies in Philemons house. Others understand it of his household, which was as a little Church in his house. Rom. 16.5. Likewise greet the Church that is in their house. Chrysostome by the Church in their house, understands their Christian Family; who faith he, were so godly, as to make their whole house the Church. Origen interpreteth it, of the faithful and ready Ministry of these servants of the Lord, in entertaining of the Saints in their house. 3. Theophylatt thinketh it to be called the Church in their house, because the faithfull were entertained there. 4. But beside this, it seemeth that their house was a place for the Saints to Assemble in : there the Congregation used to come together. Mariyr. 5. The last thing in their praise, was that they had a Church in their house: either, for that their family, for their godly order obscrved in it, seemed to be a Church, or else for the saithful gathered together in their house, to celebrate their Assemblies; for they might not have in most places, the free use of their Christian Religion, through the malice of the Jewes on the one hand, and the rage of the Gentiles on the other hand. Consult Ads 13. and 14. Wilson. In this great City of Rome there were divers Assemblies of Believers, which were held in some private mens houses, where they might meet fafelt; the state then, and some hundred years after, not permitting them any publick Temples or Auditories to meet in : as our English Annotators observe upon the place. In each particular family last cited, there was a Church of Christ. Now have you burnt Citizens, made it your business, to erect a Church of Christin your particular families; if so, well it is with you, though you have lost all. If not, do'nt wonder that God has laid your houles desolate. Adam had a Church in his house: so had Abraham, and Jacob, and Joshuah, and David, and Cornelius; well governed Families, may in some sense be well reputed Churches. The house of George Prince of Anbalt, for the good orders therein observed, is said to have been, Ecclesia, Academia Curia. Ah London, London, it may be, there might have been more houses standing within thy Walls, than now there is, if every particular house-had been as a particular Church to Christ. As for such houses where there were no exercises of Religion; as for such houses where idleness, cheating, lying, curfing, swearing, flandering, gameing, drunkenness, uncleanness and riotousness were rampant; They were rather the Devils Chappel, than Christs. Church; and therefore it was just with God to lay such habitations desolate. But.

Fourthly, Give me leave to enquire, whether you were friends or enemies to Gods house. Now Gods house is his Church; and his Church is his house: Heb. 3.5,6. And Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as a servant: But Christ as a Son, over his own house; whose bouse are me. I Pet. 2.5. Te also as lively stones are built up a spiritual house, an holy Priestbood, to offer up Spiritual Sacrifices acceptable to God by Fefus Chrift. So I Tim. 3.15. That thou maift know how thou onghieft to behave thy felf in the boufe of God, which is the Church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth. Prov.9.1. Wisdom bath builded ber boufe, she bath bewen out ber seven pillars. Wildom, MODIT chakmoth, the Hebrew word is Plural, wisdoms: Wisdoms hath built her a house. By Wisdoms, some understand the Trinity of persons, but most Col. 2. 3. conclude, that by wildoms is meant our Lord Tefus Christ. in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. The word is Plural for honour like. As Princes write, we command: the Lord Jesus Christ is said to be Wildoms in the Plural number, to note, that he is the foveraign and supream wildom, and that he is instead of all wildoms, and comprehends all wisdoms in himself: all the world

2 Tim. 2. 20. Num. 12. 7. Josh. 1. 2.

Gal. 5. 22,23.

1 Pet. 2.5.

Mat.23.37,38. Zech, 12.2,3. 6,9.

Luke 24. 33.

See the Datch Annotations. world being tools in comparison of him. Wisdoms hath built her a house. 1. Some take this house to be the Humane nature of Christ; but that was not then built. 2. Others understand it of the work of Grace in mans foul: but this the Spirit commonly works in this house, by the Ministry of 3. Others by this house, understand Heaven, that upper house, that house of State, in which Christ saith there are many Mansions; but this can't, because the house in the Text, is fuch a house, to which Wisdom doth immediately invite, and call all her guests. But 4. and lastly. Others by house, understand the Church of Christ on earth, for the Church Militant, is a house built up of many lively stones: and with these I close. Now by these Scriptures, it is very plain, that Gods house is his Church, and his Church his house. Now if you were enemies to Gods house, if you hated his house, and designed and endeavoured to pull down his house; no wonder that the Lord has laid your houses desolate. Such who cry out concerning his house, rase it, rase it, even to the soundation thereof, Pfall 137. 7. may one day want a house to live in.

It is observable, that in private houses, Christ his Apostles. and particular Churches, and Primitive Christians frequently used to meet (when the times were dangerous, (Joh.20.19. Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were that, where the Disciples were affembled for fear of the Fews, came fefus and flood in the midft, and faith unto them, Peace be unto you. Verse 26. And after eight dayes, again his Disciples were wishin, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said. Peace be unto you. This was the usual manner of salutation among the lews, whereby they wished one another all happiness and prosperity. The doors of the room where they were together were thut, for the more fecrety and fecurity, to avoid danger from the Jews, faith Dr. Hammond on the words, Acts 1. 13, 14. And when they were come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the Son of Alpheus, and Simon Zelotes, and

Judas the brother of Junes. Thefe all continued with one ac cord in prayer and supplication, with the women, and Mary the Mother of Jefus, and with his brethren, Acts 20. 7. And upon the first day of the week, when the Disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached uneo them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued his speech until midnight. Veste 8. And bere were many lights (Gr. many Lamps) in the upper cham ber whither they were gathered together. Verse 9. And there fate in a window a certain young man named Eutychus being fallen into a deep fleep : and as Paul mas long preaching, be funk down with fleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead. Verse 10. And Paul went down and fell on bim, and embracing bim faid, trouble not your selves, for bis life is in bim. Verse 11. When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked along while, even till break of day; so he departed, Verse 12. And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted. Acts 5. 42. And daily in the Temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Fefus Christ, Acts 12.12. And when he bad considered the things, be came to the house of Mary the Mother of John, whose Surname was Mark, where many were gathered together praying (or where many thronged to pray, as it runs in the Original) Acts 20. 20. And bom I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have seemed you, and have taught you publickly, and from bouse to bouse. Acts 28. 30, 31. And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him : Preaching the Kingdom of God, and teaching these things which concern the Lord Fesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him. Luke 10. 38, 39. Non it came to pass, as they went, that he entered into a certain Village , and a certain woman named Martha received bim into ber bouse. And she bad a sister called Mary, which also sate at Tefus feet, and beard his word. Beloved by these Scriptures, tis most evident and clear, that our Lord Jesus Christ, and his Disciples and Apostles, and those Christians that lived in their times, did frequently meet in private houses, and there performed acts of publick Worship, viz. such as preaching, hearing, praying, breaking of bread, or How the primitive Christi-

See the Dutch Annotations and Diodation on Acts 20. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.

See Dr. Hammond on the words, & the English Annotations

Vide Dr. Hammond of Acts 28.30, 31. Jam. 5.17, 18.

Several Thundred Scriptures might be produced, to make good the Affertion. Remember what one Achan did,and what one Manaffeh did, 2 Kings 21. II, Eccles. 9. 18. One finner destroyeth much good. O then what a world of good, will a Rabble of finners destroy!

Christians in those hot times of persecution, met in the nights, and in woods, and houses, and obscure places, they best understand, who have r ad the writings of Tertullian, Caprian, Chrysoftome, Theodoret, Austin, Eusebius, Justin Martyr, Pliny, Oc. But this to some being an unpleasing Theam, I shall not enlarge my felf upon it. Only remember this, that there was never yet any Town, City, or Country, Kingdom, or Common-wealth, that did ever fare the worfe for an holy praying people. Frequent and servent prayer, be it in publick or in private, in a Synagogue or in an upper Room, never did, nor never will bring mifery or mischief upon those places, where such exercises are kept up. Such Conventicles of good fellowship (as some call them) where there is nothing but swearing and curfing and caroufing and gaming, and all manner of filthiness and prophaneness, are the only Conventicles that bring defolating Judgements upon Princes. People and Nations, as is most evident throughout the Scriptures. Take two texts for all: 1 Sam. 12.25. But if ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed, both ye and your Kings. When Princes and people continue to do wickedly together, then they shall be consumed together. Zeph. 1. 12. I will search Terufalem with candles, and punish the men that are fettled on their lees; that fay in their heart, the Lord will not do good, neither will be do evil. Verfe 13. Therefore their goods shall become a booty, and their houses a desolation. Verse 17. And I will bring diffres upon men, that they shall walk like blind men, because they sinned against the Lord; and their blood shall be poured out as dust, and their flesh as the dung. Vetse 18 Neither their filver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of the Lords wrath; but the whole Land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousie: for he shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the Land. Now if any of you whose houses are laid desolate, have had your spirits imbittered and engaged against the poor people of God, for practifing as Christ and his Apostles did; Then lay your hands upon your mouths, and fay, the Lord is righteous, though he has turned us out of house and home, and laid all our pleasant things defolate. Certainly all that legal and ceremonial ho-lines of places which we read of in the Old Testament did quite vanish and expire with the Types, when Christ who is the lubitance (at which all those shadows pointed) came into the world. I have neither faith to believe nor any reason to fee, that there is in any feparated or confecrated places for Divine Worship, any such legal or ceremonial kind of holiness, which renders Duties performed there, more accepta Merc. a Rad. ble unto God, than if performed by the same persons and wind page. in the like manner in any other places. Doubeless Christ by his coming in the flesh, hath removed all diffinction of places through legal holiness: this is clear by the Speech of our Saviour to the Samaritan woman, concerning the abolishing of all distinction of places for Worship through a ceremonial holinels, John 4. 21. Fesus saith unto ber, woman believe me, the hour cometh when ye shall neither in this Mountain, nor yet at Terusalem worship the Father. The publick Worthip of God was now to be refrained to no place, as formerly it was to the Temple at Ferusalem. That is to no place for its ceremonial holinels, which may render the parts of Divine Worship more acceptable to God, than if performed elsewhere. Because those Types which sanctified the places formerly, were now to be taken away, when Christ the Substance was come. And the body of the Ceremonial Worthip, being now to expire, and the partition wall taken down, that the Gentiles might be admitted to worship God in spirit and in truth. It could not possibly be for these Reasons, That the true Worship of God should be tyed and fixed to any one fuch Temple as was at Ferufalem any more. The Temple at Ferufalem was a mean of Gods Worthip, and part of their Ceremonial Service, and a Type of Christ; but our Temples (faith my Author) are not a part of the Worship of God, nor Types of the body of Christ. Neither are we bound when we pray, to fet our faces towards them: They are called places of prayer only; because the Saints meet there; and if the Saints meeting were not in them, they were but like other common places. The Temple of Jerusalem sanctified the meetings of the Saints; but the mesting of the Saints, fanctifies our Temples. Herods Temple

Wee nes 1. Val. Chritian Synagogue. p. 110. Godw. Attiq.

John 19. 30.

vlatth.27.51.

Gen. 47, 29,

Chap. 49. 29.

Exod: 3. 5. '
Josh. 5. 15.
1 Pet. 1. 18.

Matth. 4. 5. Chap: 27. 53.

Temple at Fernsalem was fo set on fire by Titus his Souldiers, that it could not be quenched by the industry of man; and at the same time Apollo's Temple at Delphi was utterly overthrown by Earth-quakes, and Thunder-bolts, and neither of them could ever fince be repaired. The concurrence of which two Miracles (faith mine Author) evidently sheweth, that the time was then come, when God would put an end both to Tewish Ceremonies, and Heathenish Idolatry; that the Kingdom of his Son might be the better established. The time of Christs death and passion was the very time that God in his eternal counsel, had set for the abrogation of the Ceremonial Law, and all ceremonial holiness of places. As foon as ever Christ had faid, It is finished, and had given up the ghost, immediately the Vail of the Temple was rent from the top to the bottom; and from that very hour there was no more holiness in the Temple, than in any other place. By the death of Christ all religious differences of places is taken away: So that no one place is holier than another. Before the coming of Christ, the whole Land of Canaan (because it was a Type of the Church of Christ, and of the Kingdom of Heaven) was effected by Gods people, a better and holier place, than any other in the world. And upon that ground among others, Facob and Fofeph were fo desirous to be buried there. And in the Land of Canaan, fome places are faid to have been more holy than others; viz. Such as wherein God did manifest himself in a special and sensible manner. So the place where Christ appeared to Mofes in the fiery Bush, is called Holy Ground : and fo was that wherein he appeared to Foshua. And the Mount whereon Christ was transfigured, is called by Peter the Holy Mount." But these places were no longer accounted holy, than during the time of this special presence of the Lord in them. So Fernsalem was called the Holy City: yea, at the very moment of Christs death, it is called the Holy City; because it was a City, let apart by God for a holy use, a City where he was daily worshipped; a City that he had chosen to put his name upon. Though Fernsalem was a very wicked City, yea the wickeds City in all the world (counting the means they enjoyed) yet 'tis called the Holy City: and fo doubt-1 less in respect of separation and dedication, it was holier than any other City or place in the world belides. So the Temple in Ferusalem is nine times called the Holy Temple; Pfal. 5.7. because it was a more holy place, than any other place in Ferusalem. Now mark, though all the parts of the Temple were holy; yet some places in it were holier than other fome. This may be made evident three wayes. First, There was a place where the people flood separated from the Pricfis, Luke 1. 10. And this was so holy a place, that Christ would not fuffer any to carry any veffel through it. Mark 16.11. And Secondly, There was a place where the Priefts executed their Ministry, which was holier than that the people flood in, and is therefore called the Holy Place, Lev. 16. 30. And Thirdly, There was a place which the High Priett might only enter into, and that but once's year, and that is called the Holy of Holies, the holiest place of all, Heb. 9. 3. But now fince the death of Christ, there is no place in the world, that is holier than other. The prayer of faith is as powerful and as prevalent with God in one place, as in another Paul describes the faithful to be such, as call upon God in every place. And I will faith be, that men pray every where. And where two or three (faith Christ) are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midt of them. That every place should be free for the people of God to worship the Lord in, was foretold by the Prophets, as a fingular priviledge, that should come to the Church in the dayes of the Golpel, Zeph, 2. 11, And men shall workip him, every one from bis place; even all the Isles of the Heathen. That is, all Countreys, though not encompassed with the Sea; for the Tews called all Lands Islands, whither they could not come, but by Water. Men should worship, not only at Ferusalem, as once, but in all places: They should lift up pure hands and hearts, without wrath or doubting, both in Church and Chamber: lany place what soever shall be a sufficient Oratory, fo that God be worshipped in Spirit, and in truth, Mal. I. II. For from the rifing of the Sun, even to the going down of the same, my name shall be great among the Gentiles, and in every 11.4.65.4. 79.1. 138. 2 Jonah 2. 42 7. Mich. 1. 2. Hab. 2. 20.

I Cor. 1. 2. 1 Tim. 2. 8. Matth. 18. 20.

1 Tim. 2. 3.

every place (not in Fudea only) incense shall be offered unto my name; (Here the Prophet frames his words to the capacity of the people, and by the Altar and Sacrifices, he meaneth the spiritual service of God, which should be under the Gospel, when an end shall be put to all these Legal Ceremonies by Christs only Sacrifice) and a pure offering: for my name shall be great among the Heathen, saith the Lord of Hofis. The poor blind beforted Jews thought, that God was fo tyed to them; that if they did not worship him at Ferusalem, he would have no service nor worship in the world: But God tells them, that they were under a very high mistake, for he would take care of his own name and glory, For from the rifing of the Sun, even to the going down of the same, my name shall be great (that is, the knowledge of it, and of the right worthip of it) among the Gentiles (this is an excellent Prophetic of the cutting off the Gentiles) and in every place incense shall be offered unto my name. My Worship, faith God, shall not be confined to Judes, or Ferusalem, or the Temple, but in every place I will have a people, that shall worship me, and that shall be still offering of prayers and praises, and thanksgivings to me. Christ by his death hath taken away all difference of places: And indeed it was but necessary, that when the body was come, the shadow should cease. Yea, fince Christs death, all difference of persons is taken away: For in every Nation under beaven, such as fear God and work righteousness, are accepted of bim. There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free: there is neither male nor female, for ye are all one in Christ Fesus. And therefore all difference of places must needs also be taken away, for this difference of places was as a partition wall between the Jews and the Gentiles. Now mark, fince the destruction of the Temple and City of Ferusalem, the Lord hath not fanctified, any other place in the world, or confecrated it to a more holy use than the reft, and it is only Gods institution and word, that can make anything, or any place holy. Nothing can make any place or any thing elfe holy, but the Ordinance and institution of God. It is Judais it is a denying of Christ to be come in the stell, to See Ifa. 66.19, 20. Chap. 60.8. and Chap. 19.

Aft.10. 34,35. Gal. 3. 28.

Ephes. 2. 14,

I Tim. 4. 4,

hold or affirm, that one place is holier than another. I know the Papists put more holiness in some places than they do in others: for they hold that it is more advantagious to the dead, to be buried in the Church-yard, than out of it: And in the Church, more than in the Church-yard; and in Chancel, more than in the Church; and near the high Alear, more than in any other place of the Chancel : and all out of a superstitious conceit; that these places are consecrated and hallowed, that they are holier then other places are. But Christians that live under a bright shining Gospel understand the folly and vanity of these mens spinits, principles and practices: Such as are wife in heart, know that fince Christ by his death hath taken away all religious difference of places: England is as holy as Canain, and Lindon as Firefalem, and our houses as the Temple.

Under the Law they were wont to dedicate their houses, and confecrate them to God, before they dwelt in them : Deut. 20. 5. And the Officers Stall speak unto the people, faying, what man is there that but built a new house, and bath not dedicated it? (by Prayers, Hymns, and other holy folemnities) let bim go and resurn to bis bouse, lest be die in the battel. and another man dedicate it. Now though this were done in those times, with fundiv ceremonies which are now abolished; yet the equity of the duty still remains. And doubtless the best way for a man to bring down a bleffing upon himself and his house, is to dedicate himself and his house to God, 2 Sam. 6. 11. And the Ark of the Lard continued in the house of Osed-Edom the Hittite three moneths; and the Lord bleffed Obed Edom and all bis bou Bold. Verfe 12. And it was told King David, fazing, the Lord bath hiffed the house of Obed. edom, and all that pertaineth to him, because of the Ark of God. In this Scripture you fee, that when men do any thing, to the advancement of Religion, or to the furtherance of Gods Worthip and Service; he takes it kindly at their hands. The meanest service that is done to Christ or his Church, hath a Patent of eternity. Again, in this Scripture you may run and read a real retribution and remuneration. God dos not put off Obed Edem with a fine Feather, or with ed Ark.

Ne. 12 27,23. Pfal. 30. Title, A Plalm and So g at the Dedication of the boule of David. While the Ark brought the Plague, every one was glad to be rid of it; but when it brought and blefling to Obcd-Edom, they looked upon it as . worthy of entertainment. Many will own a bleffing-Ark a prosperous truth: but he is an Obed-Edom indeed, that will own a persecuted, tolled, banishempty favours, or Court compliments, but he really bleffes hun and all his houshold. Obed-Edom had been at some cost and charge, in giving entertainment to Gods Ark; but God defrayes all the charges, and payes him abundantly for his kind entertainment, with interest upon interest. No man ever gave the Gospel a nights lodging, that hath been a loser by it. God will pay all such with use and principal, who do any thing to the furtherance of his worthip and service. Hiram shall have Corn and Oyl, for affording materials to the building of the Temple. Cyrus shall prosper and be victorious, for breaking off the yokes that were about his peoples necks, and refloring of them to their Christian liberty. Ægyps fared the beeter, for entertaining. the Patriarchs; God stored that Countrey with great plenty and variety of outward bleflings; because his Church was to sojourn there. God bleffed Obed-Edoms person and possession and family for the Arks sake: the blessings that was upon Obed-Edom, was like the precious Oyntment that was shed upon Aarons head, and that ran down to the lowest skirts of his garments. Every fervant in Obed-Edoms family, tasted of Gods noble bounty; and fared the better, for the Arks fake. Let men and Devils do their worft, God will certainly bless their dwellings, who give entertainment to his Ark, to his people that defire to worship him in spirit and in truth.

O Sirs, this is, and this must be for a lamentation, that there are so many Ale-houses, and Gaming houses, and Whore houses, that are usually stust with vain persons, yea, with the very worst of the worst of men, both on the Lords Day, and on other dayes. Certainly these houses are the very Suburbs and Seminaries of Hell. Usi suisting Where hast thou been? apud inseros, in Hell, said Erasmus merrily: comparing Tipling-houses to Hell. Doubtless they are the Nurseries of all sin, and the Synagogue of Devils incarnate. In the above-mentioned houses, how notoriously is the name of God blasphemed, and how shamefully are the precious suits of the earth abused? and how many hundred samilies are there impoverished? and how many thousand children

Among all the Laced amonians you could not have feen one drunken man among them, unless it was their flaves. The Mahumetans forbid any of their Sect to drink Wine, under pain of death. Their Muffulmans and Daymilels affirming, that there Turks a Devil under every Grape.

dren and servants are there empoysoned? and how is all |manner of wickedness and lewdness there encouraged and increased? But when, O when shall the Sword of the Magistrate be turned against these Conventicles of Hell. tainly the horrid wickednesses that are daily committed in luch houses, if not prevented (by a faithful, zealous, and constant execution of the Laws in force) will arm divine vengeince against the Land. Magistrates should not bear the Sword of Tuffice in vain: For they are Ministers of God to revenge and execute wrath upon them that do evil. By their office they are bound to be a terror to cvil doers, and encouragers of them that do well; and O that all in Power and Authority, would for ever refolve against being Satans Drudges. Rev. 2. 10. Fear none of thefe things which thou shall suffer: behold, the Devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tryed; and ye shall have tribulation ten dayes : be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life. The Devil by his Imps and instruments, whom he acts and agitates, the Devil by engaging the Civil and the Military power of the world against the people of God, should so far prevail, as to clap them up in prison. The Prison in this Text, notes (by a Synecdoche) the adjuncts and confequences; as namely, torments, punishments, and all forts of This one panishment, imprisonment (faith Martyrdom. Brightman) doth contain prescribings, confiscation of goods, banishments, slaughters, fires, rackings, or whatsoever exquifite torment befide, is the fory teacheth. The Heathen Emperours, with those wicked Governours, Officers and Souldiers that were under them, were the great instruments in Satans hand, to practife the greatest cruelties upon the Saints in those dayes. Some they cast into Prisons; some they banished; multitudes they slew with the Sword: some of the precious fervants of Christ, they beat with stripes to death, others they branded in their fore heads ! Others were tortured and racked. Yea, and many holy women in that day had their brealts cut off: and others of them had their breafts burnt with a hot Iron: and fometimes with Eggs rofted as hot as could be! These with many other

The Devil in Dioclesian, fav fome: the. Devil in Trajan, fay others. For he reigned next after this Book was written, and was very cruel against the Christians, delivering them over to prisons and death, and all to drive them through fear from the profession of Christ.

other torments the people of God were exercised with, as all know, that have read the lamentable stories of those sad times.

Object.

But you may say, Why then is the imprisonment of the Saints so ascribed to the Devil, as if it were immediately acted by him. Behold, the Devil shall cast some of you into prison.

Answ.

John 8. 44.

of wicked men, so that in effect their deed is his deed; they are so subservient to him.

2. It is to shew us, that the Author, Original and sountain from whence all the persecutions of the Saints do slow, is the Devil, who was a murder and a lyar from the beginning.

3. It is to aggrevate the horribleness of this sin of persecution, as being a main piece of the Devils business, what ever the instruments are.

4. It is to comfort and encourage the people of God to patience and constancy in all their sufferings for Christ, seeing that it is the Devil that is their grand enemy, and that makes (in his instruments) the highest opposition against them. A gracious man in the midst of all oppositions (as Chryfostome faid of Peter) is as a man made all of fire walking in stubble, he overcomes and consumes all oppositions; all difficulties are but whet-stones to his fortitude. When Christians meet with great opposers and great oppositions, they should fay as that noble Souldier Pedarelus (in Erasmus) did to him that told him of a numerous and mighty Army which was coming against him. (Tanto plus gloriæ reforemus quoniam eo plures superabimus) The number of opposers makes the Christians conquest the more illustrious. It is very observable, that in Dioclesians time, (under whom was the last and worst of the ten persecutions) When Christian Religion was more desperately opposed than ever, yet then it prospered and prevailed more than ever. So that Dioclesian himself observing, that the more he sought to blot out the name of Christ, the more legible it became : and the more he laboured to block up the way of Christ, the more passi-1 ble it became. And what ever of Christ he thought to root out, it rooted the deeper, and rose the higher: thereupon he resolved to engage no further, but retired to a private life. All the oppositions that the D.vil and his instruments had raised against the Saints in all the ages of the world. hath not dimmished, but encreased their number. For the firft three hundred years after Christ there was a most terible persecution. Historians tell us, that by seven and twency several forts of deaths they tormented the poor people of God. In these hot times of persecution, many millions of Christians were destroyed. And yet this was so far from diminishing of their number, that it encreased their number : for the more they were oppressed and persecuted, the more they were encreased. And therefore tome have well observed, that though Julian used all means imaginable to suppress them, yet he could never do it. He shut up all their Schools, that they might not have learning; and yet never did learning more flourish than then. He devised all manner of cruel torments, to terrifie the Christians, and to draw them from their holy faith: and yet he faw, that they encreafed and multiplied fo fast, that he thought it his bift course at last to give over his persecuting of the Saints, not out of love, but out of envy, because that through his persecution they encreased. This was represented unto Daniel in a vision, Dan. 2. The Kingdom of Christ is set forth there by a little stone cut out of the Mountain without hands (without art or industry; without Engines, and humane helps). The stone was a growing stone, and although in all the ages of the world, there have been many hammers at work to break this stone in pieces; vet they have not, nor shall not prevail, but the little stone, shall grow more and more, till it becomes a great Mountain, and fills the whole earth. who deare the reaction of

Ruffin.

And let this suffice for Answer to the first Objection.

As they faid once of the Gracians' in the Epigramm whom they thought invu'nerable, We shoot at them, but they fall not down, we wound them, but do'nt kill them. See Exod. 1. 10, 11, 12,43. Acts 8. & A&s 14.

Dan.2. 34,35.

I the state of the state of the wredout links I mould

Object. 2.

I would justifize the Lord, I would say he is righteous; though my bouse be burnt up: but I have lost my goods, I have lost my estate; yea, I have lost my all as to this world : and how then can I (sy the Lord is righteous? how can I justifie that God, which has (even) (tript me as naked, as the day wherein I was born, &c.

Anfw.

To this Ianswer.

First, Didst thou gain thy estate by just, or unjust wayes and means? If by unjust wayes and means, then be filent before the Lord. If by just wayes and means, then know that the Lord will lay in that of himfelf, and of his Son, and of his Spirit, and of his Grace, and of Heavens glory, that shall make up all thy losses to thee. But,

Secondly. Did you improve your effates for the glory of God, and the good of others, or cid you not? If not, why do you complain? If you did, the reward that shall attend you at the long run, may very well bear up your spirits under all your losses. Consult these Scriptures, 1 Cor. 1.15. 2 Cor. 9. 6. Erclef. 11. 1. Gal. 6. 7, 8. Ifa. 32. 20. Ifa. 55. 10. Prov. 11. 18. Rev. 22: 12. But,

The Stars which have least circuit, are nearest the Pole, and men that are least perplexed with busicommonly. nearest to ness, are

God.

Thirdly, What Trade did you drive Christ-wards and Heaven-wards, and Holiness-wards? If you did drive either. no Trade heaven-wards, or but a slender or inconstant Trade heaven-wards, and holiness-wards, never wonder that God by a fiery dispensation, has spoiled your Civil Trade. Doubtless there were many Citizens who did drive a close secret sinful Trade; who had their by wayes and back-doors; fome to uncleanness; others to merry meetings, and others to secret Gaming. Now if thou wert one of them that didft drive a fecret Trade of fin; never murmur because thy house is burnt, and thy Trade deftroyed, but rather repent of thy secret Trade of sin; and wonder that thy body is not in the grave, and that thy foul is not a burning in everlasting flames. Many there were in London, who had so great a Trade, so full a Trade, so constant a Trade, that they had no time to mind the everlasting concernments of their precious fouls, and the great things of Eternity. They had so much to do on Earth, that they had no time to look up to Heaven; as once the Dake of Alva told the King of France. Sr. Thomas More faith, there is a Devil called negotium, bufinefs, that carrieth more fouls to Hell, than all the Devils is Hell befide: Many Citizens had so many Irons in the fire, and were cumbred about with fo many things, that they wholly neglected the one thing necessary: and therefore it was but just with God, to vilit them with a fiery Rod. Look, as much earth puts out the fire; so much worldly bufiness puts out the fire of heavenly affections. Look, as the earth swallowed up Korab, Dathan, and Abiram; so much worldly bufiness (wallows up to much precious time, that many men have no leisure to secure their interest in Christ: to make their calling and election fure: to lay up treasure in Heaven; to provide for eternity: and if this have been any of your cases who are now burnt up, it highly concerns you to justifie the Lord, and to say he is righteous, though he has burnt up your habitations, and destroyed your Trade. fad when a crowd of worldly business, shall crowd God and Christ, and Duty out of doors. - Many Citizens did drive so great a Publick Trade in their Shops, that their private Trade to Heaven was quite laid by. Such who were fo bulie about their Farm and their Merchandise, that they had no leisure to attend their souls concernments, had their City fet on fire about their ears, Matth. 22.5, But they made light of it (that is, of all the free, rich and noble offers of Grace and mercy that God had made to them) and went their wayes, one to bis farm, another to his Merchandife, Ver. 7. But when the King heard thereof, be was wroth : fent forth bis Armies (that is, the Romans) and deftroyed those murderers, and burnt up their City. It is observable, that the lews who were commanded fix dayes to labour, were also commanded to offer Morning and Evening Sacrifice daily. They had their Morning Sacrifice when they entred upon their work; and they had their Evening Sacrifice when they ended their work. Their particular callings did not steal away their hearts from their general callings. The Jews divided

There were many who facriticed their precious time either to Morobeus the M:nister of sleep: or to Bachus the God of Wine, or to Venus the Goddels of B. auty: as if all were due to the Bed, the Tavern, and the Brothel - 4 house. Numb. 22.32. 2 Pet 1.10.

See Luke 14.

Exod. 20. 9. Vide Excd. 29. 38, 39. Numb. 28. 3. Deut. 66,7,8. Wiemse Mor. Law.p. 223. divided the day into three parts, the first ad Tephilla, orationem; to prayer: the second ad Torah, legem, for the reading of the Law; the third ad Malscha, opus, for the works of their lawful callings. Although they were dayes appointed for work; yet they gave God his part, they gave God a share of them every day. God who is the Lord of all time, hath reserved to himself a part of our time every day. And therefore mens particular callings ought to give way to their general calling. But alas, before London was in flames, many mens (Oh that I could not fay most mens) particular callings swallowed up their general calling. The noise is such in a Mill, as hinders all intercourse betwen man and man: So many of the burnt Citizens, had such a multitude of worldly butinesses lying upon their hands, and that made fuch a noise, as that all intercourse between God and them was hindered. Seneca one of the most refined Heathens could fay, I do not give, but only lend my felf to my bufiness. I am afraid this Heathen will one day rise in Judgement against those burnt Citizens, who have not lended themselves to their business, but wholly given up themselves to their business, as if they had no God to honour, no souls to save, no Hell to escape, nor no Heaven to make sure. Bur.

Compare the first and last Chapters of Job together.

Fourthly, 70b lost all, and recovered all again: he lost a fair estate, and God doubles his estate to him. loft all, and recovered all again. I Sam. 30. 18. And David recovered all that the Amalakites had carried away, and David rescued his two wives. Ver. 19. And there was nothing lacking to them, neither small nor great, neither Sons nor Daughters, neither spoil, nor any thing that they bad taken to them. David recovered all. Here the end was better than the beginning; but the contrary befell the Amalekites, who a little before had framed Comædies out of poor Ziklags Tragædies. In the beginning of the Chapter you may see, that David had lost all that ever he had in the world. All the spoil that he had taken from others, were gone, his Corn gone, his Cattel gone, his Wives gone, and his City burnt with fire, and turned into a ruinous heap, so that he had not a house, a habitation

Verse 1, 2, 3, 4, 5.

habitation in all the world to put his head in : he had nothing lest him, but a poor, grieved, madded and enraged Army: The people spake of stoning of him: but what was the event now? why David recovers all again. O Sirst when a Christian is in greatest distress, when he hath loft all, when he is not worth one penny in all the world, yet then he hath a God to go to at last. David encouraged himself in the Lord his God. A Christians case is never so desperate, but he hat still a God to go to. When a Christian has loft all, the best way to recover all again, is to encourage himself in the Lord his God !! God sometimes strip; his people of outward mercies, and then restores to them again those very mercies that he had stript them off. I have read a flory of a poor man that God ferved faithfully, and yet was oppressed cruelly having all his goods taken from him by an exacting Knight, whereupon in a melancholy humour, he perswaded himself, that God was dead, who had formerly been to faithful to him, and now (as he thought) had left him : It fo fell out, that an old man met him, and defired him to deliver a Letter into the hands of his oppressor : upon the receipt and perulal of which, the Knight was fo convinced, that immediately he confessed his fault, and restored the poor man his goods; which made the poor man fay! Now I fee, that God may feem to fleep, but can never dve. If God has taken away all: yet remember, that God has a thousand thousand wayes to make up all thy losses to thee, which thou knowest not of; therefore do nt murmur, don't fret, do'nt faint, nor do'nt limit the Holy One of Ifrael. "H thou madest no improvement of thy house, thy estate, thy Trade, then ris thy wifdom and thy work, rather to be displeased with thy self for thy non improvement of mercies. than to be discontented at that hand of Heaven, that hath deprived thee of thy mercies. Remember On ye burnt Citizens of London, that you are not the first that have I if your all. Besides the instances already cited, you must remember what they suffered in the tenth and eleventh Chapters of the Hebrews; and you must remember that in the Ten Perfecutions many thousands of the people of God were fiript

Verle 6.

Remember that of Zezo, who faid, he never failed better, than when he fuffered shipwrack; of their all: and so were very many also in the Marian dayes, who shrugs or complains of a common Lot? It was grace upon the Throne, that thou enjoyeds thy house, the estate, thy Trade so long, and therefore it concerns there to be rather thankful, that thy mercies were continued so long unto thee, than to murmur because thou art now stript of all. But,

Gen. 21. 19.

Luke 24. 15.

Efther 6.

Judges 4.

r Sam. 15

Exod. 14. 3. Cha. 15. 9.10.

Isaiah 37.

Tobit. 1. 21.

Fifthly, When all is gone, yet mercy may be near, and thou not see it. When Hagars Bottle was empty, the Well of Water was near, though the faw it not. Mercies many times are never nearer to us, than when with Hagar we fit down and weep, because our bottle is empty, because our streams of mercy are dried up. The Well was there before. but she saw it not, till her eyes were opened. Though mercy be near, though it be even at the door, yet till the great God shall irradiate both the Organ and the object, we can neither see our mercies; nor suck the breasts of mercy. Christ the spring of mercy, the fountain of mercy, was near the Disciples, yea, he talked with the Disciples, and yet they knew him not. Look, as dangers are nearest to wicked men when they fee them not, when they fear them not : As Haman was nearest the Gallows, when he thought himself the only man that the King would honour. And so when Sifera dreamed of a Kingdom, Jael was near with her Hammer and her Nail, ready to fasten him to the ground. And so when Agag faid, Surely the bitterness of death is past; Samuel stood ready with his drawn Sword to cut him in pieces in Gilgalbefore the Lord. So when Pharaob faid, They are entangled in the Land, the Wilderness bath shut them in ; I will purfue, I will overtake, I will divide the Spoil, my lust shall be latisfied upon them, I will draw my Sword, my hand shall destroy them. But presently God blows with his Wind, and the Sea covered them, and they fank as Lead in the mighty Waters. Soon after Sennacherib had fent a Blasphemous Letter to King Hezekidh, The Angel of the Lord ment forth, and Smote in the Camp of the Assyrians a hundred and fourscore and five thousand: and when they arose early in the morning, behold they were all dead corpse : and within five and fifty dayes after Sennacherib himself was butchered by his own Sons : No fooner fooner had the people, as prophane Sycophants applauded! Herod; and given him the honour due to God; but he was fmitten by the Angel of the Lord, or eaten up of Worms, or with Vermin : with Lice, as his Grand-father Herod had Act. 12. 82,23. Roffensis had a Cardinals Hat fent him; been before him. but his head was cut off before it came : the Ax was nearer his head, than his Hat. The Heathen Historian could not but observe, that as soon as Alexander the Great, had summoned a Parliament before him of the world, he was fum: moned himself by death, to appear before God in the other world. Now as you see by these instances, that dangers are nearest the wicked, when they see them not, when they fear them not; So mercies are very near to the people of God, when they fee them not, when they expect them not. The Ifraelites found it fo in Afa his time; and in Jehofaphats time; and in Pharaobs time, and in Hezekiahs time; and in Efthers time; and in the time of the Judges, as is evident through-When there was but a handful of out the Book of Judges. Meal in the Barrel, and a little Oyl in the Cruze, Supply was at hand. Her Barrel and Cruze had no bottom, who out of a little gave a little. In all the Ages of the world, God has made that word good, Ifa. 41, 17. When the poor and needy feek water, and there is none; and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the Lord will bear them, I the God of Ifriel will not for fake them. Versc 18. I will open Rivers in high places, and Fountains in the midft of the Valleys: I will make the Wildernes a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water. Chrysoftome observes. That 'cis very delightful to the Mother to have her breafts drawn. Oh how much more then is it delightful to God, to have his breafts of mercy drawn! O Sirs, look as many times the Mothers breafts are drawn, and near the Child, though the Child fees them not: fo Gods breafts of mercy are many times drawn, and near his people, and yet they see them not. Geographers write, that the City of Syracuse in Sicily, is so curiously scituated, that the Sun is never out of fight. Certainly the mercies of God are never out of fight, though sometimes the people of God are so clouded and benighted, that they can't fee their mercies, though Uu 2 thev Pfal. 126.2,3. 2 Chron. 14. Chap. 20. Exod. 15. 2 Kings 19. Efther 6. 8. 1 Kings 17. 12, 13, 14, 15,16.

they are near them; yea, though they stand before them. But,

6.

Pfa 71.20,21.

I Sam. 25.

Sixthly, I answer, That God many times by taking away some outward mercies, comforts and contentments, dos but make way for greater and better mercies to come in the room of those he has taken away. He took from David an Absalom, and gave him a Solomon: he took from him a scotting Michal, and gave him a prudent Abagail. He took away from Isaac his Mother Sarah, and made up his loss by giving of him Rebeckab to wife. He took away much from Job, but laid twice as much in the room, of all the mercies that he had stript him off. The Lord many times takes away small mercies, to make soom for greater mercies; and many times takes away great mercies, to make room for greater mercies, yea, the greatest of mercies. But,

Seventhly and lastly, Though thou hast lost all thy outward comforts in this world, yet if thou art a believer, there are ten choice Jewels, that thou shalt never, that thou canst never lofe.

1. Thou shalt never totally or finally lose thy God

Hofea 2. 19, 20.

2. Thou shalt never lose thy interest in Christ. Whatever thy outward losses are, yet thy interest in Christ still holds good. Rom. 8, 33, ult.

3. Thou shalt never lose the Spirit of Grace, John 14. 16; And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may alide with you for ever.

4. Thou shalt never lose the seed of Grace, the habits of Grace, I John 3. 9. Whosever is born of God, doth not commit sin, (that is, doth not give himself over to a voluntary serving of sin: he dos not make a Trade of sin: he sins not totally, sinally, maliciously, habitually, studiously, resolutely, wilfully, delightfully, deadly a martiar is notify he dos not make it his work to sin, he cannot follow his lusts, as a work-man sollows his Trade) for his seed remaineth in him. The seed of God, the seed of Grace is an abiding seed.

thou mailt lose the sense and assurance of thy sorgiveness.)

7ĕř.

1 Cor. 1. 8. Luke 22. 32. Fer. 31. 34. For I will forgive their iniquity, and remember their fin no more, Mich. 7. 19.

6. Thou shalt never lose thy interest in the Covenant of Grace, Pfal. 89. 30. 35. Fer. 31. 31. 38. 1/2. 54. 10. Once in Covenant, and for ever in Covenant.

7. Thou shalt never lose thy union with Christ, 7 hn 15 1. 6. In John 17. Christ prayed, that we might be one, as he and his Father are one; not effentially, nor personally, but spiritually, to as no other creature is united to God. There can be no Divorce between Christ and the believing foul. Christ hates putting away. Sin may for a time seemingly separate between Christ and the believer; but it can never finally separate between Christ and the Believer. Look, as it is impossible for the Leaven that is in the Dough, to be separated from the Dough after it is once mixed; for it turn Luther. eth the nature of the Dough into it felf; to it is impossible for the Saints ever to be separated from Christ; for Christ is in the Saints, as nearly, and as really, as the Leaven is in the very Dough. Christ and believers are so incorporated, as if Christ and they were one lump. Our nature is now joyned to God by the indisfolvable tye of the Hypostatical Union in the second Person: and we in our persons, are joyned to God, by the Mystical indissolvable bond of the Spirit, the third Person. Our union with the Lord is so near, and so glorious, that it makes us one Spirite with him. In this bleffed upion, the Saints are not only joyned to the Graces and benefits which flow from Christ, but to the Person of Christ, to Christ himself, who is first given for us, and to us; and then with him, we receive all other spiritual blessings and sa-Vours.

8. Thou shalt never lose thy inward peace, either totally or finally. Tis true, by fin, and Satan, and the world, and divine withdrawings, thy peace may be somewhat, interrupted, but it shall never be finally loft. The greatest storms in this life that beats upon a believer, will in time blow over, and the Sun of Righteousness, the Prince of Peace will Isa. 9.6.

Mal. 2. 16.

I Cor. 6. 17.

Rom, 8. 32. I Cor. 3. 21, 22,23:

Pfalm 20. 5. Mal. 4. 2.

Shalom: Under this Word, the Jews comprehend all Peace, Prosperity, and happy Success public of drafamily shine as gloriously upon him as ever, John 14. 27. Peace I leave with you, (its bonum hareditamentum, a good inheritance) my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. My peace I give unto you, that is, that peace with God. and peace with conscience, that I have purchased with my blood, I give unto you. Men may wish me peace, but 'tis only Christ that can give me peace. The peace that Christ gives, is bottom'd upon his blood; upon his imputed righteousness; upon his Intercession, and upon a Covenant of Peace; and therefore it must needs be a lasting peace, an abiding peace. When a Tyrant thus threatned a Christian. I will take away thy house: the Christian replyed, Thou canst not take away my peace. When the Tyrant threatned to break up his School, the Christian answered, I shall still keep whole my peace. When the Tyrant threatned to confiscate all his goods, the Christian answered, yet there is no premunire against my peace. When the Tyrant threatned to banish him out of his own Countrey, the Christian replyed, yet I shall carry my peace with me.

9. Thou shalt never lose thy Title to Heaven, Luke 12.32. Fear not little flock; (ungor nointer), here are two Diminutives in the Original: the word translated Flock, signifieth a Little Flock; but that the exceeding littleness of it might appear, Christ adds another word: so that the words in the sountain run thus, Fear not little little flock. And indeed in all the Ages of the world, the flock of Christ have been but little in their own eyes, and little in the worlds eyes, and little in their enemies eyes, and but little in comparison of that world of Wolves that has still surrounded them) for it is your Fashers good pleasure to give you the Kingdom. You need neither fear the loss of earthly things, or the want of earthly things; for you have a kind, a tender, a loving Father, whose pleasure 'ris, to give you the Kingdom, that is, the Heavenly Kingdom, that is prepared and reserved for you.

to and lastly, Thou shalt never lose thy Crown of Life, thy crown of Glory, thy incorruptible crown, thy crown of righteousness. 2 Tim, 4. 8. Henceforth is laid up for me a crown

Rev. 2. 10. James 1. 12. 1 Pet. 5. 4. 1 Cor. 9. 25.

crown of righteousness, which the Lord the righteous Judge shall give me at that day; and not to me only; but unto all them allo that love his appearance. A Crown is the top of Royalty. Here it notes that everlasting glory that is laid up for the Saints. Now this Crown is called a Crown of Rightcoufness; partly, because tis purchased by the rightcousness of Christ; and partly, because he is righteous that hath pro mifed it; and partly; because it is a just and righteous thing with God, to crown them with glory at last, who have for his honour been crowned with shame and reproach in this world; and partly, because they come to this Crown, in the use of righteous wayes and means. And this Crown is said to be laid up, to note our fure and certain enjoyment of it, as the Greek word 'Awoxaras, dos import. much suffice for Answer to this second Objection.

I would justifie the Lord, I would say he is righteous, though Object. 3. my house be burnt up, and I am turned out of all; but this troubles me. I have not an estate to do that good that formerly I bave done. I was once full, but the Lord bath made me empty: I was once Naomi; i. c. beautiful : bus now God bas made me Marah; i. c. bitter; the Lord hath testified against me, and the Almighty bath affl ded me, and confumed me on every band. have fed the poor, I have clothed the naked, I have received them ibat were in bonds : The bleffing of bim that was ready to periff came upon me; but now, I can do little or nothing for others; and this troubles me.

I answer, Thy condition is no lower, than was the condition of Christ and his Apostles in this world. Silver and Gold have me none. Acts 3. 6. Salvian faith, that Christis Mendicorum maximus, the greatest Beggar in the world, as one that shareth in all his Saints necessities. Both Christ and his followers when they were in this world they were maintained by others. They had no Lands nor Lordthips, but lived upon others cofts. But of this before; therefore let this touch suffice here. But,

Secondly, God many times in this life, repairs his peoples charity

Ruth 1. 20,

Tob 29. 13.

Matth. 19,27; 28, 29, 30. 2.Cor. 9. 6. to 14. Heb. 6. 10.

Matth. 10. 42:

charity-with interest upon interest. Their scattering is their encreasing: their spending is their lending: their layings out, are but layings up for themselves, Prov. 11. 24. There is that feattereth, and yet increaseth. Verse 25. The liberal foul shall be made fat : and he that watereth, shall be watered also bimself. It is sabled of Midas, that what ever he touched, he turned it into Gold. This is most true of Charity; what ever the hand of Charity toucheth, it turneth it into Gold (be it but a cup of cold water) nay into Heaven it felf. I have read of one, who having given somewhat to a poor man, and confidering with himfelf, whether he had not injured himself, by giving beyond his ability; presently corrected himfelf with those thoughts, that he had lent it to one, that would pay well again; and within an hour after, he had it restored above sevenfold, in a way which he never thought of. However God may carry it towards his people in this world, yet he will be fure to repay their charity in that other world. It is storied of one Evagrius (in Cedrenus) a rich man who lying upon his death-bed, and being importuned by Sinefius the Bishop, to give something to charitable uses, he yielded at last to give three hundred pounds; but first took Bond of the Bishop, that it should be payed him in another world (according to the promise of our Saviour with a hundred fold advantage) and the very next night after his departure, he appeared to the Bishop, delivering the Bond cancelled, and fully discharged; thereby acknowledging, that what was promised was made good. It is probable, that the relation is fabulous. But this is certain, viz. That one dayes being in Heaven, will make us a sufficient recompence for whatsoever we have given, or do give, or shall give in this world. But,

Thirdly, If the constant frame and disposition of your hearts be, to do as much good as ever you did, or more good than ever you did, then you may be consident; that the Lord accepts of your will for the deed, 2 Cor. 8. 12. For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man bath, and not according to that be hath not. God prefers a willing mind, before a worthy work. God measures all his people,

people, not by their works, but by their wills. When the will is strongly enclined and byassed to works of charity, so that a man would fain be a giving to the poor, and a supplying the wants and necessities of the needy; but can't for want of an estate; in this case God accepts of the will for the deed. David had a purpose and a will to build God a house, and God took it so kindly at his hands, that he dispatches an Embassadour to him, to tell him, how highly he referred his purpole and good will, to build him a house The Widows will was in her two mites which the cast into Gods Treasury; and therefore Christ sets a more honourable value upon them; than he dos upon all the valt fumms that others cast in. Many Princes and Queens, Lords and Ladies are forgotten, when this poor Widow, who had a will to be nobly charitable, has her name written in letters of Gold, and her charity put upon record for all eternity. The King of Perfix did lovingly accept of the poor mans handful of water, because his good will was in it, and put it into a Golden Veffel, and gave the poor man the Veffel of Gold. And do you think, that the King of Kings will be out-done by the King of Perfia? Surely no. But, 1938 1 2211

Fourthly, and laftly, As there are more wayes to the Wood than one; so there are more wayes of doing good to others, than one; If thou canst not do so much good to others as formerly thou hast done, by thy Pursesyet, thou mailt do more good to others, than ever yet theu half done, by thy Pen, thy Parts, thy Prayers, thy Gifts, thy Graces, thy examples Though thou art less servicable to their bodies; yet if thou art more serviceable than ever to their souls. Thou hast no reason to complain: there is no love, no compassion, no pity no charity, no mercy to that; which reaches immortal fouls, and which will turn most to a mans account in the great day of our Lord Jelus, are an daniw one ello soiled

I would justifie the Lord, I would say be is righteous, though Object. 3. my house be burnt up, and I am surned out of all; but God bas punified the nighteous with the wicked (if not more than the wicked), this flery Rod bas fallen beavier upon many Saints, than XX upon many sinners, O'c. How then can I justifie God ? How then can I fay, that the Lord is righteous ? O'c.

2 Chron. 6. 8

Mark 12. 41, 42.43 44.

Anfw. I.

Gen. 1. 12. Gen. 26.

Gen. 42. 2 Sam: 21. 1. 1 Kings 18. 2. Matth. 5. 42 5

Eccles. 9. 2:

Communia effe voluit, Oc. commoda prophanis, Oc. Incommoda luis. Tertul.

Ffalm 77. 19. Rom. 11. 33. Pfalm 97. 2. Pfalm 36.6.

In all the Ages of the world, Gods dearest children have been deep sharers with the wicked in all common calamities. Abraham and his Family were by Famine driven into Ægyps as well as others. And Isaac and his Family, were by Famine driven into the Philistins Countrey, as well as others, And Facob and his Family by Famine were driven into Egypt as well as others. And in Davids time, there was a Famine for three years: And in Elijabs time there was a fore Famine in Samaria. The difference that God puts between his own and others, are not seen in the administration of these outward things. All things come alike to all: there is one event to the righteous and to the wicked, to the good and to the clean, and to the unclean; to him that facrificeth, and to him that facrificeth not: as is the good, so is the sinner. and he that sweareth, as he that feareth an Oath? The priviledges of the Saints lye in temporals, but in spirituals and eternals; elseReligion would not be a matter of faith, but sense: and men would serve God, not for himself but for the gay and gallant things of this world. But,

-Secondly, There are as many Mysteries in Providences, as there are in Prophecies: and many Texts of Providence are as hard to understand, as many Texts of Scriptures are Gods way is in the Sea, his pather are in the great waters; and his footsteps are not known. His judgements are unsearchable, and his wayes are past finding out. And yet when clouds and darkness are round about him; righteousness and judgement are the habitation of his Throne. ... When his Judgements are a great deep; yet then his righteousness is like the great Mountains. There are many Mysteries in nature, and many mysteries of State which we are ignorant of; and why then should we wonder, that there are many mysteries in Provi-2 BijiO dence, that we do not underftand. Let a man but ferioully confider, how many possible deaths lurk in his own bowels, and the innumerable Holts of external dangers, which beleaguers him on every fide; how many invitible Arrows fly about

about his ears continually; and yet how few have hit him, and that none hitherto have mortally wounded him; and it will doubtless fo far affect his heart, as to work him to conclude, that great, and many, and mysterious, are the Providences that daily attend upon him. Vives reports of a lew, that having gone over a deep River on a narrow planck in a dark night, and coming the next day, to fee what dan ger he had escaped, sell down dead with astonishment. Should God many times but open to us, the misteriousness of his Providences, they would be matter of amazement and aftonishment to us. I have read, that Marcia a Roman Princels being great with child, had the Babe in her killed with lightning, the her felf escaping the danger. What a mysterious Providence was this? Gods Providence towards his Servants, is as a wheel in the midft of a wheel; whole motion, and work, and end in working, is not differred by a common eye. The actings of Divine Providence are many times fo dark, intricate and mysterious, that it will pose men of the most raised parts, and of the choicest experiences, and of the greatest Graces, to be able to discern the wayes of God in them. There are many mysteries in the works of God, as well as in the word of God.

Thirdly, Sometimes Gods own people fin with others, and therefore they finart with others. Thus Mofes and Aaren finned with others, and therefore they were shut out of Canaan, and their Carkaffes fell in the Wilderneis as well as Numb. 20. others. Pfal. 106. 35. They were mingled among the Heathen, and learned their works. Verle 40. Therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people, insomuch, that he abborred bis inheritance. Jer. 9. 25, 26. Behold the dayes come, faith the Lord, that I will punish all them which are circumcifed, with the uncircumcifed. Egypt, and Judah, and Edom, and the children of Ammon, and Mozb, and all that are in the umoft corners, that dwell in the Wilderness: for all these Nations are uncir- Vid Rom. 2. cumcifed, and all the house of Ifracl are uncircumcifed in the heart. 28, 29. Such as were outwardly, but not inwardly circumcifed, should be sure to be punished in the day of Gods wrath, with those who were neither inwardly nor outwardly circum-

XXX

I have read of a Father and h s Son, who being shipwrackt at Sea, the Son failed to thoar upon the back of his dead Father. What a strange mysterious Providence was this!

Pin Nat. Hft. lib. 2. cap. 51:

Ezek. 1. 16.

Ezck. 9.6. Rev. 18.4. 1 Pet. 4.17.

2 Chron. 32.

2.Sam. 24. 10. to 18.

Gen.14.12 16 Common calamities make no discrimi nation between persons and persons, or houses and houses. All common Tudgements work according to their commission, and according to their nature, without distinguishing the righteous from the wicked.

5.

Zech. 13. 9. Eccl. 8.12, 13.

cised. When the good and the bad joyn in common provocations, no wonder if they suffer in common desolations. Though gross impieties, like Pitch or Gunpowder enrages the fire: yet the sins, the infirmities of Gods people, add to the flame. Not only Manaffer his blood-shed, but also good Hezekiahs pride and vanity of spirit, boasting and glorying in his worldly riches, brought on the Babylonish Captivity upon the Jews. But,

Fourthly, The people of God many times suffer in common calamities, as they are parts and members of that Politick body that is punished. The fins of a City, a Society, a Company, or a Nation, may involve all the members in the same Judgement. Though Lot was not guilty of the fins of Sodom; yet Lot was carried away in the Captivity of Sodom, as co-habiting with them. And to though many of the precious Servants of the Lord in London, were not guilty of those gross impicties, that their neighbours were guilty of; yet co-habiting either with them, or near them, they were burnt up and destroyed with them. Achans Family were not guilty of Achans Sacriledge, and yet Achans Family were de-Stroyed for Achans Sacriledge. The burning of London was a National Judgement; and this National Judgement, was the product of National fins as I have formerly proved. Now mark, though the people of God may be personally innocent, yet because they are members of a nocent body, they are liable to undergo the temporal smart of National Judgements. Doubtless a whole City may be laid desolate for the wickedness of one man, or of a few men, that dwelleth in it, Ecclef. 9. 18. One finner destroyet b much good. But,

Fifthly, When good men who can't be justly charged with publick sins, do yet fall with wicked men by publick judgements, you must remember, that God has several different ends, in inflicting one and the same Judgements, both upon the good and upon the bad. The mettal and the dross go both into the fire together, but the dross is consumed, and the mettal refined. The stalk and the ear of corn, fall upon the threshing floor, under one and the same Flayl; but the one is stattered in pieces, the other is preserved. From one and the same Olive, and from under one and the same Press, !. is crushed out both Oyl and dregs, but the one is tunn'd up for use, the other thrown out as unserviceable. The same Judgements that befall the wicked, may befall the righteous, but not upon the same accompt. The righteous are cast into the Furnace for tryal; but the wicked for their ruine. The righteous are fignally fanctified by fiery dispenfations, but the wicked are figually worsened by the same dispensations. The very self same Judgement that is as a Load. stone to draw the righteous towards Heaven, will be as a Mill-stone to fink the wicked down to Hell. The Pillar of fire that went before Ifrael, had a light fide and a dark fide; Exod. 14. 20. the light fide was towards Gods people, and the dark fide The flames of London will was towards the Egyptians. prove such a Pillar both to the righteous and the wicked, That will certainly be made good upon the righteous and the wicked, whose habitations have been destroyed by Londons flames: that the Greek Epigramm speaks of the Silver Ax the Enfign of Justice.

a D

Ter. 24, 1, 2,

That Sword that cuts the bad in Twain, The good doth wound and heal again.

Those dreadful Judgements that have been the Ax of Gods revenging Justice, to wound and break the wicked in pieces. shall be righteous mens cures, and their Golden restoratives. But.

Sixthly and laftly, God sometimes wraps up his own people with the wicked in defolating Judgements; that he may before all the world wipe off that reproach, which Atheists and wicked men are apt to call upon him, as if he were partial, as if he were a respecter of persons; and as if his wayes Ezek, 18, 25. were not just and equall. God to stop the mouth of iniquity, the mouth of blasphemy, hath made his own people as desolate as others by that fiery calamity, that has past upon them. Such men that have been eye witnesses of Gods impartial dealing with his own people in those dayes when London was in flames, must fay, that God is neither partial nor fond. And let thus much suffice, by way of Answer to this Objection.

Chap, 33. 20.

3. Luke 21. 19. The third Duty that lyes upon those that have been burnt up, is for them in patience to posses their own souls, and quietly to acquiese in what the Lord has done. O Sirs, hold your peace, and bridle your passions, and quietly submit to the stroke of Divine Justice. When Aarons Sons were devoured by fire, Aaron held his peace. And will not you hold your peace, now your houses are devoured by fire? What were your houses to Aarons Sons? All the houses in the world, are not so near and dear to a man as his children are. In this story concerning Aaron and his Sons, there are many things remarkable. As,

The Hebrew word Danan, ignifies filence, or stilness: it signifies a staying of the heart, a quieting of the mind. Aarons mind was quiet and still: all his unruly affections and passions, were stilled and allayed. Oleaster observes, that Joshuah in speaking to the Sun Stand still in Gibeon, useth the same word that is here used. Johna 12. 10. So that this Phrase, Aa on held his peace, imports thus much, That Aa or stood still, or stayed from surther vexing, or troubling, or disquieting of himself; though at first his heart was in a strange violent motion, yet he recovers himself, and stands still before the Lord.

Lev. 10. 2, 3.

1. That he had loft two of his Sons, yea, two of his eldeft

Sons together at a clap.

2. These two were the most honourable of the Sons of Aaron: as we may see, Exod. 24. 1. in that they only with their Father and the seventy Elders are appointed to come up to the Lord.

3. They were cut off by a sudden and unexpected death, when neither themselves nor their Father, thought their ruine had been so near. What misery to that of being suddenly furprized by a doleful death?

4. They were cut off by a way which might feem to tefifie Gods hot displeature against them: for they were devoured by fire from God. They sinned by sire, and they perished by fire. Look, as fire came from the Lord before in mercy; so now fire is sent from the Lord in Judgement.
Certainly the manner of their death, pointed out the sin for which they were similten. Now what Father had not rather lose all his children at once, by an ordinary stroke of death, then to see one of them destroyed by Gods immediate hand in fuch a terrible manner.

5. They were thus smitten by the Lord on the very first day of their entring upon that high honour of their Priestly Function; and when their hearts were doubtless full of joy. now to be suddenly thunder-struck in such a Sun-shine day of mercy, as this seemed to be, must needs add weight to their calamity and mifery. My a series a se

6. They were cut off with fuch great severity for a very small offence, if reason may be permitted to sit as Judge in the case. They were made monuments of divine vengeance only for taking fire to burn the Incense, from one place: when they fould have taken it from another. they did (fay some) not purposely, but through mistake, and at fuch a time, when they had much work lying upon their hands, and were but newly entred upon their new employment. Now notwithstanding all this Aaron held his peace. It may be, at first, when he saw his Sons devoured by fire, his heart began to wrangle, and his passions began to work: but when he confidered the righteousness of God on the one hand, and the glory that God would get to himfelf on the other hand; he prefently checks himself, and laves his hand upon his mouth, and stands still and silent before the Lord. Though it be not easie in great afflictions with Agren, to hold our peace pryct it is very advantageous: which the Heathens feemed to intimate, in placing the Image of Angeronia, with the mouth bound upon the Altar of Volupia, to shew, that they do prudently and patiently bear, and conceal their troubles, forrows and anxieties, they shall attain to comfort at last. What the Apostle saith of the di-Arefled Hebrens, after the spoyling of their goods. Te have need Heb. 10. 34, of parience; the fame I may lay to you, who have lot your houses, your Shops, your Trades, your all: you have need yes, you have great need of patience. Thoughthy mercies are few, and thy milesies are many, though thy mercies are small, and thy miseries are great; yet look that thy spirit be quiet, and that thou dost sweetly acquicke in the will

Pfalm 39. 9. See my Mate Christian, under the smarting rod, where the excellency of patience & the evil of impatience, is largely set forth. will of God. Now God hath laid his fiery Rod upon your backs, it will be your greatest wisdom to lay your hands upon your mouth, and to say with David, I was dumb, I opened nor my mouth, because thou didst it. To be patient and tilent under the sharpest Providences, and the sorest Judgements, is as much a Christians glory, as it is his duty. The patient Christian scels the want of nothing. Patience will give contentment in the midst of want. No loss, no cross, no affliction will fit heavy upon a patient soul. Dionysius saith, that this benefit he had by the study of Philosophie, viz. That he bore with patience all those alterations and changes that he met with in his outward condition. Now shall Nature do more than Grace? Shall the study of Philosophy, do more than the study of Christ, Scripture; and a mans own heart? But,

The fourth Duty that lyes upon those who have been burned up, is to fet up the Lord in a more eminent degree than ever, as the great object of their fear. Oh how should we fear and tremble before the great God, who is able to turn the most serviceable and useful creatures to us, to be the means of destroying of us, Heb. 12. 28. Let us have grace whereby we may serve God acceptably, with reverence and godly fear. Verse 29. For our God is a consuming fire. Here are two Arguments to work the Saints to fet up God as the great object of their fear. The first is drawn from the terribleness of Gods Majesty, He is a consuming fire. The second is drawn from the relation which is between God and his prople, Our God. What a strange Title is this of the great God, that we meet with in this place? and yet this it one of the Titles of Godg expressing his nature, and in which he glories, that he is called a confurning fire. These words God is a confuming fire, are not to be taken properly, but metaphorically. Fire we know is a very terrible and dreadful creature : and fo may very well ferve, to let forth to us the cerribleness and dreadfolness of God. Now God is here faid to be a confurning or devouring fire. The word in the Oilginal, mararanionis; is doubly compounded, and to the fignification fication is augmented and encreased, to note to us the exceeding terribleness of the fire that is here meant. When God would fet forth himfelf to be most terrible and dreadful to the fons of men, he dos it by this refemblance of fire; which of all things is most terrible and intolerable, Deut. 4. 24. For the Lord thy God is a consuming fire; even a jealous God. The Hebrew word 7773N that is here rendered consuming, doth properly fignific devouring or eating; it comes from ?? which fignifies to devene and eat; and by a Metaphor it fignifieth to confume or destroy: Gods is a devouring fire, a cating fire, and finners, and all they have tis but bread and meat for divine wrath to feed upon, Deutrong. 3. Understand therefore this day, that the Lord thy God is be, which goeth before thee as a consuming fire : be shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face a for shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the Lord bath (sid unio thee; What more violent, what more irrefiftible, what more terrible, than fire? O how much therefore dos it concern us, to fet up that God, as the great object of our fear, who hath armed and commanded this dreadful creature the fire, to destroy us in many, or in most of our outward concernments as to this world ! Jer. 10. 11 1 At his wrath the earth hall shall tremble, and the Nations Ball not be able to abide bis indignation. Job 12. II. Shall not his Excellency make you afraid, and his dread fall upon you? Pfal. 119. 120, My flesh tremblesh for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgements. Hab, 3.5. Before him went the Pestilence, and burning coals went forth at bis feet. Verle 16. When I heard my belly trembled; my lips quivered at the voice : rottenness entered into my bones, and I trembled in my felf, that I might rest in the day of trouble. London, London, it highly concerns thee to tremble and quiver, and stand in awe of that great and glorious God who hath fent fo many thousands to their long homes by a sweeping Pestilence, and who hath by a dreadful fire turned thy ancient Monuments, and thy flately buildings into a ruinous heap. That Christian is more worth than the Gold of Ophir, who fears more the hand that hath laid on the fiery Rod. than the Rod it seif. That prudent and faithful Coun-

See Pfal 50 3. Ifa. 33. 14. Deut. 28. 58. sel which the Prophet Isaiah gives, should alwayes lye warm upon every burnt Citizens heart, Isa. 8. 13. Sandifie the Lord of Husts himself, and les him be your fear, and les him be your dread. But,

The Poets bring in the feigned Gods, each one conent with his own Office and Estate: Mars with War, Mileiva with Sciences, Mercu y with Eloquence, Cupid with Love, Juiter with Heaven, and Pluto with Hell.

The fifth Duty that lyes upon those who have been burnt up, is to be contented with their present condition. When a mans mind is brought down to his means, all is well! Contentation of mind under all the turns and changes of this life, makes a Believer Master, both of the little and great world of unruly defires within himfelf, and of tem? ptations in the world without. Contentment in a mans present condition, will yield him a little Heaven in the midst of all the great Hells that he meets with in this world. Contentation is a hidden treasure, that the Believer will carry with him to the third Heaven; where an exceeding weight of glory and contentation, with full fatisfaction to his defires, will be added to that little stock of contentment that he has obtained in this world. Contentation in every condition, is no other but the House of God, and the gate of Heaven (as Facob once speaks of that gracious manifesta. tion of God, Gen. 28) God dwells in a contented heart, and a contented heart dwells in God. Contentment is that Porch, wherein the Believer waits for an entrance into an house not made with hands, but one eternal in the Heat O labour much with God, that your hearts may be brought fully under the power of these divine commands. 1 Tim: 6.8. Hiving food and rayment, let us be therewith content. Heb. 13.5. Les your conversation be without coveroufneft. (or without the love of Silver, as the Greek word figpifies) and be content with such things as you have. Contensi prafentibus? So Beza and others, be content with things prefent. The believing Hebrews had been plundered of all they had in this world (when the Apostle gave forth this Royal command, Heb. 10. 24.) and yet the Apostle requires them to be content. Tis as much the duty of a Christian, to be content when he has nothing, as when all the world fmiles upon him. Christians are Souldiers, Strangers, Travellers, Pilgrims.

2 Cor. 5. 1.

Pilgrims, and therefore it concerns them to make shift with little things , yea, with any thing in this world. The Ifraclites had no gay clothes, nor no new clothes in their wilderness condition; but God made their old clothes, to be all clothes to them: and that was enough. Jacob did not indent with God for Junkets or Ornaments, but for food and rayment Gen. 28. 20. If God will give me bread to eat and rayment to but on, then shall the Lord be my God. Nature is content with a little, Grace with less : though nothing will satisfie those mens hearts, whose lusts are their Lords. We shall never want a penny in our Purles to bear our charges till we get to Heaven : and therefore let us be content with our prefent portion in this world. Phil. 4. 11, 12. I have learned in whatfoever estate I am therewith to be content. I know bow to be abased: and I know bow to abound: every where, and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need. In these words you have first the vicissitude of Pauls outward condition; at one time he abounds, at another he is abased : at one time he is full, and at another time he fuffers need. 2. You have the fweet and gracious composure of his spirit, and this is expressed in two fingular acts. The first is his contentation of mind in all conditions. I have learned in whatfoever effate I am therewith to be content. The second is his prudent and pertinent comportment with his present condition; I know both how to be abased, and how to abound. 3. You have the way how he attained this contentation of mind in all condititions; I have learned (faith he) I am instructed : this lesson of contentment, he did not learn, at the feet of Dr. Gamaliek but in the School of Jesus Christ. Content ment in every condition, is too high a lesson, for any effectually to teach, but Jefus Christ, O Sirs, in the grave it is all one, who hath had all, and who hath had none. What folly is it, to lay up goods for many years, when we cannot lay up one day for the enjoyment of our goods? Christ (who never mit called any) calls him fool, who had much of the world under his hands, but nothing of God, or Heaven in his heart. Zapirus the Perfice was contented to fuflain flain the cutting off his Nofe, and Ears, and Lips, to further the enterprise of his Lord Darius against proud Babylon. So Christians should be contented to be any thing, to do any thing, or to fuffer any thing, to further or promote the glory of God in this world. All this whole world is not proportionable to the precious foul. All the riches of the Indies cannot pacifie conscience, nor secure eternity, nor prevent death, nor bring you off in the day of Judgement : and therefore be contented with a little. All the good things of this world, are but cold comforts: they cannot stretch to eternity: they will not go with us into another world; and therefore why should the want of such things, either trouble our thoughts, or break our hearts. The whole world is but a Paradise for fools : 'tis a beautiful, but deceitsul Harlot : 'tis a dreamed sweetness, and a very Ocean of Galt." There is nothing to be found in it, that has not mutability and uncertainty, vanity and vexation stampt upon it. And therefore he can't be happy, that enjoyes it; nor he miserable. that wants it. And why then should not he be contented. that has but but a little of it? The greatest outward happinels, is but honied poison: and therefore don't thrug nor faint, because thou hast but little of the world. All thy croffes and loffes shall be so tempered by a hand of Heaven. as that they shall become wholesome Medicines; they shallbe steps to thy future glory; they are thy only Hell, thy Heaven is to come. "And therefore be contented in the midit of all thy forrows and fufferings. Remember that many times they who have most of the world in their hands, have least of God, of Christ, of the Spirit, of Grace, of Heaven in their hearts. And remember that a man were better to have much of God with a little of the world, than to have much of the world, with a little of God. God alone is a thousand thousand felicities, and a world of happiness, the only life and light. Algerianthe Martyr, being fwallowed up in a fweet fruition of God; found more light in his Dunge on than was without mall the world of O Sirs if upon calling up of your accounts for another world, you find that Heaven is your home, the world your foothoof, the Angels VOUE.

Tis only an infinite good, and infinite God, that can fill and fatisfie the foul of man.

Plato could fay, The mind is not fatisfied nor quieted, till it return thicker from whence it came.

your Attendants, your Creator, your Father, your Judge, your Brother, the Holy Spirit your comforter ; if you find that God is ever with you, ever before you, ever within you, ever round about you, and ever a making of-provision, more or less for you, why should you not be contented with your present condition, with your present proportion, be it more, or be it less ? But,

The fixth Duty that lyes upon those who have been burnt up, is to mourn, to lye low, to keep humble under this dreadful Judgement of fire, under this mighty hand of God. When Zicklag was burnt by the Amalekites; David and the people lifted up their voices and wept until they had no pawer to weep. They wept their utmost : they wept themfelves even blind. They did not Stoically flight that fiery Rod, but prudently laid it to heart. Tears are called the blood of the foul. Now a shower of tears, a shower of blood they poured out to quench those flames that the Amalakites had kindled. When they faw their City laid desolate by fire, their forrow was for great, that they were over-burthened with the weight of it: And therefore they fought case, in venting their forrow in a shower of tears. And so when Nebemiab understood, that the wall of Ferusalem was Neh. 1. 3, 4. broken down, and the gates thereof were burnt with fire, he fate down and wept, and mourned certain dayes. Some Authors report, that the Jews to this day come yearly to Nagiatzen, ad the place where Ferusalem, the City of their fathers flood (which was by Titus and Adrian destroyed by fire and fword) and upon the day of the destruction of it weep Oh how well dos it become all burnt Citizens to stand and weep over the ashes of London, and greatly to abase themselves under that mighty hand of God that has been lifted up against them, I Pet. 5.6. Humble your selves under the mighty band of God, that he may exalt you in due time. Ah

1 Sam. 30. 1; 3, 4.

Hieron. Oc.

Daut. 8. 16. Lev. 26. 40, 41,42. Luke 14. 11. Dan. 5. 22. Augustine faith that the first, deond and third Virtue of a Christian, is humility. If I were asked (faith he) what is the readlest way to attain true happiness, I would answer, the first, the second, the third thing is, humility, humility, humility : As often as I was asked, I would fay humility. Humility doth not only entitle to happiness, but to the highest degree of happiness, Matth. 18: 4.

Lendon.

London, London, how hath the mighty hand of the Lord been lifted up against thee? how hath he by flames of fire laid all thy glory in the dust? The Lord by Fire, Sword and Peffilence, hath greatly humbled thee: And O when shall it once be, that thou wilt be humble under the mighty hand of God! 'Tis one thing to be humbled by Judgements; 'tis another thing to be humble under Judgements. There have been many Nations, Cities, and particular persons, who have been greatly humbled by amazing and affonishing Judgements; who yet never had so much grace as to lye humble under those Judgements. When Gods hand is lifted up very high, he expects that our hearts should fall very low. To be poor and proud, is to be doubly miserable. If mens spirits are high, when their estates are low; the next blow will be more dreadful. God has laid our habitations in dust and ashes, and he expects that we should even humble our selves in dust and ashes. The only way to avoid Cannon thot, is to fall down flat on the ground: The Application is easie. Humility exalteth: he that is most humble, shall be most honourable. Moses in his Wilderness condition was the meekest man on earth, and God made him the most honourablest; calling him up unto himself in the Mount, and making of him the Leader of his people Ifrael. Gideon was very little in his own eyes, The least in his Fathers house in his own apprehension; and God exalted him, making him the deliverer of his Ifrael. He that is little in his own account, is alwayes high in Gods effeem. When one asked the Philopher, What God was a doing? he answered. That his whole work was to lift up the humble, and cast down the proud. Those brave creatures the Lyon and the Eagle were not offered in Sacrifice unto God, but the poor Lamb and Dove was offered in Sacrifice: to note to us, that God regards not your brave high, lofty spirits, and that he is all for such that are of a Dove-like, and a Lamb-like spirit. They say if dust be sprinkled upon the wings of Bees, their noiles, humming, and rifings will quickly ceale. The Lord in the late fiery dispensation, has sprinkled dust and ashes upon us all. And Oh that our proud noises, hummings and rifings risings of heart might cease from before the Lord, who is rifen out of his holy place. An London, London, thou haft been proud of thy Trade, and proud of thy Scrength, and proud of thy Riches, and proud of thy flately Buildings and Edifices, bit God has now laid all thy glory in dust and ashes. And therefore it highly concerns thee to humble thy felf under the mighty hand of God. God has abased thee, and therefore make it thy work to be bale in thine When Nehemiah understood that the Chaldians (who were a generation of Idolaters) had made Ferusalem desolate by Fire, he greatly humbled himself under the mighty hand of God. He lookt through all active causes to the efficient cause; and accordingly he abased himself before the Lord : as you may fee Neh. 1. 3, 4. And they faid unto me, the remnant that are left of the Captivity there in the Province, are in great off Gion and reproach: the Wall of Jerufalem alfo is broken down, and the Gates thereof are burnt with fire. And it came to pass, when I heard these words, that I ste down and wept, and mourned certain dayes, and fasted and prayed before the God of Heaven. When Nebemish heard, that the Wall of Ferufalem was broken down, and that the gates thereof were burnt with fire, his grief was so great, that he could not frand under it; and therefore he fits down and weeps. Who is there that is a man, that is an Englishman, that is a Christian, that is a Protestant, that can behold the Ruines of London, and not (at least the frame of his Spirit) sit down and weep over those Ruines? The way of wayes to be truly, yea, highly exalted, is to be thoroughly humbled. The h ghest Heavens and the lowest hearts, do both alike please Isaiah 57.15. the most high God. God will certainly make it his work to exalt them, who make it their great work to abase themselves. Such who are low in their own eyes, and can be be content to be low in the eyes of others, fuch are most high and honourable in the eye of God, in the effecto and account of God. The lowly Christian is alwayes the most lovely Christian. Now God hath laid your City low, your all low, he expects, that your hearts should lye low under his mighty hand. All the world cannot long keep up those

There is nothing more more, evident in History, than this, viz. That those dreadful fires that have been kird!ed amongst the Christian, have been still kindled by Idolatrous hands.

men, who do'nt labour to keep down their hearts under Judgements inflicted, or Judgements feared. Remember the fad Catastrophe of Herod the great, of Agrippa the great, of Pompey the great, and of Alexander the great. If your spirits remain great under great Judgements, 'tis an evident sign, that more raigning Judgements lye at your doors. But,

7•

Job 1. 21.

Drexellius in his Gymnasium Patient a.

1 Sam. 30.1, 2,3,6.

Pfal. 148. 14. Ephel. 2. 13.

2 Cor. 6. 18.

Heb. 10.34.

The seventh Duty that lyes upon those who have been burnt up, is to bless a taking God, as well as a giving God: 'tis to encourage themselves in the Lord their God, though he has stript them of all their worldly goods. Thus did 70b when he had loft his all: The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; bleffed be the name of the Lord. One brings in holy Fob standing by the ruined house, under whose Walls his ten Children lay dead and buried, and lifting up his heart and hands towards Heaven, faying, Naked came I out of my Mothers womb, and naked shall I return thither; the Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away: Bleffed be the name of the Lord. Ecce spectaculum (sayes he) dignum ad quod respiciat intentus operi suo Dem. Behold a spectacle, a spectacle worthy of God himself, were he never so intent upon his work in Heaven, yet worthy of his cognizance! When Ziklag was burnt with fire, and David plundered by the Amalekites, and his Wives carried captive, yet then he encouraged himself in the Lord his God. His God, notes 1. His nearnes and dearness to God. Saints are very near and dear to God. 2. His God, notes his Relation to God. God is the Saints Father. 3. His God, notes his right to God. Whole God is the believers. All he has, and all he can do is the believers. From these and such other like considerations, David encouraged himself in the Lord his God, when all was gone. and to should we. So the believing Hebrews took joyfully the spoiling of their goods (whether by fire, or plundering, or otherwise is not faid) knowing in themselves, that they had in Heaven a better and more enduring substance. And to this duty James exhorts, James 1.2. Count it all joy my bretbren when you fallinto divers temptations, (or tribulations, or afflichions.

ons.) A Christian in his choicest deliberation ought to count it all joy when he falls into divers tribulations. The words are emphatical, the Apostle doth not say, be patient or quiet when you fall into divers temptations or afflictions, but be joyful. Nor the Apostle doth not say, be joyful with alit. tle joy; but be juful with exceeding great joy. All joy is full joy; all joy is perfect joy. And this becomes the Saints when they fall, or are begirt round not with fome, but with divers; that is, with any kind of affliction or tri bulation. An omnipotent God, will certainly turn his peoples milery into felicity. And therefore it concerns them to be divinely merry in the midft of their greatest misery. Oh that all burnt Citizens would ferioufly confider of these three things,

1. That this fiery Rod has been a Rod in a Fathers

hand.

2. That this fiery Rod shall sooner or later be like Aarons Rod, a blooming Rod. Choice fruit will one day grow up on this burnt Tree London. No men can tell what good God may do England by that fiery Rod that he has laid upon London.

3. That this fiery Rod that has been laid upon Lindon, has not been laid on 1. According to the greatness of Gods anger. Nor 2. According to the greatness of his power. Nor. 3. According to the strictness of his justice. Nor 4. According to the demerits of our fins. Nor 5. According to the expectations of men of a Romish faith; who tis to be feared. did hope to see every house laid desolate, and London made an Aceldama, a Field of Blood. Nor 6. Accordingly to the extensiveness of many of your fears: for many of you have feared worse things than yet you feel. Now upon all these confiderations how highly dos it concern the people of God, to be thankful and sheerful; yea, and to encourage themselves in the Lord under that siery dispensation that has lately past upon them. good for the de groudent er beit bon refien orde steut im liten brest von Lindron von in ernigen mit die brieft von der geleiten zu der geleite with the been in golds, but you test band one chieflers.

The words are en Hebraism.

Acts 1. 19.

Queft.

But what is there considerable in God to encourage the soul under heavy crosses, and great losses, and stery tryals.

Austo.
Dan. 3.24,25.

First, There is his gracious, his special and pecular presence. Pfalm 23. 4. Though I walk through the valley of the hadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Pial. 91. 15. He shall call upon me and I will answer him: I will be with him in trouble. Oh the precious presence of God with a mans spirit, will sweeten every fiery dispensation, and take off much of the bitterness and terribleness of it. In the gracious presence of God with our spirits, lyes, t. Our greatest Happiness. 2. Our great-3. Our greatest profit and advantage. 4. Our greatest joy and delight. 5. Our greatest safety and security. The Bush which was a Type of the Church, consumed not all the while it burned with fire, because God was in the midst of it. The gracious presence of God with a mans spirit, will make heavy affl ctions light, and long afflictions thort, and bitter afflictions sweet. Gods gracious presence makes every burden light. He that has the presence of God with his spirit, can bear a burden without a burden. What burden can fink that man that hath everlasting Armes under him, and over him, and found about him. But,

2 Cor. 4. 16,

Pfal. 55.-22.

Deut. 33. 27,

2. Jer. 24. 5. Rom. 8. 28. Secondly, There is wisdom in God to encourage them under all their tryals. There is wisdom in God so to temper and order all judgements, afflictions, crosses and losses, as to make them work kindly and sweetly for their good. Whilst God is near us, wisdom and counsel is at hand. God is that wise and skilful Physitian, that can turn Poyson into Cordials, Diseases into Remedies, Crosses into Crowns, and the greatest losses into the greatest gains. What can hurt us, whilst an infinite wise God stands by us. But,

Prov. 18. 10. Pfal. 46. 1, 2. Ifa. 26. 4. Pfal. 3. 17. Thirdly, There is strength, power and omnipotency in God, to encourage them. There is nothing too high for him, nor nothing too hard for him: he is able easily and speedily to bring to pass all contrivances. You read of many who have been mighty, but you read but of one Almighty,

Rev

Rev. 4. 8. Holy, boly, boly, Lord God Almighty, Chap. 11. 17. We give thee thanks, Lord God Almighty, Chap. 15. 3. Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty, Chap. 16. 7! And I beard another out of the Altar fay, &c. Even fo. Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgements. Under all your fiery tryals, an Almighty God can do mighty things And therefore it concerns you to encourage your for you. selves in him, even when you are stript of all.

O Christians, it highly concerns you to bear all your losses chearfully and thankfully. In every thing give thanks (faith the I Thef. 5.18. Apostle) for this is the will of God in Christ Tesus concerning Chrysoftom speaks excellently; This saith he, is the very will of God, to give thanks alwayes: this argues a foul rightly instructed. Hast thou suffered any evil? if thou wilt, it is no evil. Give thanks to God, and then thou half turned the evil into good. Say thou as Fob faid, when he had loft all; The Lord bath given, and the Lord bath taken away; bleffed be the name of the Lord. What evil haft thou fuffered? What is it a discase? This is no strange thing to us, seeing our bodies are mortal and naturally born to suffer. What dost thou want money? this may be gotten here, and lost here. Whatfoever evils or losses therefore do oppress thee, give thou thanks, and thou hast changed the nature of them. Fob then did more deeply wound the Devil, when being fiript out of all, he gave thanks to God, than if he had difiributed all to the poor and needy. For it is much more to be stript of all, and yet to bear it patiently, generously and thankfully, than for a rich man to give Alms, as it here happened to righteous Job. But hath fire fuddenly taken hold upon thy house, destroyed thy house, and consumed thy whole substance? Remember the sufferings of 70b. Give thanks to God, who could, though he did not, have hindered that mischance: and thou shalt be fure to receive as equal a reward, as if thou hadft put all into the bosome of the indigent. This he repeateth over again, and faith, thy reward being thankful, is equal to his, who gave all he had to the poor. To wind up your hearts to thankfulnels and chearfulnes under this late desolating Judgement. Con-

Z Z 2

Chryfoft. Tom. s. Hanil. 63.

fid er.

tleman in Athers had his Plate taken away by Aha-Thue us, as he was at dinner, he: fmiled upon his friends, saying I thank God that his Highness hath left me any thing.

John 16. 1 John 3. 9.

When a Gen- flider 1. God might have taken law wy all. Tis good to bless him for what he has left. 2. He has taken away more from others, than he has taken away from you, ergo be thankful. 3. You are unworthy of the least mercy, you deserve to be stript of every mercy ; and therefore be thankful, for any thing that is left. God has a Soveraign right over all you have, and might have stript you as naked as the day wherein you were born. 4. God has left you better, and greater mercies; than any those were that he has stript you off: viz. your lives, your limbs, your friends, your Relations, yea and the means of Grace, which is better than all, and more than all other mercies: ergo be thankful. 5. The Lord has given those choice things to you, as shill never be taken from you: viz. himself, his Son, his Spirit, which shall abide with you for ever; his Grace which is an abiding feed, and his peace which none can give to you, nor take from you; ergo be thankful though God has laid all your pleasant things desolate. 6. Thanksulness under croffes and losses, speak out much integrity and ingenuity of Spirit, Hypocrites and prophane persons are more apt to blaspheme, than to bless a taking God : ergo be thankful. The Ancients fay, Ingratum dixeris omnia dixeris, say a man is unthankful, and say he is any thing. Ingratitude is a Monster in nature (fay some) a Solecism in Manners, a Paradox in Grace, damming up the course of donations divine and humane. If there be any fin in the world sgainst the Holy Ghost, (said O seen Elizabeth in a Letter to Henry the fourth of France) it is in-The Laws of Perfia, Macedonia and Athens, condemned the ungrateful to death: and unthankfulness may well be flyled the Epitome of Vices. Ingratitude was fo hateful to the Egyptians, that they used to make Eunuchs of ungrateful persons, that no posterity of theirs might remain. Well Sirs, remember this, the best way to get much, is to be thankful for a little. God loves to fow much where he reaps much. Thankfulness for one mercy; makes way for another mercy; as many thousand Christians have experienced. The Lords Impost for all his bleffings is our thankfulness : if we neglect to pay this Impost, the commodity is forfeit, and

and to will take it back. Our returnes must be according to !! our receipts. Good men should be like the Bells, that ring as pleasantly, at a Funeral, as: at a Wedding. ... They should be as thankful when it goes ill with them, as when it goes well with them. Givero complained of old, that it was a hard thing to find a thankful man. Oh how hard a thing is it to find burnt Citizens really, cordially, frequently and practically thankful, that they are alive, that they are out of the grave, out of Hell, and that yet they have bread to ear and clothes to wear, though their habitations are laid in ashes, and all their pleasant things destroyed. But,

The eighth Duty that lyes upon those who have been burnt up, is to keep in their hearts, a constant, Remembrance of the late dreadful conflagration. God expects that his children should commemorate his Judgements as well as his mercies. The fore Judgement that God inflicted upon 162: 26.8, 9. Sodom, is mentioned thirteen times in the bleffed Scripture. Pfal. 119. 30. and all to work us to mind it, and to abhorr those fins that laid that City desolate. The Lord looks that his people should keep up fresh in their memories such Judgements that have been long before executed, Jer. 7. 12. Go to my place which was in Shilo, where I fet my name at the first, and fee what I did to it for the wickedness of my people. The Ark of old flood at Sbilo, but after it was taken and carried away by the Philiftins, it was never brought back, and from that time Shilo lav ever after defolate. And this the Lord would have engraven upon their memories, and upon their hearts. Though stony hearts are bad, yet Iron memories are good. Luke 17. 32. Remember Loes wife. Confider her fin and her punishment; that so fearing the one; you may learn to take heed of the other. 2 Pet. 2. 6. And turning the Cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into ashes, condemned them with an overthrow, making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly. There is much in those words, That after & uld live ungodly: Why hath God turned those rich and populous Cities into ashes, and set them up as burning Beacons, but to warn all the world, that they live not ungodly; and to work them to keep alive in their memories the desolating Judgements of God. The Rabbins say, that the Jews at this day, when they are to build an house, they are to leave one part of it unfinished and lying Rude, in remembrance that Jerusulem and the Temple, are at present desolate. Oh let the remembrance of Londons desolation by fire be for ever kept up in all your hearts. To this purpose consider,

Zz 3

I Sam. 4. 10,

1. That the burning of London, is a very great Judgement (as I have formerly proved) now great Judgements; like great mercies, should be alwayes kept up fresh in our memories.

2. The burning of London is a National Judgement, (as I have formerly proved) now National Judgements should be alwayes fresh in our memories.

3. Tis a Judgement that carries much of the wrath and auger of the Lord in it, Amos 3.6. Shall a Trumpet be blown in the City, and the people not be afraid? Shall there be evil in a City, and the Lord hath not done it? V. 8. The Lion hath roared, who will not fear? The Lord God hath spoken, who can but prophess? Now the more anger and wrath we read in any Judgement, the more highly it concerns us, to remember that Judgement.

4. A ferious commemoration of Gods Judgements, is a thing that is highly pleafing to the Lord. God delights as much in the glory of his Justice, as he dos in the glory of his Mercy or Grace. Now when we commemorate his Judgements, we glorifie his Justice that has inflicted them.

- 5. Severe Judgements contribute much to the enlightning of mens understandings, and to the awakening of their consciences, and the reforming of their lives, and to work men to judge them, and justifie the Lord. And therefore it highly concerns you, to keep up the Remembrance of Lindons Description by fire, alwayes fresh and stourishing in your souls.
- 6 Smart Judgements are teaching things. All Gods Rods have a voice. Hear ye the Rod, and him that hath appointed it. Look as Gideon taught the men of Success by Thorns and Bryars. So God by piercing Judgements, teaches both Hol.5. 14, 15. Chap. 6. 1, 2, 3. Jer. 24. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. Chap. 22. 8,9.

Mich. 6. 9.

finners and Saints, to take heed of despising his patience and long-fuffering, and to cease from doing evil, and to learn to do well. And to fear and fly from all fuch finful courses of Isa. 1. 16, 17. practices, that bring destructive judgements upon the most glorious Cities in the world. And upon this account, how deeply dos it concern us, to have alwayes the late fiery dispensation in our thoughts, and upon our hearts.

7. All Gods Judgements are his Messengers; they are all at his command. The Centurion had not fuch a Soveraign power over his servants, as the great God hath over all forts of Judgements. If the Lord do but his for the Fly of Egypt, and the Bee of Affyria, they shall come and do their office. Now all Gods messengers, as well as his mercies, should still be kept in our eye. But,

8. and lastly, Consider a serious commemoration of the Judgements of God, will difference and diffinguish you from all prophane persons, and unsound Professors. Pfal. 10.5. Thy judgements are far above out of his fight. Thy Judgements, that is, the plagues and punishments that thou layest upon the ungodly are high above his fight; that is, he fears them not, he thinks not of them, he minds them not, he dos not feriously consider of them, he is not kindly or deeplyaffected with them: he regards them no more than a tale that is told, or than Forreign Wars, wherein he is not concerned. Others carry the words thus, He casteth thy Judgements out of his fight; he will not fo much as once mind them; they are too high for him to let them before him; they are hidden before him: they are above the reach of his understanding and apprehension : both mercies and judgements have much of God in them. They speak, and speak aloud. but wicked men can neither see, nor hear, nor understand the voice of God either in the one or in the other. I have read of fuch a Pestilential disease once at Athens, as took away the memories of those who were insected with it; fo that they forgot even their own names. One Pestilential disease or another usually so seizeth upon wicked men, that they cafily and usually forget the Judgements of God. If God fet in with thefe eight Arguments, they will contribute Ezek. 14. 13, 14, 17, 19. Ma:th. 21. 8. Ifa. 7. 18, 19. Page 108.

9.

1 Tim. 6. 17. 1 John 2. 17. Heb. 11. 25.

He faith not, they take wing, but they make them, and not the wings of a Hawk, to fly away, and to come again to a mans Fift, but the wings of an Eagle to fly quite away.

Prov. 27. 4.

bute more to the enabling of you to keep the late fiery difpensations of God sresh in your memories, than all the Pillars of Brass or Stone in the world. Yet I am far from quetioning, the lawfulness of creeking a Pillar of Brass or Stone to commemorate, the late dreadful fire, according to an Act of Parliament, that is now before us. But,

The ninth Duty that lyes upon those who have been burnt up, is, to fee the vanity, murability and uncertainty of all worldly comforts and enjoyments, and accordingly to let look from them, and to get their aff crions weaned from them. Behold in four dayes time, a glorious City is turned into a ruinous heap: and a little world of wealth is laid in ashes, and many hundreds of families almost reduced to beggay, And are not these loud Scrinons of the vanity, mutab lity and uncertainty of all earthly things. Thats good advice Solomen gives, Prov. 23. 4, 5. Labour not to be rich. Wilt thou fet thine eyes upon that which is not ? for riches certainly make themselves wings, they fly away as an Eagle towards beaven. All certainty that is in riches, is that they are uncertain. Riches, like bad fervants, never flay long with one Master. Did not the Citizens of London see their riches flying away from them upon the wings of the fire, and of the wind; when their own and their neighbours habitations were all in flames. O Sirs, what certainty can there be in those things, which Balls of Fire, Storms at Sea, false Oaths, or treacherous friends, may in a few dayes, yea, in a day, an hour, deprive us off. God can foon clap a pair of wings upon all a man has in this world. And therefore he acts fafest and wifest, who fits most loose from the things of the world. Riches are not for ever ; and the Crown doth not endure to every generation. This Adonib. zok, Belfhazzar. and many other great Princes have found by experience. as Scripture and Histories do, sufficiently testifie. In all the Ages of the world the Testimony of Solomon holds good. Eccles. 1. 2. Vanity of vanity, faith the Preacher; vanity of vanities, all is vanity, To The things of this, world are not only vain but wanity in the abstract. They are excessive vanity vanity of vanities: yea, they are a heap of vanity; vanity of vanities. And this the burnt Citizens have found by fad experience, the world is all shadow and vanity: its like 70nab's Gourd a man may fit under its shadow for a while; but it soon withers, decayes and dyes. He that shall bu: weigh mans pains with his pay, his mileries with his mercies; his forrows with his joyes, his croffes with his comforts, his wants with his enjoyments, &c. may well cry out, Oh the vanity and uncertainty of all thefe earthly things. Though the world in all its bravery is no befter than the Cities which Solomon gave to Hiram, which he called Cabul. that is, displicating or dirty. All the great, the gay, the glo rious things of the world, may fitly be recembled to the fruit that unded us all, which was fair to the fight, smooth in handling, sweet in tafte, but deadly in operation. may be happy that is not wealthy, wirnels Lazarus, and Heb. 11. those worthies of whom this world was not worthy. But how hard a thing is it for a man to be happy, that is wealthy, Matche 19. 24. It is easier for a Camel (or Cabel-rope, as fome render it) to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of God. There are feveral expolitions upon these words.

First, Some fay, that there was a little gate in Fernfalem called the Needles-eye, which was so low and little, that it was impossible for a Camel to enter in at it with his bur den, and therefore when Camels came that way, they took off their loads, and the Camels themselves were forced to stoop before they could pass through that gate: some think that our Saviour alludes to this. But.

Secondly, Others interpret it of a Cabel-rope or Cord : and then thus they expound the words; A man cannot by any means possible put a Cable through a Needles eye; but if he untwift it, he may by thred and thred put it thorough.

Thirdly, Others fay, these words are a proverbial Speech, for the Talmud had a Proverb, Are ye of Pambediths, who can confe an Elephant to go thorough a Needles eye? Those of Pambeditha were great Braggers, they would boaft to others, that

All in Heaven write vanity of vanities upon all sublunaries; and all in Hell write varity of vanities upall fublunaries and why should not all on earth write vanity of vanities upon all lubluminaries. I Kings 9. 13. Gen. 3.

they could do very great things, and very strange things. Hence came that Proverb amongst them, It is easier to cause an Elephant to go thorough a Needles eye, than to do thus or thus. Now our Saviour useth the word Camel, because he was better known to them. It was usual (say others) with the Jews to say, when difficult matters were promised, Hast thou been at Pambedisha, where Camels go through the eyes of Needles ? But,

Fourthly and lastly, the plain and simple meaning of this Proverbial Speech, is doubtless this, viz. That it is as impossible for such a rich man to be saved (that trusteth in his riches, and that fees a higher price upon his riches, than upon Christ; and that will rather part with Christ, than part with his riches; and that will rather go to Hell rich, than to Heaven poor) as it is for a Camel to go thorough the eye of a Needle. The Proverbial Speech (fay others) notes the difficulty of rich mens being faved. Hab. 2.6. Wo to bim that ladeth bimself with thick Clay. Thick Clay will Cooner break a mans back, than satisfie his heart. And O what a folly and madness is it, for a man to be fill a loading of himfelf with the Clay of this world. In Gen. 13. 2, tis faid that Abraham was very rich in Cattel, in Silver, and in Gold : the word is all gravis fuit; he was very heavy, to shew, that riches, that Gold and Silver, (which is the great God of the world, the Paradife, the all in all, the great Diana that all the world magnifies and worships) are but heavy burdens, and rather a hinderance, than a help to Heaven and happiness. Though the rich man in the Gospel fared, and lived like a Gentleman, a Gallant, a Knight, a Lord; yet when he dyed, he went to Hell. Though Mammon, as Arctius and many others observe, is a Syriack word, and signifies riches: yet Irenaus derives Mammon of Mum, that fignifies a Spot, and Hon that fignifies riches; to shew that riches, have their fpots: and yet O how in love are men with these spots, how laborious, how industrious are men to add spots to spots, bags to bags, houses to houses, and lands to lands, and Lordthips to Lordships, as if there were no Hell to escape, nor no Heaven to make fure.

Luke 16.

Isaiah 5.8.

O Sirs, the voice of God in that fiery dispensation that has lately past upon us, seems to be this, O ye Citizens of Lindon, whose habitations and glory I have laid in dust and alhes, fet loofe from this world, and fet your affections upon Col. 3. 1. things above : Live in this world as Pilgeims and Strangers. Remember this is not your refting place: never be inordinate in your love to the world, nor in your delight in the world, nor in your pursuit of the world any more. Never found for many thoughts upon the w rld, nor never fend forth fo many wishes after the world, nor never spend so much precious time to gain the world as you have formerly done. Take off your thoughts, take off, your hearts, take off your hands from all these uncertain things. Remember it will not be long before you must all go to your long home, and a little of the world will ferve to bear your charges till you get to Heaven. Remember I have burnt up your City; I have poured contempt upon your City; I have stained the oride and glory of your City; that so seeing you have here Heb. 13. 14. no continuing City, you may feek one to come. Remember I have destroyed your houses, that so you may make sure a house not made with hands, but one eternal in the Heavens, 2 Cor. 5, 1. I have taken away your uncertain Riches, that so you may make fure more durable Riches. I have spoiled many of your brave full Trades, that fo you might drive a more brave full Trade towards Heaven. Oh that I had no just grounds to be jealous, that many who have been great lofers by the fire, are now more mad upon the world, and more cagerly carried after the world, than ever they have been; as if the great design of God in setting them on fire round about, was only to enlarge their defires more after the world, and more effectually to engage them to moil and toil as in the fire, to lay up treasure for another fire to consume. Before I close up this particular, let me offer a few things to your confideration.

First. Are there none of the burnt Citizens, who seek the world in the first place, and Christ and Heaven in the last place; that are first for earth, and then for Heaven; first for Matth. 6. 33. the world, and then for Christ: first for the meat that pe- John 6, 27.

Heb. 11. 13. Ter. 50.6: Mich. 2. 10.

Prov. 8, 18. Phil. 3. 20.

A 8 8 2

risheth

tisheth, and then for the meat which endureth unto everlasting life. The old Poets note was, first for money, and then for Christ. But.

Secondly, Are there none of the burnt Citizens, whose love, and hearts, and affections, are running more out after the world, than they are after God, and Chrift, and the great things of eternity. Are there none of the burnt Citizens, that are peremptorily resolved to gain the world what ever it costs them. The Gnofficks were a fort of Professors. that made no use of their Religion, but to their secular advantages, and therefore when the world and their Religion flood in competition, they made no scruple, no bones of renouncing their profession, to enjoy the world. Oh the deadness, the barrenness, the liftlesness, the heartlesness to any thing that is divine and heavenly, that dos alwayes attend fuch Christians who are resolved to be rich, or great, or some body in the world, what ever comes on't! O the time, the thoughts, the firength, the spirits that these men spend upon the world, whilst their souls lye a bleeding, and eternity is posting on upon them. Men that are highly and fully resolved to be rich by hook or by crook, will certainly forget God, undervalue Christ, grieve the Spirit, despise Sabbaths; flight Ordinances, and neglect fuch gracious opportunities as might make them happy for ever. Rich Felix had no leifure to bear poor, Paul, though the hearing of a Sermon might have faved hit foul. But the second water to the M 12 17 . C. 1889 St.

Thirdly, Are there none of the burnt Citizens, who spend the first of their time; and the best of their time, and the most of their time about the things of the world, and who ordinarily put off Christ and their souls with the least, and last, and worst of their time. The world shall freely have many hours, when Christ can hardly get one. Are there none who will have their eating times, and their drinking times, and their sleeping times, and their buying times; and their selling times, and their selling times, and their sporting times, yea, and their similing times, who yet can spare so time to hear, or read, or pray, or mourn, or repent, or reference or to fet up Christ in their similies, conto wait upon him

1 Tim. 6 9, Ier. 17, 11.

Act.24.24.ult.

Pythagoras faith, that time is Anima Cœl', the foul of Heaven, And
we may fay, it is a Pearl of price that cost Christ his blood.

him in their closets. Are there not many who will have time for every thing, but to honour the Lord, and to fecure their interest in Christ, and to make themselves happy for EVER TO CHERRY WILL BE CONST

Look, as Pharaohs lean Kine cat up the fat, fo many now are fallen into fuch a crowd of worldly bulinels, as eats up all that precious time which should be spent in holy and heavenly exercises.

Fourthly. Are there none of the burnt Citizens, who daily prefer the world before Christ? yez, the worst of the world. before the best of Christ ? The Gergesens preferred their Swine before a Saviour; they had rather lofe Christ, than lofe their Hoggs. They had rather that the Devil should fill post is their fouls, than that he should drown their Piggs: They preferred their Swine before their falvation; and prefented a wretched Petition for their own dammation. For they befought bim (who had all love, and life, and light, and grace and glory, and fulness in himself) that be would depart out of their coafts. Though there be no milery, no plague, no curle, no wrath, no Hell to Christs departure from a people. Yet men that are mad upon the world, will defire this. Beinard had rather be in his Chimney corner with Christ, than in Heaven without him : At fo high a rate he valued Christ There was a good man who once cryed out, I had rather have one Christ, than a thousand worlds. Another mourn ed, because he could not prize Christ enough. But how few burnt Citizens are of these mens minds? It was a sweet prayer of one; Make thy Son dear, very dear, exceeding dear. only dear and precious to me or not at all . But do all burne Citizens lift up fuch a prayer. I suppose you have either read or heard of that rich and wretched Cardinal, who profelt, that he would not leave his part in Paris, for a part in Paradico But we enswich would be some Fifthly, Are there no burnt Citizens, who follow the world to close, that they gain no good by the word; like Ezekiels hearers, and like the stony ground. Some Writers Cay, that nothing will grow where Gold grows. Certainly where an inordinate love of the world grows; there no WOS

March. 8: 23.

Col. 1. 19. Chap. 2. 3.

Hof. 9. 12. The Reubinites preferred the Countrey that was commodious for the feeding of their Cattle. (though it were far from the Temple, far from the Means of Grace) before their interest in the Land of Canaan.

Ezek. 33. 31 32, 33. Matth. 13. 22.

thing

thing will grow that is good. A heart filled either with the love of the world, or with the profits of the world, or with the pleasures of the world, or with the honours of the world, or with the business of the world, or with the business of the world, is a heart incapacitated to receive any divine counfil or comfort from the word. The Poets tells us of Lieuons being turned into a Wolf: but when a worldling is wrought upon by the word, there is a Wolf turned into a man; yea, an incarnate Devil turned into a glorious Saint. Therefore the Holy Ghoth speaking of Ziebens (whose sould was set upon the world) brings him in with an Ecce, behold, as if it were a wonder of wonders, that ever such a worldling should be subdued by Grace, and brought in to Christ. But,

Luke 19.2.

6.

Numb. 22.21. to 35.

7:

Matth. 11. 12. As a Castle or Town, is taken by Storm. Sixthly, Are there no burnt Citizens that are very angry and impatient when they meet with opposition, disappointments, or procrastination in their earnest pursuing after the things of the world. Balaam was so intent and mad upon the world, that he disperately puts on upon the drawn Sword of the Angel. Are there no burnt Citizens, who are so intent and mad upon the world, that they will put warmly on for the world, though the Lord draws, and confcience drawes, and the Scriptures draw their Swords upon them. But,

Seventhly, Are there no burnt Citizens, who are grown cold, very cold, yea, even stark cold in their pursuit after God, and Christ, and Heaven, and holiness, who once were so taking the Kingdom of Heaven by violence, who were so eagerly and earnestly set upon making a prey or a prize of the great things of that upper world; that they were highly and fully resolved to make sure of them, whatever pains or perils they run thorough. Aristotle observes, that Dogs can't hunt where the smell of sweet slowers is, because the sweet scent diverteth the smell. Ah how has the scent of the sweet slowers of this world, hindered many a sorward Prosessor from hunting after God, and Christ, and the great things of eternity. The Arabick Proverb saith, That the morldis a carkass, and they that burn after it are Dogs. Ah

how

how many are there, who once fet their faces towards heaven, who now hunt more after earth than Heaven; who hunt more after Terreftial than Celeftial things: who hunt more after nothingnesses and emptinesses, than they do after those fulnesses and sweenesses that be in God, in Christ, in the Covenant, in Heaven, and in those paths that lead to happiness. When one defired to know what kind of man Bafil was, there was presented to him in a dream (faith) the History) a Pillar of fire with this Motto, Talis of Basis lius, Besil is such a one, all on a light fire for God. Before London was in flames, there were some, who for a time were all on a light fire for God, who now are grown either cold, or luke-warm, like the luke-warm Lacdiceans, Rev. 3.14, 19! But. more in them on work artististic.

Eighthly, Are there no burnt Citizens, whose hearts are filled with folicitous cares, and who are inordinately troubled, grieved, dejected and overwhelmed upon the account of their late losses : and what dos this speak out, but an inordinate love of these earthly things. When Fonabs Gourd Jon. 4.6. ult. withered, Jonah was much enraged and dejected. Tis faid of Adam, that he turned his face towards the Garden of Eden, and from his heart lamented his fall. Ah how many are there in this day, who turning their faces towards their late loft mercies, their loft Shops, Trades, Houses, Riches, do forbitterly and excessively lament and mourn, Jer. 31. 15. that with Rachel they refuse to be comforted: and with Facob, they will go down into the Grave mourning. Heracliens the Philosopher was alwayes weeping: but such a frame of Spirit is no honour to God, nor no ornament to Religion. I. There is a holy fadness which arises from the sense of our fins, and our Saviours sufferings: this is commendable, live, now I. 2. There is a natural fadness, which fornetimes rifes from ficknels, weaknels and indisposition of body: this is to be pitied and cured. 3. There is a finful fadness, which usually what shall

1 17 5

2 Cor. 7. 10.

Gen. 37. 35.

One cryes out How fhall I have loft my Trade : another cryes out, do when Tam old : another cryes out, What shall I and my fix Children do when you are dead : another cryes out, I have but a handful of Meal in the Barrel, and a little Oyl in the Cruile, hand when that is spent, I must lye down and dye. I King, โทว์ เล่งให้หลัง อย่า ได้ เกาะเป็นเกาะ เล้าได้เลาะ ซ้าวาร์ ใด ได้เลาะ เลาะ โทว่ is very furious, and hath no ears, and is rather cured by Miracle than precept: this usually flows from the loss of such near and dear comforts, upon which men have inordinately fet their hearts, and in the enjoyment of which; they have promised themselves no small selicity. Oh that such say sould seriously remember, that there is nothing beyond remedy, but the tears of the damned. A man who may (notwithstanding all his losses and crosses) be found walking in the way to Paradise should never place himself in the condition of a little-Hell. And he that may or can hope for that great-all, ought not to be excessively sad for any losses or crosses that he meets with in this world-But;

9.

Numb.22.15. to 23. Josh.7. 20,21, 22.

Bafil in 40.
Martyrs.
In Queen
Maries time, when fome offered a certain Martyr money, he refused it, saying I am going to a Countrey, where money will bear no office-

Ninthly, Are there no burnt Citizens, who to gain the world, do very eafily and frequently fall down before the temptations of the world? And what dos this focak out. but their inordinate love to the world. That man who is as foon conquered as tempted, vanquished as assaulted by the world, that man is doubtless in love with the world; yea, bewitcht by the world. The Champions could not wring an Apple out of Mile's hand by firong hand, but a fair Maid by fair means got it presently. The easie conquests that the temptations of the world, make upon many men, is a fair and a full evidence, that their hearts are greatly endeared to it. Luther was a man weaned from the world; and therefore when honours, preferments and riches were offered to him, he despised them. So when Basil was tempted with money and preferment, he answered, The fashion of this world paffeth away, as the waters of a River that runs by a City, or as a fair pillere drawn upon the Ice that melts away with it. (Pccuniam da quæ permancat, &c.) Give money (faid he) that may last for ever, and glory that may evernally flourish. I have tead of a mortified Christian, who being tempted with of fers of money, to defert his Religion, gave this excellent anfwer. Let not any think that be will embrace other mens goods to for fake Christ, who bath for faken his own proper goods to tollow Chrift. It was an excellent answer of one of the Marrys. when he was offered riches and honours if he would recant. Do but offer me somewhat that is better than my Lord Fefus Chrift, and you shall fee what I will fay to you. Thus you fee that menthat are crucified to this world, don't only re fift, but also triumph over all the glittering temptations of a tempting and enticing world. And O that fuch a spirit might rest upon all those whose habitations are laid deso lace. But.

Tenthly and laftly, Are there no burnt Citizens, who go to the utmost of their line and liberty for the gaining of the things of this world? Ah how near the Pits brink, how near the borders of fin, how near the flames of vengeance, how near the infernal fire, do many venture to gain the things of this world? And what dos this speak out, but an inordinate love of this world. O Sirs, what do all these things evidence but this, that though God has fired many men out of their houses, yet the inordinate love of this world is not fired out of their hearts.

O Sirs, to moderate your affections to the things of this world, and to put a stop to your too eager pursuit after earthly things, feriously and frequently dwell upon these ten Maxims.

First, That the shortest, surest and safest way to be rich, is to be content with your present portion. The Philosopher | Eccles. 5. 12. could fay, He that is content wants nothing; and be that wants content, enjoyes notbing.

> One might bave riches yet be very poor, One might bave little, yet have all and more.

Secondly, He who is contented with a little, will never be fetisfied with much: he who is not content with pounds, will never be satisfied with hundreds, and he who is not con tent with a few hundreds, will never be fatisfied with many thousands. Eccles, 5. 10. He that loveth filver, Shall not be fatisfied with filver; nor be that loveth abundance with increase. Money of it self cannot satisfie any desire of Nature. man be hungry, it cannot feed him; if naked, it cannot clothe him; if cold, it cannot warm him; if fick, it cannot ВЬЬ

Much Treafure stoppeth not a Milers mouth. faith the Proverb.

Gen. 15. 1.

Nature hath taught all men to feek after a summum bo um.

recover him. A circle cannot fill a triangle, no more can the whole world fill the heart of man. A man may as foon fill a Chest with Grace, as an heart with wealth. The foul of man may be busied about earthly things, but it can never be filled, nor fatisfied with earthly things. Air shall as soon fill the body, as money shall satisfie the mind. There is many a worldling, who hath enough of the world to link him, who will never have enough of the world to fatisfie him. The more an hydropical man drinketh, the more he thirsteth. So the more money is encreased, the more the love of money is encreased; and the more the love of mony is encreased, the more the soul is unsatisfied. 'Tis only an infinite God, and an infinite good, that can fill and satisfie the precious and immortal foul of man. Look as nothing fits the ear but founds, and as nothing fits the smell but odours, fo nothing fits the foul but God. Nothing below the great God can fit and fill animmortal foul. Nothing can content the foul of man but the fruition of God. God never rested till he made man; and man can never reft, till he enjoyes his God. Every man has a foul within him of a vast capacity, and nothing can fill it to the brim, but he thats fulness it self. Should we knock at every creatures door for happinels, they would all answer us round, that it is not in them. The man in Plutarch that heard the Philosophers wrangle about summum benum; one placing of it in this, and another in that, went to the Market and bought up all that was good, hopeing among all he should not miss of happiness; and yet he mist of it. The soul of man is of so glorious a make, that nothing below him that made it, can satisfie it. The summ of all that the creatures amount to according to Solomons reckoning, is vanity and vexation of Spirit. Vanity and vexation is the very quintescence of the creature, and all that can possibly be extracted out of it. Now if vanity can fatisfie, or if vexation can give content; if you can gather Grapes of Thorns, or Figs of Thiftles, than go on and dote upon the world still; and be alwayes enamoured with a shadow of perishing beauty. Oramuzes the Enchanter boasted; that in his Egg all the happiness in the world was included, but being broken, there was nothing in it but wind and emptinels: But,

Thirdly, 'Tis infinitely better to have much of God, of Christ, of the Spirit, of Holiness, and of Heaven in our hearts with a little of the world in our hands, than to have much 2 Cor. 6, 10. of the world in our hands, and but a little of God and Chr ft in our hearts. 'Tis infinitely better to be rich towards God and poor towards the world, than to be poor towards God, and to be rich towards the world. There are forme very Eccles 5. 12. rich, who yet are very poor; there are others who are very Frov. 11. 24. poor, and yet are very rich, 'Tis infinitely better to be poor men and rich Christians, than to be rich men, and poor Christians But,

Fourthly, The best and surest way under Heaven to gain much of the world, is to mind the world less, and God, and Christ, and Grace, and Heaven more. 1 Kings 3.9. Give therefore thy fervant an understanding heart, to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy fo great a people? Ver. 10. And the Speech pleased the Lord, that Solomon had asked this thing. Ver. 11. And God faid unto bim, because thou hast asked this thing, and haft not asked for thy felf long life; neither haft asked riches for thy felf, nor bast asked the life of thine enemies, but hast asked for thy felf understanding to discern judgement. ver. 12. Behold, I have done according to thy words: Lo. I have given thee a wife and an understanding heart, fo that there was none like thee before thee; neither after thee, shall any arife like unto thee. v. 13. And I have also given thee that which thou hast not asked, both riches and bonours: so that there shall not be any among the Kings like unto thee, all thy dayes. This is more generally and fully expressed in 2 Chron. 1.12. Wisdom and knowledge is granted unto thee: and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and bonour, such as none of the Kings have had before thee neither hall there any after thee have the like. Solomon desired wif-dom of the Lord, and the Lord granted him his desire, and cast in riches, and wealth, and honour as an over-plus, which he did not fo much as once defire. God won't be wanting to them in Temporals, who in their defires and prayers, are

Bbb2

The shorter cutto riches, is by their contempt: it is great riches not to desire riches, and he hath most, that covets least; saith Socrates and Screeza.

2 Pet. 1. 4.

most carried out after spirituals. Matth. 6. 33. Firft feek the Kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added to you, or over-added. He who before all, and above all other things feeks Grace and Glory, shall have the things of this world cast in as an over plus, as a handful to the fack of grain; or as inch of measure to an Ell of Cloath; or as paper and pack-thred is given into the bargain, I Tim. 4 8. Godliness is profitable unto all things, baving the promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come. There is Earth as well as Heaven: Bread as well as Grace; and Rayment as well as Righteousness; and the lower springs as well as the upper springs to be found in the precious promises. Abrabam, and Isaac, and Jacob, and Joseph, and Job, and Nebemiah, and Mordicai, and David, and Hezekiah, and Josiah, and Febosaphat, and Daniel, and the three Children, for rather Champions) made it their business to be holy, to walk with God, to maintain communion with God, and to exalt and glorific God: and you know how the Lord heaped up the good things, and the great things of this world upon them. I verily believe, if men were more holy, they would be more outwardly happy; if they did but more scriously and carneflly press after the great things of that upper world. the Lord would more abundantly cast in the things of this lower world upon them. But when men are immoderately carryed out in seeking after the great things of this world; tis just with God to blast their endeavours, and to curfe their mercies to them, Jer. 45.5. Mal. 2. 2. But, -

Fisthly, 'Tis better to get a little of the world, than to get much of the world; 'tis better to get a little of the world justly and honestly, than to get much of the world unjustly and dishonestly. A little of the world blest, is better than much of the world curst. Solomons Dinner of green Hearbs, Daniels Pulse, Barly Loaves, and a few Fishes, and Johns rough Garment blest, are better and greater mercies, than Dives his Riches, Purple Robes, and dainty fare curft. But.

Sixthly, The greatest outward gain cannot counter-vail the least spiritual loss. Be it but a dram of Grace, or a

Gen. 22. Prov. 3. 33. Chap. 15. 17. Dan. 1.

6. Pfal. 30. 6, 7.

Caft

cast of Gods countenance, or an hours communion with him, &c. Suppose a man could heap up Silver as the dust, and Gold as the streams of the Brook, that he could gain as much as the Devil promised Christ, viz. all the Kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them, yet all these could not make up the least spiritual loss. He that shall exchange the least spiritual savour for the greatest outward good, shall but with Glaucus and Diomedes exchange Gold for Copper; he shall with the Cock in the Fable, part with a Pearl for a Birley Corn. Chrysoftom compareth such to workers in Mines, who for a little wages, do alwayes hazard, and sometimes lose their lives. Menot a French Preacher compareth them to a Hunts-man, that spoileth a Horse worth many pounds, in pursuit of a Hare not worth fo many pence. Pareus compares them to a man that with much ado winneth Venice, and as soon as it is won, is hanged up at the Gates of the City. When such a one shall at last compute what he hath gained and what he hath loft, he will certainly conclude that he hath but a miserable bargain of it. But,

The seventh Maxim is this, viz. A little that a righteous man hath, is better than the riches of many wicked; the Pfalm 37. 16. righteous mans mite, is better than the wicked mans millions. A little, that is a competent and mean portion, though yet but very little: one little piece of Gold is more worth, than a bigg of Counters; one little Box of Pearls, is more worth, than many loads of Pibbles. And so a little that a righteous man hath, is better than the abundance of the wicked: Is better than the riches of many wicked. Hamin which is the word here used, is from Hamab which signifies multitude of riches, or great plenty, or store of riches: from this Hebrew word Hamon, Riches are called Mammon. The little that the righteous man hath, is better than the multitude or flore of riches that the wicked have. Out of these words, you may observe these following particulars.

1. Here is the righteous mans portion, and the wicked mans portion as to this world: the righteous man hath. but little, the wicked has much.

Tob 22, 24. Chap. 27. 16. Matth. 4.

Luke 16. 9,

2. The righteous man hath but little, but the wicked has riches.

3. The righteous mans little is a better portion than the riches of the wicked.

4. The righteous mans little is better than the multitude of riches that the wicked have.

5. The righteous mans little is better than the multitude of riches that many wicked men enjoy. Now for their takes who have been burnt up, and have but little of the world left them, I shall make good this bleffed truth by an

First, The righteous man hath a better tenure to this little, than wicked men have to their multitude of riches. The induction of these eleven particulars.

Heb. 1. 2.

righteous man holds his Tenure, by vertue of his marriage union with Christ, who is the heir of all things. We had an equal right in the first Adam to all the good things of this world; but in his fall, we lost our original right to the good things of this world. But now the righteous man by the second Adam has recovered his right to all he enjoyes. Rom. 8. 32. How shall he not with him alfo freely give us all things? I Cor. 3.21. All things are yours. v. 22. Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things prefent, or things to come, all are yours. But how come they to be interested in this large Charter? the Apostle answers it in ver. 23. Te are Christs, and Christ in Gods. All comes to us by Jelus Christ. All the Corn in Egypt came through 70-So all we have, be it little or much, we have it through Christs hands upon the account of our marriage union with Christ. We may fay as Hamar and Sechem faid to their people, Shall not all their Cattel, and substance, and every beast of the field be ours? So being married to Christ, and become one with him, all comes to be ours, through him who is the heir of all. By vertue of our marriage union with Christ, our title to the creatures is not only restored, but strengthened. That little we have, is entailed upon us by Christ, in a more firm and better way than ever. In the first Adam our Tenure was lower, and meaner, and bafer, and uncertainer, than now it is: for our Title, our Tenure by

Gen. 41.

Gen. 34. 23.

Christis more honourable, and stronger, and sweeter, and lastinger, than ever it was before. For now we hold all we have in Capite, Christ is our head, and husband, and by him we hold all we have. But now wicked men by the fall of Adam have loft their Original Patent and Charter which once they had to shew for the things of this life. By Adams fall they have forfeited Gods primitive donation of all right in the creatures, every wicked man in the world has forfeited his right to the creatures in Adam, and lies under that forsciture. But to the glory of divine patience be it spoken, God has not fued out his forfeiture, God has not brought a Writ of ejection against him; and by this means he comes to be lawfully poffessed of those earthly bleffings he dos enjoy. As a Fellon though he hath forfeited his life and estate to the Kings Justice, and is still subject to ejection at the Kings plea'ure, yet while the King forbears him, his poff fli on is good and lawful, and no man may diffurb him. Wicked men are lawful owners and poffessors of the good things God hath given them, Numb. 22. 30. Am not I thine Afs? Whence you may observe,

1. That the filliest and simplest being wronged, may justly speak in their own desence.

2. That they who have done many good Offices and fail in one, are often not only unrewarded for former fervices, but punished for that one offence.

fart from their former obedience, man ought to reflect upon his own fin, as the fole cause thereof. Bas ?

4. That the worst men have good title to their own goods. For though Balaam was a Sorcerer, yet the Ass confesseth twice, that he was his Ass. Luke 12:33. Sell and give, are words of propriety. And God hath set the eighth Commandment as a hedge, as a sence to every mans possession. Dam. 4. 17. This matter is by the Decree of the Watchers; and the demand by the word of the Holy Ones, to the intent that the living may know, that the Most High ruleth in the Kingdoms of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, and setteth up over it the basels of men. He that gave Confult these Scriptures.

Deut. 32.8.
Acts 17.26.
Luke 3.14.

Gen. 23.3. 4, 5, 9. Gen. 42.13, 5. Cansan to Jacob, gave Mount-Serr to Esau, and did not Jacob buy a burying place of the Sons of Heth, and did he not buy Corn of the Egyptians? by all which, they did acknowledge, that those wicked men and Idolaters had a lawful Title to those temporal blessings that they did enjoy. Now mark, God as he is the God of Nature, by common Providence alloss to wicked men their lawful possessions: and this is the best Tenure they hold by. O but now that little that a child of God has, he holds it by a more glorious tenure, and honourable Title; and therefore his mite is better than a wicked mans millions. But.

2. 2 Pet. 1. 4.

Secondly, That little a righteous man hath, he hath through the Covenant, and through precious promises. Now a little mercy reacht out to a man through the Covenant, and as a fruit of the promise, is more worth, than a world of bleflings, that flow in upon a man meerly by a general Providence. There are no mercies so sweet, so sure, so firm, so lasting, as those that slow in upon us through the Covenant of Grace. O this sweetens every drop, and sip, and crust, and crum of mercy that a godly man enjoyes. All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth, to such as keep his Covenant. This is a sweet promise, a precious promise, a soul fatisfying promise, a promise more worth than all the riches of the Indies. Mark, all the paths of the Lord to his people, are not only mercy, but they are mercy and truth; that is, they are sure mercies that stream in upon them through the Covenant. Well Sirs, you must remember this, viz. That the least mercy, the least bleffing flowing in upon us through the promise, is more worth than a thousand bleffings that flow in upon us from a general Providence: the leaft bleffing flowing in upon us through the Covenant, is better than ten thousand Talents, that are the meer products of a general Providence. For.

Consult these Scriptures, Josh. 23. 14, 15. 1 Tim. 4. 8.

Pfa'm 25. 10.

Pfalm 145.

First, Such as enjoy all they have, only from a general Providence, they enjoy their mercies from that common source or pring that feeds the Birds of the Air, and the beasts of the Field. The same common bounty of God that feeds and clothes the wicked, seeds the Birds and Beasts that perish.

Secondly,

· Secondly. There is no certainty of the continuance of fuch mercies that are only the product of a common Providence. Ifa. 33. 16. But now the mercies that flow in upon the Saints through the Covenant of Grace, they shall be fure to us, so long as the continuance of them may be for our good and Gods glory. Now the least mercies held by Covenant, are infinitely better than the greatest riches in the world that only drop up on us out of the hand of a common Providence.

Thirdly. The Righteous man hath his little from the special love and favour of God. All his little flowes in upon Pfal. 146. 8. him from that very same love which moved the Lord to be- Prov. 15, 17. flow Christ upon him. All the righteous mans little is from the good will of him that dwelt in the Bush; his little comes Deut 22, 16. from a reconciled God, as well as a bountiful God: from a tender Father, as well as a merciful Creator. A Dinner of Dan. 1. 12. green Hearbs, Daniels Pulse, Barley Loaves, a few Fishes, yea, Lazarus his scraps, crusts and raggs, and Johns Garment of Camels hair, from reconciled love, is infinitely better than all the riches and dainties of the wicked, which are all mixed and mingled with croffes and curfes. All the mercies and abundance that wicked men have, is in wrath, and from wrath; there is wrath in every cup they drink in, and in every dish they eat in, and in every bed they lye on, and in every flool they fit on. But the little the rightcous man hath, flowes from the Iwceteff forings of divine love : fo that they may well fay as Gideon did. The gleanings of the Grapes Judges 8. 2. of Ephraim, is it not better than the Vintage of Abiezer. very gleanings of the righteous are better than the greateff Vintages of the wicked. The abundance of the wicked still flowes in upon them from the bitter tireaus of Divine Wrath. A little water flowing from a fweet fpring, is much berter, than a great deal that flowes from the falt Sea. The loving kindness of God dos raise the least chate above the greatest estate in the world: yea, it raiseth it above life it felf (or lives Chajim) which is the best of all temporal Plalm 63. 3. bleffings. Ten pound given by a King out of layour and refpect, it a better gift, than a thouland given in wrath and displeasure. But.

Chap. 55.3.

Prov. 3.33. Mal. 2. 2. Pfal. 78. 30,

Fourthly.

Deut. 28. 8,9. Pfalm 3. 8. Gen. 22. 17. Chap. 26. 12. Prov. 10. 22. Deut. 28. 16, 17, 18, 19, 20. Prov. 3. 33. Mal. 2. 2.

Fourthly, The little that the righteous man hath is bleft and fandified to him; as you may fee by comparing the Scriptures in the Margent together. A little bleft unto a man, is better than all the world curst. Now all the bleffings and mercies that the wicked do enjoy, though they are materially bleffings, yet they are formally curies : as all the croffes that befalls a righteous man, though they are materially croffes, yet they are formally bleffings. The habita; tions, relations, honors, riches, &c. of the wicked are all crust unto them. There is poyson in every cup the wicked man drinks, and snares in every dish he puts his fingers in, the Plague in all the clothes he wears, and a curle upon the house in which he dwells. Zech. 5. 3, 4. Then be faid unto me; this is the curfe that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth : for every one that stealeth, shall be cut off as on this side, according to it, and every one that sweareth, shall be cut off, as on that side, according to it. I will bring it forth, saith the Lord of Hofts, and it shall enter into the boule of the Thief, and into the bouse of bim that swearesh fally by my Name; and it shall remain in the midft of his bonfe, and shall consume it with the timber thereof, and the stones thereof. So Job 24. 18. Their portion is curfed in the earth. A fat purse and a fat heart, a whole estate and a whole heart, a fat body and a lean foul. Pfal. 106. 15. He fent leanness into their fouls. All the bleffings of the wicked have their but. As the Cup in Benjamins Sack, which proved a fnare to him, rather than a mercy. O the curies and vexations that attend all the bleffings of the wicked! It may be faid of the little that a righteous man hath, as it was once faid of Jacobs Garment, Je is like a field which the Lord bath bleffed. He bleffeth the babitations of the just. Efan had a fair effate left him, and Jacob a lefs; yet Jacobs was a better estate than Efan's, because his little was blest to him, when Efan's much was curst to him. One little draught of clear water, is better than a Sea of brackish falt water. The application is easie. But, Fifthly, A little improved and well husbanded, is better Fifthly, A little improved and well husbanded, is better than a great deal that is either not improved, or but ill improved. Every efface is as its improved: a little Farm well improved.

Prov. 3. 33.

रिवाह दि

improved, is much better than a great Farm, that is either not improved, or ill improved. A little money, a little flock in a Shop well improved, is better than a great deal of money, a great flock, that is either not improved, or ill improved, Now here give me fleave to shew you briefly how a godly man improves his little. Take me thus.

First, A godly man improves his little to the stirring up of his beare to thankfulness, and to be much in admiring and blessing of God for a little. Every drop the Dove drinks, he lists up his head to Heaven. Every Bird in his kind (sith Ambrose) doth chirp forth thankfulness to his Maker. So the righteous man will bless God much for a little; yea, he will bless God very much for a very little. But,

Secondly, A righteous man improves his little to the humbling and abasing of himself before the Lord, as one that is much below the least of mercies, Gen. 32. 10. Lam not workely of the least of all the mercies which thou hast sewed unto thy servant. A righteous man labours to have his heart lye low under the sense of the least sin, and under the smart of the least rod, and under the sight of the least mercy. But,

Thirdly, A righteous man improves his little to the arming and fencing of himself against sinful temptations. Little mercies are many times great arguments to keep a gracious foul from fin. But,

Fourthly, A righteous man improves his little to the relief and refreshing of the bowels of others that are in want, and whose pinching necessities call for supplyes. A poor man begging at a Christians door who was very poor, he spoke to his Wise to give him something; she answered, that she had but three-pence in the house: saith he, give him that, for if we never sow, we shall never reap. There was another Christian, who having given a little of his little to a man, began to think whether he had injured himself; but presently he corrected himself with these thoughts, that he had lent it one; that would pay all again with advantage, with interest upon interest: within an hour after he had it restored above seven-fold, in a way which he never thought of The Italian sorm of begging is, Do good for your selves. But,

Pfalm 103. 1, 2, 3. Pfalm 116.

2. ... 2 Sam. 7. 18.

Gen. 39. 7, 8, 9, 10.

z Cor. 8. 1, 2, 3, 4. Heb. 6. 10. 5.

Pfal. 16. ult. Joh. 4. 10,11

Chap. 6. 4. Rev. 19.8.

Matth: 25.

6.

Pfalm 17. 14. Luke 16. 25.

Gen. 30, 24.

Fifthly, A righteous man improves his little to the flirring up and provoking of his own heart to look after better and greater mercies, viz, spiritual and eternal favours. O faith the rightcous many if there be fo much sweetness in a few drops, and fips, and small draughts, and cruss, and scraps? What is in those everlasting springs of pleasure and delight. that be at Gods right hand? If there be fo much pleafantness in a piece of bread, and so much warmth in a course Suit of clothes, what sweetness is therein the waters of life? and what pleasantness is there in that bread of life that came down from Heaven? and what warmth is there in that fine Linnen that is the righteousness of the Saints? &c. A righteous man looks upon his least temporals; to be a strong engagement upon him, to feek after eternals. But now wicked men are fo far from improving their much, their riches, their great riches, that they either hide their Talents, as that evil servant did his; or else they prove Jaylors to their mercies; and make them fervants to their lufts, as pride, drunkennels, uncleannels, &c. Compare thele Scriptures together, Fob 21. 1, -- 10. Amos 6. 1 .- 7. Pfalm 73. Hof. 4. 7. Fer. 2. 31. Chap. 5 7, 8, 9. Deut. 32. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18. James 5. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. But, al a te' bits git Sixthly, The few mercies, the least mercies that the righteous man hath, are pledges, and pawns, and an earnest of more mercies, of better mercies, and of greater mercies. than any yet they do enjoy. Now a farthing given as an carnell of a thousand a year, is better than many pounds given as a present reward. Wicked men have outward bleftings as their portion, their Heaven, their all. Son remember that thou in thy life time receivedst thy good things. But now that little that a godly man hath, he has it as a pledge of Heaven, and as an earnest of eternal savours and mercies. The little mercies the Saints enjoy, are doors of hope, to let in greater and better mercies: those mercies a righteous man has, are but in-lets to further mercies: When Rachel had a Son, the called his name Fofeph, faying, the Lord Rall add to me another Son. Every mercy that a righteous man enjoyes may well be called Joseph, because its a certain pledge of fome further and greater mercy that is to be added to those the righteous man already enjoyes. But;

Seventhly. The rightcous man enjoyes his little with a great deal of comfort, peace, quiet and contentment: the righteous man with his little, lits Noab like quiet and fill in the midft of all the hurries, diffractions, combustions and confusions that be in the world. Though the rightcous man has but from hand to mouth, yet feeing that God feeds him from Heaven as it: were with Manna, he is quiet and cheerful : but now wicked men have abundance of vexation. with their worldly abundance: as you fee in Haman, Esther 5.9. 11, 12. 13. Then went Haman forth that day joyfully and with a glad beart. But when Haman fam Mordicai in the Kings gate, that be flood not up nor moved for him, be was full of indignation against Mordicai. And Haman told them of the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the King bad promoted bim, and bow he bad advanced bim above the Princes and servants of the King. Haman faid moreover, yea, Ether the Queen did let no man come in with the King unto the Banquet that the had prepared, but my felf; and too morrow am I invited unto her also with the King. Tet all this availeth me nothing, so long as I see Mordical the Few fitting at the Kings gate. It is feldom feen, that God allows unto the greatest darlings of the world a perfect contentment. Something they must have to complain of, that shall give an unfavoury verdure to their sweetest morfels, and make their felicity miscrable. It was not simply Mordiesis fitting at the Kings gate, but Mordicais refuling to fland up, or to move either Hat, head, or hand, or to bow any part of his body, that dampt all Hamans joy, and that filled him with rage and vexation of spirit. The want of little things, viz. a knee, a hat, will exceedingly vex and discompose an ambitious spirit. So Abab, though a King, yet when he was fick for Naboths Vineyard, his heart did more afflict and vex it felf with greedy longing for that bit of I Kings 21.4. earth, than the vast and spacious compass of a Kingdom could counter-comfort. And to Alexander the Great in the midft of all his glory, he was exceedingly vexed and discontented, Ccc a because

Phil. 4. 12,13.

Prov. 10, 22. Chap. 15. 16,

If I had an enemy, faith Lat mer, to whom I might lawfully with evil, I would chiefly wish him great fore of riches for then he should never enjoy quier.

Pheraulus a poor man, was wearied out with care in keeping the grar of hes which Cyrus had belowed upon him.

Oh how sweet is it, to want hese bittersweets.

because he could not make Ivy to grow in his Garden in Contenement is a flower that dos not grow in Natures Garden. All the Honors, riches, pleasures, profits and preferments of this world, can't yield a man one dayes contentment, they are all surrounded with briars and thorns. you look upon my Crown and my Purple Robes faid that great King Cyrus, but did you but know how they were lined with Thorns you would never stoop to take them up. Charles the Fifth Emperous of Germany, whom of all men the world judged most happy, cryed out at last with grief and detestation to all his honours, pleasures, trophies, riches, Abite hinc, abite longe : Get you hence ; let me hear no more of you. Who can fumm up the many grievances, fears, jealousies, disgraces, interruptions, temptations and vexations that men meet with in their very pursuit after the things of this world. Riches are compared to thorns: and indeed all the comforts the wicked enjoy, they have more or less of the thorn in them. And indeed riches may well be called thorns; because they pierce both head and heart: the one with care of getting, and the other with grief in parting with them. The world and all the glory thereof, is like a beautiful Harlot: a Paradife to the eye, but a Purgatory to the foul. A wicked man under all his enjoyments.

1. Enjoyes not the peace of his conscience upon any just or folid grounds.

2. He enjoyes not the peace of contentment upon any fober or righteous grounds. But now a righteous man with his little, enjoyes both peace of confeience, and peace of contentment; and this makes every better sweer, and every little sweet to be exceeding sweet. A dish of green Hearbs with peace of conscience, and peace of contentment, is a noble feast, a continual feast to a gracious soul. But,

Eighthly, the righteous man fees God, and acknowledges God, and enjoyes God in his little. Look, as he that can't fee God in the least affliction, in the least judgement, will never be truly humbled; so he that can't see God in the least mercy, will never be truly thankful, nor cheerful in every

Job. 1, 21. Gen. 27.28. Chap. 33. 10,

cruft.

crust, cram, drop and sip of mercy that a righteous man enloves, he fees much of the love of his God, and the care of his God, and the wisdom of his God, and the power of his God, and the faithfulness of his God, and the goodness of his God, in making the least provision for him. I have read of the Jews, how that when they read the little Book of Eft. ber, they let fall the Book on the ground, and they give this reason for that Ceremony, becamse she name of God is not to b found in all that Hiftory. So a righteous man is ready to le that mercy drop out of his hand, out of his mouth wherein he can't read his God, and fee his God, and tafte his God, and enjoy his God. But now wicked men may fay, as Elithe did in another case :

Here is the mantle of Elijah, but where is the God of Elijah? | 2 Kings 2. 4. Here is abundance of riches, and honours, and dignities, &c. but where is the God of all thefe comforts ?

But alss, they mind not God, they fee not God, they acknowledge not God in all they have in all they enjoy: as you may fee, by comparing the Scriptures in the Margent toge-Wicked men are like the Horse and the Mule, that drinks of the brook, but never think of the fpring. They are like to the Swine that cats up the Matt, but never looks to the Tree from whence the Mast falls. They are like fuch barren ground, that swallows up the seed, but returns nothing to the lower. A dunghill spirited scllow in our dayes being by a neighbour excited to bless God for a rich crop of Corn he had standing on his ground; Atheistically replyed, Thank God! Nay rather thank my Dung-Cart! I have read of a great Cardinal, who writing down in his Diary, what fuch a Lord did for him, and how far fuch a Prince favoured him, and what encouragement he had from such a King; and how fuch a Pope preferred him, but not one word of God in all. One reading of it, took his Pen and wrote underneath, here God did nothing. But,

Ninthly, The little the rightcous man hath, is enough: enough to latisfie him, enough to content him, enough to bear his charges till he gets to Heaven. Gen. 33.11. I bave enough, faith Jacob to Efan. Gen. 45. 28. And Ifrael faid, it

Hof. 2. 5,8,9. Ila. 1. 2, 4. Jer. 2. 6. Efther 4. 10, Luke 12. 19.

Pfal. 23. 1, 2. Phil. 4.12, 13. I Tim. 6. 6.

Prov. 30. 8.
If thou live according to nature, thou wilt never be soor, if according to opinion, hou wilt never be rich.

Gen. 28. 20,

Job 23. 12.
He is rich enough, that lacketh not bread, and high enough in dignity, that is not forced to ferve. Ferom.
John 6. 9. to
the 15.
1 Kings 17. 12.

1 Kings 17. 12 v. 3, 4, 5, 6.

Prov. 30. 15, 16.

Pfal. 17. 14.

enough, Joseph my Son is yet alive. Though the righteous man hath but little, yet he hath enough for his place and calling in which God has placed him," and enough for his charge, whether it be great or imail, he has enough to latisfie nature, enough to preserve natural life. Hagar is but for food convenient, convenient for his life, not for his lusts; he prayes for enough to fatisfic necessity, convenience, not concupiscence: he begs for Bread, not for Quails: he begs that na ure may be fultained, not pampered. Though it be crue, that nothing will fatisfie a wicked mans lufts; yet 'tis as true, that a little will satisfie nature, and less will satisfie Grace. Facob vows, that the Lord should be his God, if he would but give him bread to eat,, and rayment to put This was the first holy Vow that ever we read of; Hence Jacob is called the Father of Vows. He begs not dainties to feed him, nor Silks, nor Sattins to clothe bim; but bread to feed him, though never to course, and clothes to cover him, though never fo mean. Job is only for necessary food. A little will satisfie a temperate Christian. Luther made many a meal of Bread and a Red Herring; and Junius made many a meal of Bread and an Egg. Nature laps only, like those three hundred Souldiers, Judges 7.6. When Christ fed the people graciously, miraculously, he fed them not with Manchets and Quails, or Phesants, &c. but with Barley Loaves and Fishes, a frugal, temperate, sober diet. If the handful of meal in the Barrel, and the Oyle in the Cruize fail not, and if the brook and the running water fail not, Elijab can be well enough contented. But now wicked men never have enough, they are never fatisfied. They are like those four things that Solomon speaks of, that are never latisfied, viz. The Grave, the barren Womb, the earth and the fire. That is an observable passage of the Plalmilt, Thou fillest their bellies with thy hid treasures. To a worldly wicked man all these outward things are but a belly-full: and how foon is the belly emptied, after it's once filled. Though many rich men have riches enough to link them, yet they have never enough to latisfie them. Like him that wisht for a thousand Sheep in his flock, and when he had them, he wisht for other Cattel without number. When Alexander had all the Crowns and Scepters of the Princes of the world piled up at his Gates, he wishes for another world to conquer. The eye is not fatisfied with feeing, nor the ear with hearing. He that Invest filver, shall not be satisfied with filver; nor he that loveth abundance with increase. There is enough and enough in filver, in abundance of filver to vex and fret the foul of man, but not to fatisfie the foul of man. God himself is the only centre of centers, and as the foul can never rest, till it return to him (as the Dove to the Ark) so it can never be filled, stilled, or satisfied, but in the enjoyment of him. All the beauty of the world, is but deformity; all the brightness of the world, is but blackness; all the light of the world, is but bitterness: and therefore is impossible for all the bravery and glory of this world, to give absolute satisfaction to the soul of man. Solomon the wisest Prince that ever sate upon a Throne, after his most diligent, curious, critical and impartial search into all the creatures; give this as the summa totalis, and product of his enquiries, Vanity of vanities, all is vinity. And how then can any of these things, yea, all these things heaped up together, fatisfie the foul of man. Hib. 2. 5. He enlargeth his defire as Hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto bim all Nations, and heapeth unto him all people. This is spoken of the King of Bahylon, who though he had gathered to him all Nations and people; yea, and all their vast : Treasures also, Isa. 10. 13. I bave robbed their treasures. ver. 14. And my band bath found as a neft, the riches of bis people: and as one gathereth Eggs that are left, have I gathered all the earth; and there was none that moved the wing, or opened the mouth, or peeped. And yet for all this, was his defire enlarged as Hell, and could not be fatisfied. The defires of worldlings are boundless and endless, and there is no satisfying of them. 'Tis not all the Gold of Ophir, or Peru, nor all the Pearls or Mines of India: 'tis not Fofephs Chains, nor Davids Crowns, nor Hamans Honours, nor Daniels Dignities, nor Dives his riches, that can latisfie an immortal foul.

Ecclef. 1. 8.

Chap. 5. 10.

Gen. 8. 9.
The poor Heathen could fay, I defire neither than enough.
For I may as well dye of a furfeit, as of hunger.

Ddd

Tenthly,

10.

Tub. 5. 20, 21,

2 Cor. 6. 10.

Heb. 13 5,6. Prov. 10: 3

Prov. 10. 3. Pfalm 37 34, 35, 36. Jer. 17. 11. Job 20.20.ult.

Tenthly, The little that the righteous man hath, is more stable, durable and lasting, than the riches of the wicked: and therefore his little, is better than their much, his mite is better than their millions. Pial. 34. 9, 10. O fear she Lord, ye bis Saints: for there is no want to them that fear him. The young Lions do lack, and suffer hunger: but they that seek the Lord, shall not want any good thing. Such as are separated from the worlds lufts, can live with a little. Such as fet up God as the object of their fear, have no cause to fear the want of any thing. When David was a captive amongst the Philistins, he wanted nothing. Paul had nothing, and yet possessed all things. A godly man may want many good things that he thinks to be good for him, but he shall never want any good thing that the Lord knows to be good for him. We do not esteem of Tenure sor life, as we do of freehold, because life is a most uncertain thing. Ten pound a year for ever, is better than a hundred in hand. All the promises are. Gods Bonds, and a Christian may put them in fuit when he will, and hold God to his word; and that not only for his spiritual and eternal life; but also for his natural life, his temporal life; but so can't the wicked. The temporal estate of the wicked is seldom long-liv'd, as you may see, by comparing the Scriptures in the Margent together. Alexander the Great Conqueror of the world, caused to be painted on a Table a Sword in the compass of a Wheel, shewing thereby, that what he had gotten by the Sword was subject to be turned about the wheel of Providence. There is no more hold to be had of riches, honours, or preferments, than Saul had of Samuels lap. They do but like the Rainbow themselves in all their deinty colours, and then van shaway. There are so many fins, and so many crosses, and so many curses that usually attend the riches of the wicked, that 'cis very rare to fee their estates long-liv'd. Hence their great estates are compared to the Chaffe, which a puff of wind disperseth; to the Grass which the scorching Sun quickly withers: to the tops of Corn, which are foon cut off; and to the unripe Grape, Job 15. 33. He still shake off his unripe Grape as the Vine, and shall cast off his flower as ob 24. 24.

the Olive, le Every dayes experience confirms us in this truth. But.

Eleventhly and lastly. The little that the righteous man bath, is better than the riches of the wicked, in resp. & of his last reckoning, in respect of his last accounts. God will never call his children in the great day, either to the book or to the bir for the mercies that he has given them, be they few or be they many, be they great or be they small. Though the Mercer brings his Customer to the book for what he has, and for what he weers, yet he never brings his Child, to the book for what he has; and for what he wears. Though the Vintner or Inn-keeper brings their guelts to the barr for the provisions they have, yet they never bring their children to the barr, for the provisions they make for them. great day the Lord will take an exact account of all the good that his children have done for others, but he will never bring them to an account, for what he has done for them. Christ in this great day will,

i. Remember all the individual offices of love and friendthip that hath been thewed to any of his members.

1) 2. He will mention many good things, which his children did, which they themselves never minded.

The least and lowest acts of love, and pity that have been shewed to Christs suffering servants, shall be interpreted as a special kindness shewed to himself.

The recompence that Christ will give to his people in Verse 44, 46. that day shall be exceeding great. Here is no calling of them to the book or to the barr for the mercies that they were entrusted with. But O the sad, the great accounts, that the wicked have to give up for all their Lands and Lordships, for all their Honors, Offices, Dignities and Riches. To whom Luke 12. 48. much is given, much shall be required. Christ in the great day will reckon with all the Grandees of the world for every thousand, for every hundred, for every pound, yea, for every penny that he has entrusted them with. All Princes. Nobles and people that are not interested in the Lord Jesus. shall be brought to the book, to the barr in the great day, to give an account, of all they have received and done in the Ddd2

Maith. 25.

Verse 37.

Verle 40.

Rev. 6. 15, 16. Luke 16. 2. Ecclef. 12. 14

S. 16 20

Some of the more refined Heathen have had fome kind of dread and fear in their spirits upon the consideration stesh. But Christs darlings shall then be the only welcome guels. Matth. 25, 34. Then shall the King say to them on his right hand, come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you, from the soundation of the world. Before the world was founded, the Saints were crowned in Gods eternal counsel. Here is no mention made of the book or the barr, but of a Kingdom, a Crown, a Diadem. Now by these eleven Arguments 'tis most evident, that the little that the righteous man hath, is better than the riches of the wicked; the righteous mans mite, is better than the wicked mans millions. Bur, of a day of account, as the writings of Plato and Tully, &c. do sufficiently evidence.

8.

The eighth Maxim that I shall lay down, to put a stop to your too eager pursuit after the things of this world, is this, viz. That the life of man confists not in the enjoyment of these earthly things, which he is so apt inordinately to affect, Luke 12. 15. And he faid unto them, take beed, and beware of coverousness. For a mans life consisterb not in the abundance of the things which be possessed. Whether we consider mans life, in the length and continuance of it, or in the comfort of It confifts not in riches; for no man lives a day longer or merrier for his riches. Though possessions are useful to fultain life, yet no man is able to prolong his life, or to make it any thing more happy or comfortable to him, by possessing more than he needs or uses. 'Tis not the Golden Crown that can cure the head-ache, nor the Velvet Slipper that can ease a man of the Gout, nor the Purple Robe that can fray away a burning Feaver. Mark, the life of man is fo far from contifting in the enjoyment of these earthly things, that many times they haften a man' to his long home. Many a mans Coffer has haftened him to his Coffin; and as many a men has loft his finger for his Rings fake, fo many a man has loft his life for his Purfes take. In all the Ages of the world many a than has deeply suffered for his means. Nabosh loft his life for his Vineyards lake. Quintus Aurelius in the dayes of Sylla loft his life by reason of his Lands. Many a mans means has hanged him. Many a man has deeply fuffered for his means fake. The Romans ript up the bellies and bowels of the Tews to fearch for Gold. The Americans had been more fafe, had they had less Gold. They thought Gold was the Spaniards God. But how the Spaniards played the Devil to get their Gold. I shall not at this time take pleasure to relate. Now if our temporal life confilts not in any of these earthly things, then certainly our spiritual life consists not in any of these earthly things. For what Religious duty is there that a believer can't do, though he has neither money in his Bigg, nor dainties on his Table. And as our spiritual life confilts not in any of these earthly things, so our eternal life confifts not in any of these earthly things: for as all the treasures of this world can't bring a foul to Heaven, so they cannot keep a foul from dropping down to Hell.

Jer. 17. 11

Kings 21. Plata th in with Syllæ.

May well be likened to a burning fire,
May well be likened to a burning fire,
Whereof a little can do little barm:
But profit much our bodies well to warm:
But take too much, and surely thou shalt burn.
So too much wealth to too much wo dos turn.

But.

The ninth Maxim that I shall lay down to put a stop to your too eager pursuit after the things of this world, is this, viz. That there is no rest to be found in any earthly enjoyments. Rest is the centre at which all intellectual natures, as well as natural bodies aim at. A man that is inordinately in love with the world, can never be at rest. The Drunkard sometimes rests from his caps, and the unclean person some his silthiness, and the swearer from his Oathes, and the Idolater from his Idols, but the worldling is never at rest: his head and heart are still a plodding and a plotting how to get, and how to keep the things of this world. Eccels, 5. 12. The sleep of the labouring manie sweet, whether be cat little or much; but the abundance of the rich will not suffer D d d 2

Fole hus When Zelimu Emperor of Constantinople, had taken E:ypt, he found a great deal of Treafure there ; and the Soulliers asking of him, what they should do with the Citizens of Ægy)t having found a great treafure among them : O faith the Emperor. Hang them all up, for they are too rich to be made flaves

He that is ich in eonscince (saith suftin) fleeps note sound y, than he that is richly clothed in Purple.
Luke 12.20.

Dan. 5. 5, 6.

Matth. 25.24.

August ne.

Had a man as much honor and dignity, profit and pleafure as himfelf could wifh, or the world afford, yet within twenty four hours he would be weary of all, and muft go to fleep.

him to flep. These three Vultures, care of getting, sear of keeping, and grief of lofing, feed day and night upon the heart of a rich and wretched worldling, forthat his fleep depares from himan Sometimes his abundance lyes like a lump of Lead heavy upon his heart, so that he cannot reft. Sometimes his conscience dos so lash, and launce, and gaule him for what he has got; by indirect wayes and means, that he cannot fleep. Sometimes God himfelf will not fuffer him to fleep: Sometimes God flews him the hand-writing upon the wall: formetimes the terrifies him with dreams to and tometimes he throws hand-fulls of Hell fire in his face. as once he did into Judas's, and this hinders his reft. Sometimes by their excessive eating and drinking their gluttony, their delicious fare other overcharge nature is which caufeth indigestion and malignant vapours, whereby sleep is wholly removed, or elfe much diffurbed. Earthly riches are an evil Maller, a treacherous Servant, Fathers of flattery, Sons of grief, a cause of fear to those that have them, and a cause of sorrow to those that want them : and therefore what reft is there to be found in the enjoyment of them. The Prior in Melantibon Trolled his hands up and down in a Bafin full of Angels, thinking to have charghed his Gout, but this could give him no cate, no rests. Lutimer in a Sermon before King Edward the fixth, tells a flory of a rich man, who when he lay upon his fick bed, one came to him, and told him, that he was a dead man, that he was no man for this world has foon as ever the fick man heard these words (faith Latimer) he cryed out; must I die? Send for a Physitian, Wounds, fide, heart, must I die? Wounds, side, heart, mult I dye? and thus he continued crying out, Wounds, fide, heart, must I dye ? Must I dye and leave these riches behind me? All the riches that he had heaped together could give him no reft nor quieto when the King of terrors knockt at his doors. MAll the good things of this world have more or less of the Thorn in them. And therefore what rest can they give? Aching Golden wedge proved a wedge to cleave him, and his garment a garment to shrowd him. In Spain they lived happily, until fire made some Mountains vomit Gold :

10.

Gold: but what miscrable discords have followed ever fince. It is only Heaven that is above all Winds, and Storms and Temp. its : neither hath God cast man out of one Para dife, for him to think to find out another Paradife in this world. But,

The tenth and last Maxim that I shall lay down, to put a stop to your too eager pursuit after the things of this world, is this, viz. That it is a very high point of Christian wisdom and prudence, alwayes to look upon the good things, and the great things of this world, as a man will certainly look upon them, when he comes to die. O with what a disdainful eye, with what a contemptible eye, with what a scornful eye, and with what a weaned heart and cold affections do men look upon all the pomp, state, bravery and glory of the world, when their foul fits upon their trembling lips, and there is but a short step between them and eternity. He that looks upon the world, whill he has it under his hand, as he will affuredly look upon it, when he is to take his leave of it: he will some of short of the said of the

2. He will never grieve inordinately to part with the world. Nor.

3. He will never envy those who enjoy much of the world. Nor.

4. He will never dote upon the world, he will never be enamoured with the world. I have read of a man, who lying in a burning Feaver, profest that if he had all, the world at his dispose, he would give it all for one draught of Beer, at fo low a rate do men value the world at fuch a time as that is. King Lysimachus lost his Kingdom for one draught of water to quench his thirft. If men were but fo wife to value the world at no higher a rate in health, than they do in fickness; in the day of life, than they do at the hour of death; they would never be fond of it, they would never be to deeply in love with it. Now Othat these ten Maxims may be so bleft to the Reader, as to crucifie the world to him. and him unto the world. Gal. 6. 14. He gave good counfel who faid, O man if thou be wife, let the world pale, left thou Auft n.

t John 2. 15.

pass away with the world. Fix thy heart on God; let him be thy portion; fix thy aff ctions upon Christ, he is thy redemption; on Heaven, let that be thy Mansion. O take hat counsel, Love not the world, nor the things of the world. Mark, he doth not say, have not the world, nor the things of the world: but love not the world, nor the things of the world: nor he doth not say, use not the world, nor the things of the world; but love not the world, nor the things of the world: nor he doth not say, take no moderate care for the world, nor the things of the world: but love not the world, nor the things of the world. But to prevent all mistakes, give me leave to premise these three things.

As Mr. Tindal
the Martyr, faid, I defire these earthly things, so far as they may be helps to the keeping of thy commandments.

First, Tis lawful to defire earthly things, so far as they may be surtherances of us in our journey to Heaven. As a passenger when he comes to a deep River, desires a Boat, but not for the Boats sake, but that he may pass over the River, for could he pass over the River without a Boat, he would never cry out, a Boat, a Boat: or as the Traveller defires his Inn, not for the Inns sake, but as it is a help, a surtherance to him in his journey homewards; or as the Patient defires Physick, not for Physick sake, but in order to his health. So a Christian may lawfully defire earthly things in order to his glorifying of God; and as they may be a help to him in his Christian course, and a surtherance to him in his heavenly race, Heb. 12. 1. But,

2.

Secondly, We may defire earthly things in subordination to the will of God. Lord if it be thy pleasure, give me this and that earthly comfort, yet not my will, but thy will be done. Lord thou are the wise Physician of bodies, souls and Nations, if it may stand with thy glory, give thy sick Patient life, health and strength; yet not my will, but thy will be done. But;

3. Prov. 30. 8, 9. I Tim. 6. 8. Thirdly, We may defire such a measure of earthly things, and such a number of earthly things, as may be suitable to the place, calling relation and condition wherein the Providence of God has see as Master, Magistrate, Prince, Lord, Gentleman, &c. A little of these earthly things, and a sew of these earthly things, may be sufficient to the order, place, calling and condition of life wherein fome men are placed, but not sufficient for a King, a Lord, a Magistrate, a General, &c. These must have their Counsellors, their Guards, variety of accordance, and variety of the creatures, &c. A little portion of the leearthly things is sufficient for some : and a great and large portion of these earthly things, is but sufficient for others. Less may serve the Servant, than the Mafter, the Child than the Father, the Pefant than the Prince, &c. The too cager pursuit of most men after the things of this world to make up the loffes that they fultained by the fire, hath been the true cause, why I have intifted so largely upon this ninth Duty that we are to learn by that fiery dispensation that hath pastupon us.

ing

The tenth Duty that lyes upon those who have been burnt up, is to be very importunate with God, to take away those fins that have leid our City desolate, and to keep off from fin for the time to come, and to look narrowly to your spirits, that you do not charge the Lord soolishly, because he Mal. 2. 15. has brought you under his hery rod. Job 1. 16. While he was yet speaking, there came also another and faid, the fire of God is fallen from beaven, and hash burnt up the fleep, and the fervants, and consumed them, and I only am escaped alone to tell thee. v.22. In all this Job sinned not, nor charged God foolisbly. The fire of God (that is, a great, fierce and terrible fire) that fell from Heaven, and confumed Fobs theep and servants, was a more terrible Judgement, than all the former Judgements that befell them, because God scemed to fight against Job with his own bare hand, by fire from Heaven, as once he did against Sodom: In all this Fob finned not: that is, in all this that Fob fuffered, acted and uttered, there was not any thing that was materially finful. Satan he said, that if God would but touch all that he had, Job would curse him to his face; but Satan he said, that if God would but when it came to the proof, there was no fuch thing. 11 For 7 ob had a fair and full victory over him, and Satan-was proved a loud lyar. For Job sinned not in thought, word or deed; Job did neither speak, nor do any thing that was dishonourable to God, or a reproach to his Religion, or a Ecc wound to his conscience: under this fiery tryal Job did not fo much as entertain one hard thought concerning God: nor let fall one hard word concerning God, under all the evils that befell 70b. 70b still thinks well of God, and speaks well of God, and carries it well towards God : Certainly 70b had a great deal of God within him, which kept him from finning under such great and grievous sufferings. O Sirs, it is a far greater mercy to be kept from finnings under our fufferings, than it is to be delivered from the greatest sufferings. Jobs heart was fo well scasoned with Grace, that he would admit of no infolent or unfavoury thoughts of God, or of his severest Providences. In all this Job sinned not, nor charged God foolishly, or with folly. Some refer the former part of this Verse to the mind, and the latter to the mouth: shewing that Fob (though he had lost all.) neither thought in his heart, nor uttered with his mouth any thing unmeet and unworthy of God. The meek, humble, patient and gracious b. haviour of 70b under all his fore losses and crosses, is here owned, renowned, crowned and chronicled by God himself. O Sirs, sinning is worse than suffering; it is better to fee a people bleeding, than blaspheming; burning, than curfing; for by mens fins God is dishonoured, but by their sufferings God is glorified. O that the Christian Reader would feriously consider of these twelve things.

10.

Prov. 6. 16, 17. Jer. 49. 4. Rom. 1. 18. Heb. 6. 6. Ephef. 4 30. Marth. 26. ult. Pfal. 30. 6, 7. Ifa. 49. 1, 2. Mal. 2. 2. but fin.

2. That there is nothing that he has revealed his wrath from Heaven against, but sin.

3. That there is nothing that crucifies the Lord of Glory a fresh, but sin.

- 4. That there is nothing that grieves the Spirit of Grace, but fin.
- 5. That there is nothing that wounds the conscience, but fin.
- 6. That there is nothing that clouds the face of God, but
- 7. That there is nothing that hinders the return of prayer, but fin.

8. That

- 8. That there is nothing that interrupts our communion with God, but fin,
- . 9. That there is nothing that imbitters our mercies, but
- 10. That there is nothing that puts a sling into all our troubles and tryals, but fin.

ir. That there is nothing that renders us unferviceable in our places, stations and conditions, but fin.

12. That there is nothing that makes Death the King of terrors, and the terror of Kings to be to formidable and terrible to the Sons of men, as fin. And therefore under all your forrows and fufferings, croffes and loffes, make it your great business, to arm your selves against fin, and to pray against fin, and to watch against fin, and to turn from fin, and to cease from sin, and to get rid of sin, and to stand for ever in defiance of fin. Affuredly every gracious heart had mather be rid of his fins, than of his sufferings, Job 7, 21. And why doft thou not take away mine iniquity, or lift up, as the Hebrew runs, to note, that though Job had many loads, many burthens upon him, yet none lay so heavy upon him, as his fin, Hol. 14.2. Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously. Tis not take away our captivity, and receive us graciously; but take away our iniquity, and receive us graciously: nor it is not take away this or that particular iniquity, and receive us graciously, but take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously; take away flain and fling, crime and curfe, power and punishment, that we may never hear more of it, nor never feel more of it: nor never be troubled any more with it. Though their bondage was great, very great, yes, greater than any people under Heaven were exercifed with yet their fins were a more unsupportable burden to their spirits, than their bondage was. And therefore they cry out; Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously. And this was the usual method of David, when he was under fore troubles and tryals, he was more importunate with God to be purged and pardoned, than he was to be cased under his troubles, or delivered from his troubles, Pial 51.2. Walh me throughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my Pfal. 38. 3, 4 Ecc 2

2 Chron. 7.14. Ifa. 16, 17. Chap. 55. 7. Hof 14.8. Ifa. 20.22.

Dan. 9.11, 12,

See Pfal. 79. 1, 5, 8. Pfal. 25. 7. Pfal. 32. 4, 5

Exod. To.

sin. verse 7. Purge me with Hysop, and I shall be clean: wash me and I shall be whiter than Snow. ver. 9. Hide thy face from my fine, and blot out all mine iniquities. ver. 14. Deliver me from blood guiltiness, O God. When Pharach was under the hand of the Lord, he was all for removing of the Plagues, the Frogs, the Locults, erc. But when David was under the hand of the Lord, he was all for the removing of his fins, and for the cleanfing, purging, and washing away of this fins. O that all the burnt Citizens of London would be more earnest and importunate with God to pardon, and purge, and take away all those iniquities that have brought the fiery rod upon them, than they are fludious and industrious to have their credits repaired their houses rebuilded, their Trades restored, and all their losses made up to them. O that they might all be driven by what they have felt, ferioufly to confider what they have done. No man faith what have I done. O that they would all blame themselves more, and their fins more, and to turn to him who has fo forely smitten them, and lay hold on his strength, and make peace with him, that so he may yet build up their waste places, and make up their breaches, and repair their losses, and never turn away from doing of them good, Fer. 32. 41, 42, 43: 44. But.

Jer. S. 6. Hof. 6. 1,2,3. If2. 56. 6. Ezek. 36. 33,

II.

(fa. 9. 12. Rev. 11. 18. als. The anger of the Lord is not yet turned away, but his hand is firetched out fill. The Nations are angry, the face of the times feem forely to threaten us with greater troubles, than any yet we have encountered with. Ah London, London! Ah England, England, the Clouds that hang over thee, feem every day to be blacker and blacker, and thicker and thicker: thou halt suffered much, and thou halt cause to fear, that thou mayest suffer more: thou halt been brought low: yea, thou are this day brought very low in the eyes of the Nations round about thee, and yet thou mayest be brought lower before the day of thy exaltation comes. When

God intends to raise a person, a City, a Nation high, very

The eleventh Duty that they are to learn that have been burnt up, is to prepare and fig for greater troubles and fig.

Deut. 28. 43 2 Chron. 28. 18, 19. Deut. 32. 36. high, he then usually brings them low, very low, and when they are at lowest, then the day of their exaltation is near-'Tis commonly darkelt a little before break of day. The hand of the Lord has been lifted up high, yea, very high over us, and against us, but who repents, who reforms, who returns to the Most High, who smites upon his thigh, who faves what have I done? who finds out the Plague of hi own heart? who ceafeth from doing evil? who learns to do well? who flirs up himfelf to take hold of God? who stands in the gap? who wrestles and weeps, and weeps and wrefiles to turn away those judgements that this day threat ens us? So long as fin remains rampant, and men continue impenitent, there is reason to fear a worse scourge than any vet we have been under. Pharachs flubborneels did but increase his plagues: the more flout and unyielding we are under judg ments, the more chains God will fill put on. When his hand is lifted up, we must either bow or break Such as have been under the smart rebukes of God, and will not take Christs warning, to go their way and fin no more, have reason to sear his inscrence, that a worse thing will come upon them. The face, of prefent Providences looks difmal': dreadful fufferings feem to be near, very near, even at our very doors. Yet to prevent fainting, we must remember, that God never wants chambers to hide his people in, till his indignation be over paft. God hath waves enough to preferve his wheat, even when the whirl-wind carries away the chaff. God can find an Ark for his Noabs. when a flood of wrath fweeps away finners on every hand: and God can provide a Zoar for his Sets, when he rains fire and brimstone upon all round about them. Look, as God many times by leffer mercies fits his people for greater mer cies; fo God many times by leffer judgements tits his people for greater judgements: and who can tell, but that the de tign of God by the late Judgements of Fire, Sword and Pefilence, is to prepare and fit his people for greater judge-That God might have inflicted greater judgements than any yet he has inflicted upon us : I have already proved by an induction of particulars, that greater judgements 233 Har tiouies, your Shops, Pfal. 79.8. Pfal. 135. 23. Pfal. 142.6. Ifa. 26. 10,11. Jer. 8.6.

lfa. 1. 16, 17, 18. Plalm 106. Hol. 12. 4.

Excles. 5. 8.

Toing 5, 14.

Ifa. 26. 20.

may be prevented, and our present mercies continued and encreased, it highly concerns us to repent, and to turn to the Most High. There are seven sorts of men who have high rause to fear worldr Judgements than any yet have been inflicted upon them.

1. Such who scorn and deride at the Judgements of God, Is. 5. 19. Fer. 17. 15. and Chap. 20. 8. 2 Pet 3. 3, 4, 5.

2. Such who put off the Judgements of God to others, who cry our, O these Judgements concern such and such, but not us.

3. Such who are no wayes bettered nor reclaimed by ludgements.

4. Such as grow worfer and worfer under all the warnings and judgements, as Pharaob and Ahaz did, If a. 1. 5. Fer. 5. 3. 2 Chron. 28. 22, 23.

5. Such as make no preparations to meet God, when he is in the way of his Judgements, Amos 4. 12.

6. Such who are careless Gallines that do not so much as mind or regard the warnings of God, the judgements of God, Ifa. 5. 12, 13.

7. Such as put the evil day far from them, as they did in Isa. 22. 12, 13. and as they did in Amos 6.3. and as the inhabitants of Jerusalem did a little before their City was laid desolate. Some Writers tell us, that though the Jews had a great many warnings by prodigious signs, and scarful apparitions before Jerusalem was belieged, and the City destroyed; yet most of them expounded the meaning of them in a more savourable sense to themselves, than ever God intended, till the dreadful vengeance of God overtook them to the utmost. It is the greatest wildom and prudence in the world, to prepare and sit for the worst. The best way on earth to prevent Judgements from falling upon us, or if they do fall, to sweeten them to us, is so prepare for them. But,

Hezesippus. Fosephus, &c.

12.

The twelfth Duty that lyes upon those who have been burnt up, is to secure the everlasting welfare of their precious and immortal souls. O Sirs, Londons Ashes tell you to your faces, that you cannot secure your Houses, your Shops, your Estates, Estates, your Trades, but the eternal well being of your fouls may be secured. Every burnt Citizen carries a Jewel. a Pearl of price, a rich Treasure about him; viz. a Divine Matth 16.26. foul, which is more worth than all the world. As Christ who only went to the price of fouls, as told us, There is Pfalm 19. 1,2. much of the Power, Wildom, Majesty and Glory of God flampt upon the flately fabrick of this world, but there is more of the Power, Wildom, Majesty and Glory of God stampt upon an immortal foul. The foul is the glory of the Creation. What Fob speaks of Wildom, is very applicable to the pre- Job 28.13,16, cious foul of man. Man knows not the price thereof :- It cannot be valued with the Gold of Ophir, with the precious Onyx, or the Sapphire. "The Gold and the Chrystal cannot equal it : and the exchange of it, thall not be for Jewels of fine Gold. The foul is a beam of God, a heavenly foark, a cocle-Itial plant; it is the beauty of man, the wonder of Angels, Pfalm 45. 13. the envy of Devils, and the glory of God. O how richly and gloriously hath God embroydered the foul. The Kings daughter is all glorious within: ber clothing is of wrought Gold. The foul is divinely inlaid and enamel d by Gods own hand. The foul is of an Angelical nature, it is of a divine Off spring, it is a spiritual substance capable of the knowledge of God, and of union with God, and of communion with God, and of an eternal fruition of God. The foul is an immortal fubstance, and that not only per gratiam, by the grace and favour of God, as the body of Adam was in the state of innocency, and as the bodies of Saints shall be at the refurrection, but per naturam, by its own nature, having no internal principle of corruption, fo as it cannot by any thing from within it felf ceafe to be; neither can it be annihilated by any thing from without. Fear not them which kill the bo- Matth. 10, 28. dy, but are not able to kill the foul. Some have observed to my hand, that there are three forts of created spirits : the first of Gregory, &c. those whose dwellings is not with with flesh, or in fleshly bodies, they are the Angels: the second, of those which are wholly immersed in fielh, the souls of beatts, which rise out of the power of the fielh, and perish together with it: the third is of those which inhabit bodies of flesh, but rise out of Enteteus and many others of the more refined Heathens have long since said that the body was but the Organ, the foul was the man, the Merchandize.

ecles. 12.

21.6.1. 51

andro var.

the power of the flesh, nor dye when the body dyeth; and these are the souls of men. When the body returneth to the carch as it was, the Spirit shall return to God who gave it. O Sirs, the foul being immortal, it must be immortally happy, or immortally milerable. Certainly there is no wildom, nor policy to that of fecuring the everlasting welfare of your fouls. All the honours, riches, greatness; and glory of this world, are but chips, feathers, triffes, piblies to your precious and immortal touls; and therefore before all, and above all other things, make fure work for your fouls; if they are fafe, all is tafe; but if they are loft, all is loft, and you cast and undone in both worlds. Chryfestom observeth, that whereas God hash given many other things double, two eyes to fee with, two cars to hear with, two hands to work with, and two reet to walk with, to the intent, that the failing of the one might be supplyed by the other, he hath given us but one foul, if that be loft, half thou another foul to give in recompence for it. If you fave your fouls, though you should lose all you have in this world, your loss would be a gaicful loss; but of you lose your precious souls, though you should gain all the world, yet your very gains will undo you for ever. You have found by the late dreadful fire, that there is no fecuring of the things of this world; and therefore make it your business, your work to get a Christ for your souls, grace for your souls, and a Heaven for your fouls, that fo though all go to wrack here, yet your fouls may be faved in the day of Christ. What desperate madness and folly would it have been in any, when London was in flames, to mind more, and endeavour more to fave their Lumber, than their Jewels; their goods in their Shops, than their Children in their Cradles, or their Wives in their Beds; but it is a thousand times greater madness and folly, for men to mind more, and endeavour more to fecure their temporal estates, than they do to secure their eternal eftates. But. 20 die

13. Pfalm 16. 5. Pfalm 63. 26. The thirteenth duty that is incumbent upon those who have been burnt up, is to get a God for their portion. You have loft your earthly portion, your earthly possessions, O

that

that you would now labour with all your might, to get God Pfal. 119. 57 for your portion. If the lois of your earthly portions fhalf Jer. 10. 16 be so sanctified to you, as to work you to make God your portion, then your unspeakable losses will prove inconceivable gain unto you. O Sirs, God is the most absolute need ful and necessary portion: the want or the loss of earthly portions may afflict and trouble you, but the want of God. for your portion will certainly damn you: it is not absolutely necessary, that you should have a portion in Gold, or Silver, or Jewels, or Goods, or Houses, or Lands, or Lord. ships; but it is absolutely necessary, that you should have Suppose that with the Apostles. God for your portion. you have no certain dwelling place, nor no Gold, nor Silver in your purses: Suppose with Lazarus you have never a rag to hang on your backs, nor never a dry crust to put in your bellies: Suppose with Job you should stript of all your worldly comforts in a day; yet if God be your portion. you are happy, you are really happy, you are fignally hap py, you are greatly happy, you are unspeakably happy, you are eternally happy. However it may go with you in this world, yet you shall be sure to be glorious in that other, world. To have God for thy portion O man, is the one thing necessary; for without it thou art for ever and ever undone: If God be not thy portion, thou canst never enjoy communion with God in this world: if God be not thy portion, thou canst never be faved by him in the other world Will you consider a little what an excellent transcendent por tion God is?

I Cor. 4. II. Ats 3.6. Lke 16. 20,

1. He is a present portion: he is a portion in hand, he is a portion in post sion.

2. God is an immense portion, he is a vast large portion, he is the greatest portion of all portions.

3. God is an all-sufficient portion.

4. God is a pure and unmixed portion: God is an unmixed good, he hath nothing in him but goodness. http://

5. God is a glorious, a happy and a bleffed portion; he is to in himfelf, and he makes them fo too, who enjoy him for their portion, and a second as a more

Na coles Po:ton, from 1. 8 10 D. 107. where all thele particulars are fully proved.

6 God is a peculiar portion, a portion peculiar to his people.

7. God is a universal portion, he is a portion that includes all other portions.

8. God is a sase portion, a secure portion, a portion that none can rob a believer of.

9. God is a suitable portion. No object is so suitable and adequate to the heart, as he is.

10. God is an incomprehensible portion.

11. God is an inexhaustible portion; a portion that can never be spent, a spring that can never be drawn dry.

12. God is a foul fatisfying portion; he is a portion that gives the foul full fatisfaction and content.

1. 13. God is a perminent portion, an indeficient portion, a never failing portion, a latting, yea, an everlatting portion.

14. And lastly, God is an incomparable portion; God is a portion more precious, than all those things which are esteemed most precious. Nothing can make that man miscrable, that has God for his portion; nor nothing can make that man happy, that hath not God for his portion. O Sirs, why do you think, that God by his late stery dispensations, has stript you of your earthly portions, but essectivally to stir you up to make him your only portion, &c. But,

The sourteenth Duty that is incumbent upon them that have been burnt up, is to make God their habitation; to make God their dwelling place, Psal 90. 1. Lord thou hast been our dwelling place (or place of retreat) in all generations: or in generation, and generation as the Hebrew runs, it is an Hebraisme, setting forth God to be the dwelling place of his people in all generations before the flood and after the flood. The Israel of God in all their troubles and travels in their wilderness condition, were not houseless nor harbourless: God was both their hiding place and their dwelling place. He that dwelleth in God, cannot be unhoused, because God is kronger than all. 'Tis brave for a Christian to take up in God as in his Mansion-house. It was a witty saying of that learned man Picus Mirandula, viz. That God created the earth for Bealts ro inhabit, the Sea for Fishes, the Air for Fowls, the Heavens for Angels and Stars; and therefore man hath no place to dwell and abide in, but God alone. Now the great God has burnt up your dwelling places, make him your dwelling place, your habitation, your shelter, your place of retreat, your City of refuge. Certainly, they dwell most fafely, most securely, most nobly, most contentedly, most delightfully and most happily, who dwell in God, who live under the wing of God, and whose constant abode, is under the shadow of the Almighty. Let the loss of your habitations lead you by the hand, to make choice of God for your habitation. There is no fecurity against temporal, spiritual and eternal judgements, but by making God your dwelling place. How deplorable is the condition of that man that hath neither a house to dwell in, nor a God to dwell in? that can naither fay, this house is mine, nor this God is mine? that hath neither a house made with hands, nor vet a Cor. s. 1, 2. one eternal in the Heavens. Tis a very great mercy for God to dwell with us, but it is a far greater mercy, for God to dwell in us, and for we to dwell in God. For God to dwell with us, argues much happiness, but for we to dwell in God, this argues more happiness, yea, the top of happiness. There is no study, no care, no wisdom, no prudence, no understanding, to that which works men to make God their habitation. No storms, no tempests, no afflictions, no sufferings, no Judgements can reach that man, or hurt that man, who has made God his dwelling place. He that hath God for his habitation, can never be miserable; and he that hath not God for his habitation, can never be happy. That God that has once burnt you out of your habitations, can again burn you out of your habitations; and if he should, how fad would it be, that God has once and again burnt you out of your habitations, and yet you have not made him vour habitation? &c. But,

1 John 4. 13. Chap. 3. 24.

The fifteenth Duty that is incumbent upon those who have been burnt up, is to make sure an abiding City, a City bee my Tree that hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. rance.

Fff 2

Ver. 13.

Tàg.

Estius Exposit

Ωſε.

Matth. 17. 4

Rev. 21. 2. Chap. 1. 5, 6.

OSUBAISS.

H.t.-13. 14. For here have we no continuing City, but we feek one to come. These words are a reason of his former exhortation to the believing Hebrews, to renounce the world, and to take up Christs Cross and follow him; as is clear by this causal particle for. It is a probable conjecture made by some, as Estins observeth, that St. Paul speaks prophetically of the deftruction of the City of Ferusalem, which was then at hand, and that in a short time, neither that City, nor the Countrey. about it, would be an abiding place for them; but driven from thence they should be, and be forced to wander up and down; and therefore they were to look for no other abiding place, but Heaven. Here we have no continuing City. Adverb translated here, is sometimes used for place, and this more strictly for the particular place, where one is (as for that place where Peter was, when he said, It is good for us to be bere) or more largely for the whole earth, and so it is taken here, for it is opposed to Heaven. For the present we have no abiding City, but there is an abiding City to come, and thats the City which we feek after. This carthly Jerufa-lem is no abiding City for us: this old world, the glory of which is wearing off, is no abiding City for us; but Jerufalem that is above, the heavenly City, the City of the great King, the City of the King of Kings. This world is a wilderness, and believers as Pilgrims and strangerss must pass through it to their heavenly Canaan. This world is no place for believers to continue in; they must pals through it to an abiding City, to a continuing City, to a City that hath foundations, Heb. 11. 10. For he looked for a City which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. The Plural Number is here used, foundations, for emphasis sake: this City is faid to have foundations, to thew that it it a firm, stable, immoveable and enduring City, which the Apostle opposeth to the Tabernacles or Tents wherein Abraham and the other Patriarchs dwelt while they were on earth, which had no foundations, but were moveable and carried from place to place, and easily pulled down, or overthrown, or burnt up; but Heaven is an immoveable, firm, stable and everlasting City. Heaven is a City that is built, I. Upon

-1. Upon the foundation of Gods eternal good will and pleasure.

2. That is built upon Gods election to eternal glory.

3. That is built upon the foundation of Christs eternal merits and purchase.

4. That is built upon the foundation of Gods everlasting Covenant of free, rich, infinite, soveraign and glorious grace.

5. That is built upon the immutable stability of Gods promile and oath: Heaven is built upon the foundation of great and precious promises, and upon his oath, who is faithfulness it self, and cannot lye. Now O what a strong City, what a glorious City, what a continuing City, what a lasting, yea, what an everlasting City must Heaven needs be, that is founded upon such strong and immoveable foundations as they are? Heaven hath foundations, but the Earth hath none: the earth hangs upon nothing, as 70b speaks Nineveb, Babylon, Jerusalem, Athens, Corinth, Troy, and those famous Cities of Afia, were strong and stately Cities in their times, but where are they now? Both Scripture and History doth sufficiently evidence, that in all the Ages of the world, there hath been no firm, stable, or continuing City to be found: and the Divine Wisdom and Providence hath ordered, and that partly to work the fons of men to put a difference betwixt the things of this world, and the things of the world to come : and partly to wean them from the world and all the bravery and glory thereof: and partly to awaken them, and ffir them up to make fure a Kingdom that shakes. not, riches that corrupt not, an in inheritance that fadeth not away, a house not made with hands, but one eternal in the Heavens; and a City that hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. Heaven is styled a City, to set out the excellency, glory and benefits thereof. The refemblance betwixt Heaven and a City, holds in these respects among others.

First, A City is a place of safety and security, so is Heaven a place of the greatest safety and security. A soul in Heaven, is a soul out of Gun-shot, no Devil shall there tempt, no wicked men shall there assault, no sire balls shall be F ff 3 there

Ephel. 1. 3, 4, 5, 6.
2 T.m. 2. 10.
1 Pet. 1. 2, 3, 4, 5.
Rom. 9. 11.
Chap. 11. 5 7.
2 Per. 1. 4.
Heb. 6. 17, 18, 19, 20.

Job. 26. 7.

Heb. 2. 5. Col. 3. 1. Heb. 12.28. 1 Pet. 1. 4. 2 Cor. 5. 1,2.

Neh. 3. 1. Jer. 35. 11. there call about, to disturb the peace of the heavenly inhabi-

John 14. 2.

Secondly, A City is compact, it is made up of many habitations; so in Heaven there are many habitations, many Mansions. In our common Cities many times the inhabitants are much shut up, and streightned for want of room; but in Heaven there is Elbow room enough, not only for God, and Christ, and the Angels, those glistering and shineing Courteours, but also for all believers, for all the elect f God.

3. Heb. 12. 22, 23. Thirdly, A City hath fundry degrees of persons appertaining unto it, as chief Magistrates and other Officers of stundry sorts, with a multitude of Commoners. So in Heaven there is God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost, and an innumerable company of Angels and saints.

4.

Fourthly, In a City you have all manner of provisions and ultiful commodities; so in Heaven there is nothing wanting that is needful or useful.

5.

Fifthly, A City hath Laws, Statutes and Orders for the better Government thereof; 'tis so in Heaven: and indeed there is no Government, to the Government that is in Heaven. Certainly there is no Government that is managed with that Love, Wisdom, Prudence, Holiness and Righteousness, &c. as the Government of Heaven is managed with.

6. Rev. 3. 12. Sixthly, Every City hath its peculiar priviledges and immunities; so it is in Heaven; Heaven is a place of the greatest priviledges and immunities.

7.

Seventhly, Cities are commonly very populous; and so is Heaven a very populous City, Dan. 7. 10. Rev. 5. 11. Rev. 7. 9.

8. Rev. 21. 27. Eighthly, None but Free-men may Trade, and keep open Shop in a City; so none shall have any thing to do in Heaven, but such whose name are written in the Lambs Book of Life. Believers are the only persons that are involved as Freemen in the Records of the heavenly City.

Ninthly.

Ninthly, Cities are full of earthly riches; and so is Heaven of glorious Riches: there are no riches, to the riches of Ifa. 22. 8. the heavenly Jerusalem. All the riches of the most samous Cities in the world, are but Drofs, Brass, Copper, Tinn, &c. to the riches of Heaven.

O Sirs, how should the consideration of these things, work us all, to look, and long, and to prepare, and fic for this heavenly City, this continuing City, this City which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. The Holy Ghost frequently calling believers, Pilgrims, soj purners, stran- Heb. 11, 12. gers, doth sufficien ly evidence, that there is no abiding for 1 Pet. 2 11. them in this world: this world is not their Countrey, their City, their home, their habitation; and therefore they are not to place their hopes, or hearts, or affections upon things below. Heaven is their chief City, their best Countrey, their most desirable home, and their everlasting habitation; and therefore the hopes, defires, breathings, longings and workings of their fouls, should still be heaven-ward, glory-ward. Oh when shall grace be swallowed up in glory? when shall John 14.2,3,4 we take possession of our eternal Mansions?, when shall we be with Christ, which for us is best of all? The late fire Phil. 1.23. hath turned all ranks and forts of men out of the houses where they once dwelt, and it will not be long before death will turn the same persons out of their present habitations. and carry them to their long homes, Death will turn Princes Ecclef. 12. 5. out of their most stately Palaces, and great men out of their most sumptuous Edifices, and rich men out of their most pleasant houses, and warlike men out of their throngest Castles, and poor men out of their meanest Cottages. Princes Palace, the great mans Edifice, the rich mans house, the warlike mans Castle, and the poor mans Cottage are of no long continuance. O how should this awaken and alarm all forts and ranks of men, to feek after a City which hath foundations, to make fure their intereft in the New Ferusalem which is above, in those heavenly Mansions, that no time can wear, nor flames consume. But,

Píal. 119.54

Col. 3. 1, 2. Luke 16, 9. Rev. 22. 17.

Sixteenthly,

· 16.

Sixteenthly and laftly, Was London in flames on the Lords Day, and was the prophanation of that day, one of those great fins that brought that dreadful judgement of fire upin London, that hath turned that glorious City into a ruigous heap? then Oh that all that have been sufferers by that lamentable fire, (and all others also) would make it their bufinele, their work, their Heaven, to fanchifie the Sabbath, and to keep it holy all their dayes, that the Lord may be no more provoked to lay London more desolate, than 'tis laid this day. Let it be enough, that this day of the Lord bath been so greatly prophaned, by finful omissions, and by finful commissions; by the Immorality, D. bauchery, Gluttony, Diurkennels, Wantoanels, Filthinels, Uncleannels, Rioting, Revelling and Chambering, that multitudes were given up to. before the Lord appeared egainst them in that flaming fire that hath laid our renowned City in Ashes. Let it be enough that the Lord has been more dishonoured, and blasphemed, that Christ hath been more reproached, despised and retuled, and that the Spirit hath been more grieved, vexed, provoked and quenched on the Lords Day, than on all the other dayes in the week. Let it be enough, that on this day of the Lord, many have been a playing, when they should have been a praying; and that many have been a sporting, when they should have been a mourning for the afflictions of Foseph. And that many have been a courting of their Mittriffes, when they should have been a waiting on the Ordinances: And that many have been fitting at their doors, when they should have been instructing of their families: and that many have been walking in the Fields, when they should have been a fighing and exposulating with God in their Cloffets; and that many have made that a day of common labour, which God hath made to be a day of special reft, from fin, from the world, and from their particular callings. Oh that all men who have paid so dear for prophaning of Sabbaths, would now bend all their force, firength. power and might, to sanctifie those Sabbaths, that yet they may enjoy on this fide eternity? &c.

Amos 6.6.

to it by holyand leane But you will reply upon me, How is the Sabbath to be fan-Ouelt. way, higher than the higheit, the hait fraits of the batter rate hather my The Lords Day is better than any Other I that endeavour to give a clear, full and fatisfactory An-Ansto. (wer to this necessary and noble Question. And therefore take me thus. W. First. We are to fanctifie the Sabbath, by resting from all fervil labour and work on that day. Exod. 20. 10! But the Exod. 16. 29, seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God ? in it thou But Neh. 13, 15, not do any work; thou, nor the Son, nor the Daughter, the man-16, 17, 18. fervant more by maid fervant, nor thy carrel, nor thy franger that is within thy gates. [er. 17. 22. Neither carry forth a burden out of your boufes on the Sabbath Day yonelther do ye any work but ballow to the Sabbath Day as I commanded your fathere. 11a. 58:93 1 If thousurn dray thy food from the Sabbaib. from doing thy pleasure on my boly day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the boly of the Lord, bonourable, and shalt bonour him, not doing thine own wayes, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speak ing of thine own words. Here are three things diffinctly ob Sandly, We have greater means are browsitt ni blevish fication of the Sabbath, than the Jews had for abroguinge; itive Chuffians had for three hughrow ters. ch'civation of the Sabbath annial Ingm. Not doing thine own wayes, that is, works a not speaking thine own words : not finding thine own pleafure." Now mark, we have fronger reasons to engage us to a Wricker observation and fandification of the Lords Day, than they had for their Sabbath: which may be thus evinced. 261 12:18 (Not to speak of their double Sacrifices upon their Sab! Numb. 28. 9, bath, which (as some think) might typisie our double de votion on the Lords Day? not yet to speak of those fix Lambs, whereby others conjecture; was fore prophetica the abundant fervices in the time of the Gofpel Ezek: 46. 10-51)landos? od: good blue First, Our Motives are far greater, and more efficacious: First, Our day hath many priviledges above theirs : wit-men As the Queen of dayes, Princels, Principal, Primare, a Royal day, higher than the highest, the sist fruits of the days; yea, saith Hierom, The Lords Day is better than any other common day, than all Festivals, New-moons, and Sabbaths of Moses. By these Titles its evident, that the Accients had the Lords Day in very high esteem and veneration of Sits, look, what Gold is among inserious Mettals, and what among other Grain, See the same is the Lords Day above all other dayes, of the week to the Last had be died to sait it all dieses?

Ggg

of the Creation Louis for the great work of Redemption.

Thirdly, Theirs was celebrated for their deliverance out of Egypt; ours for our deliverance from Hell. Now if the Jews were bound, and that for a whole day not to do their own works; nor speak their own words, nor find their own pleasure; how much more solemnity belongs to our Lords Day? O, what a day is the Lords Day! and how solemnly and devoutly ought it to be observed and sanctified & But, and

S. condly, We have greater means and helps for the fanctia fication of the Sabbath, than the Jews had for a long time; or than the Primitive Christians had for three hundred years. Mark, the holy observation of the Sabbath among them, came in by degrees long after the day was fettled; land the reason was this, because for a good while they had no word written to be read non now Progregues built to read it in: It was well nigh athousand years i gnabove althousand years after the giving of the Law, before the reading of the Law in Synagogues came up. For a long time, they had no Books among them, but the five Books of Marin and those Books neither were not well understood by the common people. And it is further observable that the children of dinael being in Agypt under fore pressures, afflictions and eruel bondage, &c. neither did, nor could keep the Sabbath in any for lemn manner, not being permitted either to telk for enjoy any folemn affemblies. And when they were in their wildernels condition, they had many flations, diversions and incurlione cursions of enemies, so that they could not keep the Sabbath in any folemn publick manner, as afterwards they did when they were fetled in peace and fafety in the Land of Cansan. And for the Primitive Christians for three hundred years liveing under very great and violent Persecutions : they neither did, nor could keep the Lords Day with that folemnity that they should or would; but as for place, they met not openly, but fecretly in Woods, and Defarts, and Holes, and Caves; and Dens of the earth: and fo for time, sometimes they met in the day, and often they met in the night. But as for us. who have lived, and do live in these dayes of the Son of man, what rare means and helps, what abundance of means and helps, what choice and precious means, and helps have we had, and still have (in spite of all oppositions from high or low) to enable us to fanctifie the Sabbath. And O that all the means and helps, that we yet enjoy, may be fignally bleft to that purpose. But,

Thirdly, The Heathens by the very light of nature, held it but reasonable, that the dayes consecrated to their Gods, should totally be observed with rest, and sanctity, the Flamins which were their Priefts, affirmed, that the Holy. dayes were polluted, if any work were done upon the folemn dayes; befides it was not lawful for the King of the Sacrifices, and the Flamins their Priests to see a work done on the holy dayes; and therefore by a Cryer it was proclaimed; that no fuch things should be done: and he that neglected the Precept, was fined; and besides the fine, he which did oughtunawares on fuch dayes, was to offer Sacrifices for expiation. And Scavola the High Pricht affirmed, that the wilful offendor could have no expiation. Now shall Heathens be so strict in the observation of their holy dayes, and thalk not Christians be as strict in their observation of the Lords Day? These Heathens will one day rise in judgement against the flight observers, and the gross prophaners of the Lords Day, But,

Secondly, We must fan diffe the Sabbath, by preparing our selves before hand for that day, and all the duties of that day. Eccles. 5. 1, 2. Hence it is that God hath fixt a Memorandum upon this

Ggg 2

Command.

Marrob'us L. I. c. 16. -

Pfalm 26. 6.

Command, more than he hath upon any other Command. Exod. 20. 8. Remember the Sabbath day to keep it boy. Sabi bith dayes are our Market-dayes. Now men that are world ly wife, they consider before hand, what to buy, and what to fell. The Husband-man dungs, dreffes, plowes, harrows. and all to prepare it for feed. I will (faith holy David) wash my hands in innocency; so will I compass thine Altar, O Lord. Signifying that to holy performances, there ought to be holy preparations. When the Temple was to be built. the Stones were hewen, and the Timber squared and fitted, before they were brought to the place where the Temple flood. The Application is case.

First, The Jews had their preparations, Mark 15.42. And now when the Even was come, (because it was the preparation, that is, the day before the Sabbath, &c.) Their preparation began at three a clock in the after-noon, which the Hebrews called the Sabbath Eve. The lews (as I have read) were fo careful in their preparation for the Sabbath, that to further it, the best and wealthiest of them, even those that had many fervants, and were Mafters of Families, would chop Hearbs, sweep the house, cleave wood, and kindle the fire, and do fuch like things, Oc.

S condly. The Heathens did ule to prepare themselves by a strict kind of holines, before they would offer Sacrifices to leveral of their Gods. They had (as Authors write) their stone pots of water fet at the doors of their Temples, where they uled to waff before they went to Sacrifice. 19 301 b

Thirdly, The works of the day are great and glorious; and what excellent works are there in nature, but requires fome previous preparation? Oc.

Fourthly, Confider the Dignity, Majeffy, Authority and Pariry of that God, with whom you have to do in all the duties of the day. When men are to converte and treat with earthly Princes, or to give them entertainment, how do they pre pare and make ready? And will you carry it worle towards the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, than men do carry it towards mortal Princes, whose breath is in their nottrils and whole glory thall affuredly be laid in the duft ? 62.

Fifthly.

3.

I Tim. 6. 15, 16.

Fifthly, Consider if you do not prepare your selves before hand for that day of the Lord, and all the duties of that day, what difference will there be between you and the worst of Hypocrites, Formalists, Superstitious or prophane persons, who rush upon holy duties, as the Horse rusheth into the Battel. Dost thou dress up thy house, thy Husband, thy self, thy children? so do the worst of persons. If you do not prepare for the duties of the day, and to meet with God in those duties, what singular thing do yo? Matth. 5. 27.

Sixthly, Consider what blessed yearnings you have made on those Sabbaths, wherein you have been prepared to meet with the Lord, and to manage the duties of those dayes. O the joy, the peace, the comfort, the communion, the satisfaction, the enlargements, that you have then met with and on the other hand consider, what poor yearnings you have made of it, when you have been careless and rash, and have not prepared your selves for the duties of the day, and so the enjoyment of God in those duties. On how slat, how cold, how dull, how dead, how straitned, have you been on those Sabbaths, wherein you have not prepared to meet with the Lord?

But you may lay, Wherein doth our preparation for the Sab-

In thefethree things. it is the good of and and and and affairs on the day before, that they may not encrease upon us on the Lords Day, to trouble us, or distract us in the wifes of that day.

Secondly, he putting iniquity far from you, in laying alide all superfluity of naughtiness, that you may receive the ingrafted word with meekness, which is able to save your fouls. When the vessel is unclean, it sowres quickly the sweetest liquors that are poured into it. And so when the heart is slithly and unclean, it loses all the good, it might otherwise gain by Ordinances. If the stomach be foul it must be purged before it be sed, or else the meat will never Queft.

Answ.

ī.

Job 11.14,15. James 1. 12.

y the

Ggg 3

nourish

nourish and strengthen nature; but encrease ill humours. So the souls of men must be purged from soul enormities and gross impicties, or else they will never gain any saving good by Ordinances. 2 Tim. 2.21. If a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto bonour, santissed and meet for the Masters use, and prepared unto every good work. Oc.

3. [faiah 50. 10.

calvin and others.

Thirdly, In acting your graces in all the duties of the day. Sleepy habits will do you no good, nor bring God no glory: all the honour he hath, and all the comfort and advantage you have, is from the active part of grace: and therefore you must still be a stirring up the grace of God that is in you, 2 Tim. 1.6. Stir up the gift of God that is in thee. 1 know the Apostle speaks of the Ministerial gift: but it is as true of the work of grace: for the Greek word xaeigua. fignifies grace, as well as gift. Stir up the grace of God in thee. Mark the phrase, it is a remarkable phrase: for in the Original it is to blow up thy grace, 'Avalanuent, just as a man' blowes up a fire that growes dull, or is hid under the afhes : blow up the grace of God in thee. Some think, that it is a Metaphor taken from a spark kept in ashes, which by gentle blowing, is stirred up till it take a stame. Others fay, it is an allusion to the fire in the Temple, which was alwayes to be kept burning. Look as the fire is encreased and preserved by blowing; fo are our graces preserved and encreased by our acting of them. We get nothing by dead and useless habits : Talents hid in a Napkin, gather rust. Look, as the noblest facultics are imbased, when they are not improved, when they are not exercifed. So the nobleft graces are imbased, when they are not improved, when they are not exercised. Grace is bettered and made more perfect, by acting : neglect of our graces, is the ground of their decrease and decay. Wells are the sweeter for drawing : and to are our graces for acting. We had need pray hard with the Spoule, Cant. 4. ult. Amake O'North wind, and come thou South, blow upon my garden, that the fices thereof may flow out : let my beloved come into bis garden, and eat bie pleafant fruit. Satans grand defign, is not to keep men from going the round of duties, nor yet to keep men from attending on Ordinances, but his grand defign, is to hinder hinder the exercise of grace. All other exercises without the exercise of grace, will do a Christian no good; as you may sec by comparing the Scriptures in the Margent together. The more grace is exercised, the more corruptions will be weakned and mortified. As one bucket in the Well rifes up the other go.s down; lo as grace rifes higher and higher, corruptions fall lower and lower. There, was two Lawrels at Rome, and when the one flourished, the other withered; fo where grace flourishes, corruptions wither. As the house of David grew stronger and stronger; so the house of Saul grew weaker and weaker. So as grace in its exercise grows thronger and thronger. So fin like the houle of Saul, will every day grow weaker and weaker. Hyou keep not grace in exercise, it may most fail you, when it should stand you most in stead. If a man uses a knife but now and then, he may have his knife to leek when he thould use it. Sword grows rufty in the scabbard, that is used but now and then. You know how to apply it. But,

Thirdly, You must Canctific the Sabbath, by looking upon the enjoyment of Sabbaths and Ordinances, as your great happinels by looking upon every duty as your dignity, and by looking upon every work of that day, as carrying a reward with it. Pfalm 19. 11. And in keeping of them there is great reward : not only for keeping, but also in keeping of Gods commands, there is great reward. A gracious toul would not exchange the joy, the peace, the comfort, the affurance, the communion, the delight, the fatisfaction that it enjoyes in the wayes of obedience (before pay day comes, before the Crown be put on, before the full reward is given out) for all the Crowns and Kingdoms of this world. David was a King, a great and glorious King, yea, the best King in all the world, and yet he effectived it as a very high honour to be the lowell Officer, a door keeper in Gods houle, Pfalm 84.10. A day in thy Courts, is better than a thouland : I had rather be a door-keeper in the bouse of my God, (or I had rather fit at the threshold, as the Hebrew runs) than to dwel in the tents of wickedness, I Kings 10. 8. Happy are the men, happy ere thefe thy fervants which stand continually before thee,

Luke 22. 31, 32, 33. 1 Tim. 4.8 Ifa. 58 1 .-- 8. Neh. 7.455,6

2 Sam. 3. 1.

Mark 4. 40.

Frov. 8. 14.35. Pfalm 27.4. Pfalm 42. 1,2, 3, 4, 5 Pfalm 63. 1, 2, 3:

2 45 5

Cant. 2 4, 5,

Many in these dayes are like old Bayz lla, that had lost his taste and hearing, and so cared not for Davids Feasts and Musick.
2 Sam. 19 35.

4. Pfal. 139. 18. Gen. 22, 3.

Job 1.5.

and that bear thy wildom : faid the Queen of Sheba concerning Solomen's servants. Othen how many thousand times more hap py are they who hear Christ in his Ordinances, who fee Christ in his Ordinances, and who enjoy Christ in his Ordinances on his own day. Of all dayes the Sabbath Day is the day wherein Christ carries his people into his Wine-cellar, wherein he brings them to his Banqueting house, and his banner over them is love. This is the day wherein he stayes his people with Flaggons, and comforts them with Apples, and wherein his left hand is under their head, and his right hand dorh embrace them. O the sweet communion, the sweet discoveries, the sweet incomes, and that blessed presence, and those glorious answers and returns of prayer, that the Saints have had on Sabbath dayes. Christ in his Ordinances on the Sabbath day, doth as Mary, open a box of precious Ointment which diffuseth a spiritual lavour among them that fear him. Though many flight Ordinances, and many deny Ordinances, and many oppose Ordinances, and many fall off from Ordinances, and many pretend to live above Ordinances, and under that pretence, vilifie the Ordinances as poor, low, weak things, yet the beauty and glory of Gods Ordinances, will one day convince the world of the excellency of the Saints, Ezek. 37, 26, 27, 28. I will fry Sanduary in the midft of them for everyore. My Talernacle also shall be with them : yea, I will be their God, and they shall be my people. And the Heathen shall know, that I the Lord do fantifie Israel, when my Santiuary shall be in the midst of them for evermore. I doubt not, but there are many thoulands of the precious servants of the Lord, who are able to tell this poor, blind, dark world, from their experience. that they have feen, and felt, and tafted, and enjoyed more of God in his Ordinances on this day, than ever they have enjoyed on any other day. But, Fourthly, You must fanctifie the Sabbath, by rifing as ear-

Fourthly, You must fanctifie the Sabbath, by rising as early in the morning, as your age, strength, health, and ability, and bodily infirmities will permit. Abraham rose up early in the morning to offer up his only Son. And Job rose up early in the morning, to offer up burnt-offerings. So David.

my vosce shalt thou bear in the morning. O Lord, in the morning Plalm 5. 3. will I direct my prayer unto thee (or martial my prayer, as the Hebrew runs I and will look up (or will look out as a watchman looks out of his Watch-Tower, to discover an approach, ing enemy) So Platon 130 6. My ful maiteth for the Lord, more than they that watch for the morning : I fay, more than they that watch for the morning. Pial. 88.13. In the morning shall my prayer prevent thee. That this may the more work, and the better flick feriously confider of these hints, Oc.

First, God is the fish Being; and therefore of right deferveth to be ferved first. If you can find any being before Dan. 7.22. the being of that God, who is bleffed for ever, let that being be served first : if not (as I am sure you can'e) then let the first being be first served. But,

Secondly, As God is the first being so he is the best being: he is the choicest and chiefest good; and therefore ought to be first minded and served, Pfal. 4.6. Pfal. 73. 25. Pfal. 144. 15. But,

Thirdly, As God is the best being, so he is the greatest be ing: as he is the choicest and the chiefest good, so he is the Mal. 1. ult. greatest good, the greatest Majesty, the greatest Authority; and therefore he ought to be first served. But.

Fourthly, God gives the greatest rewards and the fullest rewards, and therefore he ought to be ferved first. He gives a Crown of rightcousness, 2 Tim. 4.8. A Crown of life, Rev. 2. 10. A Crown of glory. Fames 1. 12. A Crown of What han't men done, what won't men do, immortality. what do'nt men do for earthly Crowns? A Crown is the top of Royalty; and how many Princes have swum through the blood of thousands to their earthly Crowns. O how much more active for God, should that glorious Crown make us, which he has laid up for all that love him. But,

Fifthly, Christ rose early in the morning before day, and went into a folitary place to pray; and why should not we make it our bulinels, our work, our Heaven to write after so noble a Copy: we cannot glorifie Christ, more than by our conformity to him, than by imitating of those bleffed

Chap. 2. 20,

Pfa'm 19. 11. Marth. 5. 12. 2 John 8.

Mark 1.35,36.

Exod. 32. 4,

bleffed patterns that he hath fet before us. But, Sixthly and lastly, The children of Israel rose up early in the morning on the Subath day, to over up burnt-offerings and peace-offerings to an Idol. So Papists, Turks and Heathens are early in the mornings at their devotions: and the Harlot rises early in the morning to trapan the lustful youth, Prov. 7. 15. Therefore came I forth to meet thee diligently, to seek thee: or as it runs in the Hebrew, In the morning came I forth to meet thee. Now how should this put Christians to a holy blush, to see the very basest and worst of people to take more pains to go to Hell, than themselves do to go to heaven. Shall they rise early to serve their Idols, and shall not we rise early to serve our God, and save our souls? O Sirs, did you but love Christ more, and Sabbaths more, and dutics more, you would then be more early in your communion with God, as the Spoule was. Mary Magdelen loved Christ much, Luke 7. 47. And she came early to the Sepulchre to feek him. She came to look after Christ as forn as it began to dawn, Matth. 28. 1. Mark 16. 1, 2. Luke 24. 1. Joh. 20.1. Men that love the world, can rife early to gain the world. Now shall nature do more than grace? Shall the love of the world, out-do the love of Christ? the Lord forbid. And thus I have done with those Considerations that should quicken you up to sanctifie the Sabbath, by rising as early in the morning, as your age, health, strength, ability and bodily infirmities will permit. But,

Cant. 7.11, 1:.

Fifthly, You must sanctifie the Sabbath, by a Religious performance of all the duties of the day.

Queft.

What are they?

Answ.

1. Publick.

2. Private.

Queft.

What are the publick duties that are to be performed on that day?

भारत है। है है के हैं कि कि

FIFTHER TO POLECE

hear his Word, Neb. 8 19. Mintb. 13: 54! Fel! 1. 13! 14. Chap. 15. 16. Link: 4.16, 17. John 20. 19, 26. Adis 2. 1. 44. 46. Adis 5. 12 1 Cor. 11. 20. Secondly, Prayer, Plain 5. 7. Plain 42 4. Plain 118. 24, 25, 26. Ils. 56. 7. Mattb. 21. 13. Adis 1. 13, 14. Adis 2. 46, 47. Adis 16. 13. Heb. 13. 15. Thirdly, The Administrations of the Seals, Adis 2. 46. Chip. 20. 7. 1. Cor. 11. 20, 33. Fourth y, Singing of Pialms, Hymns, or Spiritual Sorgs, Plain 92. 1. Mattb. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. 11 Cor. 16. 1, 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: a scassing out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hash received into communion and fellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 26, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 14.11. Chap. 15, 7. Go. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? Trift, Peayer in our Families and Closets, Colossins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 17 Ibss. 18. Ephes. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, Go. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19: and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1, 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. Upon the person, matures, offices, excellences, beauties, glories, siches, suches, soffices, excellences, beauties, glories, siches, suches, and sweetness of Christ.	े हर दे मुने ते जो कि देश के अपन अविद्युक्त के के कि है है
hear his Word, Neb 8 19. Marth. 13: 54. Jul. 1. 13. 14. Chap. 15. 16. Luke 4. 16, 17. John 20. 19, 26. Adis 2. 1. 44. 46. Adis 5. 12. 1 Cor. 11. 20. Secondly, Prayer, Plalm 5. 7. Pfalm 42 4. Pfalm 118. 24. 25. 26. If. 56. 7. Marth. 21. 13. Adis 1. 13, 14. Adis 2. 46. 47. Adis 16. 13. Heb. 13. 15. Thirdly, The Administrations of the Seals, Adis 2. 46. Chip. 20. 7. i. Cor. 11. 120. 33. Fourth'y, Singing of Pialms, Hyrnus, or Spiritual Songs, Fourth'y, Singing of Pialms, Hyrnus, or Spiritual Songs, Pfalm 92. 1. Marth. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. I Cor. 16. 1, 2. Sixthly, and lattly, The Centures of the Church: a scatting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 26, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 14. 11. Chap. 15. 7. Cor. What we the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Colossium 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 18. Epbes. 6. 18. See my Treatife on Closet Prayer, Co. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnab 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1, 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. Olest. Olest. Olest. Olest. Olest. Olest. Answ. Olest.		Anlw.
14. Chap. 15. 16. Luke 4. 16, 17. John 20. 19, 26. Adis 2. 1. 44. 46. Adis 5. 12. 1 Cor. 11. 20. Secondly, Prayer, Plaim 5. 7. Plaim 42 4. Plaim 118. 24, 25. 26. If 1. 56. 7. Maith 21. 13. Adis 1. 13, 14. Adis 2. 46. 47. Adis 16. 13. Heb 13. 15. Thirdly, The Administrations of the Seals, Adis 2. 46. Chip. 20. 7. Gov. 11. 20, 23. Fourth'y, Singing of Pialms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs, Plaim 92. 1. Matth. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. Cl. Cor. 16. 1, 2. Sixthly, and lattly, The Censures of the Church: as casting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 26, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411 Chap. 15. 7. Cor. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? Note that the control of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. Duelt. Ouest. Lupon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siches, suches, suches, soffices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siches, suches, said sweetness of Christ.
1. 44. 46. Adis 5: 12. 1 Cor. 11. 20. Secondly, Prayer, Pjalm 5. 7. Pfalm 42 4. Pfalm 118. 24. 25, 26. 1/2. 56. 7. Matth. 21. 13. Adis 1. 13, 14. Adis 2. 46, 47. Adis 16. 13. Heb. 13. 15. Thirdly, The Administrations of the Seals, Adir 2. 46. Chip. 20. 7. 11. Cor. 11. 20, 33. Fourth y, Singing of Ptalms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs. Pfalm 92. 1. Matth. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fishly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. 11 Cor. 16. 1, 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as easting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and fellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rem. 1411. Chap. 15. 7. 62. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day. First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colosson 2. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 18. 3 Ephes. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, 62. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Jospuab 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6. 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellences, beauties, glories, riches, subsess, and sweetness of Christ.		,
Secondly, Prayer, Palm 5. 7. Pfalm 42 4. Pfalm 118. 24, 25, 26. If 1. 56. 7. Matth. 21. 13. Adis 1. 13, 14. Adis 2. 46, 47. Adis 16. 13. Heb. 13. 15. Thirdly, The Administrations of the Seals, Adis 2. 46. Chap. 20. 7. 1. Cor. 11. 20, 33. Fourth'y, Singing of Pialms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs, Pfalm 92. 1. Matth. 26. 30. 1. Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. 21 Cor. 16. 1; 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as cassing out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rem. 1411. Chap. 15. 7. 62. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Collegens 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 5. 18. Jephes. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, &c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Jospanh 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1, 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellences, becauties, gloxies, riches, sulfess, and sweetness of Christ.		3
25, 26. Is. 56.7. Math. 21. 13. Ads 1. 13, 14. Ads 2. 46, 47. Adis 16. 13. Heb. 13. 15. Thirdly, The Administrations of the Seals, Adis 2. 46. Chap. 20. 7. Con. 11. 20, 33. Fourth y, Singing of Pialms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs, Pfalm 92. 1. Matth. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. Fames 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fishly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. 1 Cor. 16. 1, 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as easting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and fellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 14. 11. Chap. 15, 7. Oc. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Colosson that day? First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Colosson that day? Thirdly, Reading of the Word, Joshuab i. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19: and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. Lupon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siches, suches, suc		2.
Thirdly, The Administrations of the Seals, Acts 2. 46. Chap. 20. 7. i. Cor. 11. 20, 33. Fourth'y, Singing of Pialms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs, Pfalm 92. 1. Matth. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fishly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. 11 Cor. 16. 11.2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as cassing out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411. Chap. 15. 7. 62. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Colossins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 18. 1Epbes. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, 62. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Joshnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 1 19. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. But on what must we meditate? 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siches, suches,		- !
Chap. 20.7. i. Cor. 11. 20, 33. Fourth'y, Singing of Ptalms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs, 14. Pfalm 92. 1. Matth. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. 11 Cor. 16. 1; 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Consures of the Church: as easting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and followship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411. Chap. 15. 7. Col. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that on Closet Prayer, 5c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnab 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. Lupon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 1. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, suches, such weetness of Christ.	46, 47. Alis 16. 13. Heb. 13. 15.
Fourth'y, Singing of Ptalms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs, 19, 19, 19, 19, 11, 12, 12. Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 21 Cor. 16, 1, 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as easting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and fellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5, 20, 21, 1 Cor. 5, 4, 2 Cor. 2, 6, 7, Rom. 14, 11 Chap. 15, 7, &c. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that days. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that days. First, Prayer in our Families, and Closets, Colossins 3, 17, Luke 18, 1, 2, 1 Thess. 18, 1 Ephes. 6, 18, See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, &c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnab 1, 8, Deut, 6, 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11, 19, and Chap. 4, 10. John 5, 35, Col. 3, 16. Rev. 1, 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1, 2, Pfalm 119, 97, 1 Cor. 14, 5, 1 Tim. 2, 11, 18, 18, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 20, 21, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 19, 1		3.
Pfalm 92. 1. Matth. 26. 30. 1 Cor. 14. 15. James 5. 13. Heb. 2. 12. Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. Cor. 16. 1, 2. Sixthly, and lattly, The Centures of the Church: as casting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 26, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411. Chapt. 15. 7. Cor. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that days. First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colossins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 1. 18. Ephes. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, Co. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Joshuab 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1, 2, Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. But on what must we meditate? Ouest. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. Answ. 1. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, gloxies, siches, sulves, and sweetness of Christ.
Heb. 2. 12. Fishly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. Cl. Cor. 16. 1, 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as easting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and fellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 26, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411. Chapt. 15. 7. & 2. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that days are the private duties that are to be performed on that days. First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colossins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 These 5. 18. Ephes 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, & 2. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Joshuah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6. 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. But on what must we meditate? Quest. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. Answ. Lupon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siches, sulless, and sweetness of Christ.	Fourth'y, Singing of Pialms, Hymns, or Spiritual Songs,	- 4.
Fifthly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8. 9, 10, 11, 12. 11 Cor. 16. 1; 2. Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as easting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and fellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21, 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 14. 11. Chap. 15, 7. & a. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colffishs 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 5. 18. Jephess. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, & a. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6. 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19: and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97: 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siehes, suches, such sweetness of Christ.
Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church: as easting out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21, 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411. Chap. 15. 7. &c. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that doy? What are the private duties that are to be performed on that doy? First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colosium 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 5. 18. Ephess. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, &c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6. 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and grasiousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siehes, suches, suches, suches, suches, suches, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siehes, suches, s		~
Sixthly, and lastly, The Censures of the Church? as castling out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21. 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411. Chapt. 15. 7. 80. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Colossins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thess. 18. Ephes. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, &c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6. 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, suches, suches, and sweetness of Christ.	Filinly, Works of Mercy and Charity, Nebemiab 8.9, 10,	3.
ing out of communion the obstinate, and in receiving such into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and sellowship with himself, I Tim. 5. 20, 21. I Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 14. II. Chape 15. 7. Go. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Colossins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. I Thess. 18. Lephess. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, Go. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 2. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. I Cor. 14. 5. I Tim. 2. 11, 18. But on what must we meditate? 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, suches, suches, sand sweetness of Christ.	11,12.01 Cor. 16.112.	* 1 into communion, as the Lord hath received into communion and fellowship with himself, I Tim. 5. 20, 21. I Cor. 5. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 14.11. Chapet 5. 7. Go. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colossins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. I Thess. 5. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, Go. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. I Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 1. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, siches, sulcess, and sweetness of Christ.		6.
and fellowship with himself, 1 Tim. 5. 20, 21, 1 Cor. 5, 4. 2 Cor. 2. 6, 7. Rom. 1411. Chapter 5, 7. Ge. What are the private duties that are to be performed on that days First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Colossus 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 4 Thess. 5. 18. Jephss. 6. 18. See my Freatise on Closet Prayer, Ge. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, eiches, sudsees, and sweetness of Christ.
What are the private duties that are to be performed on that days. First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colffins 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 4 Thest 5. 18. Jephes 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, Co. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, eiches, sudices, and sweetness of Christ.
What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colossus 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 4 Thest 5. 18. 1 Ephes 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, & . Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1, 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. But on what must we meditate? 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, excellencies, glories,	2 Cor 2. 6 7. Rames and Chapter 3. 7. 62 Western V.
What are the private duties that are to be performed on that day? First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colossus 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 4 Thest 5. 18. Jephes 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, & . Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. But on what must we meditate? Olest. Olest. Answ. Olest.	in Chrifts w vyad in their liberty paster and given to like	300
First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colffens 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 4 Thest 5. 18. Jephes 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, & 2. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. But on what must we meditate? Olest. 1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, eiches, sudices, and sweetness of Christ.		Queft.
First, Psayer in our Families and Closets, Colossus 3. 17. Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Thest 5. 18. Jephes. 6. 18. See my Treatise on Closet Prayer, &c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Psalm 1. 2. Psalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. I. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, suices, and sweetness of Christ.	dor 3 15 16-18 16 600 1000 140 140 1 15 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10
Luke 13. 1, 2. 1 Theff 5. 18. Jephef 6. 18. See my Treatife on Closet Prayer, &c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, sudicess, and sweetness of Christ.	were suite the standard of the five in the
Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Theff 5. 18. Ephef. 6. 18. See my Treatife on Closet Prayer, &c. Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah 1. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, sudicess, and sweetness of Christ.	First, Prayer in our Families and Closets, Coloffens 3. 17.	Anfre.
Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah i. 8. Deut. 6. 6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, sudicess, and sweetness of Christ.	Luke 18. 1, 2. 1 Theff 5. 18. JEphef. 6. 18. See my Treatife	· 1.
6, 8, 9, 10. Chap. 11. 19. and Chap. 4. 10. John 5. 35. Col. 3. 16. Rev. 1. 3. Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1. 2. Pfalm 119. 97. 1 Cor. 14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, sudices, and sweetness of Christ.	on Closet Prayer, ord and an en en and animage to all a land
Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1, 2, Pfalm 119, 97, 1 Cor. 14. 5: 1 Tim. 2, 11, 18. A straight of the straight of	Secondly, Reading of the Word, Johnah i. 8. Deut. 6.	2.
Thirdly, Meditation, Pfalm 1, 2, Pfalm 1, 9, 97, 1 Cor. 14. 5: 1 Tim. 2, 11, 18. A straight of the straight of
14. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 11, 18. 2 strained that of with and the strained to the strai	3. 16. Rev. I. 3.
Duelling But on what must we meditate? 1. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties; glories, riches, sudices, and sweetness of Christ.	Thirdly, Meditation, Plalm 1, 2. Plalm 119.97. 1 Cor.	3.
I. Upon the holiness, greatness and graciousness of God. Answ. Lieft. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties; glories, riches, sudices, and sweetness of Christ.	14.5. 1.1m. 2. 11, 18. 6. 70 7 7 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	1 73 21 2 2/
1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. Answ. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, suscess, and sweetness of Christ.	The state of the s	E -1'3W 1
1. Upon the holines, greatness and graciousness of God. Answ. 2. Upon the person, natures, offices, excellencies, beauties, glories, riches, sulfiels, and sweetness of Christ.	THE DRI WE WELL THE MEASURE F.	Cien.
ties, gloxies, siches, fulness, and sweetness of Christ.		and a ties, glories, riches, fulnels, and liweetnels of Christ.		Anjw.
		- 13 1 = 21 13 - 30 20 10 1
Hinh 2 3, Upon	Hhh 2 3. Upon

5.

6.

.7.

3. Upon the bleffed truths that we either hear or read.

4. Upon our own emptiness, nothingness, baseness, vilene's

5. Upon the works of Creation and Redemption.

6. Upon our spritual and internal wants.

7. Upon that eternal rest that is reserved for the people of God, Heb. 4. 9.

Fourthly, Instructing, examining and preparing of your samilies, according to the measures of grace you have received, Deut. 6. 7. Deut. 11. 18, 20. Gen. 18. 19, 20. for shuab 24. 15.

Fifthly, Singing of Plalms, James 5. 13. Coloff. 3. 16.

Ephef. 5. 19.

Sixthly, Holy Conference upon the Word, Luke 14 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16. Chap. 24. 14, 17, 18. Col. 4. 6. Mal. 3. 16, 17, 60.

Seventhly, Visiting and relieving the sick, the poor, the distr. sed, affl. Aed and imprisoned Saints of God, Math. 15.

34 .- 40, James 1. 27, Oc.

Now mark when the Publick Ordinances may be enjoyed in Christs way, and in their liberty, purity and glory, it will be your wisdom so to manage all your family duties and closes duties, as that you do not shut out more publick Worship. It is more observable, that the Sabbaths and publick service are joyned together. Lev. 19.30. To soll keep my Sabbaths, and reverence my Sandwary, sam the Lord. Now what God hath solemn'y joyned together, let no man put assunder. Every Christian should make it his great care, that private duties do not eat up publick Ordinances, and that publick Ordinances do not shut out private duties. More of this you may see in my Discourse on Closet prayer. But,

Sixthly, You must sanctifie the Sabbath, by managing all the duties of that day, as under the eye of God. Gods eye is very much upon his people whilst they are in Religious duties, and services. Therefore in the Tabernacle, the place of Gods publick Worship, it was thus commanded, Exod. 25. 37. Thou shalt make seven Lamps, and shey shall light the Lamps, that they may give light. To teach us that nothing there

God is totus scalus, all eye. As the eyes of a well-drawn Picture are fastred, on the which way foever thou turnest: fo are the eyes of the Lord.

there escapes his fight : for in his house there is atwayes light: and fo when the Temple was built Mine ever (faith God) fhall be there perpetually. It was an excellent faying of Ambrofe, If thou canst not hide thy felf from the Sun, which is Gods Minister of light, how impossible will it be to hide thy felf from him, whose eyes are ten thousand times brighter than the Sun. Sobjects will corry themselves fweetly and loyally, when they are under their Soveraigns eye: and children will carry themselves dutifully, when they are under their Parents eye : and servants will carry them selves wisely and prudently when they are under their Mifters eye. Gods eye is the best Tutor to keep the foul in a gracious frame. It is good to have a fixed eye on him whose eye-is alwayes fixed on thee! The best way on earth to keep close to Gods Precepts, is alwayes to walk as in his presence: no man on earth, by day or night, can draw a curtain between God and him. There is a threefold eye of God that is present in the affemblies of his people. As,

First. There is the eye of observation and inspection : God feeth what uprightness and seriousness, what in egrity, ingenuity and tervency you have in his fervices. Mine eyes are uton all their mayer, Jer. 16: 17. Pfalm 16. 8. I have fet the Lord alwayes before me. Pfalm 119. 168. I have kept thy preo per and thy Testimonies; for all my wayes are before thee. I b 31.4. Doth not be fee all my wayes, and count all my fteps. O Sirs, whether you are praying or hearing, or reading, or meditating, or finging, or receiving the Lords Supper; or Malor to conferring one with another; The eye of the Lord is still upon you. But,

Secondly, There is an eye of favour and benediction Amos 9.4. I will fet mine eyes upon them for good, 2 Chro. 7. 16. Mine ege and my beart shall be there : that is, in my house. Gods eye shere to approve, and to bless, and to encrease the graces, he comforts, the communions, and the enjoyments of his cople. But.

Thirdly, There is the eye of fury and indignation. Gods looks can speak his anger, as well as his blows. His fury is vifible by his frowns. Mine eyes fall be upon them for evil. Gods Hhh 3

1 Kings 9. 3.

Ambrof. Offic. 1. 1. 6. 14.

Tob 31. 5, 6. Prov. 15. 9. Cha. 5. 20,21.

Jub 16. 9.

Gods fight can wound as deeply as his (word. He sharpneth bis eyes upon me : futh Tob. Wild Beafts when they fight, whis their eyes as well as their teeth. He fharpnith bis eyes upon me, as if he would stab me to the heart with a glance of his eye! he that waits on God irreverently, or worships him car lefly, or that prophaneth his day, either by corporal la bour, or spiritual idleness, may well expect an eye of fury to be fixt upon him, Fer. 17, als. Ezek. 22. 26, 31. Bar, Sventhly, You must fan Criffe the Sabbarh, by pressing af-film 27. 4: Malm 42. 1,2 Plalm 43. 4. Pfalm 61. 1,2. Pfalm 84. 152.

Cant. 3. 1, 2, 354. 7

2 Kings 2. 13, The Sea ebbs and flowes, the Moon encreases and decreases fo it is with Saints in their communion with God in Ordinances: lometimes they rife, and lometimes hey fall: fometimes they have more, and sometimes less communion with God.

ter immediate communion with God and Christ in all the duties of the day. Oh, do not take up in duties, or Ordinances, or priviledges, or enlargements, or meltings, but press hard after intimate communion, with God in all you do. Let no duty fatisfie thy foul, without communion with God in it Can. 7. 4. The King is bil'd in the Galleries ; that is, in his Ordinances. The Galleries, the Ordinances, without King Jesus be enjoyed in them, will never satisfie the Spouse of Christ. What is a purse without money, or a Table without meat, or a Ship without a Pilot, or a fountain without water, or the body without the foul, or the Sun without light, or the Cabinet without the Jewels : no more are all Ordinances and duties to a gracious foul without the enjoyment of God in them. Moles had choice communion with God in the Mount, and that fatisfied him. The Disciples had been with Jesus, and this was a spring of joy and life unto them. John 20: 20: Then were the Disciples glad, when they fam the Lard. Here is the Mantle of Elijah, but where is the God of Elijah: faid Elisha: So saith a gracious soul, here is this Ordinance and that Ordinance; but where is the God of the Ordinance? Pfalm 101: 2. O when wift thou come unto me. O Lord, I come to one Ordinance and another Ordi nance, but when wilt thou come to me in the Ordinance when shill I be so happy, as to enjoy thy felf in the Ordnances that I enjoy? The Waggons that Joseph fent to leto his Father, were the means of bringing Joseph and his Father together. All the Ordinances should be as so many Wagons, to bring Christ and our souls nearer together. Mans Circins (ummum

fummum bonum flands in his communion with God : 25

Scripture and experience evidences.

Eighthly, You must fanditie the Sabbath, by labouring after the highest pitches of grace and holiness on this day. Every Christian should labour after an Angelical holiness on Ila. 58. 13. this day: on this day every Saint should walk like an earthly Angel, Mark, the Sabbath is not only called holy, but holinels to the Lord, Exod. 31. 15. Six dayes may work be done, but in the seventh is the Sabbath of rest, holy to the Lord (or as the Hebrew runs, boliness to the Lord) which shews, that the day is exceeding holy, and ought to be kept, accordingly. The Sacrifices on this day was to be double, Numb. 28. 9. And on the Sabbath day two Lambs of the first year without Spot, and two tenth deals of flower for a meat-offering mingled with Oyle. and the drink offering thereof. The Sicrifices here appointed for every Sabbath day, are full double to those appointed for every day. ver. 3. and yet the daily ficrifices, the continual burnt-offering: ver. 10. was not omitted on the Sabbath day neither. So that every Sabbath in the morning there was offered one Lamb for the daily facrifice, and then two Lambs more for the Sabbath: and this was appointed,

To thew the holiness of that day above other dayes; and that God required more service from them on that day, than he did on any other day.

& Secondly, To testifie their thankfulnes for the worlds creation.

Thirdly, To put them in remembrance of Gods bringing them out of Ægypt by a mighty hand, and by a firetched out arm.

Fourthly, For a fign of their fanctification by the Fifthly and lastly, for to be a figure of grace;, and a fign of that rest in Heaven that Christ hath purchased for his prople with his dearest blood. Now mark, as this day was a fign of more than ordinary favours from the Lord, so he required greater testimonies of their thankfulness and holinels on this day, than he did on any other day. Every day should be a Sabbath to the Saints, in regard of their cealing

Exod. 20, 11.

Deut. 5. 15.

Ezek. 20. 12. Heb. 4.

to do evil, and learning to do well, but on the seventh day Sabbath our duties and services should be doubled. In Pfel. 92. (which Psalm is titled a Psalm for the Sabbath) there is mention made of morning and evening performances, the variety of duties that are to be performed on this day, may very well take up the whole day with delight and pleasure on this day in a more especial manner, we should labour to do the will of God on earth as the Angels and Spirits of just men made perfect do it now in Heaven: viz. wisely, freely, readily, cheerfully, faithfully, seriously, universally and unweatedly. If we are not wanting to our selves, God on this day will give out much of himself, and much of his Spirit, and much of his grace into our souls. But.

Heb. 12. 22,

John 4.23, 24.

Ninthly, You must sanctifie the Sabbath, by managing all the duties of the day with inward reverence, seriousness and spiritualness. This the pleasure of God that we reverence his Sanctuary, Lev. 19. 30. To sail keep my Sabbaths, and reverence my Sanctuary: I am the Lord. Twice in this Chapter the observation of the Sabbath is commanded, that it may be the better remembred, and that men may know, that it is not enough to rest on that day, but that rest must be sanctified by a reverent management of all their soul concernments in all our drawings nigh to God. We must look that our hearts lye under a holy awe and dread of his presence. To the commandment of sanctifying Gods Sabbath, this of reverencing his Sanctuary is joyned, because the Sabbaths were the chief times whereon they resorted to the Sanctuary.

Gen. 28. 16,

The Jews made a great stir about reverencing the Temple: they tell us, that they were not to go in with a staff, nor shoes, nor to spit in it: nor when they went away to turn their backs upon it, but go sidelong. But doubtless the great thing God points at, and expects from his peoples hands on this day, is, that they do worship him with inward reverence, seriousness and spiritualness. All other Worsh p abstracted from this, will neither pleasure God, nor profit us, it Time 4.8. For bodily exercise profiteth little. Ohlabour

1 Tim. 3. 16.

10 2 1 D 11

12-for 127-67

115-13:131

places and

1 Cor. 10. 13.

3.22 -50

od 5.1 3.1

Ephel. 6, 12.

to be very spiritual in all the duties of this day. Christ the Luke 1.35,36: Marth. 3. 16. Lord of the Sabbath was spiritual in his conception, in his John 1.32. life and convertation, in his death and passion, in his resur-Ch ap. 6. 36. rection and ascention; he was spiritual in his words, in his Heb. 7. 26. works, in his wayes, and in his worthip; and therefore ler Chap. 9. 14. us labour to be very spiritual in all we do on that day, Again, all the Ordinances of the day are spiritual, viz. the Word, Prayer, Sacraments, singing of Pfalms, &c. and therefore we had need to be spiritual in all the services of that day. Again, the ends for which the Lords Day was appointed, are all spiritual: viz. the glory of God, the illumination, conversion, and falvation of finners, and the edification, confirmation consolation of Saints: And therefore we had need be spiritual in all the duties of the day. Again, the grand enemies that we are to encounter with on this day, are spiritual, fin within and Satan without; and therefore we had need be spiritual in all we do. For there is no way to conquer spiritual enemies, but by spiritual weapons, and by spiritual exercises. Again, grace thrives most, and flourishes best in their fouls, who are most spiritual in their duties on the Lords Day. Again, the more spiritual any man is in his duties on the Lords Dayes, the more secured and armed he will be against all spiritual judgements, which are the forest and dreadfullest of all judgements. Again, the more spiritual any man is in the duties of the Lords Day, the more that man acts like the Angels in Heaven, and like the Spirits of Heb. 12. 22. just men made perfect. Again, this will d fference you from hypocrites, formalists, and all prophane persons. An external observation of the Sabbath, will difference you from Heathens; but a spiritual spending of the Sabbath, will difference you from hypocrites. An hypocrite never rifes fo Luke 13. 14, high, as to be spiritual in the Sabbaths of God. Mark, Sabbaths spiritually spent, are a sure fign of a sincere heart, and of a faving estate. Now Oh that all these considerations Exod. 31. 13. might greatly provoke you, and mightily encourage you to be very spiritual on the Lords Day, and in all the duties of that day. But, Tenthly, You must fanctifie the Sabbath, by being spirit

Calv'a renders it stables of horses, which are the most flinking and contemptible places; and yet thefe should be holily used.

2 Cor, 10: 13. | tual in all natural actions, and holy and heavenly in all earthly enjoyments. It is reported of a Scotch Minister, that he did eat, drink, and fleep eternal life. Luther tells us, that though he did not alwayes pray and meditate, but did fometimes eat and drink, and fometime, fleep ; yet all fhould further his account. That's a Christian worth Goldichat hath learned that heavenly art, to to spiritualize all his natural actions, as that they shall turn to his account in the great day, Zich 14. 20, 21. In that day shall there be upon the Bells (or Bridles) of the Horfes, Holiness unto the Lord. And the pois in the Lords boufe, shall be like the bowls before the Altar. Yea: every por in Terufalem and in Judah, thall be holinefs unto the Lord of Hofts. Here is holiness written upon the bridles of the horses they ride on, and holiness written upon the cups and pots they drink in. A holy and heavenly heart will be holy in the use of the meanest things that are for common Something of fanctity should run through every piece of your civility. Something of the spirit, life, and power of Religion, you should shew in all parts of your common conversation on every day, but especially on the Lords Day. Terullian speaking of the carriage of the Primitive Christians at their meals : faith,

Tertul. Apollog.

1. Our Table refembleth an Altar, and our Supper a Sa-

2. Our Table hath nothing favouring of basenels, sensuality or immodelly; we feed by measure, we drink by the rules of temperance.

3. We speak and converse, as in the presence of God; every one repeateth what he knoweth out of the holy Scriptures.

and his own invention to the praise of God.

4. As prayer began the Banquet, fo prayer concludes it. If you beheld us, you would fay, that we were not at Supper. but at a Lecture of holinels. Should not the practice of these Primitive Christians, put all such Christians to a blush in our day, who on the Lords Day are to carnal in the use of foiritust things, and to earthly in the use of heavenly things.

That is a memorable expression that you have in Exod. 18 12 And Aaron come, and all the Elders of Ifract to est bread

bread with Moles Farber-in-law before God. Now mark, in See Beut. 12. these words, you have,

I. The greatness of their courtelie : for though Jethro was a stranger and no Ifraelite, yet the Elders honoured him with their company. And Arron and all the Elders came to eat bread with Moles bis Father-in law.

2. The graciousness of their carriage: They came to eat bread with him before the Lord. That is, faith Calvin on the Text. in cloriam & bonorem Dei, to the honor and glory of God. Grace must spice every cup, and be sauce to every dish, or nothing will rellish well with him, whose heart is set to findiffe the Sabbath : Aaron and all the Elders of Ifracl eat bread before the Lord: that is, they cat bread as in the presence of God. Whill they were eating of bread, their hearts were under a reverential awe of God. Dianses Temple was burnt down, when the was busie at Alexanders birth, and could not be at two places together. But God is present both in Paradice and in the wilderness at the same time; he is prefent both at board and bed; both in the family, and in the Closet at the same time. O that in all your natural, civil Pialm 139. and common actions you would carry it; as becomes his eve, his presence, that fills Heaven and earth with his glory. But.

Eleventhly, You must sanctifie the Sabbath, by managing all the duties of the Sabbath, with a spirit of holy joy and delight. There is no garment that fo well becomes the upright, as the garment of gladness. God hath laid his royal command upon us to rejoyce on this day. Ifa. 58. 135. 14. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleafure on my boly day, and call the Sabbath a delight (or as the Hebrew runs, delights : and so Tremelius reads it) she boly of the Lord, bonourable, and shalt bonour bim, &c. Then shalt show delight thy felf in the Lord, &c. Plalm 118.24. This is the day which the Lord bath made, we will be glad and rejogce therein. Now if you compare this Text with Matth. 21. 22, 23, and Adr 4. 11. you will find, that the precedent Verles are prophetical prediction of Christs refurrection; and fo this Verle fore-tells the Churches joy upon that memorable

5,70 I Chron. 29.

21, 32. The word Bread is used for all meat.

Gen. 3. 19, Chap. 31. 14.

Plalm 22. I. Pfalm 22. 11 Phil. 4. 4. I Thef. 5. 16, 18.

Ifa. 25.6.

Ifa. 56. 7. Luke 2.10, 11, 12, 13, 14.

Ifa. 56 7.

. I . Se co hi

Eccles. 10. 19; and glorious day. A feaft (laith Solomon) is made for laughter. Now on this day the Lord of Hoss is pleased more especially and more abundantly to make for his people, A feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined. On this day we enjoy the freeft, and the fulleft, and the fweeteft, and the choiceft, and the nearest communion of Saints: And what doth this call for, but a spirit of holy joy: on this day we enjoy all the precious Ordinances in a most folemn manner; and why then should we not be joyful in Gods houle of prayer? The heavenly Host sung at his birth: and why should not we fing and rejoyce at his fecond birth, his refurrection from the dead OSirs, Sabbaths are the very suburbs of heaven; and who can be in the suburbs of heaven and not rejoyce? A beautiful face is at all times pleafing to the eye; but then especially when there is joy manifelted in the countenance. Joy in the face puts a new beauty upon a person, and makes that which before was beautiful, to be exceeding beautiful; it puts a luffre upon beauty. And so doth holy joy put a lustre upon the day of God, the wayes of God, and the people of God. of is the duty and glory of a Christian to rejoyce in the Lord every day, but especially on the Lords Diy: God reserves the best wine, the best comforts, and the choicest discoveries of himself, and of his love, and of his Christ, and of his glory for that day, and all to make his people joyful in the boufe of prayer. The Manichers were wont to keep their Fasts upon the Lords Day : which made Tertullian fay, that that pra-Crice of theirs was a deteft ble wickedness. To falt on the Lords Day (faith Ignatius) is to kill Christ. But to rejoyce in the Lord this day, and to rejoyce in all the duties of this day, and to rejoyce in that redemption that was wrought for us on this day, this is to crown Christ, this is to lift up Chrift. But, 1 Twelfthly, You must fanctific the Sabbath, by fanctifying of the whole day to Gods fervice; and not by fits, and flathes, and sudden pangs. O Sirs, if the Lord was to strict that he would not lose a moments honor in a ceremonial day of reft. (Lev. 23. 32. Ir fhall be anto you a Sabbard of reft, and se shall afflick your fouls in the ninth day of the moneth at even: from even unto even [hall ye celebrate your Sabbath.) What shall we think the Lord expects upon this day which is mo-Plalm 92. 1, 2. It is good to fing of bis loving kindness in the morning : and of bis faithfulness every night. Jet. 17. 22. You hall do no work, but fanctifie my Subbath. Now that this may the better flick, confider,

First, God hath given you six whole dayes that you may Exod, 20, 9. provide for your felves and families: and therefore do not Chap. 22, 12. deny him one day in feven what an unrighteous thing is ir, to buy by one measure which is greater, and fell by another which is leffer. Do not rob God of his time, who hath been to noble, as to give you fix in feven. But,

Secondly, God retted all the seventh day: he had finished the creation in fix dayes. God did not rest on one part of Gen. 2. 1,2,3. the seventh day, and work on the other part of the seventh day; but he rested all the seventh day. And doubtless it is your wisdom, duty and glory, to write after the coppy that God has laid before you. But,

Thirdly, The Sabbath is not to be an artificial day, but a natural day; viz twenty four hours together: as you may fce in Lev. 23.32. From even unto even, fall ye celebrate your Sabbath. The dayes then were so reckoned. But,

Fourthly, You would not take it well at your fervants hands, if they should only work three or four hours in a day. and either trifle away the rest of the time, or else spend it in doing their own work when they should be a doing of yours, and do you think, that the great God will take it well at your hands, that when you have frent three or four hours in the duties of his day, that then you should either trifle away or fool away, or play away, or fleep away, or fin away, the remaining part of his day ? Buti 1440.362

Fifthly, This hath been the judgement of most judicious Divines in all ages. In the Counfel of Mexicon there was an Affembly of Ministers out of all Nations in Christendom, and they ordained a Ganon concerning the Lords Day. The Cinon runs thus, We ordain that people keep the phole Lords Day boly, and shat they fet themselves the whole day to pray to amo - 01. 10 the Merper and Guard

W. Carrie

lii 3

God, and delight in God, and bear bis word; and if a Country mans fervant break this day, his punisoment shall be to be beaten with fevere blows (ithing gravioribus are the very words of the Councel) and if a Lawyer offer to plead this day, be shall not have the benefit of his pleading or case; and if a Minister break this day, be shall be excommunicated half a year, and brown out of the Church, and shall not be received into the Church reain, but upon great bumi intien. It is a good observation of Musculus upon Exed. 20 8. God doth not say (faith he) remember the Sabbath, to keep it boly : for he that keeps it an hour or two, keeps it holy: but remember the Sabbath day to keep it boly: he will have not a part of a day only, but a wholeday kept holy. And Calvin upon their words, Kemember the Sabbath day to keep it holy; faith, we are to keep this day holy: and not a part of it, but all of it. I might produce a cloud of witnesses in the case; but let these suffice. But.

Sixthly and lastly, Consider that the very Heathen have kept the whole day to their Idol Gods; and not a part. And shall we then put off God with a part of a day? Shall we be worse than the Heathens? Shall we act below Heathens? Shall nature, shall blind devotion do more than Grace? The Lord forbid. Bur,

Thirteenthly, You must sanctifie the Sabbath, by such an abstinence or moderate use of all your lawful comforts, concentments and er joyments, as may render you most apt and fit for the sanctification of the Sabbath. Let your moderation to known among all men alwayer; but especially on the Lords day, be moderate in your eating, drinking, entertainments, &c. Oh how do many by their immoderate use of lawful comforts on this day, indispose and unfit themselves for the duties of the day! It is a Christians duty every day to cat and drink soberly. Titus 2,11,12. The grace of God which bringeth salvation, bath appeared to us, teaching us to live soberly in this present world. It is both the duty and the glory of a Christian, to be temperate in his diet. A little will satisfic nature, less will satisfic Grace, though nothing will satisfic mens luss. Sobriety is a gift of God, whereby we keep a holy moderation in the use of our dyer, Prov. 23. When thou fittelt to eat, &c. confider diligently what is before thee, and put the knife to thy throat. That is, be very careful and circumspect in taking thy food, bridle thine appetite, take heed thou doft not exceed measure. He may endanger his health, his life, his foul, that gives way to his greedy appetite. Some read the words thus, For the puttest a knife to thy throat, if thou be a min given to appetite. Thou shortnest thy life, and diggeff as it were thine own grave with thine own teeth. Mear kills as many as the Musket; the Board as the Ch yoft. Sword. I know that the bodies, stomacks, callings, conflitutions, and climates, wherein men live, differ; and therefore no fuch particular Rules (as to eating and drinking) can be laid down as shall be binding to every one. Yet this is certain, that a man that eats or drinks fo much (on the Lords Day) as oppresses nature, and as unfits him for praying, working, or hearing work, or reading work, or closet work, that man is guilty of intemperance. Such who feed till they unfie themselves for service, are Belly-Gods. Paul wept over fuch in his day, and fo should we in ours. Thou shouldst use thy food O Christian, as a help, and not as a hinderance to thee in thy Christian course. A full belly never studies well, nor never prayes well, nor never hears well, nor never reads well, nor never repeats well, nor never doth any thing well either on the Lords day, or any other day. What a shame is it to see a Christian a slave to his palate on any day; but especially on the Lords day. I may use the creatures to as to support and chear nature; but not to as to clog it and weaken it and debase it. I may use the creatures as my lervants, but I must never suffer them to be my Lord. Daniel was very temperate in his diet. Though there was not a greater born of a woman than John the Baptift, vet his fare was but Locusts and wild-honey. A little bread was Basils provision. Hilarian did seldom eat any thing till the Sun went down, and then that which he did eat, was very mean. Jerom lived with cold water, and a few dry'd Figgs.

Phil. 4. 5.

The Greeks call Sobriety the Keeper and Guard of Wildom.

And Augustine hath this expression concerning himself. Hoe L'b. 10. Conme docuift, Domine, Oc. Thou Lord bast taught me shis, that I fessionum.

In the hot-Eaflern Countreys men have lived long with parched Corn and a Cake. but their example is no rule for us. Phil 2.18,19.

Matth. 11.11.

bould go to my meat as to a medicine; his meaning was, that he went to his meat, not to satisfie his appetite, but to repair nature. And Luther made many a meal, with Bread and 1 Heiring. Socrates, Anacharfis, Cyrus, Cafar, Herodicus, Augustus, and many other Heathens were very temperate in The old Gaules were very sparing in their diet, and used to fine them that out-grew their Girdles. Heathens will one day rife in judgement against those nominal Christians, who are intemperate both upon the Lords day, and other dayes also. But,

Pluta ch in the life of Pericles.

Matth. 12. 36. Alexander forgave many tharp fwords, but never any fliarp tongues, DE:

Ecclef. 5. 2,3.

Prov. 14. 23.

Fourteenthly and laftly, You must sanctifie the Sabbath, by abstaining from speaking your own words. The Spoules lips are like a thread of Scirlet : they are red like a thread of scarlet in discourling of a crucified Christ, and they are thin like a thred of fearlet, and not swelled with frothy, empty, worldly discourses on the Lords dayes, or on other dayes. Such words as will neither profit a mans own foul, nor better others, are not to be spoken on the Lords day. It is Gods ex press pleasure, that we should not speak our own words on his day, 16a. 58. 13. Nir speaking thine own words. Cafar paffing through the streets of Rome, and seeing many of the Ladies playing with little Dogs, Monkies and Baubones, askt them, if the women in that Countrey had no children. So when men spend the Lords day in playing, sporting, toying, or talking of this or that trifle, of this or that person, of this or that fashion, of this or that vanity; we may ask them, whether they have no God, no Christ, no Heaven, no Promises, no Experiences, no Evidences to talk of. There are many idle talkers: of every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give an account at the day of Judgement. Anidle word is a profuse or needless word, used rashly, or unadvisedly wanting a reason of just necessity, bringing neither honor to God, nor edification to others, nor conducing to any profitable end. And as there are many idle talkers, for there are many over-talkers; and they are fuch who found a hundred words, when ten will serve the turn. And as there are many over-talkers, fo there are many that are only talkers, that can do nothing but talk. To fall under the power or scourge of these mens tongues, is to fall under no easie perfecution. And as there are many that are only talkers, to there are many that are unprofitable talkers. The beginning of the words of their mouth is foolighness, and the end of his talk is misebievous madness. And as there are many unprofitable talkers, so there are many unseasonable talkers, that place one word where another should stand. A wife man Eccles, 8.4. discerneth time and judgement. And as there are many unseafonable talkers, fo there are many rath talkers, who fpeak first: and think afterwards. God hath fet a double bar about the tongue, the teeth and the lips, that men should not focak rashly. Words once spoken cannot return. A man that thinks before he speaks, seldom repents of what he speaks. Silence is far better than rath speaking, or than vain foesking Oc.

O Sirs, the tongue is the nimble Interpreter of the heart. If there be piety or iniquity at the bottom of your hearts, Matth, 12, 43 your tongues will discover it. The stream riseth not above 44the fountain. We know not what mettal the Bell is made of by the Clapper. What is in the Well will be in the Bucket: What is in the Ware-house will be in the shop. So what is in the heart, will be in the mouth; if there be any thing of God, of Christ, of grace, of heaven, of hell, of fin, of the world, of felf in the bottom of your fouls, your tongues will discover it. Man (faith one) is like a Bell, and his tongue Plutarch. like the Clapper. So long as this flandeth fill, he may be thought to be without any flaw, craze or crack in him; but let it once fir, and then he discovers himself presently. man can fo change himself, but his heart may sometimes be Gen at his tongues end. Men watch Interpreters. Oh that on the Lords day especially, you would make more conscience of watching your tongues: if the tongue be not watched it will be fins Solicitor General; it will be a Bawd to all lufts: it will plead for fin, and defend fin, and leffen fin, and provoke to fin, and shew the pleasure of the heart in fin. There are but five Virtues of the tongue reckoned up by Philolophers; but there are twenty feveral fine of the tongue reckoned to by Peraldus The Arabians have a Proverb

Kkk

Eccles. 10.12.

Chap. 5. 2.

Take

The Holy Ghoft hewere the mischief of the tongue, by the feveral characters by which he brandsit. He calls it the flattering? tongue, the doubletongue, the deceitful tongue, the the lying tongue, the perverle tongue, &c. Pfalm 52. 2. Prov. 18. 21. Ecclef. 10. 12. Pfalm 19.4. Pfalm 73. 9. Mat. 28.13, 15

James 3.3.11. Take heed thy tongue cut not thy throat. Many a mans tongue has cut his throat; that is, it hath been his ruine. Our Chronicles make mention of one Burdet a Merchant, who living at the Sign of the Crown in Cheap-fide (in the dayes of King Edward the fourth, in the year 1483.) jestingly said to his Son, that he would leave him heir of the Crowns meaning the Sign of the Crown where he lived: for which he was apprehended, and within four hours hanged, drawn and quartered. The tongue is often like a sharp Razor, that instead of shaving the hair, cuts the throat. If a man do not look well about him, he may every day be in danger of dying by his tongue. Life and death (faith Solomon) are in the power of the tongue. Giping mouth'd men, are noted for fools by Lucian: and a better and a wifer man than Lucian hath told us, That the lips of a fool will swallow up bimfelf. Ah how good had it been for many that they had been born dumb. The tongue can eafily travel all the world over, and wound mens names and credits in this Countrey: and that in this City, and that in this Town, and that in this Family, and that it can in a trice run from one place to another: here it bites, and there it tears: in this place it leaves a blor, and in that it gives a wound; and therefore you have cause to watch your tongues on every day, but especially on the Lords day. There are many whose tongues do more mischief, and travel further on the Sabbath day, than they do on all the other dayes of the week. You ought to keep a first Guard upon your tongues every day, but on the Lords day you should double your Guard. Satan without you, and that firong party that he hath within you, will do all they can, so to oyle your tongues on that day, as to make you miscarry more wayes than one, if you do not carefully look about you. Are there none on that day, that do watch your words to deride you and jear you? Yes. Are there none on that day that do watch your words, either to enfnare you or trapan you? Yes. Are there none on that day, that do watch your words, that they may find matter if possible cither to reprove your on to reproach you? Yes. Are there none on that day, that do watch your words, that do hang upon

Ter. 20, 10. It is better for a man to watch and stop his own mouth by filence, than to have it stopt by others reproofs.

upon your lips, expecting to be inftructed, edified, confirm. ed, comforted and strengthned by you? Yes. Well then, if this be your case, how highly it doth concern you on this day, to watch your words, I shall leave you to judge. O Sirs, all your words, whether good or bad, are all noted and observed by God as you may see by comparing the Scriptures in the Margent together. If a person were by us, that should book all our words from Sabbath day morning to Sabbath day night, and the like on other dayes, would we not be very careful what we spoke. Why God is by and hears all. Athenodorus a Heathen used to say, that all men ought to be very careful of their actions and words; because God was every where, and beheld all that was done and faid. And Zeno a wise Heathen affirmeth, that God seeth, and taketh notice of our very thoughts; how much more then of our words. O Sirs, how many men and women are there, that are choice of what they cat, that are not choice of what they speak : that are curious about the food which goes into their mouths, lest it should hurt or poyson them, who are no waves curious about the words that go out of their mouths. left they should hurt or poylon others? mat is and san all ow

Of all the members in the body, there is none fo ferviceable to Satan as the tongue. And therefore Satan spares Fobs tongue; his grand defign being not to make Fob abegar, but a blasphemer: 70b was blistered all over by Satan. only his tongue was not bliftered. Satan thought by that member, to work 70b to fight against God, and the peace of his own foul. It is queried in the Schools, what was the first sin of the first Angel that fell (for they affert that one fell first, then the rest.) Now there are very many opinions about it. Some say, it was envy, others discontent; and some say, it was their refusing to undertake the charge that was given to them to Minister unto man. Others think it was a spiritual luxury; others ingratitude. The most and best say pride; but wherein that pride consisted is not eafily determined, nor by them unanimously resolved; and by some it is as confidently observed, that it was a fin of the tongue. Now if these last have hit the mark, how high-Kkk2

Pfalm 139. 4. Ifa 59. 3. Jer. 33. 24. Chap. 44. 25. Mal. 3. 16,17. Job 42. 7. Matth. 12. 37.

-

ly doth it concern us all, to let a watch before the door of our lips at all times, but especially on the Lords day. Now considering how wonderful apt and prone Christians are to be speaking their own words. Yea, soolish, vain, worldly and unprositable words on the Lords day. Give me leave to offer to your serious consideration these sour things.

.

3.

Exod. 4. 10.

First, Where the Lord hath commanded the whole man to rest from service works; there he commands the hand to rest from working, the foot from walking, and the tongue from talking. But in the fourth Commandment, Thou shall do no manner of work, the Lord hath commanded the whole man to rest from service works. And therefore the tongue from talking of this or that worldly business. But,

Secondly, Those things which as lets hinder the duties of the Lords day are forbidden. But worldly words as lets, hinder the duties of the Lords day: therefore worldly words are forbidden. But,

Thirdly, Where bodily works are forbidden, there those things are forbidden which hinder the sanctifying of the Sabbath as much or more, than bodily works do : but bodily works are forbidden in the sourch Commandment : therefore worldly words which hinder more the sanctifying of the Sabbath, than bodily works do, are forbidden in the same Commandment. That worldly words do hinder the sanctifying of the Sabbath, as much or more than bodily works, is evident by this (among other arguments that might be produced) that a man may work alone, but he cannot talk alone. But,

Fourthly, That Commandment which tyes the outward man from the deed done, that Commandment ties the tongue from talking of the fame. But the fourth Commandment ties the outward man from worldly works, and therefore that Command ties the tongue from worldly words. Certainly all those persons that make the Lords day, a reckoning day with workmen as some do, or a directing day what shall be done the next week, as others do, or a day of side talk about this worldly business or that, or about this fashion or that, or about this fashion or that, or about about this mans matters or that, or about this pleasure or that, or about this profit or that, or about this mans calling or that, or about this Gossips Tale or that, or All such persons are prophaners and no sanctifiers of the Lords Day.

I have been the longer upon this particular, to confute and recover those Christians who give their tongues too great a liberty on the Lords Day.

Now in these fourteen particulars I have shewed you how the Sabbath is to be sanctified. O. Sirs, as you desire to see London rebuilt, as you desire to see London in as great (or greater) prosperity and glory, as she hath been in: as you desire to see her once more the Bulwark of the Nation: As you desire to see her a shield and shelter to her faithful friends at home, and a terror and dread to her proudest enemies abroad. As you desire that the may be an eternal excellency a joy of many Generations. As you desire the Lord to be for ever a wall of sire about her, and a glory in the midst of her: Make conscience of sanctifying the Sabbath in a right manner: Make it your great business and work to sanctifie the Sabbath according to those sources Rules which I have now laid down.

I know there is a desperate opposition and contrariety in the hearts of carnal men, to the strict observation of the Sabbath. When Mofes had first received a Commandment concerning the observation of the Sabbath, his Authority could not so prevail with the Jews, but that some of them would be gidding abroad to feek Manna on the Sabbath day. contrary to an express prohibition : yea, when it was death to gather flicks on that day : yet in contempt of Heaven if felf, one ventures upon the breach of the Law. How fadly and frequently the Prophets have lamented and complained of the breach of the Sabbath, Thave in this Treatife already discovered; and therefore need say no more of it in this place, ii The horrid prophanation of this day in Francia Holland, Germany, Sweden, and in thefe three Nations, England. Sentland, and Ireland, and among all Protestants every where elfe, is and must be for a fore lamentation. The Sabbath in all Ages hath been more or less crucified between prophaneness Kkk 2

Pfa!.48.12,13. Cant. 6. 4. Isa 60. 15.

Zech. 2. 5'.

Exod. 16. 25.

Chap. 31: 13,

ness and superstition, as Christ the Lord of the Sabbath was crucified between two Thieves. When the observation of the Sabbath came to be more facred and solemn in publick persormances (which was about Nehemiahs time, as is conceived) presently after Satan stirred up some Hypocrites who run into such an extream of superstition, that they held that they might not stir out of their places, nor kill a slea, and a thousand such like sooleries. Yea, some dangerous sooleries they laboured to distill into the people; as that they might not draw a Sword to defend themselves in a common Invasion, &c.

For a close, remember this, that there are no Christians in all the world, comparable to those (for the power of godliness and heighths of grace, holiness and communion with God) who are most strict, serious, studious and conscientious in sanctifying of the Lords day. Such as are careless, remis, light, flight, formal and carnal upon the Sabbath day, they will be as bad, if not worfe, on every other day in the Week. The true reason why the power of godliness is fallen to fo low an ebb both in this, and in other Countreys also, is because the Sabbath is no more strictly and conscientiously observed in this Land, and in those other Countreys where the name of the Lord is made known. The Jews were never serious in the observation of their Sabbaths, till they smarted seventy years in Babylon for their former prophanation of it. And who can look upon the after of London, and not fee how dearly the Citizens have paid for their prophaning of the Lords day. And Oh that all these thort hints might be fo bleft from Heaven, as to work us all to a more strict serious and conscientious sandifying of the Lords day, according to those Directions or Rules, that I have in this Treatife laid before you!

And thus I have done with those Duties that are incumbent upon those who have been burnt up by that late dreadful fire that hath turned London into a ruinous heap.

מילו על היישול בניור לנוור בנית לביל יו ויור בל ול וב ליו לוחות come hath been at it or lels eventied been ear profice

those whose habitations are yet standing as monuments of divine Wisdom, Power and Grace. O Sirs, the stames have been near you, a devouring fire hath consumed many thousand habitations round about you; and you and your habitations have been as so many brands pluckt out of the fire. O how highly doth it concern you, seriously and frequently to lay to heart, the singular goodness and kindness of God towards you; manifested in the mighty preservations, protections and salvations that he has vouchfased to you, when you were surrounded with all manner of hazzards and dangers. O that you would strive as for life to come up to duties which are certainly incumbent upon all those who have escaped the burning stames.

But you will fay, What are they?

These that follow.

7 77 2 . 65 771 Pre

First, It highly concerns you who have escaped the fiery dispensation, to take heed of those sins which bring the fiery Rod, and which have turned many of your neighbours out of house and home. What they are, I have already declared at large: If those fins that have brought the fiery judgement upon your neighbours; are to be found among you, you have cause to fear the fiery Rod, or else some other judgement that shall be equivalent to it. If you fin with others, you shall suffer with others; except there be found repentance on your fide, and pardoning grace on Gods. The Lord hath punished your neighbours with that judgement of judgements, the fire; and he expects that you should take notice thereof, and be instructed thereby, to take heed of those fins that they have been judged for, else the same or worser judgements will certainly befall vou. Becaule Edom made no good use of Jerusalems sufferings, therefore the Lord threatens her, that shame should cover her, and that the should be cut off, for ever. God expects, that the judgements that he hath executed upon all round

Q :eft.

Answ.

ı.

2 Pet. 2. 6. Luke 17. 32. Jer. 7. 12. 1 Sam. 4. 11. Pfalm 78. 60

Jer. 3. 8. Obad. 11, 12, 13, 14. about you, should awaken you out of security, and work in you a holy dread of his name, and provoke you to repentance for what is past, and engage you to a more exact walking with him for the time to come. But,

2. [s. 5. 22. 23, 24. Chap. 51. 17, 22, 23. Jer. 25. 15.30.

Luk. 13.1,2,3.

1 Pet. 4, 17. Ezek. 9. 6. Job 1.

Secondly, It highly concerns you, not to think those who are burnt up to be greater finners, than your selves who have cscaped the consuming flames. Some there were that told Christ of certain Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their Sacrifices (an argument of Gods fore displeasure in the eye of man, to be surpised with a bloody death even in the act of Gods service) But Jesus answered, suppose ye that these Galileans were sinners above all the Galileans, because they suffered such things : I tell you nay ! but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. And Christ confirmeth it by another parallel to it, of the men upon whom the Tower in Silvam fell, Luke 13.4, 5. Or thofe eighteen upon whom the Tower in Siloam fell, think ye that they were sinners above all men that dwell in Jerusalem? I tell you nay; but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. Doubilesthere are many fifties in London, whose habitations are laid desolate, who were more righteous, than many of those whose houses have escaped the consuming flames. Judgements many times begin at the house of God: The hand of God is many times heaviest upon the holieft of people. Tob was fiript of all his earthly comforts, and fet upon a Dunghill to scrape his fores with Potsheards; and yet 706 had not at that time his fellow in all the East Countrey, for a man fearing God, and eschewing evil. Job was a perfect peerless man, and yet had his habitation laid in ashes, and his substance destroyed, when his neighbours round about him, enjoyed their all without disturbance. Doubtless many of them whose houses are turned into a ruinous heap, were good people ; people of unblameable lives, people of exemplary lives; year carthly Angels, if compared with many of those who have escaped the fiery Rod. Many have drunk deep of this cup of wrath who are a people of his choicest love and therefore do no judge all them to be greater finners than your felves, that have have not escaped the fieryRod, as well as your selves. You who have escaped the constiming flam:s, should make other mens lashes your lessons, and their burnings your warning. You should not so much eye what others have suffered, as what your selves have deserved. But,

Thirdly, It concerns you to be much in blessing of God, that your habitations are standing, when others habitations are laid desolate round about you. But here look that your thankfulness is, 1. Reall. 2. Great. 3. Cordial. 4 Practical, and 5. Constant. No thankfulness below such a thankfulness will become such whose habitations are standing Monuments of Gods free mercy. I have largely press this duty before, and therefore a touch here must suffice. But,

Fourthly, Be not secure: do not say, the bitterness of death is past; as Agag did when he came before Samuel Stately and haughtily with the garb and gate of a King. Many times when wicked men are in the greatest security, they are then nearest the highest pitch of misery. Is there not guilt enough upon all your hearts, and upon all your habitations, to expose them to as great a desolation as London lyes under. Ans. Yes, yer. Why then do not you get off this guilt by frequent exercises of faith in the blood of Christ, or else prepare to drink of the fame cup that London hath drunk off, or of a worfe. Ponder feriously and frequently upon these Scriptures, Ifa. 51. 17. Awake, awake, stand up O Jerusalem, which bast drunk at the band of the Lord the cup of his fury . show baft drunken the dregs of the cup of trembling, and wrung them out. Verse 22. Thus faith thy Lord, the Lord, and thy God, that pleadeth the cause of his people: behold, I have taken out of thy band the cup of trembling; even the dregs of the cup of my fury, thou shalt no more drink it again. Verse 23. But I will put it into the bands of them that afflict thee: which have faid to thy foul, bow down, that we may go over: and thou bast laid thy body as the ground, and as the fireet to them that went over. |cr. 25. 15. For shu faith the Lord God of Ifrael unto me, take the wine cup of this fury at my band, and cause all the Nations, to T. 11

4. 1 Sam. 15.32. The particular Kings and Kingdoms that must drink of this cup are set down from verse 19. to verse 28. See Lam.4.21. Ezek. 23.31, 32, 33, 34.

whom I fend thee, to drink it. Verse 17. Then took I she cup at the Lords bands, and made all the Nations to drink, unto whom the Lord bad fent me. Verse 18. To wit, Jerusalem, and the Cities of Judah, and the Kings thereof, and the Princes thereof. to make them a desclation, an astonishment, an bissing, and a curse (as it is this day) Verse 28. And it shall be, if they refuse, to take the cup at thine band to drink, then fhalt thou fay unto them, thus faith the Lord of Hofts, ye fall certainly drink, ver. 29. For lo, I legin to bring evil, on the City which is called by my name. and should ye be utterly unpunished? ye shall not be unpunished: I will call for a sword upon all the inhabitants of the earth, saith the Lord of Hofts. When Jerusalem hath drunk of the cup, if God be God, the Nations round shall certainly drink of it. God hath begun with London: poor London hath drunk deeply of the cup of Gods fury: and therefore let the Nations round repent, or prepare to drink of Londons cup. Most of those fins that bring the fiery Rod (if not all) are to be found in all the great Cities of the world. And therefore let all the great Cities in France, Spain, Italy, Germany, Holland, England, Ireland, Scotland, Oc. take warning by Londons defolation, and prepare to meet the Lord in the way of his fury : let them ceafe from doing evil, and learn to do well: let them repent in dust and ashes, lest they are laid in dust and ashes. Let them break off their fins, left God throws down their walls and habitations by furious and devouring flames. Let all those whose habitations are still standing, remember that the same sins, the same wrath, and the same malicious hands that has laid fo many thousand habitations desolate, can lay. theirs also desolate, except they reform and turn to the Most High.

5. Gen. 18. Pfal. 102, 13. 2 Cor. 11. 29 Fifthly, It highly concerns you whose houses are standing monuments of Gods mercy, to shew much love, bowels, pity and compassion to those who are burnt up and turned out of all, who are houseless, harbourless and pennyless this day. God takes it well at our hands, when we pity those whom he thinks meet to purish. One of Gods great ends in punishing of some, is to stir up pity and compassion in others towards.

towards them. It should melt your hearts to see other mens substances melted in the flames. God hath threatned an evil an only evil without the least mixture of mercy, to such as shew no mercy to those in misery. Whoever have beheld Lindon in its former prosperity and glory, that cannot lament to fee London laid desolate? The ashes of London feems to cry out, have pity upon me O my friends. They that Job. 6. 14. will not lament upon the burnt Citizens as the greatest objects of their pity, may one day be ingulfed under the greatelt milery. He was a Nabal, a laples fellow, who thut up all bowels of pity against David in his misery. They were curfed Edemites, who did behold the ruine of Zion, and not mourn over it. Let all burnt Citizens remember, that usually God pities them most, whom men pities least : but burnt Citizens are not to be mocked or menaced, but mourned over.

Sixthly, It highly concerns you whose houses are standing.

monuments of Gods mercy, to lift up a prayer for all those as are fallen under this heavy judgement of fire. When you are in the Mount, be fure you bear the fad condition of the burnt Citizens upon your hearts. Nehem. 1. 3. And they Obad. 12. 12.

James 2. 13.

1 Sam. 25, 10, Pfalm 137.

6.

Numb. II. I

2 Kings 19. 4.

faid unto me, the remnant that are left of the captivity there in the Province, are in great affliction and reproach : the wall of lerufalem also is broken down, and the gates thereof are burne with Well, what doth Nebemiab. do? Anjw. He lifts up a prayer for them, verfe 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. O Sirs, your prayers must not be pent or confined to your own private interefis, but extended to the benefit of all Gods suffering fervants. Philo the Jew, discouring of Aarons Ephod, which he put on when he went to pray, faith it was a representation of the whole world, having in it all colours to reprefent the condition of all states of all people what soever. Tis brave when we are in the Mount, to bear the conditions of others upon our hearts, as well as our own, especially theirs, whom the hand of the Lord hath severely reacht. The best of men have been much in prayer for others; witness, Mofes, David. Fob, Feremiah, Daniel, Paul. And it is very observable, that our Lord Jesus Christ who is our great pattern, was LII2

Rom. 1. 9. 2 Tim. 1. 3. Herodot. l.b. 1

very much in this noble work, for you shall find in John 17. that he puts up but one petition for himself in verse 1. which petition is repeated again in verse 5. And all the rest of his time he spent in praying both for the converted and unconverted. Now shall our Lord Jesus Christ put up many requests for others, and but one for himself, and shall we put up all our requests for our selves, and not one for others? Among the Persians, he that offered Sacrifice, prayed for all his Countrey men. These Persians will one day rise in Judgement against many who are called Christians, and yet make no conscience of lifting up a prayer for those that are under the afflicking hand of God. He that prayeth for himfelf and not for others is fiely compared (by some) to an Hedge-hogg, who laps himself within his own soft down, and turns his Briffels to all the world befides. The lews have a faying, That fince the destruction of Jerusalem, the door of prayer bath been shut up. Oh that we had not cause to fear, that since the burning of London, the door of prayer both for our selves and one another, hath been too much thut amongst us. O that all you whose habitations are standing, would feriously consider

1. That none need prayer more than the burnt Citizens.

2. You do not know how foon their case may be yours: the same hand, or hands, that hath made them desolate, may make you desolate also.

3. Else what do you more than others.

4. To pity and pray for those that are in misery, is honourable and commendable.

5. Tis one of the most compendious wayes in the world, to prevent all those colamities, and, miseries that now you fear, and that you think you shall shortly seel.

6. To lift up a prayer for those whose sufferings have been fore, is no coffly nor chargeable duty, and therefore buckle to it. But, and an analytic the an amount

Matth. 5. 47.

Seventhly, It highly concerns you whose houses are standing monuments of Gods mercy, feriously to consider, that some mens escaping of very great Judgements, is not properly a preservation, but a reservation to some greater defiruction !

fruction : witness those Kings who escaped the edge of the Gen. 14 and Sword, and were afterwards deffroyed by fire and brimttone from Heaven : and witness Pharaob, who escaped all the ten plagues of Egypt in order to his being buried with his Host in the red Sea. And witness Sennacherib, who escaped the Sword of the destroying Angel, in order to his falling by the swords of his own Sons. Upon what discontentment his Sons role up to flay him, is uncertain. Some fay, it was because he preserred their younger Brother Esharhaddon to castalios. the Kingdom, who was the last of the Affyrian Monarchs: for after him, the Monarchie was translated from the Affy. rians to the Babylenians. R. Solomon, as Lyra cites him, faith Lyia. that the great men of the Countrey having loft each one his Son, Brother, or friend, in that expedition against Ferusalem, were fo provoked, that they meant to destroy him, which he hearing, fled to the Idols Temple, and prayed and vowed, that if his God would deliver him from this danger, he would give these two Sons for Sacrifice to him: then they hearing of this, came and flew him there. I shall leave you to your choice, whether you will give credit to this relation, or look upon it as a Rabinical invention. In this Judgement that fell upon Sennacherib, there are these things remarkable:

1. That he should see so great and well prepared an Army

so suddenly destroyed.

2. That the storm should mainly fall upon the great ones of his Army, 2 Chron. 32. 22. And the Lord fent an Angel which cut off all the mighty men of valour, and the Leaders and Captains in the Camp of the King of Asyria. From whence we may eafily gather, that some of the weaker fort, some of the refuse of the Army were spared; the prime men and great Officers of his Army being only smitten. Upon which account the King and his rigged Regiments became contemptible.

2 That he should be forced to fly into his own Countrey with shame and contempt; his General and great Officers being destroyed, he had no heart to keep the field, having none to order the Battel, and the dread and terror of the Chap. 19. compared. Exod. 14. 28. I Kings 19.

If Tobit may be credited, he lived not fifty five days after his return to N'nevch. Tob. 2.24

Ifa. 37.36. The mighty Monarchs of Ally ia used to go forth to war, with 5000000 and lometimes with 1000000. men; and therefore this flaughter may well be underflood of the Grandees of his Army. Wherefore Fole bus faith, he fled with his Army.

Lord and his Judgements abiding upon him and his Army, he provides for his own fafety by fleeing home with his routed scattered troops.

4. That himself should be slain, and that in the Temple of his Idol, and in the very act of his Idolatry, and that by his own Sons that came out of his own bowels; as the Holy Ghost observes; 2 Chron. 32, 21. And when he was come into the bouse of his God, they that came forth of his own Bowels; flew him there with the fword. Certainly this was a far greater Judgement, than if he had fallen by the sword of the deftroying Angel. And witness those very persons, who escaped Pestilence, but were now burnt in the very flames, as well as theirhouses and estates. OSirs, though you have escaped the burning flames; yet you do not know, what other Judgements you may be referved to; and therefore be not fecure; but be wakeful and watchful, and provide for the worst. Unexpected Judgements many times seise upon perfons, and flay them as the Souldier flew Archimedes, while he was bulie in drawing lines in the dust. Take heed of faying, furely the worst is past.

Prov. 24. 175 Seriously ponder upon Chap. 25. and Chap. 35. of Exekiel, and Lam. 1.21. 2 Sam. 16,17, 25. and Lam. 3. 14, 45.

Eighthly and lastly, Do not rejoyce in the fiery calamity that hath past upon others: do not glory in your neighbours ruines. The Fire-flye leaps and dances in the fire; and so do many wicked men rejoyce in the sufferings Such as rejoyce in the sufferings of others, are fick of the Devils difease; but from that difease the Lord deliver all your fouls. 'Tis fad to infult over those whom God hath humbled; 'tis high wickedness to triumph over those to whom God hath given a cup of assonishment to drink. Such as make the desolations of their neighbours to be the matter either of their secret repast, or open exultation. Such may fear, that the very dregs of divine wrath is reserved for them. 'Tis bad playing upon the Harp, because others have been put to hang their Harps upon the Willows. We must not pray with him in the Tragoedic, that it may rain calamities; nor with Clemens his Gnoftiek, give me calamities that I may glory in them. There cannot be a greater a greater evidence of a wicked heart, than for a man to be merry, because others are in misery. So without repentance such may one day dance in insernal stames, who have sung and danced at the remembrance of Londons stames, Prov. 17.5. He that is glad as calamities, (that is, at the calamities of others) shall not be unpunished. If God be God, such as congratulate our miseries, instead of condoling them, shall be sure to be punished with the worst of punishments: for such do not only sin against the Law of Grace, but also against the very Law of Nature: the Law of Nature teaching men to sympathize with those that are in misery, and not to rejoyce over them, because of their miseries. O Sirs, do not make others mourning your musick, do not make others tears, your wine; as you would not be made drunk at last with the wine of associations.

FINIS.

of teandence of a near, than for which to be मान्यकार्यक्ष क्षेत्र हैं है । इस्ति का मान्यकार के निर्देश के कि है है । ข้องโทษที่ ที่ เรศัพท์ เขาสุดที่ที่ โดยเพิ่มระการ แกก หล่องโลกี หุ้นถึง ค.ศ. end duriced gribe requembrance of Lengtons Michoel Proving a the test in place excellent if there were the celebratus of inches a distinct be amounted at 11. Contine was fluid as countilles numbered uttend of the line throng this the don't tot . Chambary to do what was a ballice of the paro of things of a self described while the self the self the very free the long the flaw of Wena Jeres and the femperbuse with the le et at ere in niller und norva jugurit wise three beautiful where the hand is here district their त्रकार प्रमाणिक के हैं। यह के हो तर अकार के हैं। विश्व में है हैं है कि कार्य के हैं हैं है कि कार्य के की बहु wine as you would no be affect a wike as to the winderlie Bind to the second will be and

Color of the color and which the property with the trail

1 38 ... 33.5

FID(15

Marin the market with the street of the ministration

· 有 1979年 東京 - 日 - 1 11-2000 - 11

et for the same the same in the same of The strategy of the strategy of the strategy

A Catalogue.

Books Printed and are to be foldby John Hancock, at his shop over against Gresham Colledge, in Bishopsgate-street, next to the White Lyon at Great St. Hellins Gate, and at the first shop in Popes-head-Alley next to Cornhill, at the Sign of the Three Bibles.

TWelve Books lately published by Mr. Thomas Brooks, late Preacher of the Gospel at Margarets New-Fish-Street.

1 Precious Remedies against Satans Devices: Or,

Salve for Believers and Unbelievers fores; being a companion for those that are in Christ, or out of Christ, that slight or neglect Ordinances, under a pretence of living above them; that are growing in spirituals, or decaying; that are tempted, or deserted; afflicted, or opposed; that have assurance, or want it; on 2 Core 2, 11.

2 Heaven on Earth: Or, of mans everlating happines and bleffedness; discovering the nature of affurance, the possibility of attaining it, the Causes, Springs and Degrees of it, with the resolution of several weighty Questions on the 8. of the Romans 32, 33.

there ed hindre of Mmm

3. The

3 The unsearchable Riches of Christ : Or,

Mest for strong Men, and Milk for Bibes, he'd forth in two and twenty Sermons, from Ephis. 3. 8. Preached on his Lecture nights at Fish-street-bill.

4 His Apples of Gold for young Men and Women: And,

A Crown of Glory for Old men and Women: Or the Happiness of being Good betimes, and the Honour of being an Old Disciple, clearly and fully discovered, and closely and faithfully applyed:

With the young mans Objections answered, and the old mans doubts resolved.

5 A String of Pearls : Or,

The best things reserved till last, delivered in a Sermon Preached in London, June 8. 1657. at the Funeral of (that Triumphant Saint) Mrs. Mary Blake, late Wife to his worthy Friend Mr. Nicholas Blake, M. schant

6 The Mute Christian: with So veraign Antidotes against the most miserable Exigents: Or,

A Christian, with an Olive-leaf in his mouth, when he is under the greatest afflictions, the sharpest and forest tryals and troubles, the saddest and darkest providences and changes; with Answers to divers Olestions and Objections that are of great importance tall tending to win and work souls to be still, quiet, calm, and stient, under all changes; that have, I that may pass upon them in this world, Oct Lately princed and dedicated to all afflicted, distressed, districted, districted, and discomposed Christians throughout the world.

this cen supports, to bear up the hearts of sech as have been by An Ak for all Gods Noahs in a formy day.

Wherein is thewed the transcendent excellency of a Believ ers portion, on Lament, 3. 24 sylmwer horsburg to asch 1 - 00 13 11 (25. 7

en est o che cosienze o tres ne

it capacity: compoled

8 The Crown and Glory of Christianity : Or,

Holiness the only way to Happiness, discovered in 48 Sermons on Ho 12. 14 1 200 W will ?

The Privy Key of Heaven: Or

A Discourse of Closet Prayer, Twenty Arguments for it, with the resolution of several Obestions, Gra, obsugged W ver composed and collected by her in the time of ner health.

10 A Heavenly Cordial for all that have had. or have escaped the Plague, &c. method, kiece to the me

11 Newly published, A Cabinet of choice Tewels: or, a Box of precious Ointment. Another Book of Short-hand, by I h. Creft.

di Being a plain Discovery of what men are worth for Etenity, and how ris like to go with them in and the World !! write : To which is added, brief directions for true forling

12 There is now published a New Treatise written by Mr. Thomas Brooks, called, adi ta han Londons Lamentations in Original hill Shop in Poper-Head Aley in Combil, at the lign of Ta A fober ferious discourse concerning the late fiery differfation, wherein the procuring caules, and the final caules of that dreadful dispensation are laid open, with the duties that are incumbent, both upon those who have been burnt up, and upon those who have escaped those consuming flames; with

Mmm 2

thirteen

thirteen supports, to bear up the hearts of such as have been sufferers : Here are many great Objections answered, and many weighty Questions resolved, and variety of Arguments to prove, that a little that the righteous man hath, is better than the riches of the wicked; with feveral other points of grand importance, all tending to the cooling, quieting, fettling, refreshing, upholding and comforting of all that have been sufferers by the late hery calamity. Holin Sche only way to Highwork, duky red in it

The Godly Mans Ark: Or, as around

City of Refuge, in the day of his diffress, discovered in divers Sermons. The first of which was Preached at the Funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Moory (83 1 45) to Synus (

Whereunto are annexed Mrs. Moors Evidences for Hear ven composed and collected by her in the time of her health, for her comfort in the time of fickness: By Edmund Colomy, B. D. and Paffor of the Church at Aldermanbury.

A Book of Short-Writing, the most casie, exact, lineal, and speedy method, fitted to the meanest capacity: composed by Master Theophilus Metealf, Professor of the said Att.

Also a School-master, explaining the Rules of the said

Book, with many new additions, very useful.

Another Book of Short-hand, by Tho. Crofs.

A Copy-book of the newest and most useful Hands with Rules whereby those that can read; may quickly learn to write: To which is added, brief directions for true spelling and Cyphering, and making divers forts of Ink.

An excellent new Book of Me Ralph Vennings, entituled Sin the Plague of Plagues : Or, Sinful Sin the morft of Evils.

All Printed for, and are to be fold by John Hancock at the first Shop in Popes-Head-Alley in Cornbill, at the fign of the three Bibles, or at his Shop in Bishops-Gote-Street, near great St. Hellins, over against Gresbam-Colledge, 1670, to il fel ma ecinemail e l'il ert rate

sie incun o nei Borin upan chofe w ochwe ben i en grynn d hill rear it misser and Fill IS. it eval of wolon's good

These Books following are to be sold by Nathaniel Ponder, at the Peacock in Chancery-Lane.

Exercitations on the Epistle to the Hebrews, also concerning the MESSIAH.

i. . irager the Scriptiscs: With Herein the Promises concerning him to be a Spiritual Redeemer of Mankind, are Explained and Vindicated.

His Goming, and Accomplishment of his Work according to the Promises, is proved and confirmed.

The Person, or who he is, is declared.

The whole Occonomy of the Mosaical Law, Rites, Worship, and Sacrifices, is explained.

And in all, the Doctrine of the Person, Office, and Work of the Messiah, is opened. The nature and demerit of the first sin is unfolded. The Opinions and Traditions of the Antient and Modern Jews are examined. Their Objections against the Lord Christ and the Gospel are answered: The time of the coming of the Messiah is stated. And the great fundamental Truths of the Gospel vindicated.

With an Exposition and Discourses on the Two First Chapters of the said Epistle to the Hebrews By J. Owen, D. D. in Folio.

Times of the Bible:

Veyled in Cubits, Shekels, Talents, Furlongs, Chapters, Verses, Letters, of the Scripture: With the Dayes, Hours, Watches, Weeks, and Moneths of the Jewish Year: By J. S. in Quarto.

A Practical Exposition on the 130th. Psalm.

Wherein the Nature of the Forgiveness of Sin is declared, the truth and reality of it afferted. And the Case of a Soul distressed with the Guilt of Sin, and relieved by a discovery of Forgiveness with God, is at large discoursed. By John Owen, D. D. John 5.39. Search the Scriptures: in Quarto.

ordina Closif Mania AlBrief

Rices Worthing as

A Brief Declaration and Vindication of the Trinity.

As also of the Person and Satisfaction of Christ. Accommodated to the Capacity and Use of such as may be in danger to be seduced: and the establishment of the Truth. John 5. 39. Search the Scriptures. By John Owen, D. D. in Twelves.

har the riches of the

The Unreasonableness of Atheisme.

Made manifest in a Discourse to a Person of Honour: By Sir Charles Wolfeley Barronet. The Second Edition Revised and Enlarged by the Author: in Large Octavo.

There is now published a New Treatise written by Mr. Thomas Brooks, called Londons Lamentations: Or,

A sober serious Discourse concerning the late siery dispensation, wherein the procuring causes, and the sinal causes of that dreadful dispensation are laid open, with the duties that are incumbent, both upon those who have been burnt up, and upon those who have escaped those consuming slames; with thirteen supports, to bear up the Mmm 2 hearts hearts of such as have been sufferers: Here are many great Objections answered, and many weighty Questions resolved; and variety of Arguments to prove, that a little that the righteous man hath, is better than the riches of the wicked; with several other points of grand importance, all tending to the cooling, quieting, fetling, resreshing, upholding and comforting of all that have been sufferers by the late stery calamity.

The Unreasonableness of Atheisme

thinde manifile in a Discourse to a Person of Honour : B, Sirefarler Weighly Barlonet. The Second Filips Revised and Falorated by the Author: in Large Chaw.

There is now published a New Treatisfe printen by Life Whiteas Brooks, called Londons Lamentations Or,

A lober ferious leicourfe conserver in the falle fory dispeptition, wherein the projecting caldes, and the again cautes of that dreadful expensions are laid topen, with the distinct that are interpolated both upon those who have been in that and on those who have eleiped those con against that that the fames, with thirteen supports, to bear ap, the

